THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY.

Potatoes are worth $1.20 and $1.25 cents in this place now.

Albert Owen, Esq., has begun the erection of a block of brick buildings in Philipsburg.

A forgerman in Linn & McCoy's works, near Milesburg, broke the thumb of his right hand on Thursday last.

There will be but little building done in this town this summer, if we may judge from present appearances.

The Republican this week was somewhat more interesting than usual. Reason—the editor was absent in Harrisburg.

Rev. Alfred Yeomans, formerly shepherd of the Presbyterian lambs in this place, was in town on Monday and Tuesday last.

The season of "The Forty Hours Devotion" begins at St. John's Catholic church on Sunday morning, and continues until Tuesday evening.

We see that the loose hair style is beginning to be adapted by our ladies. What is to become of the chignons, if this style prevails?

Mr. Daniel Irvin, while in town on Saturday last, lost or had stolen from him two promissory notes—one for $34, and the other for $50. See advertisement.

A family horse, belonging to Mr. Harvey Mann, one that he has had and his father before him for several years, died suddenly in this place, on Tuesday, of colic.

For first class cabbage and tomato plants, go to Mr. C. W. Lambert. He is an experienced and careful gardener, and keeps nothing but the best in his nursery.

Mr. Alf Wolf, printer, formerly of this place, but now of Kansas, is in town this week. Alf looks good, and has abandoned printing for farming and store-keeping.

Our friend, Deschner, who shot the loon a few weeks since, has had the skin of the bird stuffed, and now displays it in his shop window as large as life and twice as natural.

The Governor has vetoed the Law Library bill, which the people of this county were so anxious to have become a law. The legislature will, however, probably pass it over his veto.

The Lutheran congregation of Rebersburg have secured a pastor, in the person of Rev. Seifert, of York county. This charge has been without a regular pastor for about two years.

A new and handsome sidewalk is to be put down in front of Irwin & Wilson's elegant new brick building. Those gentlemen are determined to have everything about them first-class. Would that it were so everywhere.

Dr. Rothrock, the accomplished dentist, has removed his office to his residence on Chesapeake, where he is now overwhelmed with work. The doctor is one of the most skillful in his profession, and his work is much admired and sought after.

James P. Coburn, Esq., one of the most gentlemanly, genial and talented Republican politicians in the country, was in town on show day. The only thing that is wrong with our courteous friend, is his political association. Come out from among them, James.

We have had a blacking seller and a rat-poison seller in town last week. Both of these chaps pretended to give away money with their wares, and we believe a number of guinea-gots got bitten. All right, gentlemen—"you pays your money and you takes your choice."

The Centre County Bank has been removed to its handsome new quarters in the room formerly occupied by Wilson's drug store, in Brookerhoff row. The room has been beautifully fitted up, and is as handsome and comfortable as good taste and plenty of money could make it.

We call attention to an "Orphan's Court Sale" of the real estate of the late David Bechdel, deceased, of Liberty township. This farm is said to be one of the finest in the Bald Eagle Valley, and consists of 103 acres, with excellent fruit upon it. Any person wishing to buy a farm may find this a suitable location. Read the advertisement.

Who is the wickedest man in Bellefonte? Evidently, the street meetings of Wednesday and Thursday evenings of last week, inasmuch as they were held in front of the taverns and saloons, were aimed directly at that individual, whoever he may be. Brother Wylie, of the Presbyterian church, is certainly after somebody with a sharp stick, and, whenever the right man gets punctured, we will doubtless hear him yell. Fire away, Parson—right into the flock. It will be funny if somebody doesn't get hit.

