—Revenue Cutter—The petition clippers of postal currency in the Treasury Department.

—ALBORN, the recently elected Governor of Mississippi, refuses to be Gen. ABER'S puppet. We record this to his credit.

—Coyote says, "what the peapil want is moar munny," and he might have added, fuer dam fules and theves in ollis.

—Calamity GEARY is about to calamitate the people of this State with another three years of his governorship.

The editorial convention meets at Harrisburg next Thursday. "Lots of fun" at Finnegun's wake.

—The Legislative Record, a public swindle at Harrisburg, has been discontinued by order of the Legislature.

—If it, the Philadelphia radical candidate for State Treasurer, has become huffy since his defeat for that position.

—Since the grand influx of carpet baggers into the South, the lunatic asylums of that region have been filled to overflowing.

—Pending his confirmation by the Senate as Supreme Judge, HOAR holds on to his cabinet position. This leaves STROSS out in the cold.

—The seat on the Supreme Bench made vacant by the resignation of Judge GAIER, has not yet been filled. And it never can be, with Radical material.

—There are forty-six lawyers in the United States Senate. And judging from the unlawful character of their legislation, they are mighty poor ones, at that.

—Briek Pomeroy is amusing himself, and taking sketches of New York city life, by visiting the pretty waiter girl saloons, and talking to the "unfortunates."

—OLIVE LOGAN says she never saw a pretty girl in her life but she wanted to take her in her arms and kiss her. That's just the way we feel—every time we see OLIVE.

—WILLIAM LAKE, the celebrated showman, was hurried at Cincinnati Friday last. This may very properly be said to be the disappearance of one of the great American Lakes.

—GRANT has had a present of a suit of clothes from Siberia, made of Siberian furs. He ought now to go to the other extreme and get one from Africa, made of African wool.

—A steady young carpenter of New Haven, Conn., by name of WHEELER, has just been wheeled into a snug mansion and a fortune of $20,000 by the wheeling away of an old uncle to the grave yard.

—Writing to an American friend, RISTORI says: "I never can forget your dear country." Neither will any one else who lived here to pay taxes and tariffs and tributes to radical rascality. Dear is the right word.

—BOUTWELL is on the lecture stump, with JOSH BILLINGS and MARK TWAIN. Treasurer and all as he is, the idea that MARK and JOSH were making a hundred dollars a night was too much for him, so he pitched in, too.

—Hon GEORGE R. BARRETT, President Judge of the judicial district composed of the counties of Carbon, Monroe, Pike and Wayne, has, we learn by the Clearfield Republican, resigned his seat on the Bench, with a view to the practice of his profession, at Clearfield.

—GEARY was inaugurated Governor of Pennsylvania for the second time, on Tuesday last. As he cannot possibly be Governor for a third term he can now act a little more independent. Hold up your head, Jous, and be a man, henceforth.

—A fellow at Glen White, two miles west of Kittanning Point, was ridden on a rail the other day by his neighbors for marrying a grass widow who had two husbands living, while he himself had one wife living and one dead. They took him out of his bed-room and exhibited him at every house. Served him right.

—The editor of the Williamsburg Vindicator says that a hen egg was found under a bench, in the lecture room of the Methodist Church, at that place, on the men's side, the other day. That editor wants to know what "spruce rooster" laid that egg, and whether he cackled over the achievement. He says he wouldn't have been surprised if it had been found on the women's side, where some "sightly young pullets" were whispering and squeaking during the service.

The Earth in Danger!

Scientific observers of the Sun's phases, affect to have discovered something out of which they are now making a great sensation. This is an immense wave of heat, which appears to be rolling towards this earth, having already accomplished half the distance between the sun and our planet.

We are, nevertheless, disposed to be alarmed. We have some faith in good old Earth yet, and do not imagine she is going to allow herself to be disposed of so unceremoniously. It is true a calamity might occur that would throw her off her pins and overwhelm a world in ruin; but, while we admit the possibility of such a thing, we do not think it probable. Earth has not yet fulfilled her destiny, and, as long as the prophecies of the Bible remain unaccomplished, she will surely cease to make her diurnal revolutions.

