The Radical Kaleidoscope.

In view of the evident decline of Radicalism throughout the country, the leaders of that party are just now being sorely exercised over two special considerations, viz:

1. How to retain the offices :

and, as a necessary means to this end

In the working of these two probtems, the Radical leaders place their main reliance upon the blind credulity of their followers, the great majority party organization without precisely knowing the nature of those permicions principles which they support an Lencourage by their votes.