FOREPAUGH'S Menagerie and Circus, which exhibited here on Saturday last, was visited by an immense crowd of people, both afternoon and evening, and the receipts must have been enormous. It was a tolerable good show, though not so superior as we were led to expect from what we had heard of it and from the advertisements. There were some animals missing that were advertised, and the ring performances were about the same that we have seen time and again, with, perhaps, one or two exceptions. The riding was good, as was also the trapeze act. The clowns perpetrated hundred-year old jokes, not seeming to have a particle of originality about them. Of course, they fell flat upon the audience, most of whom had heard them repeated over and over. A few persons who had never been to a circus before, we presume, thought them good, and so they were—a long time ago.

One of the most remarkable exhibitions of the day was the manner in which Lusbie, the treasurer of the concern, handled money and dealt out the tickets. He is certainly the greatest expert in making change that we have ever seen, and his dexterity was frequently and widely remarked. No sooner was the money in his hand than the change and the tickets were in yours, and he never once made a mistake. To such hesitating mathematics as ours, the rapidity with which he made change was almost inconceivable, and crowds of people often stood still and watched him wondering and admiringly. "Great is Lusbie," said they, and we endorsed every word of it.

As usual, the various churches in town sent heavy delegations, all of whom only intended to go to the menagerie to see the wonderful works of the Creator of the Universe; but, by some subtle influence which they themselves could not explain, they found each and every man and woman of them forced, as if by magic, inside the circus tent, where they helped to swell the tremendous crowd of interested sinners who were so intently watching the scenes in the arena. Methodists, Presbyterians, Catholics, Episcopalians, Reformed, Lutherans, United Brethren and African, all mingled together in one delightful muddle, oblivious, for the time being, of everything but the antics of the clowns, the dexterity of the tumblers and the jumping and dancing of the riders. It was a sight to make one think, and we frequently smiled up our sleeve at the thought of the thin excuses which some of them would invent to account for their presence at a place which they have always denounced as one of the devil's chosen habitations. But they all stuck it out, and we don't believe it hurt them a bit.

The press agent of this company, Mr. Fred Lawrence, is one of the most gentlemanly men we have met in a long time, and a business man in every particular. His retention as press agent is the best selection Mr. Forepaugh could have made.

Street preaching has become a mania in Bellefonte. Reverend brothers, including Kockler, entertain promiscuous crowds upon the street corners, every now and then. Some people don't like the idea, as they say, there being so many churches in town; there is no necessity for it; and then, it is so public that it is unsuited to the tastes of our aristocracy. We have attended two or three of these meetings, and we confess we rather like them—they are so free and easy like. The young men of the town and others can squirt their tobacco juice all around in such a careless kind of a way, or regale themselves by smoking their toby cigars and worship God at the same time. And then, if they get tired in one position, it is so easy to walk around to the next hitching post and take a lean upon that, without making any disturbance. Indeed, we noticed some of them so interested in smoking their cigars, that a dog fight across the corner failed to excite their placid minds, and everything went on as though a cur-squabble at church was not an unusual thing. We understand that a union of all denominations of christians is intended to be effected through these meetings. If they will have this result, we hope they may succeed, as one minister can then preach for us all. It will lighten church expenses very much, as it will be easier to pay one than half a dozen preachers. Then it will save gas. At night meetings one torch or two, at most, will suffice, instead of a hundred or so of gas burners. But it will be hard on store-boxes, for our young men are so used to habits of industry that they can't be idle, and between hymns, if they haven't any cigars to smoke, they will whittle.

Religious services were held in the open-air on Burnside's corner, prior to church time, on Sunday evening last, Rev. Mr. Wiley, of the Presbyterian minister, conducting the exercises. Service will be held at the same place, at the same hour, next Sunday evening, Rev. Mr. Mullen officiating. It is proposed to hold these meetings regularly every Sunday evening, the weather permitting.

MARRIED.—At the Bush House, on Thursday morning, at about half after nine o'clock, by Rev. Robert Hamill, Captain Isaac Lytle and Miss Fannie McAlpin, of this place.

