

The Democratic Watchman.

BELLEFONTE, PA. Friday Morning, June 23, 1871.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY.

A large stock of fire works for the 4th of July, at Burnside & Thomas's.

DON'T GO LATE, or you will miss a portion of Noble's lecture on "Our Poets," and disturb others who are seated in good time.

Two cows were run over, on Tuesday of last week, by the Bald Eagle Valley railroad train, near Thomas & Mason's mill, Lock Haven.

Wm. Holt, Esq., one of the truest and best Democrats in the county declines being a candidate for Associate Judge, as will be seen by his card in another column of to-day's WATCHMAN.

The M. E. Sunday School of this place, will hold its regular quarterly concert of reviews on next Sabbath afternoon at half past two o'clock. All patrons and friends of the school are invited to be present.

Nothing done yet to repair the Spring Creek bridge. When some one gets his neck broken and the borough is mulcted for four or five thousand dollars damage, our borough dads will perhaps see the importance of doing something.

REV. F. A. NOBLE will deliver the last lecture of Y. M. C. A. course, in Reynolds's Hall, on Thursday evening, the 29th instant. Subject, "Our Poets." The admirers of Bryant, Longfellow and Whittier may expect a rich entertainment.

The "Sellers Zouaves" of Buffalo Run, intend visiting Tyrone, Altoona and Holidaysburg, on the 4th of July. They will turn out in full uniform, and we feel confident that neither of the above towns can muster a company of better looking men.

A man from Snow-shoe, who was bit on the head with a stone in the hands of a fellow named Saylor, at the time of the last circus in this place, but whose name we have, unfortunately, not been able to learn, has since died, from the effects of the blow.

WENDELL PHILLIPS having failed to fulfill his appointment to lecture here, the committee have supplied his place by securing Rev. F. A. Noble, a distinguished writer and lecturer, to deliver the last lecture of the course "Our Poets" will be his theme.

A camp meeting organization, similar to the Wayne Station camp meeting, is now talked of in this place. Certainly no more beautiful place—no place that could furnish better accommodations, or is in more need of a camp meeting, could be found in the entire commonwealth.

The Bellefonte public schools will hold their annual picnic in the grove near the Snow-shoe Intersection, to-day, Friday. The train leaves at 7 1/2 a. m. The fair for the round trip is 15 cents. Parents of the school children are cordially invited and expected to attend.

A stoned affair, in which a couple of "singing doves" figured extensively, took place in the Brockerhoff House alley, on Wednesday. It appears that one got jealous of the other, and undertook to stone her out of town. The frightened one retreated down as far as Harper's store, after which she made tracks for home.

"Our Poets" is the theme of the lecture of the course gotten up by the Y. M. C. A. of Bellefonte. The papers of Pittsburg spoke in the highest terms of this lecture when delivered there last winter in that city. Mr. Noble is himself an occasional contributor to some of our leading periodicals, and is well fitted to speak of "Our American Poets." Let none fail to hear him.

Usually, Adolph and Simon Loeb are early about opening their store room, but the other morning they woke up late, and on reaching their place of business, found craps hung to the door knob, with the following inscription:

"Not dead but sleazh."

It is said that our friends now rise with the earliest dawn, and their open store door greets the sun as he makes his appearance beyond the mountains.

The 25th anniversary of the accession of Pope Pius the Ninth to the pontifical throne of Rome having occurred on Wednesday, the 21st inst., our Catholic friends had a grand jollification over the event. Twenty-five rounds were fired at intervals of five minutes, the great bell of the church ringing merrily all the while. What the exact services in the church were, if there were any, we have not learned. Pope Pius has occupied the throne, with the exception of St. Peter, at least two years longer than any of his predecessors. He, alone, had reached the 'years of Peter.' The Pope is now about 88 years old.

All About Bellefonte—What the Editors Say.

