

The Democratic Watchman.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Squandering the National Domain.

A high republican authority has figured up two hundred and thirty-eight bills, now in Congress, which make appropriations of public land to railroads, amounting in the aggregate, as he estimates, to 512,000,000 acres.

Senator Thurman, the able democratic Senator, of Ohio, called attention at the beginning of the present session to the organized movement by which these land appropriation bills were sprung upon Congress, and he sought that, if the grants asked for were made, they should at least be coupled with stipulations compelling the retransfer of the donated lands, at fair prices, to actual settlers.

On Sunday last, by a preconcerted signal, the christian populace rose, and the fearful work of butchery was inaugurated. At an early hour the houses of all the Jews were invaded, and those of the occupants who were unable to escape were massacred in cold blood.

Four Hundred Miles Upstairs.

Reading about electricity, lightning and the telegraph, the other day, said Uncle Peter, "raminds me of a curious story I once heard, when I was in England."

It seems there was a newspaper in the City of Glasgow, Scotland, which employed a London correspondent. The correspondent made it his duty to gather news every day and send it to Glasgow every night by telegraph.

"What is the row?" said a policeman, coming along. "I'm locked out," said Jenkins. "Here I've got a batch of the most important news for a paper—a murder, three fires and riot—and a door locked in my face, and I can't get in."

"Why don't you go to some other office?" asked the policeman. "No authority to see any other line," said the correspondent. "Ah! I've got it!" he added, and before the policeman could ask him what it was, the excited Jenkins had dashed down the street as if a mad dog was after him.

Jenkins rushed breathlessly into another office, six blocks on. "I say," said he to the operator, "I'm in a fix! Got news to go off inside of an hour, and the stupid operator at my office has gone to sleep, and I can't get in—and—and—"

"Well that is a fix," said Jenkins, endeavoring to catch his breath. "I want you to telegraph down to Glasgow, and ask the operator there to telegraph up here to Jones, and bid him come down stairs and let me in."

The operator roared with laughter at this, but went to his instrument and began rattling away at a great rate. "This is the message he sent: 'Glasgow—Wake up Jones, Station X; tell him Jenkins at the foot of the stairs, can't get in.'"

Jones was looking at his watch again, and concluding that he had better put out the lights and go to his bed room across the hall-way, when clatter went his instrument.

"There's Glasgow calling me," said Jones and hurried to his instrument and ticked off—

"What's wanting?" "Back came the answer: 'Jenkins down stairs—door fast—go let him in.'"

Off went Jones with a rush down stairs, threw open the door, and at last the anxious Jenkins got up and sent of his news.

"So you see how a man sent a message through a solid door and up four pairs of stairs, four hundred miles around, and by way of Glasgow, and all within twenty minutes."

Turkey.

Wholesale Massacre of the Jews.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 1.—A fearful war of religious intolerance has broken out in the province of Romelia, the metropolitan province of the Turkish empire, in the south of Europe. For sometime the native christians have manifested a spirit of fearful vindictiveness against the Jewish population, who have endeavored in vain to obtain from the government some protection against outrage and extortion.

On Sunday last, by a preconcerted signal, the christian populace rose, and the fearful work of butchery was inaugurated. At an early hour the houses of all the Jews were invaded, and those of the occupants who were unable to escape were massacred in cold blood.

The fury of the populace was inflamed by religious bigotry, and only exhausted itself for want of victims. In all the principal towns the fearful work of butchery prevailed, and thousands of men, women and children of the repugnant class were butchered in cold blood.

The work of slaughter still goes on in the interior, and nothing has been heard yet of any movement by the authorities to suppress it.

The reigning prince is absent from the province, and advantage was taken of this to complete the total extermination of all the Jews from the province. Prince Charles is hurrying home, and energetic measures will at once be taken by the sultan to suppress this enormity. Meanwhile the fury of the mob continues unabated, finding fresh victims to glut its insatiate frenzy.

Things we Like to See.

We like to see young ladies who are bitter enemies kiss each other very affectionately when they meet! It reminds us of a man named Judas, who lived several years ago! We like to see a fashionably dressed lady promoting the streets wearing a blue-silk dress, trailing a yard behind her in the mud—it cleans the streets so nicely! We like to see a young man very polite and obliging to other young ladies, while he is scarcely civil to his sister at home—it proves that the lords of creation are void of deception.

We like to see little boys come to church in the evening, and amuse themselves by sticking pins in their sleeping neighbors—it shows that they are not burying their talents in the earth! We like to see a man invariably throw his newspaper, boots and hat in the middle of the floor, for his tired wife to pick up—it is evidence that he remembers his promises to 'cherish her'! We like to see the choir spend the time during divine service in whispering and telling stories—it helps us to appreciate the sermon, and convinces us that they are capable of singing 'with the spirit and the understanding also'! We like to see young ladies keep their jaws in constant motion endeavoring to masticate a huge ball of chewing gum—it looks so lady like! We like to see a man sporting fast horses, while he owes the printer, and gives nothing to the minister—it looks honorable! There are many other things we like to see, but we forbear.—Hudson Register.

The relapsing fever seems to be assuming a pestilential form in Philadelphia.

Bare footed urchins have sprouted into a luxuriant crop in this city lately.

The man who says our market reports are not reliable, is a very reliable one.

Our vacant lots should be regarded as sacred ground, for there repose the ashes of the grate.
