

The Democratic Watchman.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

AUNT KEZIAH'S SKATING ON NEW YEAR'S DAY.

It seems to me that Beauville never was half so dead as 'tis now; every body is still in their shells, like a turtle in a frozen mud puddle, if not more so—and I am about as dead as any of 'em. But I am going to tell you what happened New Year's day. I had quite a string of adventures.

The Beauville folks knowing how awful kind dull 'tis here, concluded to get up a New Year's skating party. The mill pond was friz up just right for it, they sed; and it would be fine amusement.

"Lawful heart, Deacon!" sez I, "why I couldn't skate no more'n than I could fly I've had the rheumatiz a good deal, and it's kinder effected my jints. I couldn't keep my equilibrium on the ice a minit."

"I'll support you!" sez the deacon, flourishing his cane—(he went with two canes afore his wife died, but since he's got to be a widower, he's throwed one of 'em away)—"I'll see to you, Keziah. Skating's all in practis. You'd make a grand hand at it, I know—a fine figure like you'n shows to advantage on the ice."

"I'm obliged to ye," sez I; "I dun no as I shall undertake to skate any myself, but I guess I'll go down to the pond, and see the rest of 'em perform. I'm powerful fond of seeing folks enjoy themselves."

"That's right, Keziah," sez the deacon. "I'll come up for you by eleven o'clock, sartn; and mind you, dress up warm," sez he, and with an affectionate squeeze of the hand, he departed.

Sarah Ann didn't want me to go near the pond, but I told her that so long as anybody was alive, they'd bet ter let folks know it! I don't hold to this dead and alive kinds of works! I'm one of the go ahead kind.

I dressed myself in my green cashmere gown, and a red shawl over my shoulders. I took my umbrill, for I didn't know what might happen, and it's allus best to be prepared for imifigencies.

The deacon arrived at just the appointed hour, and give me his arm to escort me down the hill to the pond. He held his cane in his left hand, I had my umbrill in my right hand, and the arms that were at liberty were hitched together. I shouldn't have allowed him, if it hadn't been so tremendous slippery.

The pond was lively enough, I tell you. All Beauville was there, hopping and streaking it—the merris! it was ead to make your head dizzy to see how they flew round on the ice.

Elder Tapley and his dignified wife was there—he with his skates on, and both of 'em sailing along as slow as a snail in the world revolved round on its axis, and in a thousand years, the axel stuck up, proud feeling folks, the Tapleys!

I stood and watched the skaters a spell, and I felt just as if I must have a finger in the pie. It wasn't no service to stand there doing nothing.

"Deacon," sez I, "I don't believe but I could skate as well as the fastest of 'em. I'm a good mind to try it."

"Oh, do," sez he, "I'll be delighted to assist you. I've got my skates, and them of my son, Daniel, in my pocket, and with that he produced 'em. I sot down on the snow and he strapped Daniel's onto my feet, and then on with his own.

Then he took hold of my hand, and we stepped out onto the ice. Gracious marcey, how I felt. I seemed just as if I was standing on the top of two sharp sticks, about fifteen feet high—and my head went around like the rim of a spinning wheel. Just as soon as I attempted to move, my left foot flew rite round tother one, and if it hadn't been for my umbrill, that I stuck into a hole in the ice, I should have upset on the spot.

"Carriage," sez the deacon; "hold on to me; I'm sure footed as a cantelope; and by gracious, I should think he was, for there come a little gust of wind, and took effect in my dress. I grabbed tighter onto the deacon—he stuck his cane into the ice, and gave a little whirl round, and the next thing I knowed, I was sailing off on my own hook and the deacon was down—with his head in a fish hole, and his heels and cane in the air. Somebody flew to the rescue, and I tried to turn about to see if he was hurt, but lawful goodness, I couldn't turn no more'n you could make a world. I'd got under way, with a fair wind in my sails, and dead ahead I had to go.

The boys on the shore gave three cheers, and I flourished my umbrill in response, and run ahead.

I went over the fall at a sweeping rate, the ice was a leetle kind of down grade. I never went so fast before in all my life! Them skates acted just like the runners of a sleigh—all I had to do was to keep my balance. I beat the comick, and log-rofoco engine all hollow.