A great many editors were in town last week, and some of them have already given their impressions of the place. Col. Biddle, of the Philadelphia Age, thus speaks of us:

The meeting of the Pennsylvania Editorial Association, still in progress, was begun most auspiciously, by the assemblage of the Democratic editors in convention, at Bellefonte, Centre county. To the usual business of the most harmonious and agreeable personal intercourse, not only among themselves, but with the people of that beautiful and hospitable city. They journey without distraction of party, in a most courteous welcome to their visitors. On the evening of the 18th, an entertainment was given at the Bush House, one of the finest hotels in Pennsylvania, and among the company were the most esteemed and distinguished citizens of the vicinity. The banquet of political strife was banished for the time, the editorials of the day being the order of the evening in every respect one that will be long remembered with unmingled satisfaction by all who participated in it. The ordinary attractions, indeed, of this delightful spot, ought to draw to it the travelers and tourists who, in the summer season, seek a cool, salubrious climate, fine spots and beautiful scenery. The woods and streams abound in game, the new accommodations for travelers are of the best character, and those who visit Bellefonte for a short time will have but one regret—that they cannot stay longer. The Editorial Association of the State assembled at Williamsport on the 16th inst. and there proceeded on an excursion to Watkinsville.

Among those who seemed particularly delighted with Bellefonte and its people, was HARRY SMITH, of the Lancaster Intelligencer, who is president of the State Editorial Association. In a letter to the Intelligencer Mr. Smith "goes for us" after the following fashion:

Bellefonte is a romantic and beautiful town, containing about 1000 inhabitants. It is surrounded by mountains, and has but one outlet to the great world of trade, namely, the delightful spot, called the "Garden of the Pennsylvania Central, which runs from Tyrone to Lock Haven making connections at the former with the Central, and at the latter with the Philadelphia and Erie. It is the county seat of Centre, and is beautified with many elegant public and private buildings. There are three fine large hotels here, the Bellefonte Hotel, the "Garden Hotel" and the "Brockerhoff" and the latter is the best of others of lesser note. The Bush House is one of the largest hotels in the State, is handsomely furnished throughout, and is well kept. The present proprietor, Mr. J. M. McLean, seems to understand his business, and is a polite and accommodating host. The other hotels, we believe, are also managed well.

There are likewise three first-class banking institutions here, one of which is owned principally by Major W. F. Reynolds, brother of Samuel Reynolds, Esq., of Center City. Major Reynolds is a man of great business tact and a gentleman of taste and culture. He lives in a very handsome residence, elegantly furnished, but is unobtrusive. His fact I believe, will attract the attention of every reader, generally. The First National Bank is presided over by Mr. Edward Humes, with John P. Harris, Esq., as cashier, and the Centre County Bank, by Mr. Henry Brockerhoff, with J. Dunlap Shugert as cashier. Each of these banks do a heavy business, and each is regarded as a safe and reliable and trustworthy institution. The glass manufactory at this point is one of the best in the country, and turns out glass that is not excelled anywhere. This institution is now operated by Mr. Jacob V. Thomas, and gives employment to a large number of hands. There are also several printing mills and foundries in the place, and just beyond the limits of the borough are the celebrated iron works of the Messrs. Vail and Co., and further on, the far-famed axe manufactory of Mr. Harvey Mann. We have not time, however, to particularize further.

Five of our papers published here, the Democratic Watchman, the Bellefonte Republican, and The Christian Union Work—a monthly. The former paper is published by Gray Meek, Esq., and will continue to be published by the Legislature from Centre county whose printing establishment is one of the best we have ever seen. Mr. Meek is highly popular with the people here, and will continue to be so to the Legislature. He is an able and fearless editor, and a courteous gentleman. The Republican is edited by Col. W. W. Brown, a clear headed, energetic man, and a man of the highest ability. Brown is the original of the famous apple dumpling story, which, however, I have no time to tell here. The other paper, the Christian Union Work, is published by Mr. A. Kinsler.

Bellefonte received its name from a beautiful spring of clear cold water, which supplies the town and which is daily worth seeing. It gushes out of the ground in bubbles, and is as clear and cold as ice. It is said that the great French minister, Talleyrand, during his visit to this country, once spent several weeks, and spent several weeks, and the natural chair or seat that he occupied, near this spring, is still pointed out to strangers.

