Decline of Puritanism.

The siene of the times unmistakably indicate a falling off in the organized of all, that something be done for the power of Puritan sentiment in this counterprovement of this section. try. The practical supremacy of Ruritanism has been maintained for the past ten years at the North, and for the most part during that period over the whole nation, by virtue of the energy it has put to this end they seized occasion when forth in controlling and conducting to there was no Southern refresentatives triumph of what is now known as the Rad triumph of what is now known as the Rad cal party. The Radical party is the consensation of Puritan principles and morals; it is a direct embodiment of Puritan principles and morals; it is a direct embodiment of Puritan principles and morals; it is a direct embodiment of Puritan principles and morals; it is a direct embodiment of Puritan principles and to be occupied, in no long time, by ritable intolerance and force. Whatever or eight States, all of which, it is party entered in party entered in party entered in Puritanism follows. The sources of gradual distinctive Puritanism follows. The sources of the whites and wholesale enfranchisement of the negroes, had nothing, but be in process for the eventual overthrow of this peculiar sentiment, are to be traced mainly, first, to the introduction of South is held by a very hacertain tendence of the Chion Pacific Radical party is the Country and the source and history of the whites and wholesale enfranchisement of the magnetic party and the source of the country and the source of the country are to be reached the country and the source of the country are to be reached the country and the source of the country are to be reached the country and the source of the country are to be reached the country and the source of the country are to be reached the country and the source of the country are to be reached the country and the source of the country are to be reached the country are to party force and the entire amount we are to be robbed of to psy these such as the republication of the source of the country are to be reached the country of the source of the country of the country of the source of the country of the country of the countr foreign elements into our population, and, ure secondly, to the rapid and excessive States preponderates in numbers, in in-self-consumption of its own vitality, tellingence, and in wealth. This powerful element in our social system possesses every virtue but moral secondency of the Democratic party. Under republican rule, their race and site of strength but the reserve force of all their interest are to be subjected to deliberate and dispassionate conservatum. It has brain, energy, resource and tions are favored for building leveral surface vigor; but it cannot abandon along the Mississippi, and thus reclaimself-seeking to principle and good order. Its professions are boilow, and its aims highly productive but now desolated. altogether selfish. It has the instinct of self-preservation, but not the sagacity to sympathize beyond itself—it cultivates self-preservation, but not the asgacity to est which is calculated to develop the sympathize beyond itself. It cultivates slumbering wealth of vast and gonial conventional: narrowness. It educates territories no Pacific railroal is to be to the practical ends of self, and is added for them, although they possess mirable in the development of personal the best routes, and ask but a titbe of mirable in the development of personal shrewdness and foresight: but in the in-tensity of thesegidalities fails to take in a generous breach of sentiment that can compromise with differences of charactar and opinion. It is self-raisant by queror and lasting industral prostra-education, and not apt to receive dicta-tion as to the lawful or ordinary meth-ods of reaching what it desires. It is that the democratic party should select tolerant in religious matters the Puritan a candidate whose breadth of statesminsingular contradiction does the same election in others

The blindness of vision which comes from such peculiarities has driven the power of Peritanism on to the high-way in the republican party to loan sixty milton its own destruction. The wast influx loads to the Peritanism of the future of the country, is not comprehended in Paritan philosophy. The constant extension of our civilization and material prosperity is reaching to seeing twenty more. The future of the country is not comprehended in Paritan philosophy.
