BELLEFONTE -- On Friday last, in company paid a visit to the thriving town of Bellefonte, and we were surprised to notice the activity displayed in this "Burg among the hills."— I'pon leaving the cars the Bush House, one of the finest Hotels in the State, looms up your vision, a monument to the enterprise and energy of a worthy townsman, D. G. Bush, esq. Across the street, Mr. Bush is also erecting a arge block of fandsome buildings designed for places of business, while in the rear he has purchased a woodband grove which he is fitting up as a park for the benefit of the guests of the Bush House Adjoining Bush's Block, P. Gray Meek, Esq., the talented editor of the Watchman, has erected a four-story brick building for his Printing Office. He intends occupying his new quarters early in the fall, and when settled he will be able to say that he has the finest establishment to be found in central Pennsylvania, and wedo not know of any personage in the State more deserving of his good fortune, than our friend Meek.

While we tarried in Bellefonte, we made our headquarters at the Brockerhoff House, cor ducted by Messrs Houseal & Krom, formerly of the R. R. Hotel, Marietta. It is needless to say a word of praise for these gentlemen to the citizens of Lancaster county, for all are aware that they are pertect gentlemen and were es pecially designed by Providence to ester to the Rev. Mr. Wylie has accepted the with pride point to her hotels, the Bush Brockerhoft, Gagman's and Cumming's, and well she may, for she excels any town of importance in the State. She claims to be a summer resort and from the number of visitors daily register ed at her hotels we have reason to suppose her claims are very well substantiated could spend a week or two very pleasantly in the place, but as editors are not supposed to have the stamps to "resort," we suppose the privilege will never be vouchsafed us.

Adjoining Bush's Park, is an excellent spring, about twenty feet square, which supplies the town with water, being forced from the spring by machinery to the reservoir on a very high hill in the suburbs. The water is nure and cold, no see being needed to make it a
