

Deplorable Condition of the South.

Ex-Governor Perry, of South Carolina, at all times steadily opposed secession and the civil war. There was no where a more earnest friend of the Union.

It is but too true that the South is overshadowed with poverty and wretchedness, immensely increased since the close of the war by the miserable policy of Congress.

It is well known to the world that ten of the Southern States have been stripped of every vestige of republican liberty, and placed, by the wicked and unconstitutional legislation of a radical Congress, under a military despotism.

When slavery was abolished in the Southern States, if the people had been left alone in their State legislation and restored to the Union, all would have been well.

The consequences are that our fields and plantations are uncultivated, the country pauperized, at the point of starvation and filled with every grade of crime.

Butler and Grant are having a nice time of it in their own way. Butler, so a Washington dispatch informs us, is engaged at present in getting up proof that Grant has been seen staggering drunk in the streets.

Beatty, Radical, was elected to Congress by 829 majority, at the polls held in the Eighth Ohio District, last Monday.

the negroes to get employment, if they really wished to do so. The failure of the cotton crop throughout the United States, with the government tax and low prices of the staple, has rendered it impossible for the planters to continue their business for the present year.

In regard to the political condition of the Southern States I am in deep despair, and have no hope except in a returning sense of justice on the part of the Northern people.

The negro is the most credulous being in the world, and most easily imposed upon by the wretches who are disposed to pander to his ignorance and passion.

By military order in South Carolina negroes are to sit on juries. In some of the districts of this State the negro population is so much larger than the white that they will compose almost the entire jury.

Property of all kinds, and especially real estate, has depreciated in value one-half or two-thirds during the past year. No one is disposed to purchase anything, and foreign capital has been driven out or deterred from coming here.

A great many persons are moving from the lower country, where there are no many negroes, and that section of the State is destined to become a wilderness. The same thing must occur in many portions of Mississippi and other States.

Unless there is a reaction at the North, and better legislation for the Southern States, they will be an incubus in the Union, utterly destructive of the whole republic.

I am, with great respect and esteem, yours, truly, B. F. Paasay.

Starving White Laborers and Fattening Negro Vagabonds.

Gil Blas de Santillana, during his travels and adventures, encountered a philanthropist, who was warring rich by the management of a charity fund; and a tax of many millions, for the support in idleness of hundreds of thousands of lazy blacks, has proved so advantageous to the Radical party, that it is proposed to barter soup for suffrage for another year!

In November next, the Radical party will sorely need all the black voters who can be driven to the polls, and although the nation is becoming restless, and impatient at the thought of giving millions to the support of idle Africans, yet they must be supported until after the next Presidential election.

As the negro of all men is the least disposed to work so long as he can procure bread, without labor, and as he is indifferent to the comforts of life, which are earned by the sweat of his brow, (if a bare subsistence is afforded him), the policy of the Bureau is rendering him utterly worthless as a laborer.

A quart of potatoe and bit of corn bread can buy the votes of the half million of white laborers who have been thrown out of employment by the inauguration of the Radical party.

In all sections of the North we read of delicate white females toiling fourteen hours a day, to earn a shilling, to each of whom Hood's "Song of the Shirt" has a terrible significance.

But the fat, impudent and lazy black vagabond, who day before yesterday robbed a hen-roost, yesterday applied the torch to a pillaged barn, last night tore an iron gate from its hinges, or a package from the hands of a terrified old woman, can-to-day take his tin bucket to the agents of the Bureau and have it filled with food at the expense of the nation.

By this encouragement of the negro to lead a life of vicious idleness, the right of suffrage once regarded with pride has been degraded. It was held up to the white man as the highest prize of citizenship, but now it is the reward of idleness and vice.

How long will the neglected and impoverished white laborer of the North consent to be the victim of this monstrous outrage upon the white race, which has already brought ruin and absolute woe to his own door?

Where is this distinction between the white laborer who has been thrown out of employment by the policy of the Radical party, and the negro who is supported in idleness, to end? In the day distant when the starving and infuriated victims of this conspiracy to Africanize the South will rise and sweep away lazy negro voters and the sleek and prosperous agents of the Freedmen's Bureau.

Do not believe it!—Some persons in this State will not believe that in Kingston, Green Lake county, Wisconsin, two white women at a party for one dollar each kissed a negro servant man in the kitchen.

Jobus Baker has been appointed Governor of Louisiana, vice B. F. Plauders resigned.

General Grant and Military Despotism.

In the debate on the reconstruction bill on the 20th ult., General Cary, Conservative, from Ohio, propounded some inquiries to Mr. Bingham, which are worthy of mature deliberation at this time.

Mr. Bingham did not answer these questions. They were too pointed and searching. A discussion of the Upon-Boutwell bill from these standpoints would have made the country still better acquainted with the fact, that all the acts of the Radical party tend to establish a military despotism in this Republic.

The introduction of this bill is a confession of the unconstitutionality of the Radical acts of so-called Reconstruction. They fear the condemning decision of the high judicial tribunal, and like the prisoner, confess their crimes and inability to stand the trial.

