TERMS.—$2 per year when paid in advance, $3.50 when not paid in advance and $5.00 when not paid before the expiration of the year.

OUR AGENTS.—We have authorized the following gentlemen, to receive and receipt for subscription to the Democratic Watchman:

ISAAC J. GREGORY, Pottsville, Pa.
JOHN H. REIDENBERG, Pottsville, Pa.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY.

IN OPERATION.—The glass works in this place are now in full operation, and with better prospects than when first started.

NEW BUILDINGS.—We understand that arrangements are being made for the erection of many new buildings in this place during the coming season.

STRANGE FORMATION.—The geological formation of that part of Bald Eagle valley from which the beautiful white sand is procured which is used in the glass works in this place would be worthy the examination of the scientific. This sand is found on the farm of John Leathers Sr., near Mount Eagle, this county, and is taken from a ridge of sand which must have been thrown up from below. It would pay a geologist for a careful examination.

ECLIPSE.—There will be no eclipse of the moon this year, but there will be two of the sun and one of the Radical party. The latter will be visible in all portions of the United States, including the five "military districts," formerly known as the Southern States, some of which were the "original thirteen," for which George Washington and other "traitors" fought seven long years. May that great eclipse speedily come.

EFFICACY OF ONIONS.—People are troubled often with severe coughs, the results of colds of long standing, which may turn to consumption or premature death. Hard coughs cause sleepless nights by constant irritation of the throat, and a strong effort to throw off offensive matter from the lungs. The remedy we propose has been tried with good results, which is simply to take into the stomach before retiring for the night a piece of raw onion, after chewing. This excellent in an uncooked state is very heating, and collects the water from the lungs and throat, causing immediate relief. Let the afflicted try it.

STREET EDUCATION.—There are scores of little boys, from six to twelve years of age, who are nightly permitted to roam about the town until a late hour. These lads are acquiring educations on the street that will prepare them to fill positions, in future years, in the work-house or penitentiary, if not to end their career upon the gallows. They are apt scholars, and little fellows who have not yet learned the alphabet can roll out the longest profane words known in the Billingsgate dictionary, while obscene language proceeds from their lips with a flippancy and familiarity that would do credit to scholars of a tipper age educated in the schools of vice. Night after night small boys may be seen running at large on the streets, indulging in acts that but few dream of. They are away from home influences, and laying a foundation for evil that will utterly destroy and root out whatever good influences may be thrown around them. Among these children we notice those who have highly respectable and pious parents, who little dream of the conduct of their offspring while absent from home during the evening hours. The fault is not to be traced to the children, because we know they are prone to seek evil companions, and to do acts of which their undeveloped judgments cannot fully teach them the terrible consequences. The fault lies with parents in permitting them to be on the streets at night, in companionship with the vicious and the vile. It is a reckless disregard of their high and holy trust. We ask parents to consider this matter—to realize that they are responsible, in a great measure, for the future conduct of their children—and to exercise their parental authority in such a way that our street schools shall no longer be crowded with infant pupils. Their place is in bed, or forming a part of the family circle, and not on the streets, indulging in acts of malicious mischief, and shocking the moral sense of the public with profane and vulgar language. There is truth, if not poetry, in the old couplet:
"Just as the twig is bent,
The tree's inclined."

SUPERINTENDENCY OF COMMON SCHOOLS.—In regard to the Common School system of this state, as at present arranged and managed, we have nothing to say. We are well satisfied that there are many abuses in the system, but prefer it as it now is to none at all. The county superintendency has been severely assailed by men of our county, and while we admit that it is a proper subject for thought and investigation, we are well satisfied from what we have seen and heard, that many persons are being unduly un-profession of the same in this case.—It is to set these right that we have a few words to say. The salary of the county superintendent is not paid by the county but by the State at large, and if we could abolish the office in Centre county, and receive the amount annually in money which our superintendent now gets, it would not keep the school of the county open a week. In fact the amount each school would receive would be so trifling it could not be noticed. The recent increase in the salary of superintendent Magee has been made the occasion for some unfriendly attacks upon him, and upon this subject we have a word to say. Many intelligent persons throughout the county thought as our superintendent had much hard work to do in fulfilling his duties, he ought to receive compensation proportionate with those of other counties. With this view, an effort was made to increase his salary, and the increase was made by a convention called for school purposes generally, and not purposely to take action on this subject. It was distinctly stated by Mr. Magee in that convention that he would serve to the end of his term whether his salary was increased or diminished, and it was a voluntary act on the part of the school directors of this county, meant to do justice to the tax payers and to the superintendent; for, while we were required to pay our proportion of State tax, we did not receive from the state a fair proportion for the payment of his salary. We say this much simply to put the truth before the people. We are glad to see a manifestation among them of a spirit of inquiry into the school laws. Let investigation be fully made, but let no individual be made to suffer for the faults of a system. Whether the superintendency is right or wrong, while Mr. Magee fills the office and performs the duties prescribed by the law, it is but just that he should receive such compensation as is paid those who fill similar positions in other counties.