There are also large manufactory here of all kinds. The water power is magnificent, and could be so easily utilized. Capitalists might here find highly profitable investments for money. D. G. Bush, Esq., has probably done more for Bellefonte than any other single man in it. He has put up many of its finest buildings and is an active, enterprising gentleman. He has a mammoth hotel at which an stopping is called after and owned by him. Spring Creek, which flows through the town of Bellefonte and furnishes such superior water power, is full of trout, but the speckled beauties in it are capricious, and they can only be lured from their native element by the most cunning wiles of artful anglers. Throughout the surrounding mountains are numerous smaller brooks in which the true Salmo montana abound. Yesterday, P. Gray Meek, Esq., and the energetic editor of the Watchman, in company with Cyrus Alexander, Esq., and Messrs. Jeremiah B. Butt and Fredrick Jarrett, made an excursion to Laurel Hill, where they captured three hundred trout. True it is that most of them were small, but mountain trout can better afford to be small than any other fish in the world. Other parties have been seen fishing in likely places, and the result is, that the larva of the Bush House has in its reservoir laid away on ice, almost as beautiful in color as the more than enough trout, to feed all the hungry editors and their friends.

The Tusculum Courier had one of its staff here also, Mr. WARREN. After giving a long description of Bellefonte and its manufacturing and iron interests, Mr. W. thus speaks of the trip to the summit of Nittany Mountain:

Following the adjournment, all who chose partook of a luncheon, and then, entering ourselves in the tender mercies of the citizens of Bellefonte, we took seats in the carriages they had provided for a drive to the mountain, and a most delightful one it proved to be. Following a well kept turnpike for seven miles up between two mountains, with a grade so light and turns so frequent that one scarcely realized that he is gaining any great height, we suddenly found ourselves on the summit of the Nittany Mountains, which divide the Nittany and Penn valleys, one thousand feet above our starting point, and looking down on the Penn Valley, with its broad expanse of cultivated fields, waving grain and forest trees, with Egg and the Hever Mountains in the distance, and Centre Hall some miles distant, yet seemingly within a stone's throw, all spread out at our feet as a map, six hundred feet below it was a grand and most beautiful scene. The return was a rapid ride down the mountain, which ended at the hotel soon after eight o'clock.

The above are all the notices we have room for this week. We shall continue to reprint them as they come in.

You are missing bargains by not going to Burnside & Thomas's for boots, shoes and hats. They excel all others in this useful line.

As to the circumstances complained of in the following note, we know nothing. We publish it for the simple reason that we have always believed that parties thinking they were aggrieved by the action of public officials, should have an opportunity of being heard, and with no intention of reflecting upon either the Assessor of Potter township or the county Commissioners. In this as in all other matters, we suppose there is two sides to the question:

POTTER'S MILLS, PA. June 23, 1871.

MR. P. G. MEK—Dear Sir—I want to state a few facts to you about the way the assessors value property in Potter township, and I wish you to publish the same in your paper. I have ten acres of land with a log house and small stable on it, and my neighbors on all sides of me have better land and much better improvements, and they are on the main road and I am shut off of the road. Now, they have assessed me 30 per cent. higher than any of my neighbors. I attended the appraisal and stated my case to them but they would not listen to me, and said they could not alter it. I told them I would publish the way they were doing business. What I want, is to be put on an equality with my neighbors. There is not one of them that would exchange acre for acre with me. I can't see how it is; either they are assessed too low or I am too high, but I think they are a little too low. If there is a little game in it I wish to have it exposed. All I want is a fair assessment. P. H.

We find the complimentary letter in the last issue of the Philadelphia Journal.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1871. MR. EDITOR—The members of the Philadelphia Cornet Band desire, through the medium of your paper, to return their warmest thanks to the citizens of Bellefonte for their uniform kindness, generous hospitality and tokens of appreciation which they extending during our recent trip to that pleasant town. Especially are our thanks due to the officers and members of Centre Lodge, I. O. of O. F., to whose courtesy we owe much of the pleasure derived from our visit, to the whole-souled proprietor and gentlemanly clerks of the Bush House, where our wants were promptly attended to and abundantly supplied, also the editors of the Watchman and Republican for their words of commendation and encouragement extended to us through the columns of their papers, not forgetting Jeff Meyer, of the Ward House, Tyrone, who generously entertained the band free of charge. The pleasant associations connected with this visit shall long be remembered, and we hope soon to have an opportunity of reciprocating, in some degree, at least, the friendship and good-will which we have received.

Signed in behalf of the Band, C. B. SAVRON, Leader.

