The Coolie Question,

We are opposed to the importation of coolies into this country upon moral and national grounds. In the first place we believe that all of our wealth and greatness has been the result of our efforts at equality between capital and labor. We favor the doctrine of the workingmen of America -a fair day's wages for a fair day's work; and we believe that no detriment will ever be observed from application of this principle in its broadest acceptation. The wealth of a nation proceeds from the labor of the inhabitants, and this fact will be more impressive in America, when we find a few years hence that our country is becoming fully populated. The importation of coolies will add nothing to the wealth of the country, because it will take work from our residents and our citizens, and while it may temporarily enrich those who employ this species of labor it will impoverish actual settlers, make criminals of them, and may lead to the most disastrous popular upheavals, which will assuredly eat up the temporary wealth accrued from the employment of coolies. Again, these pagan Sodomites will never become citizens, and while here they will be constantly and insidiously inculcating their utmost unnatural vices among the children of the nation. They will not live or die here, but will carry back to China the wealth of the land in the money they have earned, be it little or much, and there will never be a return of it in any shape. The statesman, the merchant, the manufacturer and the mechanic, all know that such a system will ultimate in financial ruin, and as a consequence the strongest advocates of coolie labor are either speculators or parties to politicians who are interested, we think dishonestly and unpatriotically. The people will weigh their arguments with caution, and upon this point we are of the opinion that the national grand jury will find that the importation of coolies is only a so phistical trap, set by men who have only one end in view—to make money at all hazards.—Exchange

BRUTAL ASSAULT BY A WIFE.—A Husband's Head Broken with an Axe.—The man Still Alive at Latest Accounts.—Cr Ridge, in Juniata township, this county, was on last Sunday morning the scene of one of those cruel and inhuman affairs that shock humanity and cause civilization to blush. The terrible affray occurred at the house of Michael Gordon on the Bedford and Somerset turnpike. The particulars, so far as we have been able to gather them, are about these: Gordon and his wife have, for some time, not been living on the most agreeable terms, and on the morning in question some sharp words occurred between them which passed over as many a family storm has done before. Mr. Gordon proceeded to get breakfast, and when it was ready—and probably when the unfortunate man was enjoying his morning's meal—the unfaithful and brutal wife assaulted him with an axe and dealt him such terrible blows, that the chances for life are very much against him. The first intimation that the neighborhood had that anything unusual was transpiring on that quiet Sabbath morning, was given by a little daughter of Gordon's who ran to the nearest neighbor, screaming, "Mamma is killing papa with an axe!" Upon going to the house, Mr. Gordon was found insensible, with three wounds in his head. One blow was given on the forehead, another immediately above the right ear which broke in the skull and from which wound the brain has since been oozing, and the third above the left ear. Mr Gordon has been lying in a state of insensibility ever since, and the physicians in attendance pronounce his case almost hopeless. This unfortunate affair is but one of the many that grow out of an improper observance of the laws governing marital relations, the wife in this case, according to reports, being wholly to blame.

P S Since writing the above we have learned that Gordon died on Tuesday.—Bedford Gazette

SIGNS AND WONDERS.—Nature's machinery does not work with that uniform regularity as heretofore. Astronomers are much exercised by the wonderful appearance of the surface of the sun and giving it as their opinion that hurricanes of fire are sweeping across it. Shots, almost observable with the naked eye, large enough for several worlds like this of ours, darken it. Auroras are unusually abundant, and are no more confined to the northern horizon. Meteors of great brilliancy are frequently seen flying through the air and illuminating the heavens. Storms of great violence at sea and destructive floods on the land are of common occurrence, and recently Mother Earth has shaken from centre to circumference. Some of the more superstitious think that these digressions of nature are the forerunners of a terrible catastrophe, but those who have given the phenomena systematic attention tell us to possess our souls in patience, as a more agreeable state of affairs will soon be inaugurated.—Ex.

——The following verdict was rendered in Calhoon county, Ill., of Kurner's Verdict. We, the jurys, find the deceased dead man kum to his death in the hand of sum unbeknown parson, with an unlawfull iron weeping—named ax with a hickory handle; which unlawful weeping was used with deadly intent to kill the aforesaid Ded Man, P. S We, the aforesed and undercigned jurys, hopefully beleeve that the Ded Man was Beheaded by the said ax.
