[Written for the Wafchnan. WHEN YOU AND I WERE BOYS.

BY COUSIN KATE.

Ah well do we remember Will, When you and I were boys; When to play around the mill, Was the hight of our joys. We used to make our dams of sticks; Of mud we made our toys. We never fought o'er politics. When you and I were boys.

How we dreaded the winter Will, For then we went to school, And studied hard until April, Under the teachers rule. Once we thought we'd play a trick. Which made no little noise, And the teacher plied his stick, When you and I were boys.

And do you remember Will: A game we tried again. A turtle we found beside the rill That flows down through our lane. We tied it to the masters coat, How the boys did rejoice To see him take it, not in jokes, When you and I were boys,

And do you not remember Will: That hateful old gander? That used to chase us from the Mill, To the school house yonder? And oh how our hearts used to best; As louder grew its voice; And on we ran with tired feet, When you and I were boys

But everything has changed since Will, And all's so strange they say; They have torn down our dear old mill Where we used to go to play. And the long green mossy lane, Where we used to hide our toys, Has been changed into fields again, Since you and I were boys.

The old rail fence was taken away, And a white one put in stead, The same spot in their yard this day, That was then our wood shed They've even torn down the old shed mill Where the lambs kept a bleating noise All this on the farm we used to till, When you and I were boys.

The girls were not so stuck up then, Oh how they reed to spin They did not dere look at the men, For that they thought a .in My Sallie Jane used to plant corn , Not even that she now enjoys, Her leoks have become quite forlorn, Since you and I were boys.

Ever since I've been rich Will, Nor did I know before. What a flimsy fashion meant, until I got my million four.)
The had company all time, This all my bliss destroys; For I never could sit up till nine. When you and I were boys

Its a dinner here and a party there, We're going all time, I do believe such wives are rare, Such awful wives as mine ; Now its money, money, money, For that you know she enjoys, But she used to be a honey, When you and I were boys

I am very tired of this life Will . I'd rather be with you; Sitting in the play house still, With you so kind and true, With all its sorrows and joys, But don't forget our pleasures dear When you and I were boys.

The Rampagious Brakeman.

Soon after the opening of the East Tennessee and Georgia Railroad, there chanced to be traveling over the line, in a car where there were but few passengers, a gentleman who was seated opposite the stove, wrapped up in his shawl and meditations. Night came on. Presdable ambition had a day or two ago a club. abandoned the girls, the fiddle, and the ploughtail, to "climb in the world," and sligator become a brakeman. He had been the king bee at all the neighborhood frolics, at the house raisings, at the corn shuck-Nings, and at the cross road's doggery fighting grounds, and now he sfelt sure that he was a king-bee on railroads .-Strutting up to the stove he slammed down his lantern, kicked the mud from his huge boots, on the foot-board of the seat, spit tonacco juice copiously on the thighs, took a survey of the aforesaid boots, with harness leather straps, and then bethought himself of the 'customer' sitting opposite, on whom he proceeded to bostow a lenghtened and saucy look. as though he doubted the "oustomer's" right to be in the coach at all. At lenght he sought knowledge:

"Whar ar you gwuine, Mister?" "To Dalton, sir," responded the gentleman quietly.

"Preacher, nin't you?" "No, sir, I am not; but why do you talk."

"Oh! nothing, only I thought I saw Hark from the tombs' sticking out all rowness of mind, over you like the measils. You know me I reckon !''

"I am sorry to say that I.do not." "Well, I'll jist be dam; why whar the devil were you raised?"

"At Maryville, East Tennesses." "Oh! that excuses you, for if ever I hearn tell ove that settlement before, l wish I may be durned, and I knows eve ry place, I duz."

"You seem to be well acquainted with the place you are now occupying." remarked the stranger, almost choking with efforts to suppress his laughter.

"What place do you mean, Mister? This ere red bained covered with the dried skins of cows' tongues, or my office ?"

"I allude to your office, and by the way, what is your position on this road?" "Brakeman, by the jumpin' geminy. I thought everybody know'd that brakeman over the Yeast Tennessey and Geor gia Railroad."

"Unfortunately I did not know it." "Well, you'd dam soon foun' the fac' out if you'd cut up any shines round yere, huggin' wimmim or cussin, or trying to steal anybody's bag, or .talkin' sassy to the conductor or sich. Why, I'd a chuck you butt formost thru' that winder, like dartin' clapboards through the cracks ov a barn, for I mean to run this ere train on high morril principles, I dus. And you didn't know I was the brakeman on this yere railroad ?"

"Indeed, sir, I did not." Well, old Slidecasy, all I has got to ay is that for a man of your looks, youknow less than any man I ever saw .-How do you manage to make a livin' enyhow?''

"I receive a salary; I am President of

All symptoms of "king-bee" disappeared at this thunderbolt announcement, and in their stead were seen timid humility, crushed pride of place, a strong "get up and git" expression, and a most confounded hang-dog "done up"

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BIT

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIE.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the Liver, stomach; or digestive ORGANS.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts) of Roots Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC, ls a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Unux Mum, Orange, &., making one of the most pleamnt and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Those who have no objection to the com bination of the Bitters, as stated, will use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC. They are both equally good, and coutain the same medicinal virtues, the choice be-tween the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, as Indigestion, Dyspepsia. Nervous Debility etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathising as closely as it does with the Stomach, then becomes af fected, tersult of which is that the pa tient suffers from several or more of the fol-
