interests of his constituents at the Bar of the Senate—of the lawyer who advocates the interests of his client at the bar of justice, and, of that sacred office which advocates the cause of man at the bar of Heaven, that they may ever remember the magnitude of our temporal as well as eternal welfare.

Let, us not forget to exhort those whose influence is always and so strangely marked upon the characters of men from their cradle to the grave, to think of these things. The mother whose affections root so deeply in the existance of her own off-spring whose anticipations are oft translated to painful anxiety for the welfare of her child, who watches its progress in life with an eye to doubt and danger, whose hopes may be elevated to the Giver of all good, that He has smiled graciously upon the career of her dear child, or whose forebodings may be realized in the spectacle that he is dispised by the society of men, and frowned upon by the attributes of Heaven. We beg leave to remind you that the influence of your power should always be felt in the impress of your continued influence.

In conclusion we have a word to say with regard to these your annual'y occuring exhibitions. Here all is reality You must meet your friends who are embarked in the enterprise of life and whose thoughts and heart are congenial with your own. You see many of whom you before had but heard, and here, too, you learn to realize the force of numbers, of intelligence, of strength of which you are composed, and that power which may be yielded by your will. You carry hence to your homes, in your minds eye the beautiful models of your art, the judgment of their use, the calculation of their value And you see these marvelous productions of the soil which serve to expand your own views of the extent and workings of your own skill These are the delightful points in your life, to which the memory runs with pleasure, and therefore we would have you remember, these exhibitions are yours, that whilst you are the authors and finishers, no one of you should forget to be their friend and patron.

The Phoipsburg Cornet Band visited our town twice during last week Its new instruments and sweet music attracted the attention of all who were lucky enough to see or hear it We have heard many bands but seldom one that excels this, and the citizens of Philipsburg may well feel proud of it We would, we know, could this place boast of as excellent performers and as sweet music

Agricultural Implements.

The Committee on Agricultural Implements would respectfully report That in the absence of two members of the Committee, as published, the Chairman selected Noah Musser, George Orenkirk J Lingle and Wm Foster to serve in their stead

The Committee proceeded to examine the several articles in their department as they found them entered in the book placed in their hands and give the following as the result of their examination

It is proper to remark that the display was not as extensive as might have been expected, nor as much so as it ought to have been, for the next fair, and therefore did not attract the attention of visitors generally, yet the exhibition was quite profitable

The main competition seemed to be between the Agents of Reaper and Mowers and with regard to the merits of the several machines there was a diversity of opinion We award a diploma to the three following in the order named

Peter Hall for the Excelsior Combined Reaper and Mower manufactured at Akron, Ohio Price $190

Isaac Haupt, the World Reaper and Mower Combined manufactured at Canton, Ohio Price with set duty complete $275

S G Shenton the Keystone Harvester Reaper and Mower manufactured by Centre Hall Manuf'g Co Price $180

The Committee deem it unnecessary to speak more particularly of the two first named machines, as they are both well known in this community, and justly rank among the best manufactured in the United States The agent of the Keystone Harvester and Reaper manufactured at Centre Hall in this County claim several improvements which your Committee were of the opinion were entitled to consideration It is highly probable that by next year the establishment will be able to offer a machine that will be creditable to the owner, and perhaps inferior to no now in use

John P Zimmerman, Grain Separator Gardner Patent diploma

John P Zimmerman, Hay Rake, Rolling (worth Patent) diploma

John P Zimmerman Grain Drill and Fertilizer diploma

A and J Stern, Horse Power diploma

Isaac Haupt Side Hill Plow diploma

Jonathan Bullock 1 Two Horse Wagon do

Two Hay Forks, one of the grab pattern, exhibited by C Dale, Jr, of Logan Mills, and the other called the cut-saw exhibited by T P Rupert, of Zion were examined by your Committee and both were pronounced improvements on those they had previously seen The majority were of the opinion that the grab machine was best suited for harvesting hay, particularly when short or wet We award to C Dale the premium of $1, and to S P Rupert a diploma

A number of other articles were on exhibition for which no premiums was offered, but which the Committee think worthy of notice, as follows

By Isaac Haupt, 1 one horse left hand plow, 1 stevensons cutter sharpener
