

Beneath the Rolling Waves--Life Under Water--Tragedies on the Bottom of the Sea--How the Fishes Look at Divers--The story of a Detroit Diver.

It is a strange business, this diving. The danger fascinates some, but the peril is never for a moment lost sight of. I put on the helmet for the first time more than ten years ago, and yet I never resume it without a feeling that it may be the last time I shall ever go down. Of course one has more confidence after a while, but there is something in being shut up in an armor, weighed down with a hundred pounds, and knowing that a little leak in your life pipe is your death, that no diver can ever get of. And I do not know that I should care to banish the feeling, for the sight of the clear blue sky, the genial sun, and the face of a fellow man, after long hours among the fishes, makes you feel like one who has suddenly been drawn away from the grasp of death. I have had some narrow escapes, while pursuing my strange profession; every diver has, or has been unusually lucky to escape them.

I think the most dangerous place I ever got into was going down to examine the propeller of a boat, sunk off Toledo. In working about her bottom, I got my air pipe coiled over a large silver from the stove hole, and could not reach it with my hands. Every time I sprang up to remove the hose my ten feet would give me the "slack" of the line, thus letting me fall back again. He did not understand his duties, and did not know what my signals of the line meant. It was two hours and a half before I was relieved, and there wasn't a moment that I was not looking to see the hose cut by the ragged wood there. You go walking over a vessel, clambering up her sides, peering here and there, and the feeling that you are alone makes you nervous and uneasy.

Sometimes a vessel sinks down so fairly that she stands upon the bottom as trim and as neat as if she rode on surface. Then you can go down into the cabin, up the shrouds, walk all over her, just as easy as a sailor could if she were still dashing away before the breeze. Only it is so quiet, so tomb-like; there are no waves down there--only a swaying back and forth of the water, and see sawing of the ship. You hear nothing from above. The great fishes will come swimming about rubbing their noses against your glass, and starting with a wonderful look into your eyes. The very stillness sometimes gives life a chill. You hear just a mowing, walking sound, like the last notes of an organ, and you can not help but think of dead men floating over and around you.

I have been down especially to rescue the bodies of those drowned. About four years ago the propeller Buckeye, belonging to the Northern Transportation Company, went down in the river St. Lawrence, in seventy eight feet of water, and it was known that a mother and child were asleep in their state room at the time of her sinking. The father begged of me and offered me a good deal of money to take out the corpses, and though I dreaded the work, I at last consented. I had been all over the wreck two or three times, and knew just where the state room was. The door was fast locked, and I wanted a good while before bursting it open.

Of course a dead person couldn't harm you, but even in broad day, on shore, and with people around you, don't you know that the sight and presence of a dead person brings up solemn thoughts and nervous feelings? I knew how they would look, how they were floating around in the room, and if the father hadn't been looking so wretched above, there was no money to tempt me in there. But, at last, I got a crow bar from forwards, and, not letting my self think, gave the light door a blow that stove it in. The water came rushing out, the vessel just then lurched over toward my side, and out they came, the woman first, her eyes wide open and hair trailing behind, and in her left hand she held the hand of the child. I knew how they would look, but I screamed out, and jumped back. Her face was fearfully distorted, showing how hard death had been made, and the eyes looked through the green waters at me in a way that made my flesh creep. The child had died easily, its little white face giving no outward sign of terror.

A diver does not like to go down more than a hundred and twenty feet, for at that depth the pressure is painful and there is danger of internal injury. I can stay down for five or six hours at a time at a hundred and fifteen or twenty feet, and do a good deal of hard work. In the waters of Lake Huron the diver can see thirty or forty feet away but the other lakes will see a vessel not ten feet from you.

Up here you seldom think of accident or death, but a hundred feet of water washing over your head would set you to thinking. A little stoppage of the air pump, a leak in your hose, a careless action on the part of your tender, and the weight of a mountain would press the life out of you before you could make a move. And you may "foul" your pipe or line yourself, and in your haste bring on what you dread, I often got my hose round a stair or rail, and though I am not called cowardly, and generally release it with out much trouble, the bare idea of what a slender thing holds lack the clutch of death off my throat, makes a cold sweat start from every pore. --Detroit Advertiser and Tribune.

A Kentucky man went over to Indiana to procure a stone for the grave of his son, and insisted that the inscription, which "was writ by the family," should be "cut on their gust that way." The following is the poem as prepared:

"He died at Nashville, Tennessee, he died of kidney disease, it took a painful must of him to do so far away from home."

Medical.

ELEVEN YEARS.
Of experience with a constantly increasing demand for Roback's medicines is sufficient acknowledgment of their intrinsic merit, and every one before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effective remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them, those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors, and all know what it does, and it does it all--and it does it all through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such certificates are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomel or any deleterious ingredients, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity. They operate by their powerful action on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action--remove the humors, cleanse the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their regular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.
Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure--
For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Ladnesses, Langor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.
For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.
For Dysentery or Diarrhoea, but one mild dose is generally required.
For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Puffiness of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continued, until the system is changed to the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.
For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large quantities, until the production of a diuretic effect is obtained.
For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.
As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.
An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the system.

CONSTIVENESS.
Dr. Constipation of the Bowels should always receive prompt attention, as it pre-disposes the system to disease. The timely use of such valuable cathartic remedy as Roback's Blood Pills has saved much sickness, disease and death, and many persons today are indebted to these pills alone for their very existence, as the certificates in our possession will attest.

DROPSY.
And Dropsical Swellings, are always relieved and often permanently cured by the alternate use of Roback's Blood Pills, when taken in conjunction with Roback's Blood Pills, is sure to produce.

DINNER PILLS.
All persons of bilious habits, after eating or drinking too freely, will find great relief in the use of Dr. Roback's Blood Pills. They aid digestion by stimulating the stomach, thus restoring the path, nausea, sour eructations, &c., which follow from eating too heartily.

ERYSIPELAS.
Often arises from morbid condition of the entire system and by letting remedial can be found than Dr. Roback's Blood Purifier and Blood Pills.

CONVALESCENT.
Persons recovering from Fever or any of the malignant forms of disease, will find Roback's Stomach Bitters invaluable as a tonic and stimulant for removing all the prostrating effects which follow disease. It supplies the system with so long felt for a safe and reliable tonic and appetizer.

LIVER PILLS.
Are Pills that have a direct and powerful action on the liver, and relieve any inactive or congested state of that all important organ upon which depends the whole process of digestion. The importance, then, of procuring a Pill that shall have such direct action without the ill effect of mercury, is manifest to every one. Such Pills are Roback's Blood Pills, they are warranted purely vegetable, and can with certainty be relied upon, and are safe at all times.

MELANCHOLY.
Is one of the many disorders of the nervous system arising from a low state of the constitutional health or severe prostration after long continued sickness, and requires purgating remedies like Roback's Stomach Bitters to restore the nervous system to their natural vitality. 11-28 2m