During our late visit to Watkins Glen, New York, we formed the acquaintance of Mr. J. Hope, an artist of fine ability, who is now engaged in painting, for parties in the metropolis, the most distinguished features of the wonderful ravine. These pictures will be on exhibition in New York next winter, and they cannot fail to attract attention and admiration. Mr. Hope paints from nature, and is faithfully reproducing on canvass all the wild and magnificent scenery of that most enchanting place. He is an artist of fine parts and is fast rising into deserved celebrity.

During the editorial excursion from here to the top of the Nittany Mountain, last week, Mr. W. P. Wilson, of this place, very kindly ordered the toll gates on the road to be opened to the party, without charge. We are requested, on behalf of the editors, to return their thanks to Mr. Wilson for his courtesy, and to assure him that his liberality was highly appreciated. Mr. Wilson is a public spirited gentleman, and knows how to reflect honor on his town.

Books.—Agricultural Books. Blank Books, Miscellaneous Books, "Little Women," "Little Men," "Old Fashioned Boy," "Old Fashioned Girl," "Common Sense in the Household."

Books on the "Horse."

All received this week at the Model Book Store opposite Bush House. The store of Mr. J. W. Sholl, in the lower end of Brush Valley, was robbed of about fifteen dollars in money, the other day, by a female, who has been suspected of doing such things before. Mr. Sholl's wife was attending the store at the time, and it was while she was in the cellar attending to the wants of the female aforesaid, that the robbery was committed.

At Mr. Gos's sale in Ferguson township, one day last week, three brothers, Christian, Samuel and Philip Harpster, whose combined ages number 276 years, were in attendance. Christian is 92, Samuel 86, and Philip 78. They are still hearty, robust old men, and bid fair to weather the storms and adversities of this life for years to come. May they live long and prosper.

ACADEMY.—The annual closing exercises of the pupils of the Bellefonte Academy, will take place at Reynolds's Hall, on Wednesday evening, June 28. Doors open at 7 o'clock; exercises begin at 7 1/2 o'clock precisely.

Save your horses by providing by nets at Burnside & Thomas's. They have the largest assortment.

Burnside & Thomas's molasses and syrup can't be beat for their extreme low prices. Try them.

For the Watchman. About the By-Ways.

Nothing better could be expected from a "By-Way" than the article in last WATCHMAN, under the attractive title of "About S. S. Conventions." We presume, the writer of that illustrious article was a personage who usually frequents conventions, prayer meetings, &c., &c., and by way of manifesting the deep interest he always takes in such things, locates his corporeity in the back seat, door, or outside the house altogether. Such must have been Mr. "By-Way's" position at the late S. S. Convention, and such must have been the part he took in making the meeting both an interesting and profitable one to all. "By-Way" is no gaometer, as he would have us infer from the nature of his article and its length. His gas collects not in cold weather, but in warm, and not finding an opportunity to let it escape at the convention, hold a few weeks since, embraced the privilege of the press so that the public at large, might be edified by his remarks and be rightly informed as to the nature and working of the S. S. Convention. The cause is greatly indebted to this wiseman for his courteous criticism; and hereafter will engage his invaluable services to be retained to plan and conduct the operations of the Conventions. There are always present, at organizations of every description, persons who, like "By-Way," could have done this, that and the other, in short, could have run the machine, better than any other person at the meeting, and yet, what conclusively proves this presumption, they never rise to offer any suggestion or motion, or take any active part whatever during the continuance of said convention. Plenty there are who say "I will always run it anyhow, what is the use for me to rise and address the chair?" while they have expressly gotten this up as a lame excuse for not engaging actively in conventions, Sunday Schools, Prayer meetings or any thing else. "This a pity Mr. "By-Way" expended none of his gas to make the S. S. Convention a success. The more credit belongs to those who did aid in making it what it was. W.

For the Watchman.

MUSICAL.—As the Bald Eagle express steamed up to the Station at Unionville, the other evening, we were surprised by the sound of martial music, and much noise so when we found that it proceeded from the Unionville Drum Corps, which is now fully equipped and under the supervision of the offer, Mr. L. B. Bathurst, with the exception of the bass drummer, Mr. Edward Barton, it is composed of small boys, of which Mr. Bathurst is justly proud. Alexander Shipley, the oldest is twelve years of age, Joseph Barton ten, while Mortie W. Geary, the baby drummer, has arrived at the mature age of six summers, and, with their sparkling uniforms, perfect time and manly bearing, they are a sight worth seeing.

