

The Democratic Watchman.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Reminiscence of Gen. Scott.

One evening, after our rubber, I said to the General, 'There is one question I have often wished to ask you, but have been restrained by the fear that it might be improper.'

'The 4th day of July, 1814, was one of extreme heat. On that day my brigade skirmished with a British force commanded by Gen. Riall, from an early hour in the morning till late in the afternoon.'

'These reflections passed rapidly through the mind of a well known New Orleans magistrate riding up town recently. By his side sat a lady, who from a single glance of her countenance he imagined that he knew.'

'A SINGULAR DEED.—That infraction of the code did not necessarily involve social ostracism is evident from the fact that De Witt Clinton left the field with impunity, while Swartwout, his opponent, was protesting he was not satisfied.'

'It is related of an estimable and very pious lady, whose exertions in every work of charity and benevolence have endeared her to our community, that on her way to Sabbath school one bright sunny Sunday morning, she saw several boys, one of whom was a new boy, seated in a door way playing cards.'

'Andrew Jackson, of St. Louis, applied to a justice the other day for the arrest of Brownlow Johnson. He said he 'dove went on therruff of Johnson's house ju to frow some bricks down de chimney to scare a young cullud gal dat step in de house, and Johnson done look de scuttle and made him stay up dar till eight o'clock nex morning.'

'In the Legislature of South Carolina there are fifty negroes and thirteen white members. Of the fifty negroes, only thirty two can read and write, and nineteen only pay taxes, the sum total of their contributions to the support of the government being $146 10.'

That unexpected meeting would have occasioned embarrassment in either contingency; and it is so difficult to believe a lady of cultivation and refinement capable of such an act, that I am now, half a century after the event, disposed to give my hostess the benefit of that doubt.

'And now, sir,' added the General, 'this is the third time in my life I have told this story. I do not remember to have been spoken to before on the subject for many years.'

'Well, General,' I replied, 'I have kept the secret faithfully more than forty years, always hoping to obtain your own version of what struck me as a most remarkable incident in your military life.'

Behind the Veil.

It is not always the practice of pretty ladies to wear a veil. Not even coquetry will dispense with the pleasure of showing a lovely countenance, and the most modest and retiring beauty likes to be admired for the regularity and debauch of her features.

'Yes,' murmured the female. 'Why do you wear a veil?' inquired the dispenser of justice.

'Not when they are married.' 'But I'm not.'

'The lady quietly removed her veil, disclosing to the astonished magistrate the face of his mother in law. He had business elsewhere suddenly.'

'Is your principal satisfied?' asked Riker, Clinton's second.

'He is not,' replied Smith after consulting Swartwout.

'The fourth shot was then exchanged, Clinton's ball entering the calf of Swartwout's leg.'

'Is your principal satisfied now?' demanded Riker.

'He is not,' replied Smith, and again Clinton's ball entered Swartwout's leg.

'After a moment's consultation with Swartwout, who, standing while the surgeon extracted the bullets from his leg, manifested great fortitude, Smith replied that he was not.'

'Then he may go to—, for I will fight no more!' replied Clinton, and immediately left the field.

'Why don't you come, my boy?' said the lady 'It is very wrong of you to refuse.'

'But I don't want to go.' 'Why, what is the reason?'

'The impudence of the little fellow waxed desperate, and in an indignant voice he exclaimed, his hand full of cards.'

'Would you go to Sunday school with a handful of trumps like that?'

'GETTING A CHECK.—There is a checkman at the Little Miami Railroad Depot who won't admit but that they can check baggage at any point desired.'

'What Rome?' said the checkfit.

'Rome, Italy,' was the reply, accompanied with a wink to the by-standers.

'According to the strict rules of the company the check-ered man had him there.'

'A LARON (CONTRACT).—A pretty good story is told of himself (say the Boston Traveler) by a season ticket holder on the Boston and Maine Railroad—a wide-awake, jolly, generous, joke-loving gentleman. Democratic in his politics and liberal in his religion.'

'Father—, you are doing a pretty good work just now—I don't know but you are doing as much good as all the other clergymen in town.'

'The priest quietly replied that he was doing what he could to improve his people. 'I'll tell you what it is,' continued the gentleman, 'I've been thinking about attending your church, but was afraid it would cost too much to get my sins pardoned.'

'THE GRANT-SUMNER FIGHT.—Wm. M. Everts, Attorney General under President Johnson, and now one of the leading Republicans in New York, was interviewed by a reporter of the World in regard to the Sumner Grant imbroglio.'

'Reporter—'Do you consider this action of the Executive highly injurious to the prospects of the Republican party?'

'Mr. Everts—'I have but one word to say on that subject. The party that can present nothing noticeable to the public except its quarrels can not long expect to maintain the confidence of the people.'

'Reporter—'What is the feeling among the leading Republicans?'

'Mr. Everts—'It is one of decided regret that the man in public life, to whom in a great degree the political fortunes of the party are committed, can not better control himself and consider those interests.'

'A lawyer came into court drunk, when the Judge said to him, 'Sir I am sorry to see you in a condition which is a disgrace to yourself and family, the court and the profession to which you belong, by your conduct.'

'May I—I please your honor, I have been an attorney in—in—in this court for fifteen years, and permit me to say, that this is the first court opinion I ever knew you to give.'

'WITTY.—We met with this witty and unanswerable retort in a sketch of a short trip through a portion of Ireland. The writer is conversing with his car driver.'

'You are Catholic, Jimmy?'

'Yes, yer honor.'

'And pray to the Virgin Mary?'

'I do, yer honor.'

'Well, there's no doubt that she was a good woman. The Bible says so. But she may have been no better than your mother or mine.'

'True, your honor. But you'll allow there is a mighty difference in her child-dren.'

'GIVING THE PRECISE WORDS.—The Albany Law Journal tells this story. A witness was examined before a judge in a case, who required him to repeat the precise words spoken. The witness hesitated until he riveted the attention of the entire court upon him, then, fixing his eyes earnestly upon the judge, began:

'May it please your honor, you lie and steal, and get your living by stealing.'

'The face of the judge reddened, and he immediately said: 'Turn to the jury, sir.'

'I've been a thinking,' said Lat the Froggy, 'about this here woman and frage business. 'Spousing,' he said, 'that—a now—Olive Logan, for instance, should be made President of this great and glorious country, be quenda to us by noble sires, and all that, she 'd be President o' us, wouldn't she?'

'Well, I've heard said that there are cases in which a man may lie, but if I were dead, I'd own it.'

'An old man is easier robbed than a young one, for his looks are few, and his gait is generally broke.'
