

BELLEFONTE, PA.

A Touching Incident.

King Frederick of Prussia, was once traveling in his dominions, and passed through a pretty village, where he was to remain an hour or two.

The villagers were delighted to see their king, and had done their utmost in preparing to receive him. The school children strewed flowers before him, and one little girl had a pretty verse of "welcome" to say to him.

"To what vegetable kingdom," replied one of the little girls. "And to what kingdom this?" continued he, as he took from his pocket a gold coin.

"To the mineral kingdom," she answered. "And to what kingdom do I belong, then, my child?" inquired he, expecting, of course, that she would answer in right order.

"To the animal kingdom," she answered. "But she paused and colored very deeply, not knowing what to say. She feared that it would not sound respectful to answer to a king that he belonged to the animal kingdom, and she puzzled her little brain for a reply.

Remembering the words of Genesis, where it says that God "created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him," she quickly looked up and said, "To God's kingdom, sir."

The king stooped down and placed his hand upon her head. A tear stood in his eye. He was moved by her simple words. Soberly and devoutly did he answer, "God grant that I may be counted worthy of that kingdom."

How the Dead Soldiers are to be Identified.

A Berlin letter in the London Telegraph says: Mark one instance of the German practical spirit as a proof of the fashion after which those Teutons prepare to fight. In recent wars popular feeling has demanded that rank and file, captains and generals, shall be equal in and impartially mentioned in the lists of the slain; but difficulties have arisen, because the enemy cannot know the muster-roll is called after the battle, the missing may be only wounded or prisoners. Germany has, in her solid, unchangeable arrangements, in view of this, provided that each wife and mother shall know the best or the worst of those who go to fight with sword for king, and fatherland.

Comparative Fatality of Modern Warfare.

A correspondent writes from Paris: A comparison between the losses of armies in the battles of the First Empire with those resulting from engagements where improved firearms have been employed will show humanitarian as that the old buck and ball cartridges, fired from "Brown Bess," were much more deadly than rifled cannon, needles-guns and chas-sepots.

Radical Whining and Hypocrisy.

We constantly find in the Radical newspaper press, and hear from Radical lips, allusions to the cruelties, executions, and oppression practiced upon the people of Europe, now unfortunately living at the theatre of war.

We need no further proof of Radical hypocrisy and Radical cruelty, than that afforded by the recent conduct of Holden, Kirk, and the gang of brutal outlaws under their command in North Carolina, sustained and supported in their villainies by the imbecile parvenu who disgraces the Presidential chair.

Signs and Tokens.

A long article having the above heading is going the rounds of the press and has been for some time. John Phœnix, thinking the old ones are played out, has manufactured some new ones; he being a supernatural being is, of course, fully competent to do so.

The Gridiron.—To take down the gridiron from the nail where it is hanging, with the left hand, it is a sign that there will be a broil in the kitchen.

The Mirror.—If a mirror be broken, it is a sign that a good looking lass will be missed in that house.

Nails.—If a woman cuts her nails every Monday, it is lucky for her husband.

Roosters.—If you hear a rooster crow when you are in bed, and the clock strikes a few times at the same instant it is a sign of mourning.

An Itching Ear.—If you have an itching ear, tickle your nose and you will have and itching there and till luck will be averted.

Salt.—To spill salt accidentally into a stew while it is on the fire, is a proof that the family are with its alterations (alter rations).

A Cat.—When a cat prepares to wash its face, it is a sign that one in the house will shortly receive a licking.

Warts.—To have sixteen warts on the left hand is unlucky, to have the same on the right hand is a sign that you are unfortunate.

Spirits.—If a married man, while his wife is in the room, takes up a bottle of spirits with his right hand, it is a sign that she will be shortly out of sports and that her husband is going to liquor.

Stick Raising.—If a one-eyed bulldog flies at a stick raiser's legs, it is a sign that a misfortune will happen to his calves.

Birds.—If you get on horseback on Monday before the sun is up, it is a sign that you will have of hand in a broil.

Lucky.—To stroke a green-eyed cat with a white spot on her nose is lucky, and heavy purs will be the consequence.

Marriage.—If you are in a house and hear a baby cry, it is a sign of marriage, or if it isn't it ought to be.

Wedding.—To see apples in a dream betokens a wedding; because where you find apples you may reasonably expect to find pears.

Red Nose.—To dream that your nose is red at the tip, is an intimation that you had better leave off brandy and water.

The above signs and portents may be strictly relied upon: they have never been known to fail.

Governor Reed, of Florida, in view of the coming election in that State, is beginning to lay a foundation for a military interference with the people, as was the case in North Carolina. Of course, the prominent figure in the Governor's anti-slavery picture, is the outrageous of the Ku Klux Klan. These are painted with a full brush, and held up for public observation.

The Governor declares that the seditious teaching of an unprincipled press, and the treasonable appeals of certain opponents of the State government may make it necessary for him to proclaim martial law, and continue.

The people of the State, upon whom rests the responsibility and the odium of the present condition of things, are sufficiently intelligent to fully understand the cause which have led to the singularly large number of murders and outrages which have been perpetrated and gone unpunished within the last eighteen months.