ILLNESS AND WANT.—It is very disheartening in these days to visit the dwellings of the poor, where is felt in full acuteness the effect of the existing prostration in business and consequent depression of labor. In poorly lighted crannies, beneath low roofs, an idle husband, a distracted wife, children ragged and hungry, are crowded together in the sleeping room and kitchen, all combined in a narrow apartment, there is the place to realize what is meant by the expression "pangs of poverty." These words now have a deeper significance than before for many years. As a rule we do not as readily open our hearts to sympathy when contemplating wretchedness with which the sufferers have been long familiar. We call their condition chronic. The unfortunate beings before us are supposed to be "used to it." We imagine, and perhaps correctly, that their sensibilities, if they ever had any, have become callous. Their ambition is gone, they have little self-respect, and are incapable of suffering from a sense of humiliation. This is poverty in its more common aspects. But now times have changed, and the unparaging monster known as "want," "hunger" or "famine," has seized upon and dragged down to the lowest depth of penury many who have seen the light of better days. Many families belonging to those who never before lacked employment, comprising skilled mechanics and artisans, now share in common the miseries entailed by vice or criminal self-indulgence. It is when presented in this aspect that the sufferings of the poor appeal most touchingly to those whose hearts are open to compassion. The truth now enforced by these scenes of wretchedness is, that in nearly all cities are congregated an able-bodied mass wholly disproportioned to the ordinary demands of industry in prosperous days (especially under the stimulus caused by a profuse expenditure of newly-made greenbacks for the prosecution of war), there was work enough for all. But when the "situation" is wholly reversed—when disbursement ends and retrenchment begins—when the people are called upon to aid in paying off old debts instead of making new ones—come the times that try men's souls." This is exactly the position at the present moment, and the inevitable consequence is a redundancy of unemployed, non-productive human muscle. Mouths have to be fed, bodies to be clothed, but the wherewithal is lacking, and grim-visaged poverty stares innocent children and helpless women full in the faces (our laboring classes in Bellefonte, as well as other places must not fail to read the lesson now taught by bitter experience, and see the necessity of dispersing throughout the country and devoting themselves to agricultural pursuits without delay. The sapper this conclusion is reached the better for all concerned. The culture of farm produce is always in order, and the encouragement to such labor was never greater than now, when famines stalk abroad and prices are maintained at such exorbitant rates.

MARRIED.—GEBERT-MILLER.—On the 30th ult., at Hublerburg, by the Rev. J. E. Long, Mr. William Gebert, and Miss Sarah E. Miller, both of Spring township.

DIED.—STRUBLE.—January 21st, Stella Sancta, eldest child of Jared and Fanny Struble, aged 3 years, 1 month and 21 days.

The subject of this notice was a little girl, of more than ordinary beauty and sprightliness. She was in the enjoyment of perfect health, on the morning previous to her melancholy end. Dear little "Stella" was left alone with her younger sister during the temporary absence of her mother. During this absence, her clothes caught fire by the children playing with a lighted splinter of pine which still lay upon the floor burning on the mother's return. The conviction of the little sufferer was appalling. Her golden curls which a fond parent had, but a few moments before taken particular pains to beautify, were burned from her head, and her lovely little face was charred to a crisp. Her finger nails were burned off. She lived about six hours suffering intense pain; yet conscious, and able to tell her "Ma" that "Minnie set my bib on fire." Thus another and beautiful flower, has been transplanted from earth to the Celestial Garden, where another sweet voice has been added to Heaven's immortal choir.—But the tender hearts of fond and affectionate parents have been made lonely and desolate. We commend the afflicted ones to God and the word of his Grace which is able to sustain them. My life keep them ever under His gracious guardianship and protection. M. G. B.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.—The partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, at Pottsville, in drogists, dated Feb. 1st, 1868, in this day, dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be continued under the name of J. D. McGIRK, at the old stand. All persons having claims of other business, or indebted to make with the said firm, are well on either of them. J. D. McGIRK, DE. CRAWFORD.

SELLERS & FOLWELL, WHOLESALE CONFECTIONERS AND FRUITERS, No. 161 NORTH THIRD STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

Beautiful and of Uniform excellence a well known, safe, and speedy agent for restoring gray hair to its original color, for preventing the loss of the hair, for promoting its healthy growth and increasing its beauty, a gradual but certain cure for baldness, and an essential toilet requisite for all who prize that choicest gift of nature, a bountiful supply of hair; the above is said by all who use Mrs. S. A. Allen's Improved (new style) Hair Restorer or Dressing. (In one bottle.) Every Druggist sells it. Price One Dollar. 17-54t.

If any of our readers are prematurely gray or are troubled with falling of the hair, dandruff or itching of the scalp, they have only to use King's Vegetable Ambrosia, and their trouble will soon be over. The preparation is not only a restorer of gray hair, but one of the most elegant hair dressings we have ever seen. It also by softening and invigorating the hair prevents premature baldness and in many cases restores hair to its original color.

STILL AHEAD.—Our readers will observe, by turning to the column advertisement of Messrs. Kippie & Brother, that they are now prepared to supply our citizens with the American Tea Company's Celebrated Pure Teas, Coffees and Spices. There is no doubt but these articles are superior to any others in the country; and being so much cheaper, it is a wonder that every person does not use them. They are also supplying dealers with Envelopes, Paper, Inks, &c., at Philadelphia Wholesale Prices. These sounds strange, but nevertheless it is true, and speaks well for the energy of these gentlemen: We wish them abundant success. 13-8-6t.

HOME INSURANCE COMPANY, NEW HAVEN, CONN.—We call attention to the annual statement of the Home Insurance Company, January 1st, 1868, to be found in another column. During the past two years the fire insurance business has passed through an unparalleled run of fires, causing many companies to wind up, while others contracted their business and withdrew many of their agencies. The Home of New Haven, was among the few that pushed their business straight forward, increasing their business and assets notwithstanding the large increase of losses. The success of the Home is to be attributed to the skill and energy manifested by the officers and the discretion and care of their agents. During the past year the assets of the company have been increased from $1,371,516 to $1,619,070, showing a net gain of $247,554 during the year. Hutchison & Clark, Agents for Centre county. 13-8-6t.