FINE ARTS.—Mr. Scott of Scott's Art Gallery, Philadelphia, arrived in the place on Monday, with a splendid collection of paintings. The sale commenced last evening, the company was large but the prices were ruinously low to the owner, Mr. J. E. McClell. However, every one was sold in two bids. The balance of the catalogue will be sold this evening, and our citizens should not lose this, the last opportunity of obtaining fine works of art. Such a collection was never before in our city.

Sam Powell, a darkey boy living in Clearfield, went into Mr. Rankin's stable on Wednesday and while fooling round Mr. Alex. Sample's horse, which was there stable, got himself tramped on. The series of uncharitably howls to which he gave vent, when he found himself caught, gathered quite a crowd and created considerable excitement.

A nice little social hop came off in Meek's Hall on Friday night last. The music was furnished by Smith and Khne, and the floor management was under the control of our friends Gudykunst and Carlin. About ten couples were present, and the occasion passed off most delightfully.

Col. Jacob Zeigler, familiarly known as "Uncle Jake," is behind-hand, according to his own confession. In his paper of last week, he says: "Our friend Kurtis of the Centre Hall Reporter says, when we get a power press, we will be square with Centre Hall. Good. We are glad we shall then be square with somebody, a thing we have not been for several years."

The Philadelphia Journal of Saturday last gives us the following interesting items:

Considerable excitement was raised at Enterprise mines, on Saturday evening last, by an attempt upon the part of John Smith and Jack Connelly to commit bodily injury upon Thomas Manning. The facts in the case, as nearly as we can learn them, are as follows: Manning is a Catholic, as are also, Smith and Connelly, while Manning's wife is a Protestant. As he says himself, he and his wife have family jars, in which she calls him "pet names," while he playfully kicks her out of bed and out of the house, breaks the windows, and makes use of other little pleasantries of like nature. Smith and Connelly, thinking it unwise for a Catholic and Protestant to live together, so advised Manning, who wholly disregarded their advice and stuck to his wife, with whom, except on the occasions above named, he appeared to live in perfect harmony. So on Saturday night last, Smith and Connelly broke into his house, drove Mrs. Manning, in her night clothes, out in the open air, where she remained all night in the pouring rain, pulled Manning out of bed, and, taking his wife's hoops for the purpose, attempted to hang him. How he escaped this fate we did not learn, but escape it he did, and entered complaint against the parties. Warrants were issued, and the gentlemen arrested, had a hearing before Esquire Hord, who required bail of Smith for appearance at court, and committed Connelly to jail. Manning and wife were also held to bail for appearance as witnesses.

Quite a large party from this town accompanied Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Lingle, as far as Tyrone, on their wedding tour to Niagara Falls. For their accommodation a special car was attached to the mail train north, and for returning, to the express north. There were fifteen couples in the party, and a merry time they had.

REBERSBURG, June 18, 1871.

EDITOR WATCHMAN.—In traveling about the county, it was our good fortune to stop for a few days in the quiet and beautiful town of Rebersburg. During our sojourn there we were kindly treated by all with whom we had intercourse. This town is improving rapidly, houses are being remodeled and repainted, and when completed, will greatly add to the appearance of it, and will rank favorably with her sister towns, and some it will far exceed. There are many good people living here, among whom we would mention Dr. D. J. Hillbush. We called on the doctor, and he took us around to see his conveniences and improvements, cattle, horses, dogs, cats, sheep, poultry, &c. He has about eighty chickens, all of the best breeds, such as Spanish, Brahma, Cochon (China, Chittigong, &c. His poultry fountain is a curiosity and well worth a visit; it has the best arranged ice-house we venture to say, in Centre county; his stables as clean as a parlor; dogs of the terrier and shepherd kind, matted cats, canary birds, &c. His lots contain none but the best kinds of fruit, planted with the earliest and best potatoes, corn, beans, &c.; ice-coolers filled with nice clean ice stare you in the face. We quenched our thirst at one of them, mixed with cream nectar and lemonade. His parlors are well furnished, and in fact every thing around and about him is in the best of trim and tip-top order. D. W. Hartor, of the "Spread Eagle" Hotel, is doing a very good business. Daniel gives good grub, good beds, and good—All the different kinds of mechanics, are carrying on their business here, and from appearances, do well. The town is supplied with two kinds of water, which is conveyed in pipes from the mountains about one mile, north and south of the town. The choir of the German Reformed Church, Danl. Kramer, vocal leader; Miss Emma C. Kramer and Miss Linnie Meyer, organists, is first class, not many choirs to compare with them. They sing both in German and English. There are many other things of interest that we might mention, but time and space forbid. Mr. Editor, if you have the least doubt of what we here say, we say to you do as we did, pay the town a visit, sojourn a few days and be convinced. WANDERER.

