The Democratic Watchman.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Friday Morning, Aug. 12, 1870.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY.

—The Sun, at Altoona, calls Brainard of the Tyrone Herald "Brainless."

—The camp meeting at Wayne Station begins on Tuesday. An immense crowd will be in attendance.

—For excellent, delicious soda water, our friends Zeller & Jarrett, on Bishop street, can't be beaten. Call and try it.

—Chester Munson, Esq., of Philadelphia, a sound Democrat and able worker in the cause, dropped into our sanctum on Tuesday.

—We doubt the propriety of playing base ball in the streets, as is frequently done in this place. Somebody may get hurt by the operation.

—Youngsters if you don't want the belly ache, quit eating green fruit. Attention to this advice may perhaps save a doctor or at least a doctor bill.

—Col. Phaon Jarrett, of Lock Haven, favored us by a visit last week. The Colonel is looking hale and hearty as yet weather the storms of many winters.

—O. Bryan & Williams manufacture all their furniture and warrant it to give satisfaction. They have coffins of all sizes styles and prices. Call and examine their stock.

—Our advertisement for some able bodied darkeys to "kind of hang around" Reynolds's bank corner, continues to be responded too, and that locality is nightly the scene of a numerous congregation of "men and brothers."

—Allegany street at the corner of Allegany and Bishop, was the scene of several fights on Saturday afternoon last. The fracas however, were so mixed up that we found it out of the question to ascertain who they were and about.

—The newest job of paper-hanging in the Brockerhoff House, done by our friend, Mr. Samuel Nichols, is a model of neatness, skill and taste. Sam understands his business, and knows how to do with the harshness of a room and make it look lovely.

—The trout-shooting season is over for this year, as it now is to the advantage of some of our sportsmen to remember. The first day of July closed the open season for the speckled beauties, hence from that they are under the protection of the statute and the rest of us.

—The editor of the Lycoming Herald was absent two weeks and made his appearance in our town again on last Saturday evening much to the disgust of the Armstrong nine. The Herald has become very cheap, a paper is published two days a week and is well worth the money.

—The fat and lean men of Philipsburg indulged in a game of base ball the other day. The result was. The Journal deserves the latter as a flattering beating he received on drum head and the fact, it says, they only kept to the ground in good spirits, having had wind in their backs like so many respectable ladies.

—Corn. We are informed by private letter that corn on the farm of John Meyer, near Roberstburg, has grown to the astonishing height of 20 feet. The seed was brought from Tennessee by one of Mr. Meyer's sons. The writer of the letter assures us that it is Democratic corn, and challenges the whole to beat it.

—The town clock still presents its ghastly face to the public. Why don't some one purchase it and take it off our hands, by paying cash? The committee appointed to do nothing with the clock has become useless. Does the ladies have too much money to throw in that confounded hole extending from Allegany street to spare any for such a small matter as the town clock?

—Instead of increasing, it seems Bellefonte is decreasing in the number of its inhabitants. The latest report is 2,600 as the sum total of our population, with somewhere in the neighborhood of a hundred empty houses and tenements. This is a fine comment on the high rent policy of our landlords and on the financial tactics of our town council. Rents and taxes are absolutely so high here that it is almost impossible for poor men to stay in the town.

—We ask attention to the advertisement of the Bellefonte Academy in another place. The Principal is extending its sphere of usefulness so as to take in pupils living away from town, on the line of railroad. To such, commutation tickets will be furnished, and the hours of recitation so arranged as to suit the arrival and departure of the trains. All the rooms have been papered and put in to first class order for the accommodation and comfort of boarding pupils. Mr. Hughes has made our Academy an institution of superior merit, and we trust his efforts will be fully appreciated by our people.

—Rev. Joseph H. Barnard, formerly of this place, but, for the last few years, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Waukesha, Wisconsin, has removed to another field of labor. The fact that Mr. Barnard has so many friends in this part of the country, induces us to publish the following notice of him from the columns of the Waukesha Plain-dealer:

REV. J. H. BARNARD.