Folks turned right out to one side, when they were gwine to meet me; I guess they sed that I didn't turn out for nobody. Byemby, I seed Elder Tapley and his wife a coming along at his slow coach pace, and instinctively I knowed that there'd be a collision!

"Clear the track!" yelled I, at the tip top of my lungs, but the elder only lifted his eyebrows, and kept rite on.

"Take the consequences, then!" sez I, and squatting a leetle, I put my umbrill before me, and charged! The elder's understandings flew out like two candles, down he come, down come his wife, on want I! I warn't to be stopped by small obstacles.

My umbrill cracked a leetle in the fray, but it wasn't hurt, and neither was I, if I except the fact that my cap and wig had long before blew off, and departed for lands unknown.

I went so fast that a very few minutes more, I seed, would bring me to open water. I should be drowned, sartn, shure, for I could not stop myself, if it had been to save the universe. I grabbed a bush, but the bush broke off, and away I went again.

I made a little prayer, and determining if I went down, to go with flying colors, I histed my umbrill, and in I went!

(Gehosaphat! how cold the water was! It nigh about friz me to the bone—but in a minit or two, I found out that I wasn't drowned, but safe and sound, for the umbrill highed me up just like a life preserver. I floated down stream as tranquilly as a swan.

As soon as I got where I could touch the bottom I waded ashore, and then come to look ro'nd, I was about a quarter of a mile from Cousin John Badger's. I made tracks for thar as fast as possible, and liked to have skered Cousin John's wife into high-drostatics. But after she found out who I was, she gave me some dry clothes and some dinner, and then Cousin John took me into his sleigh and carried me home.

I found Sarah Ann crying as if her heart would break, and when she see me, she skreeched out and jump'd rite into my face and eyes. The folks had been up from the pond, she sed, and told her I was drowned. They were a searching the river for my body now, she sed. I put on my rubbers, and went down to assist 'em.

The river was lined with a leetle million of folks, all of 'em talking at once, and everybody was ordering everybody else. Some of 'em was pourin' bilin' water onto the ice out of tea-kittles; and some with steel yards, and some with grabbers, was a fishing in the river after Keziah Small.

But what amazed me most was to see Deacon Baxter! Not two hours before, he had told me that if I should be took away from the world he should die of a broken heart; and now I seed him, with my own eyes, huggin' the widder Jones, and poking the ice with his cane to see if my dead body was anywhere around. Oh, the infidelity of mankind!

I was so disgusted with his behavior that I gave him a poke with my umbrill, and in he went; soose; rite into the river.

The folks set up a tremendous horray at sights of me; and nine or ten of the fellers actually hauled me home on a hand sled, and insisted on my spreading my umbrill to keep the wind off.

I hain't seed the deacon sence, but he's in the land of the livin' I guess; and a constant visitor to the widder Jones. Wall, I'm willin'.

Only a Shadow.

A story is told of a well known gentleman who sometimes imbibes too freely, going home late at night recently, and mistaking his shadow outlined on his front door for a man. He paused a little in surprise, and then lifting his hat, very gracefully bade him good evening.

The shadow imitated his politeness by raising its hat, but of course said nothing.

"A very pleasant evening," said the gentleman.

"No reply."

"This is my house, I believe," waving his hand.

The hand of the shadow went through the same graceful curve.

"I should like to get in, sir, if you'll stand aside," but the shadow made no movement to let him pass.

The gentleman was evidently much surprised. He repeat'd his desire to pass in, but shadow remained still.

His wife, hearing her husband's voice, look through the blind, and seeing no one but himself, asked why he didn't come in.

"So I would, my dear, but this gentleman," pointing to the shadow, "is sitting upon blocking up the door."

His wife quickly opened the door, remarking, "That was your shadow."

"Indeed," said the puzzled citizen; "well now, I thought he was a mighty fine looking fellow to be so impolite," and went in.

Whenever he shows a disposition now to remain out late at night, his wife has only to remind him of the shadow on the door-step to insure a speedy return.

Save Your Money.