The only hope now is in the people—where lie the hopes and foundations of all free governments. This is a weapon placed in our hands by the Radicals themselves, and like the boomerang it will fly back to them with destructive force.

The foolish Bondholders, on the Atlantic coast, have not the faintest idea of how terribly in earnest the great North West is about paying off the public indebtedness in the same currency in which it was contracted.

The morning mongrel says it is absurd in the Pittsburgh Gazette to charge Senator Conwell with a desire of "doing that which the Constitution of the State disqualifies him from doing."

The Connecticut Democratic State Committee has nominated the whole State ticket of last year. That's right; hold fast to that which is good.

A well authenticated rumor prevails in Congressional circles, that Mr. Adams has resigned his position as Minister to England.

Fifteen hundred Mississippi freedmen want to go to Liberia. They find they can't live here without work.

The Last Rump Infamy.

The Rump Reconstructionists, terrified at the warm reception their Supreme Court gag bill met with from the people, have changed their tactics. Their committee have reported another bill intended to have the same effect, but in a manner that they hope will be less repulsive to the masses.

Should this doctrine prevail, it would leave the citizen at the mercy of the soldier. The people of Wisconsin would be as completely subjugated and enslaved as the Southwestern who are governed by the black-and-tan convention.

This last Congressional infamy is a step in advance of any of their assumptions of illegal power. It will deprive even the Northern States of the protection of the Supreme Court, to which civil liberty always looks for protection if crushed and ignored by the other branches of the government.

The whole country is divided into Military Districts. It is as much will in the province of Bull Run Pope, who is in command at Detroit, to arrest a citizen of Ohio, and declare martial law in that State as it is for Meade or Schofield to do the same thing in Georgia or Virginia.

It may be said that the Reconstruction laws extend only to the Southern States, but any Military Strap in the North, who would arrest a citizen of a Democratic State, would take advantage of the Reconstruction legislation, in the ground that such State had not a Republican form of government.

The Guardian knot of Radical legislation can only be severed by the sword. It is plainly the design of the Democrats at Washington to gain the people of the North to resistance, in order to have a plausible excuse for carrying out their schemes for a centralized military despotism.

The only hope now is in the people—where lie the hopes and foundations of all free governments. This is a weapon placed in our hands by the Radicals themselves, and like the boomerang it will fly back to them with destructive force.

The Cloud in the West.

The foolish Bondholders, on the Atlantic coast, have not the faintest idea of how terribly in earnest the great North West is about paying off the public indebtedness in the same currency in which it was contracted.

The Marion County Black Republican Convention, in Indiana, (Indiana politics, the capital, is in Marion County), has passed very strong Resolutions, that the Five-twentieths and other such bonds, ought be paid off in greenbacks.

The morning mongrel says it is absurd in the Pittsburgh Gazette to charge Senator Conwell with a desire of "doing that which the Constitution of the State disqualifies him from doing."

The truly "loil" convention of Georgia, refused to pass a section of their Constitution making it a penal offense to carry concealed weapons. It would not agree with Sumner's ideas of freedom, to be restrained from carrying a weapon to defend his ignited dignity when caught stealing his late masters' chickens.

The "Financial Policy."

Ever since Congress has been under Radical control legislation, when not directly used for partisan purposes, has been made the means of private speculation. The many financial measures—so-called—have been but so many schemes to put money in the pockets of a "ring" of political capitalists.

The Radicals view the public seems to be only a great goose provided to be plucked by those who are so fortunate as to get into Congress and the "ring." That private speculation alone is at the bottom of all the financial measures of the Rump Congress is evident from the vacillating and contradictory character of its policy.

The war has emancipated the negro— all the Southern States have ratified the Declaration, and passed acts of emancipation. In every State the negro has civil rights. In every way the negro has been benefited, if he had the intelligence to know it.

The ruin inflicted on the planters of the South comes back upon the laboring North. By feeding the negroes from the national treasury, through the Freedmen's Bureau, they are encouraged in idleness at our expense. It is a curse to them as well as to the whites.

No one can suppose that the people of this country are so dumfounded as to submit to these Radical impositions and wrongs.

An organ of approved loyalty pertinently inquires—Under any other rule than the strong arm of military force, let us ask, where would be the Republican party? We reply that, in the briefest possible time it would be numbered among the defunct tyrannies of the past.

The morning mongrel says it is absurd in the Pittsburgh Gazette to charge Senator Conwell with a desire of "doing that which the Constitution of the State disqualifies him from doing."

The truly "loil" convention of Georgia, refused to pass a section of their Constitution making it a penal offense to carry concealed weapons. It would not agree with Sumner's ideas of freedom, to be restrained from carrying a weapon to defend his ignited dignity when caught stealing his late masters' chickens.

The morning mongrel which is "absurd" Certainly if Senator Conwell had been elected State Treasurer he would have resigned his position as Senator; and should he get the promised appointment of petroleum inspector (the Gazette says so)—an office worth at the least calculation one hundred thousand dollars—he wouldn't he resign, and that, too, about as quiet as "greased lightning." We guess so.
