

The Treaty of the High Commission has one peculiarity which is worthy of special notice. Although that extraordinary embassy was created to close up all outstanding differences between the two countries, no single question has been distinctly and definitely determined by it. Every claim, disputed right, or contested privilege has been referred to some arbitration or commission, in which the United States figure as one party, against four or two as the other.

As this mass of majesty, to whose tender care a Republican Administration has consigned American citizens, may create confusion in the popular mind, we have thought it desirable to abstract from the overpowering Treaty, a brief that will present to view at a glance all the matters and monarchs as they happen to appear on the scene.

Alabama Claims.—Five arbitrators, to be named as follows: One by the President of the United States; one by her Britannic Majesty; one by his Majesty the King of Italy; one by the President of the Swiss Confederation, and one by his Majesty the Emperor of Brazil. Two Presidents and three Majesties.

Board of Assessors to Determine Validity and Amount of Claims.—Three to be named as follows: One by the President of the United States, one by her Britannic Majesty, and one by the representative at Washington of his Majesty the King of Italy. One President and two Majesties.

Claims of British Subjects.—Three Commissioners to be named as follows: One by the President of the United States, one by her Britannic Majesty, and one by the representative at London of his Majesty the Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary. One President and two Majesties.

To Determine the Title of the American Island of San Juan.—His Majesty the Emperor of Germany. One Majesty.—Washington Patriot.

Libeling Public Men.

A contemporary critic of the discredit of the Harrisburg Telegraph, in fact that it lately published a libel upon Judge Black, the retraction stated that the offending article was inserted without the editor's knowledge and that he believes the charges without foundation in fact. This retraction is not to be taken as retracting or disavowing the charges against the editor, and if more would practice it would be the gainer thereby.

We agree perfectly with the Day. The practice of giving currency to false statements against public men, not only is disgraceful to journalists personally but completely destroys their power when they have truthful statements of public interest to make.

With many papers—and the Harrisburg Telegraph amongst them—no discrimination is made between men and rogues but are slandered alike, when they happen to be not of the editor's way of political thinking. To be denounced therefore in such papers has no terrors for political men, and the public pays no more attention to such denunciations than it does to the sayings of a common scold.

If newspapers desire to preserve their influence they must be truthful and reliable, and if led into error must have the manhood to correct themselves. All people honor the man who not only refuses to be the author of a lie but who also with equal firmness refuses to be used as an instrument to propagate untruth. All editors, like other people, are liable to mistakes, to be misinformed, to believe that which is untrue, but any one of them who feels a just pride in his profession, or that degree of honor which alone characterizes a proper man as distinguished from a blackguard, will correct any mistake or error he may fall into whenever the fact is made apparent to him.

The retraction of the Harrisburg Telegraph, noticed above, would have been far more honorable to the editor if it had been voluntarily made—no Heaven-born virtue, yet is better than usual for that paper.—Columbian.

WELLS' EXTRACT OF JURUBEDA, sent a special commission to that country to procure it in its native purity, and having found its wonderful curative properties to even exceed the anticipations formed by its great reputation, has concluded to offer it to the public, and is happy to state that he has perfected arrangements for a regular monthly supply of this wonderful Plant. It has spent much time experimenting and trying it out as the most efficient preparation from it for popular use, and has for some time used in his own practice with most happy results the effectual medicine now presented to the public.