The gallant Captain met his fate like a man. Not a nerve trembled, and although there was some anxiety in his face, everybody could see that he was composed and resigned. From the time he entered the room, with his "fate" hanging lovingly upon his arm, until that last awful moment which separated him forever from the ranks of bachelorhood, he bore himself with unflinching firmness. Never did hero, before the gaping mouths of thundering cannon, conduct himself more gallantly than did the Captain on this trying occasion, the most momentous of his life. From our corner in the room, which was radiant with the beauty and gallantry of the town, we watched him with much anxiety, fearful that at the last moment his firmness might give way; but he bore it all with a calmness that might have done credit to a martyr, and our feelings were spared the terrible laceration they might have undergone had our friend been less composed and determined.

As for the bride, who has promised to take care and make a good boy of the Captain all the days of his natural life, if God spare her for this purpose—she looked beautiful, handsome, bewitching, of course. She was tastefully but not gaudily attired, and bore herself modestly and gracefully. After the "man of God" had pronounced them man and wife, their numerous friends crowded about them with congratulations and good wishes, until they left the room to take the cars for Niagara. Here we leave them. May God, in his goodness, grant them a happy life, and may no cloud come between them to overshadow the joy and bliss of the present hour. May they always be "Two souls with but a single thought, Two hearts that beat as one."

The Philipsburg Journal says: "The coal trade has never been so brisk as at the present time. The miners, except the Morrisdale where they have a strike, are running to their full capacity and find it difficult to keep pace with the demand. L. W. Munson & Co. have put twenty-five additional men into their drift this week, and are still unable to fill their orders." The same paper also says: "It would be but a natural inference from an item in our last issue, that the miners at the Morrisdale Collieries insisted upon the employment of an additional man at the scales to watch their interests, at the expense of the company. This we are informed was not the case—the miners were willing to pay him themselves in consequence of the refusal of the company to permit a 'check boss' to be put upon the dump, the miners have struck, and they also demand as a basis upon which they will return to work an advance of five cents per ton for taking up bottom and three dollars for 'turning' or opening a 'room.' The company has not acceded to the demand for a reinstatement of the check boss or for the rise in wages, but have warned out of their houses all the strikers who resides at the mines and seem determined in refusing compliance."

There is a movement on foot to interest our citizens in the proper observance of Decoration day—the 30th instant. It is proposed to have a parade of the Logan Fire Company and to invite the Sellers Zouaves and other military organizations to participate. The public schools will lead in the movement, and furnish the programme for the civil portion of the exercises. The custom of decorating the graves of our dead soldiers with flowers, once a year, has obtained both in the North and South, ever since the close of the war, and is certainly a very beautiful and appropriate way of perpetuating their memories. It is also proposed to have an "oration by some gentleman, with other ceremonies, the precise nature of which is yet to be determined. We hope to see the day generally observed.

S. S. CONVENTION.—The third annual convention of the Centre County Sabbath School Association has been called to meet in the Court House in Bellefonte, on Tuesday the 6th day of June next, to continue three days. We are told that it is expected to be the largest as well as the most interesting meeting of the kind ever held in this county. The interests in Sabbath school work all over the county is very much on the increase. Many earnest christian men and women are inquiring, How can we make our schools more efficient and interesting? This convention will afford an answer to that question.

The "dummy" train was taken off last Saturday night, and the regular trains are now running to this place again. Once more we get a sight of the pleasant faces of those gentlemanly and efficient conductors, "Major" Haupt and "Colonel" Stevens. "Captain" Meadville has been assigned other duties, and has left this place. The "Captain" was a "nice young man," and we presume a number of our young ladies are quite sorry over his departure.

Burnside & Thomas have the largest, best and cheapest stock of Boots and Shoes, at the lowest prices.

OBITUARY.—We copy the following from the Venango Spectator. Mr. Shugert has a number of relatives living in this county, and was highly esteemed by those who were personally acquainted with him.