DECLINATION.

MOSHANNON, June 16, 1871. MR. P. GRAY MEK, Dear Sir—I notice in last week's WATCHMAN, my name announced, or rather proposed as a candidate for Associate Judge. I hereby take the same medium to extend my sincere thanks to my friends who ever they may be, who have thus thought fit to propose me in so honorable connection, and at the same time to say to them and the people of Centre county, that I have never thought of, or do not now think of being a candidate.

It is claimed by our Snow Shoe Democrats (and we have many of them,) that we have never had in our part of the county any of the county officers but a Commissioner, and I believe an Auditor. I do, we never asked for more and no doubt but that if we had, the people of Centre county would be perfectly willing to give us our full share. Very respectfully, WM. HOLT.

Hon. C. L. Vallandigham Accidentally Shoots Himself.

CINCINNATI, June 16.—Despatches from Dayton, Ohio, to-night contain the startling announcement the Hon. C. L. Vallandigham had accidentally shot himself through the abdomen, at a hotel in Lebanon to night, and it is thought he is fatally wounded. He is counsel for McGeen, who is on trial for the murder of Myers, and was preparing his argument to night. He had an empty and loaded pistol lying on the table and was showing how Myers might have shot himself. He unfortunately picked up the loaded pistol instead of the empty one, which went off, the ball passing through the abdomen.

LEBANON, O., June 16.—11:30 P. M.—No hopes are entertained by the physicians for Hon. C. L. Vallandigham. The ball entering the right side of the abdomen, ranged downward and has as yet not been found. The leading physicians of Cincinnati have been telegraphed for and have already started.

LEBANON, Ohio, June 17.—Clement L. Vallandigham died at fifteen minutes of ten o'clock this morning, from the effects of the wound accidentally inflicted yesterday.

CINCINNATI, June 17.—Mr. Vallandigham died at eighteen minutes before ten this morning. He sank very rapidly after three o'clock, having no pulse scarcely after that hour. Dr. Dawson, of Cincinnati, arrived at three o'clock, but was too late to do any good to the dying man. Judge Haynes, his law partner, from Dayton, reached Lebanon this morning with other personal friends, and who were with him in his last hours. McGeen, in the prosecution of whose case he lost his life, was taken from jail this morning to his bedside and shed tears as he beheld his dying friend, who had appeared during the progress of the trial, to summon all his energy and legal acumen in his defence. Mr. Pollett made the argument for the State yesterday, and was to have been followed this morning by Mr. MILLIKEN, and it was expected Vallandigham would finish his argument this evening or Monday morning. Judge Pope, before whom the trial was proceeding, adjourned the Court this morning until Monday.

Mrs. Vallandigham started for Baltimore last evening, called there by a dying brother. Mr. Vallandigham's body will be taken once to Dayton, reaching there about 3 o'clock.

A hail storm of most extraordinary character occurred down in Alabama near Montgomery, last week, of this account it is in a local paper can be believed: "The hail was four feet deep on a level, and knee deep in ravines and slough. It came over the axle tree of a buggy in a ravine six miles from the city, and the next day such vast quantities of it remained on the ground that the people of that neighborhood hauled it off and stored it for ice in blocks from twenty to thirty pounds each."

ANOTHER Radical governor has come to grief. The impeachment trial of Governor Butler, of Nebraska, ended yesterday with his removal from office. He can find Holden in New Jersey if he wants a sympathizer.

Announcements.

We are authorized to announce the name of Hon. John Foster, of Centre county, as a candidate for Associate Judge. Subject to the decision of the Democratic County Convention.

We are authorized to announce the name of Col. W. W. Lore, of Potter township, as a candidate for Associate Judge. Subject to the decision of the Democratic County Convention.

We are authorized to announce the name of Hon. John Foster, of Centre county, as a candidate for Associate Judge. Subject to the decision of the Democratic County Convention.
