The painter and frescoing at the Court House, under the superintendence of Charles Dungan and R. J. Donk, is going on satisfactorily and rapidly approaching completion...

Monday night last was Halloween. Even of Halloween, and the boys, as usual, took the privilege of a thorough school. A number of tricks were the result of the carrying-on, but we have nothing malicious or of a really harmful nature perpetrated.

As winter approaches once more, would it be well for those who are in the habit of making contributions to the Young Men's Christian Association, to do so in the way of clothing for the poor, or of other articles of utility?

On Thursday morning, about five o'clock, this section was visited by a heavy storm of rain and wind accompanied by the most vivid lightning and terrific peals of thunder. Such a storm, at this season of the year, is very unusual, and has excited general remark.

Now that thanksgiving day has been appointed, the WATCHMAN editors feel it their duty to remind all persons that their turkey coops are empty, though they have lately been renovated and made ready for the reception of the feathered bipeds...

Our thanks are due to Miss Mary Cunningham for a bottle of what we know is excellent currant wine, although we have not yet broken the seal that imparts its liquid comforts.

Who was Sheat Rankin's? George D. Pifer sends out a supplement this week informing people that he is selling goods at cost. And it is so. He is actually disposing of his fine stock of goods at the prices he paid for them...

The ladies of the Presbyterian congregation are to meet in the church to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon, at three o'clock, for the purpose of forming a Sewing Society and to consider the propriety of holding a fair and festival for the benefit of the Sabbath School library.

Sam Stephens' over show, which performed in Reynolds' opera house here on Friday, Saturday and Monday last, drew large crowds and afforded a great deal of amusement.

A special election is to be held in Allegheny on Tuesday, the 8th inst., for a school director, the late election having resulted in a tie between Messrs. Leavitt and Rymon.

The following to a strongly tender dirge appears in the Detroit Post, the general opinion not favoring the world with his name.

We were presented, on Monday last, with specimen growths of the Red Urea, White Urea and California potato, but of which weighed one pound and three ounces.

We are sorry to state that our good and warm-hearted friend, Fred P. Stephens, Esq., has been lying seriously ill at the Bash House, for the last week.

Little Gertrude Cummings, daughter of Gen. R. D. Cummings, of the Eagle Hotel, Philadelphia, died in that city, a couple of days ago of scarlet fever.

Rev. D. X. Junkin, who was announced to preach in the Presbyterian church here for the past two Sundays, has not yet arrived, on account of sickness.

November 1st dawned upon us as clear and cloudless as a morning in June. Certainly, Providence has favored us with remarkably fine weather. Old Boreas seems backward about re-uming his sway, as if loth to tighten his grasp upon the vitals of nature.

A Home View of the "American Notes."
Lewistown, Pa., Oct 21, 1870.
In the Atlantic Monthly for November there appears an interesting article entitled "Home Views of the American Notes," written by the "Secretary," who accompanied Mr. Dickens on his tour through America in 1842.

It was on the deck of the canal boat that a stranger, after following Mr. Dickens several times up and down, starting at the overcast of "A-stroke" which Mr. Dickens wore, came to him, left of the boat, and asked what it was, the price, etc., and many other questions.

There was a man on the boat with a light blue colored face, and a peppery sort of out of clothes, who was the most inquisitive fellow that can possibly be imagined.

That is a very pretty store as it stands, but it can be improved a little. The man with a light blue colored face, and a peppery sort of out of clothes, who was the most inquisitive fellow that can possibly be imagined.