He resided in Washington, D. C., Saturday night, April 23d, 1871, John W. Shugert, Esq., aged 67 years. The announcement of Mr. Shugert's death will regretfully be remembered by all who know whose memory can compass a third of a century, the varied events of that portion of our history in which he bore a part. He was born near Muncy, Centre county, Pa., February 14, 1804. He became joint editor of the Democratic Arch, which he conducted with the vim and spirit which characterized the hot and lively politics of those days. His style of writing was incisive, clear and pointed, and he treated any subject without fear. After having held the office of principal, he was elected Commissioner in the Mexican war, with the rank of Captain, under Col. Roberts, who afterwards fell and was succeeded by Colonel (now) General Buchanan. Returning from Mexico, he was twice elected to the State Legislature, serving in 1850 and 1851. About this time in company with R. L. Cochran, Esq., he became joint editor of the Spectator. He was frequently a delegate to State and district conventions.

In 1852 he was engaged in the construction of that part of the Pennsylvania canal which the inclined planes were avoided. In 1853 he removed to Washington, where he has since resided. He was appointed Assistant Examiner in the Patent Office under Buchanan's administration, was displaced during Lincoln's first term, but was soon after restored to government service in the Ordnance Department, and continued therein until his death.

Mr. Shugert leaves a second wife and a family of three daughters, all well settled in life. His funeral was attended by a large concourse of personal friends in all walks of life. His illness lasted about ten days. For six years past he had been a member of Wesleyan M. E. Chapel congregation. He was a devoted and faithful member, and his resignation must have sprung from the expectation of immortal life and the full assurance of eternal peace.

SCIENTIFIC.—We have been credibly informed that the long perplexing and hitherto unsolved problem of what is the cause and what the ultimate effect of the curl of a pure, full-blooded, Chester-white pig's tail, is about to be satisfactorily solved. The Chairman of the Centre County Agricultural Society and his right bower have undertaken the difficult task. For sometime past they have made this intricate subject their exclusive study, and all who are acquainted with the indomitable energy of the two gentlemen and the deep interest they both take in every scientific research that tends toward the promotion of the science of Agriculture and the improved methods of stock-breeding, confidentially look forward to some immediate and important developments as to the cause and effect of the curl in a pig's tail. The Agricultural College and these gentlemen will do much toward the development of the hitherto undeveloped science of stock-raising and agriculture.

If you have any interest in buying good boots and shoes, we invite you to visit Burnside & Thomas.

We have been requested to publish the following list of the names of the officers and privates of the "Sellers Zouaves," of Buffalo run, who paraded in this place not long ago.

- Officers: Captain—Philip E. Sellers, First Lieutenant—G. W. Haisler, Second Lieutenant—John Q. Miles. Color Sergeant—John Whipp, Corporal—Benjamin F. Thompson, Cyrus W. Hunter, Samuel W. Hutton, Charles Bush, George Stevenson, Thaddeus C. Rumberger, Emery E. Hutton, Warren S. Hutton, John C. Carson, Company Clerk—J. Mac Thompson.

The headquarters of the Zouaves are at Mattenville, and they will parade at that place to-morrow (Saturday) the 20th instant.

LISTEN.—We say without fear of contradiction that no house in the county sells better goods or at lower prices, than Burnside & Thomas.

At the regular meeting of the Town Council, on Monday evening last, Messrs George A. Bayard, Edward Nolan and Lafayette Mulholland, elected in the fall, were sworn into office, taking the places of Messrs. Thomas, McClure and Hale, whose terms of service have expired. The following are the names of the officers and the committee men for the ensuing year:

- President—Robert Valentine, Secretary—James H. Rankin, Janitor—James Fanning, Committee on Finance—E. G. Humes, Chairman; Daniel Rhoads, J. B. Eitel, Street Crossings—Daniel Rhoads, Chairman; John B. Eitel, Lafayette Mulholland, Necessaries—George A. Bayard, Chairman; T. R. Reynolds, E. G. Humes, Water—T. R. Reynolds, Chairman; Geo. A. Bayard, John Todd, Allys—E. A. Nolan, Chairman; Lafayette Mulholland, John Todd, Cyrus Strickland was reappointed Superintendent of the Water Works and Michael Runkle, street commissioner.