Now the Governor fairly puts his contemplated action upon the violations of law which have occurred in the State within the last year and a half. He rests it upon this fact, namely: Let it rest there, and let it.

en to what Governor Reed said to the Legislature of Florida in January, 1878, or a little more than six months on this very subject. Then the Governor remarked: "I congratulate you on the favorable auspices under which you again assemble to legislate upon the interests of the Commonwealth. During no period in the history of the State has there been more marked improvement and general prosperity than in the year just passed, and never have the laws been more generally and officially executed. In several counties organized bands of lawless men have conspired to overthrow the civil authorities, and many acts of violence have occurred. But those have been incidental to the state in all its past history, and arise less, perhaps, from special enmity to the present form of government than from opposition to the restraints of law in general."

When those assertions of Governor Reed are placed side by side, his present position is seen in its true light. He is a mere political trader, and is willing to tell any kind of a tale to sell his wares.—Age.

Hon. James G. Blaine, Speaker of the House of Representatives, has published a speech in relation to Federal expenses, which contains the most outrageous mis-statements. The following is a specimen: He says: "The army at present consists of forty regiments, and yet its whole maintenance for the year costs but $21,000,000, a trifle over $700,000 in paper money to each regiment. This same honesty and economy is shown in all other branches of the government, all the more praiseworthy and honorable in view of the large amounts expended." The Secretary of the Treasury has just issued a statement of the expenditures of the government for the last year, in which he sets down the cost of the War Department at $57,754,673, making a difference between the official and Speaker Blaine's statement of only $36,655,673. Speaker Blaine is either ignorant or mendacious. Which point of the horn will he accept? Again the Speaker claims that the expenses of the government have been reduced to $105,000,000 per annum. According to the Secretary of the Treasury, the expenses for the year ending June 30, 1870, were as follows: For civil and miscellaneous service $33,227,668.56 War Department 27,855,675.40 Navy Department 7,902,222.47

Which will the people believe, the Secretary of the Treasury, or the Speaker of the House of Representatives? They cannot believe both. Mr. Blaine has made a bad start in "the race, and will lose the stakes"—Age.

James L. Orr, of South Carolina, one of the most rampant rebels the South produced during the rebellion, has joined hands with the radicals, and is now helping to plunder and oppress his neighbors and former friends. The only excuse he gives for his present action is, that if he refused to plunder the carpet baggers and thieves he would be plundered himself. His reward for his perfidy is to be the United States Senatorship from South Carolina. Mr. Orr was frequently engaged in swindling the people when, before the war, he yet belonged to the Democratic party; lost nothing by the rebellion, being always on the lookout for No. 1; and hence, it is not, after all, very surprising that he should be found in his present company. Such men are always found on the controlling side where place and plunder is most likely to be found. The radicals are welcome to their acquisition of Orr.

EFFECTS OF TOBACCO-SMOKING ON CHILDREN.

It seems that the habit of smoking has taken possession of the boys to such an extent as to elicit serious inquiry as to its results. An able writer describes his experience on the subject, and comes to the following conclusions: 1. The pernicious effects on boys are incontestable. 2. They consist of pallor, chloro-anemia, palpitations of the heart, diminution of the normal number of red globules, and impaired digestion. 3. The ordinary treatment for anemia, etc., is ineffectual so long as the habit of smoking is persisted in. 4. Boys who are addicted to smoking exhibit a want of intelligence, and have a liking, more or less decided, for strong drink. 5. Those who abandon the practice before any serious organic lesions are produced, recover their health perfectly.

As a minister and a lawyer were riding together, and the minister to the lawyer "Sir, do you ever make mistakes in pleading?"

"I do," said the lawyer. "And what do you do with the mistakes?" inquired the minister.

"Why, sir, if large ones, I mend them; if small ones, I let them go," said the lawyer. "And pray, sir," continued he, "do you ever make mistakes in preaching?"

"Yes, sir, I have." "And what do you do with mistakes?"

"Why, sir, I dispose of them in the same manner you do—I rectify the large ones, and pass the small ones." "Not long since," he continued, "as I was preaching, I meant to observe that the devil was the father of liars, but made a mistake and said the father of lawyers. The mistake was so small that I let it go."

COUNTERFEIT twenty dollar greenbacks are so common that men are frequently arrested for passing the genuine bills, they being inferior in workmanship to the counterfeits.

Helmbold's Column.

ADDRESS TO THE NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED, WHOSE SUFFERINGS HAVE BEEN PROTRACTED FROM HIDDEN CAUSES, AND WHOSE CASES REQUIRE PROMPT TREATMENT, TO RENDER EXISTENCE DESIRABLE.

If you are suffering, or have suffered from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Do your liver, urinary organs, or your kidneys, frequently get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky or foamy, or is itropy or settling? Or does a thick skum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspepsia? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rush of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling on this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the luster of your eyes as brilliant? The bloom on your cheek as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so, do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver complaint?

Now, reader, self-abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering successful business men are always those whose generative organs are in perfect health? You never heard such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, of palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business, they don't become sad and discouraged, they are always polite and pleasant in the company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflamed by running to excess. These will not only ruff their constitutions, but also those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly cured diseases, from the effects of self-abuse and excesses, have brought about the state of weakness in those organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—idiotcy, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every other form of disease which humanity is heir to—and the cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctor-d for all but the right one.

DISEASE OF THESE ORGANS REQUIRE THE USE OF A DIURETIC.

HELMHOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCIU.