This gentleman is about to leave us. We make this announcement with much regret. His loss will be deeply felt in Waukesha, where he has hosts of admiring friends, both in the church and out of it. We doubt if there was ever a clergyman in this place more universally respected than Mr. Barnard. He has won this honored position not only by his fine talents as a preacher of the gospel, but by an exercise of those genial traits of character which provoke feelings of affectionate admiration in all with whom he has come in contact, and whose enjoyed his pleasant society. He is not only an ornament to the pulpit, but he is happily endowed with those social qualities which render him a welcome acquisition to all circles where true taste is respected, and appreciating merit adopted.

Mr. Barnard preached his last sermon as minister of the Presbyterian Church here, on Sunday evening last. We were fortunate enough to hear it although the church was crowded. The sermon was an excellent one. He displayed excellent taste in the selection of his topic, and the skill of an accomplished artist in handling it. The subject was "Citizenship in Zion." The sermon was logical, well arranged and abounded in passages of genuine eloquence. His illustrations were apt and striking. He is a ready, fluent and forcible speaker, has a good voice, his gestures are always appropriate. He has a happy manner of engaging and his style and delivery are always pleasing. In addition to all this, Mr. Barnard possesses merits of a much higher order. He is all business, earnest and devoted to his calling, and while he is universally respected by all who know him, he is particularly endeared to those who have had the pleasure of listening to the lessons of his pastorate. He has a peculiar faculty for getting into the hearts of his hearers, and we venture to say that they have found it very difficult to forget that they have had a pastor whose affections, the term is chosen in its original signification, and speaks to the soul and understanding even when giving pleasure to the ear. [illegible] He seems to [illegible] occupied in such a work. It was his delight to labor, and we believe we express the sentiments of the people of Waukesha when we say that the best wishes of the people of Waukesha accompany him and his new home. He will be missed in the pulpit he has so long adorned, and by the social circles to which his fine spirit and noble heart lent a peculiar charm.

New Paper.—Col. D. K. Fate is building a new house. Will the Watchman please note the erection of this? Hard times, and yet there never was a time when so many mechanics and laboring men owned their own homes as they do at present as now.—Republican.

Yes, we will make a note of the fact that many citizens build their own houses in this town, because they have the means to do so, but that is a poor offset to that other fact of near a hundred houses standing desolate and unoccupied in Bellefonte. What is the use of building more houses when we are not able to put inhabitants into those we have on account of the enormous rents and taxes? You, Mr. Republican, may attempt to jest the matter, if you will, but the stern fact that we have but 2,600 of a population where we expected to be able to count 4,000, is ever present in glaring hideousness. Our streets are as silent as the grave, and where now is the hum of our industry?

Talk about the independence of our laboring men and mechanics! If there are any that are independent, it is their own thrift and industry and not your party has made them so.

—P. R. Hoy, a young man of considerable talent, delivered a lecture before the Excelsior and Eureka societies of the Normal School, at Rebersburg on Friday evening last. We have heard it favorably spoken of. Mr. Hoy we believe is an applicant for the teachership of our first graded school here—a position we have no doubt he would fill with credit to himself and benefit to the school.

—One day last week as Mr. John Wolf was returning from Lewisburg to his home near Wolf's store, the horse which he was driving became frightened, ran off throwing him out of the buggy and fracturing his body. He received a severe contusion on the back part of the head and shoulder. Dr. Hillibish of Rebersburg was sent for and dressed the wound, and under his treatment, the injured man will no doubt speedily recover.

—The Union celebration held in Meek's Grove, in Ferguson township, last Saturday, we are informed, was a most pleasant occasion. There were some 1,100 people on the ground for dinner which was a most excellent one, and a number of addresses were delivered by the best Sunday School men in the county. Two bands of music were present, the Pine Grove Cornet Band and Weaver's String Band. Everybody was highly pleased, and went home in the best possible spirits.

—The Pine Grove Cornet Band serenaded this office last week, a notice of which we forgot to make in our last issue. This band is only of recent organization, but already plays as well as other bands of more experience. The gentlemen composing it will please accept our thanks for their kind compliment, and allow us to say that it would have been acknowledged personally by one of the editors of this paper had they not moved off so soon. We noticed that this band was the possessor of a very handsome band-wagon.

