

The Democratic Watchman.

In order to encourage youthful aspirants after literary fame, we shall devote this column, entirely to their benefit, and publish in it, such productions as have formerly been cast into the "waste basket." We have not time to make corrections, consequently will give them verbatim as they come.

THE DYING ABOLITIONISTS SOLILOQUY.

What means this cold and clammy sweat, Which gathers on my brow? This twitching of my sinking eyes, Has death come on me now?

My hand is palsied, and my heart; The gloomy night succeeds the day, And must I leave this nether world, Helpless lost, from grace away?

Why thus so sad recollect the past With horrors fresh upon my soul (Already strung with deep remorse) That o'er me like huge billows roll!

O God! my sins are manifold! A fratricidal strife I wrought For sake of self and plunder But woe a battle ere I fought.

I next engaged in speculation, The blood-bought "scrip" from soldiers took, And thus from wives left destitute I now see many a hideous look.

I see the band of widows now For want of food thro' me they died! Beyond their children's also stand— In glory they—but I must glide—

I tried in vain to raise the Black, From the condition God ordained, Oh! I was mad, I know full well, My course can not be else explained.

My sight is failing very fast— Life with me—over in a spell. Friends—all—my pulse is low— And now appears a yawning hell!

Why weep ye for me in my woe! Step from your course of futile pray'r, For nothing will me ever save; But from my course, O, do beware!

Now one farewell before we part For my blood's bond with frat And—blind—I leave you now O forever! Lost! lost! lost! w. s. p. Rebersburg.

HEART.

BY AFWUL.

Every heart has its joys and cares Like the Summer that comes and goes Lustrous and bright is the green it wears And so soon blighted by winter snows.

All hearts are gay and sad by turns Like April with its sunshine and showers By sorrow and sadness it often burns Raised from its gloom it blows like the flowers.

In every heart is a fountain of love Guided by reins held in bright Cupids hand How the heart opens to his messenger the Dove That bears it away to his rose tinted land.

—A SPUNKY WIFE.—A middle aged farmer and his wife were enjoying a winter evening closely together when the conversation turned upon religious matters, as described in the Bible, which the man had open before him.

Wife, said the farmer, I've been thinking what happy society Solomon must have had in his day, with so many wives, &c., as is here represented.

Indeed said the wife, somewhat miffed You had better think of something else then A pretty Solomon you would make, truly; you can't take proper care of one wife. What a figure you would cut, then, with a dozen wives, and all of them as spunky as I am!

The farmer took his hat and went to the stable to feed the cattle for the night.

—It is generally admitted that the Irish are most famous for making bulls, but the Germans can go ahead for making pigs. For instance.

I've got a pig calf and I've got a pig dog, I've got a pig calf and I've got a pig hog, I've got a pig baby, so pig and so tall, And I've got a pig wife da's pigger as all.
