The Farce of Impeachment.

The Farce of Impachment.

The farce which has just been brought to a diagraceful end in Washington has overwhelmed Congress with shame and contempt. The late abortive attempt to impact the President for refusing to acquience in the malignant and revolutionary policy of the representative department is without a parallel in history. Neither the "Barebones" parliament of England, nor the lunain Chamber of Deputies, during the mildest frems of the French revolution, ever attempted anything more atroctous and revolutionary than the attempt of the Radicals to place the profane old Silenus from Onio, in the White House, for the purpose of making the Executive department of the government the tool of the Legislative.

And it has failed simply because the conspirators have been intimidated by the anary clausers of the people. Had the popular verdict at the late Northern elections sustained the effort at impeachment, the Radical majority in Congress would not have hesitated to virtually annihilate one of the three great departments of the government. The terrible punishment administered to Congress by the President in his becaused measure measure made that bady more istered to Congress by the President in his lare annual message made that body more ferocious than ever towards him, but they dared not dely public sentiment, and dewoured their leek with faces distorted with suppressed rage. When the committee on impeachment was appointed, nearly a year ago, there was nothing half so dent to every Radical in Congress as the expulsion of President Johnson from the Waite House. Obedient to the known wisbes of that body, the committee labored for nine months with such unflaggling and sleepless energy, as to cover uself with undying infamy. Each member seemed inspired with the energy of half a dozen Paul Prys and forty scaven gays. No ragpicker ever moused in more sliby holes than did this vile committee—

They were for nine months the disgrace of the nation, and the soorn of Christen.

They offered rewards for perjury, and prominent member of the committee at-tempted to secure the pardon of the most infamous perjurer which this country has tel produced, in order that he might hast against the President There yet produced, in order that he might lest ify against the President There was no work too dirty for the committee. They almost invaded the bed chambers shad kitchens of the White House They examined the President's footman, chambermaids, hos tlers and gardeners. They peeped into his bank-book, and his grocer and wipe merchant's accounts. Pimps detectives and prositiutes were in great request. They sifted everything unclean and officiary which they could lay their hands upon, and became thoroughly saturated with the fifth in which they revelled.

They persevered with their officiary work mail the nation had it as nose at the very mention of the committee. All through the spring, summer and fall months did those Congressional soavengers press their odoriferous labors, mousing, peeping and prying into everything which goaleman would have avoided. And when Congress meithey empted before that body the offensive results of their labors, and it became apparent to all parties that the committee had disgraced uself, but had failed to make out a case against the President. And the late south of Congress adds to his load of disgrace which oppresses the injurity of the committee to inting oblique), but greatily e.e. solium of Congress adds to line load of this gaace which oppresses the mijority of the aummittee on imperolungar, but greatly elevated the President in the estimation of all Louisal men. It leaves that official free to pursue his fearless opposition to the revolution, it is seen to congress, and during the fifteen months of his unexpired term of office he will administer to that he by blows more terrible than that which he dealt it in his late message.—Bichmond Enquire

We would be glad to see from the Aut majority of that body have neither the will nor the brains required to grapple with the complication of difficulties which has clogsed, and will soon stop, the march of our national prosperity.

Those political faustices, struck with judiesal bilandness, will persist in their destructive policy of Southern "reconstruction" upon which they place their last and only hepe of continued existence and power.