One great cause of the poverty of the present day is, the failure of the people to appreciate small things—they say that if they cannot save large sums, they will not save anything. They do not realize how a daily addition, be it ever so small, will soon make a large pile; if the young men and the young women of to-day will only begin, and begin now, to save a little from their earnings, they will wear a happy smile of competence and independence when they reach middle life. Not only the pile itself will increase, but the desire and ability to increase it will soon grow. Let parents teach their children to begin early to save. Begin at the fountain head to control the stream of extravagance, and then the work will be easy to choose between poverty and richness. Let our youth go in the habits of extravagance for fifteen years to come, as they have for fifty years past, and we shall be a nation of beggars with a moneyed aristocracy. Let a generation of such as save in small sums be reared and we shall be free from want. Do not be ambitious for extravagant fortunes, but seek that which it is the duty of every man to obtain— independence and a comfortable home. Wealth which is within the reach of all. It is obtainable by one process, and one only— saving.

The New Bayonet Act.

The new bill, which has now passed both houses of Congress, called the enforcement act, and which is designed to exceed in effectiveness as a piece of election machinery of the last session, will, it is presumed, become law by the favor of the President. We have hitherto given a pretty full and accurate exhibit of its astonishing provisions, under which penalties of fine and imprisonment are imposed regarding the registration of voters, which is virtually to be taken possession of by the federal officers, and also the conduct of the citizens—the operation of the act to be no longer limited to cities and towns of 20,000 inhabitants, if two citizens ask for its application in places of lesser note. For any supposed interference of non-submission of State to federal officers in these matters, parties are subject to be arrested without warrant by the United States marshal or his deputies, and provision is made for the transfer of any suit brought by an aggrieved citizen against a federal officer, from a State court to a United States circuit court, and to render the judgment of a State court in such a case null and void.

If this is not degrading and debasing the States wantonly and malignantly, it is difficult to conceive what it is. The act of the last session, if we mistake not, reacted injuriously upon the dominant political party in the country which passed it, ostensibly for the purpose of securing the purity of elections, at that time—New York city especially, it is said—but now it seems corruption is everywhere. It has grown so rapidly that the law must be so framed as to be brought to bear at will in all quarters and be made more stringent and unparing than before. It is difficult to believe that it will not, instead of promoting the party ends of those who passed it, bring indignant rebuke towards them from the people. In this State the Republicans reaped only evil and loss from the law as it stood at the last election, and it can do them no good, it is believed, within the borders of Maryland.—Baltimore Star.

"Old Dr. C." was known as a skillful physician, blunt and downright, but not addicted to church-going. Mr. S, the sick trader sent for him. The pulse was examined, the pills dealt out and the directions given. But as the doctor was taking up his saddle-bags, Mr. S. turned to him with a very pious look.

"I have a solemn request to make of you, Dr. C."

"What of me? a solemn request of me?"

"Yes, sir; it concerns my salvation, and I hope you won't refuse it."

"Why, bless you, Mr. S., that don't come in my line. Send for a minister."

"But hear me. I feel that I am a very sick man, and if at any time you see that I am going to die, I want you should let me know it at least three days beforehand."

"But what in the world do you want to know that for?"

"Oh, I don't know that I am prepared to die, and I shall want two or three days to prepare."

"Oh, well, make your preparations, make your preparations, Mr. S., and if you don't die, it will not be lost to your customers."

A BRIDAL GIFT. A gentleman, not long since, gave his daughter, on her marriage, the following "words of wisdom," which will do for every pair.

Never talk but to each other.

Never speak loudly or boisterously to each other.

Never reprove each other in the presence of others.

Never find fault or fret about what cannot be helped.

Never repeat an order or request when understood.

Neglect every body else rather than each other.

Never make a remark at each others' expense.

The Princess Louise is indignant at the row kicked up over her marriage with Lorne, and says she will marry him when and where she pleases.

A baby-show at Cedar Rapids had twenty competitors. The mothers decided by a vote which baby was the nicest, and each baby had a vote. That party speedily broke up.

Helmbold's Column.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S Compound Fluid EXTRACT CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS.

Component Parts.—And Extract Root-bark and Fluid Extract of Canada Poplar Juice, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Bilious Affections, Sick Headaches, Headaches, Constipation, etc.—Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals or deleterious drugs.

