How the Money Goes.

The Commissioner of Internal Rev enue reports 340 defaulting collectors, aggregating many millions of dollars of taxes wrung from the people. Let us hear no more about speculations as 1 defalcations by Democrats – a. 1 defalcations by Democrats --nothing more about Radical honesty and Radical economy. Upon this subject the Harrisburg

On the currency issue they also proclaim Grant to be a mere trader, favoring the scheme of a few jobbers, instead of the dence and protection. In short, the promiuent Radicals of the West are heartily tired of General Grant and his cigar and that fact is cropping out in all their actions of a political character. Nor will the visit of the Presi-dent to the West mend matters in rogard to the issue raised in that section. He cannot take a new departure from He cannot take a new departure from a Western standpoint. He cannot throw overboard his' Eastern friends and accept, in their stead, such per-ions as the West wish in places of con-fidence and power. He is bound hand and foot to a certain clique in New York. They dictate his policy and fashion his advances. It is a close cor-poration. It deals in gold, or barcains poration. It deals in gold, or bargains for Islands. This is the influence which controls General Grant, which moulds and shapes his administration, and between these men and the men of the West there is a bitter feud. They are not fighting for principle. It is an unequal share of the plunder which arms the combatants and between them the President will be hacked to shut up the eye of the Radicals of that section with smoke.- Age.

Mr. Greer, and we it seems, was on top of an oat stack. He had a small, well seasoned hickory courter pole, shurpened at both ends, which was intended to be run down in the centre of the stack, to prevent the top from being blown of by the wind. He accidentally let this pole fall, one end of which stuck in the ground, the other end pointing up and leaning against the stack. From some cause or other he slipped down from the stack precise It is appeared town from the stack precise ly where the pole was standing, the upper part which entered his groin. He clung to the stack and gave the alagm, but the only person within hear-ing was a woman who came promptly to his assistance, but being mable to relieve him from his terrible situation alar an off and called to beb. she ran off and called for help. When the help arrived the unfortunate man, it seemed, had became exhausted in his hold upon the stack, and the pole bad passed upwards through his bow-els and cheet, coming out at the top of his shoulder, from which it protruded more than a foot. It was more than and he two hours before medical aid could be had, during which time the young man was horribly impaled on the pole. He lingered for several hours after the pole was extracted before death came to his aid.