The council meets on the first and third Mondays of each month. Just as a drunken man, who came "lumbering down the street—down the street," on Monday last, arrived opposite Mr. Bill Mills's barber shop, he pitched headlong off the pavement, and down the stairway, sprawling his whiskey-soaked carcass all over the door-sill. Strange to say, he wasn't hurt a particle. A sober man would have broken his neck. Which is, of course, an argument in favor of whisky. Temperance men, take notice.

We are informed that a few weeks ago the County Superintendent, R. M. Magee, purchased from Daniel Bolton of the "Spread Eagle Hotel" of Rebersburg, two hogs, which are of a peculiar breed. One singular feature about them is that, no matter whether they lie or stand, their tails always point in the direction of the North pole! They have what some people call the "Axer," though others call it something else. Their appetites are voracious; they eat whatever is given them and are constantly grunting for more. They are real hogs, and would no doubt bring a premium at our county fair. We recommend their exhibition next fall, and suggest that the farmers of Centre county procure this unexceptionable breed.

Saturday was the liveliest day Bellefonte has had for a long time. There was an immense crowd of people in town, but no rowdying or disorder of any consequence.

You will be sure of receiving the full value of your money paid for any article at Burnside & Thomas's.

MARRIED.—SHIPPER—RUCK—On the 3d instant, at the M. L. Paragonage, Milesburg, by Rev. J. W. Cleaver, Mr. W. Mills Shipper, of Pine Grove, to Miss Hetta Ann Ruck, of Bondsburg.

DIED.—GINGRICK—On May 10, 1871, of Typhoid Pneumonia, B. Franklin Gingrick, of Harris township, aged 21 years, 2 months and 10 days.

This young man was the very embodiment of life and health only a few weeks ago. He seemed to have a premonition of the approach of death. Just shortly before he took sick he remarked to a friend that he would not live long. But even sooner than he expected the dread monster came. Though death came suddenly it did not find him unprepared. In his last hour he gave full assurance that "our loss is his eternal gain." He leaves a wife and child to mourn his untimely loss.

A Just Judgment.

General W. W. H. Davis, the able editor of the Doylestown Democrat, was recently made the victim of a foul conspiracy on the part of some negroes, with a view of extorting money from him to a greater or less extent. A story was set afloat by these miscreants, affecting the private character of General Davis, and reputed proof of his departure from the path of propriety exhibited in the streets of Doylestown. But the conspirators mistook the character of the man singled out for attack. General Davis is too firmly lodged in the estimation of the public to be disturbed by the words and actions of a brace or more of disreputable negroes. His whole public and private life is spotless. There is not a stain upon his record. He stands before the community to challenge investigation in all respects. Thus fortified, General Davis at once proceeded to unravel the plot, and punish the offenders. With that industry, energy and determination, which he inherits from his father, he tracked the conspirators to their den, wound around the meshes of positive proof, dragged them to the bar of justice, triumphant vindicated his own character, and sent the negro slanderers and conspirators to the penitentiary, amid the plaudits of the whole community. No man was more fully and completely vindicated than General Davis. The tale was shown to be without even a shadow of excuse—a falsehood as baseless as wicked and malicious. But General Davis has come through the fire unscathed, and stands more strongly entrenched in the esteem, affection and confidence of the people of his native county, to-day, than at any period of his life.—Age.

A revolution is expected in San Domingo against the authority of President Diaz, he having lately shot a talented young man on a mere accusation, and against the advice of all the foreign consuls.

A terrible famine exists in Persia. Thousands of the inhabitants are dying.

The rainy season has begun at the Isthmus of Panama.