These Pills are the most delicately pleasant purgative, superseding castor oil, salts, magnesia, etc. There is nothing more acceptable to the stomach. They give tone, and cause neither nausea nor griping pains. They are composed of the finest ingredients. After a few days' use of them, such an invigoration of the entire system takes place as to appear ridiculous to the weak and overrated, whether arising from impudience or disease. Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Pills are not sugar coated, from the fact that sugar coated Pills do not dissolve, but pass through the system without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desired effect. THE CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, being pleasant in taste and odor, do not necessitate their being sugar-coated. Price fifty cents per box.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA.

Being prepared expressly for the above complaints, Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract is more powerful than any other preparation of sarsaparilla. It gives the complexion a clear and healthy color and restores the patient to a state of health and purity. For all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the blood, and the only reliable and effectual remedy for the cure of psoriasis, eczema, eruptions of the face, eruptions of the throat and legs, blotches, pimples on the face, erysipelas and all scaly eruptions of the skin, and beautifying the complexion. Price $1.50 per bottle.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S CONCENTRATED FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU, THE GREAT DIURETIC.

has cured every case of diabetes in which it has been given irritation of the neck of the bladder and inflammation of the kidneys, ulceration of the kidneys, and bladder retention of urine, diseases of the prostate gland, stone in the bladder, chronic gonorrhoea, first deposit and mucous or milky discharge, and for enlarged and diseased constitutions of both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Inability to exertion, loss of energy, loss of memory, difficulty of breathing, weak nerves, trembling, horror of disease, wakefulness, dimness of vision, pain in the back, and a burning of the body during the day, eruption on the face, painful countenance, universal lassitude of the muscular system, etc.

Used by persons from the age of eighteen to seventy, and from that time to the last confinement or labor pains, and vetting in children.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu is diuretic and blood purifying, cures all diseases arising from habits of dissipation, and excesses and impurities in life, impurities of the blood, etc., superseding copious in affections for which it is used, an expensive and often dangerous medicine, used in connection with Helmbold's rose wash.

In many affections peculiar to ladies, the Extract Buchu is especially by any other means, as in catarrhs of the uterus, irregularity, painfulness or suppression of customary evacuations, ulcerated or watery state of the uterus, leucorrhoea, or uterine sterility, and for all diseases incident to the female system arising from indigestion or habits of dissipation. It is prescribed extensively by the most eminent physicians and midwives for catarrhs of the uterus, and for all diseases of both sexes and all ages attended with any of the above diseases or symptoms.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU FOR ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM IMPURITIES OF THE BLOOD, DISSIPATION, ETC.

In all their stages little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience, and no exposure. It causes a frequent desire, and gives a healthy color to the face, thereby removing all obstructions. Preventing and curing Stricture of the Uterus, Alleviating Pain and Inflammation so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling all poisonous matter.

Thousands who have been the victims of incompetent persons, and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found relief by the use of the "powerful astrin-gent," has been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage.

Use Helmbold's Extract Buchu for all affections and diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in male or female from the least to the most advanced stage, and of how long standing. Price one dollar and fifty cents per bottle.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH cannot be surpassed as a face wash, and will be found the only specific remedy in every species of cutaneous affection. It speedily eradicates pimples, spots, scorbatic dryness, indurations of the cutaneous membrane, etc., despoils redness and incipient inflammation, gives a soft, moist, healthy, and glowing complexion, and is all purposes for which salves or ointments are used, restores the skin to a state of purity and softness, and increases the elasticity of the most sensitive of its vessels, on which depends the agreeable clearness and vivacity of complexion so much sought and admired. But however valuable as a remedy for existing defects of the skin, if Helmbold's Rose Wash has long sustained its principal claim to unbounded patronage, by possessing qualities which render it a most valuable and most reliable preventive and congenial character, combining in an elegant formula those prominent requisites, safety and efficacy—the invariable accompaniments of its use—as a preservative and restorer of the complexion. It is an excellent lotion for diseases of a Syphilitic Nature, and as an injection for diseases of the Urinary Organs, arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu, Sarsaparilla, and Catawba Grape Pills. In such diseases as recommended cannot be surpassed. Price one dollar per bottle.

Full and explicit directions accompany the medicine.

Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character, furnished on application, with hundreds of thousands of living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 uncollected certificates and recommendatory letters, many of which are from the highest sources, including eminent Physicians, Clergymen, Scientists, etc. The proprietor has never resorted to the sale of publications in the newspapers, he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propounded by certifying newspapers.