Roll on, old Earth. Don't give up, the ship. Don't get scared. Keep moving. Nature is nature, you know, and our Democratic nature desires to see the extinction of the Radical party and the final triumph of the principles of the Constitution. Consequently, more time must be allowed. These things can't all be accomplished between now and this time next year.

erated, damned, and "peas once more reigns in Warsaw," we may then have time to consider some of your silly notions. But not now—not now.

Radical Reducers!

Since BOUTWELL'S monthly reports, have proven to the people that figures can be made to lie just as easily as the fellow that wouldn't sing and was made sing," his radical supporters have almost burst themselves about the reduction that party has made in the public debt.

- Reduced a prosperous Republic to a paperized Anarchy!
Reduced sovereign States to petty antrapieties!
Reduced the population of our country, by war and murder, over half a million souls.
Reduced the wealth of our people over five billions of dollars.

High-Diddle-De!

The Supreme Court (supremely ridiculous) of Alabama has just rendered several decisions, from one of which the whole State, as well as all right-minded persons in Christendom will rebel. It is pointed to the effect that all marriages consummated in that State during the time from the commencement to the close of the war in 1865,

The New U. S. Attorney.

We see by the papers that H. BRECHER SWORE, Esq., of Clearfield, has been appointed by the President to be United States Attorney for the western District of Pennsylvania. This is on a par with all GRANT'S appointments, and secures to a very undeserving man a very fat and lucrative position.

We esteem it a fortunate thing that citizens of Centre and Clearfield counties, arrested under the administration of CARNAHAN, and conveyed to Pittsburgh by that vile old Clearfield procurer, BEN HARTSHORN, are no longer in the clutches of the Attorney for the Western District.

ELSIE GREY.

Down by the river an old house stands,
Weather-beaten, and brown and bare,
Like weeping women with wringing hands,
The oak trees bend above it there.

The Governor's Salary.

Gov. GEARY opened his second term of office by encouraging or, in other words, winking at a proposition to increase his own salary. There was a bill before the Legislature to raise the salary of the Governor from $5000 to $7000, and although the fundamental law of the State forbids the increase of the salary of the Governor during his term of office, it was rushed through the Senate, which could not have been done, had Gov. GEARY signified his disapprobation of the measure.

In the House, however, the bill was defeated by three votes—14 yeas to 47 nays. This, of course, kills the bill for the present, but there is no telling how soon it may be again brought up.

Intemperance.

We are as much in favor of temperance and sobriety as any man, but we do not believe in the efficiency of a "National Temperance Party" to stop the ravages of the liquor traffic.

The true way to banish intemperance from the land is to banish the bottle from our side boards and cupboards. Point out to the children the terrible effects of this great evil, and educate in them an abhorrence of intoxicating beverages.

In this way, more good will be accomplished in a single year than has been accomplished by all the temperance parties that have ever existed, or by all the temperance legislation, so called, that has ever been enacted.

Learn to the children the following passage from the Best of Books, and in after years, with God's blessing, they will be guided by it:

"Who hath woe? who hath sorrow?
Who hath contentions? who hath babbling? who hath wounds without cause? who hath redness of eyes?
They that tarry long at the wine;
they that go to seek mixed wine.

—Although HENRY WARD BRECHER proclaimed to the auction mob in Plymouth church, lately gathered to buy seats, that no matter how much they might sell for, it would not increase his salary one cent, nevertheless he gets $5,000 more per annum, being $12,000 per year, to desecrate the word of God, and to ease the minds of those whom Christ says can by no means enter the kingdom of heaven.

—There is quite a large emigration from Tennessee into Kentucky and the West.

Spawls from the Keystone.