—It is very doubtful whether the Glass Works in this place will be resuscitated. If Mr. Thomas can procure a partner who will put them into an equal sum with himself—say $20,000—they will be continued. If not, we need not expect to hear any thing more about Bellefonte glass. We hope some capitalist will advance the necessary $20,000. Bellefonte must hereafter depend on her manufactories for prosperity, and she cannot afford to lose her glass works at the start.

DASTARDLY OUTRAGE.—That it is not yet time to stop growing hemp is patent from the following account of a diabolical attempt of two unhung villians. We are informed that on Saturday evening, at about 9 o'clock, while a respectable lady, the wife of a highly respectable citizen of this place, was passing along Pine street beyond second, in company with a young lady of respectability, two men sprang from beside the walk and grasped them, when they united in screaming at the top of their voices, which alarmed Mr. Bradin, living on the corner of Second street, who went to their rescue, the scoundrels fleeing at his approach. The ladies did not, in the darkness, recognize their assailants, and it is probably a fortunate thing for them that they escaped recognition. If the wives and daughters of our citizens are to be molested upon our very streets by inhuman wretches, with foul intent, let every lady whom circumstances compel to go out at night unprotected, arm herself and visit condign punishment upon the villians who would attack defenceless women. The gallows would be disgraced by the execution of such monsters.—Philipsburg Journal.

As has no doubt been observed by the bills posted around town, a grand pic nic will be given by the Logan Fire Company, in Reuben Valentine's grove, near the rolling mill, on Thursday, the 18th instant. The object of this pic-nic is, we believe, to raise a fund for the company, and we trust it will be largely attended. Arrangements are being made for a splendid time, and the occasion cannot fail to be one of great enjoyment. A platform for dancing will be one of the chief attractions, and an elegant dinner will be provided. Tickets for dinner, 50 cents, for dancing, 10 cents.

The alleys and sewers about town had commenced to smell badly, till the heavy thunder shower of Tuesday cleaned them out. The elements saved the Council the trouble of doing their duty.

The Borough Trouble (No. 2.)

[illegible] was a time when [illegible] mechanics and laboring men [illegible] and [illegible] independent as now.—Ed.

Just so, hypocritical Republican. But when you state one fact that is plain before the eyes of every man, why do you not state the whole truth? For instance, why do you not state that many, or perhaps most, of the mechanics and laboring men you speak of have left this town, some with and others without their families, for other parts of the State where simple borough taxation is not equal to a fair year's rent for the very home they own in Bellefonte. They move away from here because there is no more progress in Bellefonte, which is now as fast retrograding as it was advancing during the past five years—circumstances alone sufficient to drive them off, especially when that portion of their own homes, not already swallowed up by borough taxation, stood in danger of being entirely confiscated by the enormous borough debt of SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS, and still growing. All this by a purely Republican Council until within the past year. You have had opportunities above all others to own your own home in Bellefonte but do the Republican times you boast of enable you to grow? If not, it is most manifest that you have been exceedingly lazy during the last seven or eight years, while other noble, hard-working men earned sufficient to venture in the purchase of lots and the building thereon of comfortable houses with the bright hope before them that this town would not cease in its progress. You may think others have nothing to complain of if you are satisfied, but the sequence is you take it about as easy in the world as your naturally indolent philosophy dictates. your taxes, if large or small are hard to collect, and you are under the impression that the world in fact every individual owes a liberal contribution for your maintainance without your rendering an equivolent therefor.

Do cease with your nonsensical efforts to deceive a people whom you constantly flatter with being as intelligent as yourself, and assist the County Commissioners in reducing the county debt—which does not, personally, bear heavily upon you—by paying into the county treasury the amount of your default. Why don't you assail the reckless expenditure of money by the borough authorities, and be truly an impartial and fair journalist? If there is a county tax specially levied on the county indebtedness, let the people know it; and if you find that an interest tax is levied from every citizen in this town wherewith to pay the interest on its fearful debt, let the people know it also, and state the reason of its origin, its benefits and its present beneficial effects upon the mechanics and laboring men of the town [illegible] in Bellefonte.

A TAX PAYER.

Radical Protection of Farmers.