- Danville is having a revival of religion.
—Eggs are 25 cents per dozen in Huntingdon.
—Butter in Philadelphia is seventy cents a pound.
—"Shoo Fly—don't Bolder Me," is having a run in Philadelphia.
—Bedford county is migrating some of her farmers to Tennessee.
—Patrick Kinvan of Tusculum, was killed by the explosion of an oil tank.
—An East Brady gentleman lost $75, but afterwards found them in his clock.
—Geo. Francis Train lectured at Thompson's Hall in Danville on Friday night last.
—A Radical grocery man at Berntown informs the public that he has "knew ryder for sale."
—William Hise, esq., of Danville, Montour county, hung himself the other day in his own barn.
—Sheriff Neely, of Clarion, offers a reward of $50 for the capture of one Foster, an escaped thief.
—The local editor of the East Brady Independent has taken to eating sugar bread. A Dutch sign.
—An East Liverpool farmer had 24 sheep killed by dogs the other night. "A curse upon all our curs, I say."
—The Evening Star which shone in Reading, Berks' county, for a short time, has been temporarily extinguished.
—Thorp Phillips was advertised to sing in Danville on Saturday night last. We are glad we were not there to hear him.
—A boy in Oil City in attempting to jump on a railroad train while in motion, fell, and had his foot taken off for his foolhardiness.
—Last Monday was the anniversary of Franklin's birthday. The Lancaster printers observed it by a grand hop at Fulton Hall.
—Henry L. Stevens, a well known printer of Philadelphia, and for many years assistant foreman of the Enquirer office, died a few days ago.
—John McEvoy, a brakeman on the P. & E. Railroad, fell off the top of a car near Keating (Union county, on Thursday of last week, and died on Friday.
—Hon John G. Hall, of Ridgway, is chairman of the committee to try the contested election case of Mooney vs. Graham, sixth district of Philadelphia.
—James M. Swank, late of the Johnstown Tribune, has been appointed clerk to the committee on manufactures of the House of Representatives at Washington.
—The editor of the Elk Democrat interviewed a couple of the girls of the period in the cars. That is, he listened to their conversation. Of course, it was sensible.
—The Lancaster Intelligencer don't object to the Reading Times stealing its words for word, but it does object to that paper's crediting them to our journals.
—A new play, dramatized from Dickens' "David Copperfield," and entitled "Little Emily," has been handsomely put on the stage at the Arch street theatre in Philadelphia.
—H. Brecher Swore, of Clearfield, has been appointed by President Grant United States Attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania. Another misfortune for our poor devil.
—A young man named Cole came to his death last week by being forced to leave his boarding-house, near Emporium, because he had exhausted all his money and had the measles.
—Two estimable young men named William P. Marr and H. P. Boyle were killed at Milton last week by coming in contact with a railroad train while attempting to cross the track in a buggy.
—McPike, of the Cambria Freeman, sent out about 40 bills to delinquent subscribers, and in response to this appeal for money received five dollars from one man with an order to discontinue the paper. Poor McPike.
—Pete and Joe Burns were arrested the other night in Philadelphia for breaking into and robbing a pawnbroker's store. When asked what he was doing out so late, Pete answered that he had been "sitting up with a sick woman."
—Daniel Smith, of Elizabethville, Dauphin county, was caught in the belt of a threshing machine lately, and whirled round and round until his clothing was torn in strips from his person. He was only slightly bruised on the shoulder and his escape from death is almost a miracle.
—Miss Gusella Potts, the accomplished organist of the Presbyterian church at Johnstown, has made herself so necessary to that congregation that they have appointed her a salary. Some man will no doubt find Miss Potts a very useful and ornamental piece of kitchen furniture.
—Three hundred bass fish were placed in the Juniata river about a mile and a half above Huntingdon, the other day. They were brought all the way from the Potomac river in a barrel, and with such success that only one out of the three hundred died. The idea is to populate the Juniata with these fish.
—A Howard Crewitt, on trial at Huntingdon for the alleged murder of Miles Hampton has been acquitted. The trial lasted five days, and the verdict of "not guilty" was received with cheers by the large crowd in the court room. Both the prisoner and his brother taunted on hearing it, and intense excitement prevailed.
—Bohmer and Van Bordenbourg, the murderers of the Peightal family, who have been on trial at Huntingdon for that murder, were convicted, on Tuesday last, of murder in the first degree. This is a righteous verdict. These men made an attempt to escape from the custody of the sheriff, but were unsuccessful.
—A mail agent on the Pennsylvania Central threw the mail matter for Johnstown on the track of an eastern bound freight train, the other day. The consequence was the mail was very much damaged, some of the letters and papers being cut entirely in two, and the whole thing "muddled." Such carelessness should be inquired into.