Our great farming community cannot too searchingly examine the disastrous effects on it of the great ruling interest of the whole country, from the sordid support of manufacturing monopoly by the Radical party. The recent operations in the wheat and flour market, according to the St. Louis Republican, are instructive illustrations of Radical policy. Congress having refused to permit Americans to register the vessels which they could at once have purchased of Germans at low prices, and those vessels fearing to leave New York since the outbreak of war between France and Prussia, the ships of other nations secured a sudden monopoly of the carrying trade to Europe. In consequence freight on wheat from New York to London advanced 12 per cent., or 24c. per bushel, from 8c., the rate a week previously, before the declaration of war. Of course foreign shipping greatly exceeded our own, the lion's share of this advance goes to foreigners, but the New England owners of the greater part of our reduced commercial marine do not object to this because they also expect to be enriched by this unexampled tripling of rates of freight. In order to feather their own nest they deprive other Americans of the chance of making good investments in purchasing vessels, and take from the farming community the benefit of the rise in wheat and flour occasioned by the war.

The advance on wheat to the foreign consumer since the commencement of the European war has been nearly 40 cents per bushel, and on flour $2 per barrel, in our currency, with an offset in his favor of an advance of eight per cent. in gold. Now, had freights remained as before (and they would have done so, or advanced but little, but for the action of Congress in aid of the speculations of New England ship owners and ship builders upon the distress of the Germans, for whom the Radicals now effect such intense sympathy, all of this advance would have insured to the benefit of the holders of wheat and flour, and by a general rise in their prices been of direct benefit to every farmer throughout the length and breadth of our country. But the foreign or New England ship owner steps in between the European consumer and the American producer, levies a black mail of 16 cents per bushel in advanced freight, and, consequently, wheat instead of advancing about 40 cents a bushel, has gone up only 15 to 25 cents, and flour 50 to 75 cents, according to quality. This is not much more than the equivalent of the advance in gold. The farmer obtains in gold only about the same price at which his wheat sold before the European war, and thus almost the entire advance to the European consumer (whose price is of course based on the freight of Europe adapted to the cost here) is coolly pocketed by a few New England and foreign ship-owners.

Shell Out or Get Out.

The following letter is addressed to the office-holders by the Radical Congressional Executive Committee. It is pay up or quit. We must have money and you, the office holder, must furnish. Read:

UNION CONGRESSIONAL REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,
Washington, D. C., July 26, 1870.

SIR.—The political campaign of 1870, which has already been commenced in some of the States, promises to be contested with more than usual activity by the Democratic party. It is therefore necessary that it should be met with spirit and determination. Every Republican whose attention has been directed to the subject will readily see the necessity of prompt and decisive attention. The only defence needed by the administration is that the people may be furnished with the facts as they exist. To accomplish this money will be necessary to defray the expense of printing and circulating documents, and in sending speakers into the field. Your position in the Republican party warrants the Committee in believing that you would willingly contribute to this purpose. They have therefore thought proper to call upon you for a contribution of —— dollars, the receipt of which will be promptly acknowledged, and the money expended in maintaining Republican principles. Where it can be done, money should be sent by a draft, money-order, or in registered letters, made payable and directed to Hon. J. H. Platt, M. C., Secretary Union Congressional Republican Committee, Washington, D. C. An answer is expected.

Respectfully,
(Signed) ZACHARIAH CHANDLER,
JOHN H. KETCHAM,
J. H. PLATT, JR.,
Finance Committee.

One of the great war cries of the party opposed to the Democracy, for a year or two after its present organization, was land for the landless," to give homes to those who have them not. This policy stolen from Andrew Johnston, the earliest and most consistent of the advocates of the Homestead law, is now more than repudiated by the immense grants to railroad companies of the lands of the people, made by Congress. The grants leave no "land to the landless," under the Homestead law worth the claiming. The million upon million of acres thus given away to railroad corporations, belong to the people, and the right of Congress to thus take public property for the benefit of private corporations, is more than questionable. Yet it is done, and members of Congress, as railroad directors, reap the benefit, while the homes promised to the people—the lands the law says shall be given to the landless citizen, are gobbled up by railroad corporations, to be sold at high prices, for the benefit, not of the people, but of the ring of Congressional plunderers, whose promises of relief to the people were but made to be broken. The only way to put a stop to the enactment of congressional plunder bills is to elect such men as Critchfield.—Holmes Co. Farmer.
