

A Dreadful Death.

A Baby Dies of Hydrophobia—An Awful Case—The Child Tears its Clothing and Barks Like a Dog.

A little son of John McGinnis, an employe at the Stock Yards, died last Saturday morning of hydrophobia. The age of the child was one year and nine months. The case is a somewhat singular one, and therefore we give it with some particularity of detail. Very few cases are on record of the fearful complaint attacking one so young. The position taken by certain authorities that the disease is simply of the imagination is here proved to be untenable. An unreasoning infant just beginning to prattle, is not likely to be so disturbed by the fear of imaginary physical troubles as to be in this manner hurried out of the world. The child was bitten a little over a month ago. The mother had one day seated it on the ground at the back door of the house, when a Newfoundland dog belonging to a butcher named Shuler, living in the neighborhood, came suddenly rushing up to the child and bit it. No one about the house had seen this animal previously.

Three ugly wounds were inflicted upon the terrified infant by the ravaging animal—one at the side of the left temple, another between the eyes, and the third on the top of the head near the edge of the hair. The brute showed every symptom of madness, foaming at the mouth, snapping at everything it passed, without stopping to vent its rage on any particular object. The wounds upon the child soon healed, only one slight scar on the nose remaining. The matter faded from the recollection of the parents. Last Wednesday morning the infant began to show singular signs of irritation, and commenced tearing off its clothes, at the same time uttering low, wailing cries, and complaining of thirst. But when water was offered to it the most distressing writhing of the jaws and convulsive movements of the face and throat followed. No one seemed at first to know the real cause of the trouble. The startled mother did all in her power to restore her infant to ease and quiet. Thinking it might be suffering from the heat, she took off some of its superfluous clothing. The wise women of the neighborhood gathered in and gave their diagnosis of the disease. Some said the complaint was diphtheria, and some said the poor little thing was teething. All day Wednesday the little sufferer exhibited the same symptoms, seeming, however, all the time to suffer more acutely. It pulled and tugged at its clothing with such force as to tear off the buttons, and threw its arms about in the most agonizing manner.

This continued until Friday night, when the mother or could sleeping. The infant took no nourishment during all this time, and when water was offered went into convulsions, seeming to reject it with horror. Dr. W. W. Goodwin, living at the Rock Island car works, was summoned on Friday evening. He at once told the grief-stricken parents that their child was dying of hydrophobia, and nothing could be done to save it. He administered morphia without effect. The child was apparently in the last stages of the disease. In its convulsions it seemed endowed with preternatural strength. The foam which issued from its mouth was stained with blood. It uttered an incessant whine, which those about compared to the whining of a dog. Whenever the hands of those attending it approached its face, the efforts to bite were manifestly canine. Although but just learning to talk, it repeatedly uttered the word "dog" during the night preceding its death, as if it had somehow in its diseased infantile brain mysteriously associated the idea of its present sufferings with its being bitten a month before.

At 8 o'clock on Saturday death came to the relief of the sufferer. From Wednesday morning until this hour no nourishment and not a drop of water had passed its lips. The case is a singular one, and should attract the general attention of the medical world.—Chicago Republican.

The Boutwell-Pleasanton Difficulty.
The President left Long Branch for a day or two very reluctantly. He was obliged to do it on account of the snarl at Washington between Boutwell and Pleasanton. The latter did not like the idea of being considered the mere clerk of the Secretary of the Treasury, and concluded to set up for himself. This Boutwell was unwilling that he should do. Hence came the conflict. Pleasanton contended that the points of difference should be submitted to the Attorney General for his legal opinion and by that he was willing to abide. But Grant cares nothing for laws or his forms, and, after sending his military lacquey, Porter, to request his resignation, and receiving his refusal, he summarily suspended him from office. The friends of Pleasanton are in anything but an amiable humor and the disaffection of the Radical party threatens to be very serious on this account. Wrangling seems the order of the day among the Radicals. They are engaged in bitter quarrels everywhere over the public plunder. There never was any other power to hold them together and the masses are now becoming disgusted at the idea of a few men being allowed to gorge themselves at their hearts' content to the exclusion of every body else.—Valley Spirit.

An elderly lady who was having a pair of artificial plates in a dental office, and admiring the fluency with which the dentist described them, said to him: "Can a body eat with these things?" My dear madam, mastication can be performed with a facility scarcely equalled by nature itself," responded the dentist. "Yes, I know, but can a body eat with them?"

A standing defense of defaulters under Radical administrations, is they are ready to settle their accounts. But there is a difficulty in the way. That difficulty often takes the following shape: a thief enters a house and steals four watches, a few rings and some bracelets. The owner of the property tracks him, when the culprit wishes to settle. But there is a difficulty in the way. The thief wishes to keep two of the watches and a diamond pin. That is the hitch—that the difficulty in the way of a settlement. This illustrates the present position of certain Radical functionaries. They want to 'fob the tickers' and the pin. And the fear is that a settlement will be made on that basis.

Before the British press have done crowing over the Irish riot in New York they have a commotion of the same kind on their own hands in Dublin. The disturbance there Sunday resulted in forty seven being killed and fatally wounded, and over one hundred placed in the hospitals. The cause of the row was a demonstration intended to create a pressure for the release of the convicted Fenians. This demonstration was forbidden; the order was disregarded; the parade was interfered with by the police, straightened by troops in reserve, and was emphatically crushed.—Ex.

The Cincinnati Times says that Mr. Colfax is as sure of a nomination as President Grant. We are at a loss to know whether this means that Mr. Colfax has changed his mind in relation to withdrawing from public life, or whether the Times thinks General Grant will not be renominated.

In a famous horse case in Birmingham, N. Y., the attorney asked a veterinary surgeon: "Have you ever made any examination in the abdominal region?" To which the witness replied, "No; all my examinations have been made in Broome county."

Samuel Halcomb, of Solebury, Bucks county, planted this season one Peerless potato from which he raised 66 potatoes, weighing 174 pounds; and from an Early Rose he raised 53 potatoes, weighing 134 pounds. Some of the Peerless potatoes weighed over half a pound each.

The Philadelphia "Bulletin" opposes two of the Republican candidates for city officers, Messrs. C. H. T. Collis, and P. A. B. Oulmer and four of the candidates for Legislature, Messrs. Duffly, Lamon, Albright and Gray, because, it says, they are mere "barnacles."

At the drawing of the Sacramento Pioneer Hall and Library Association Lottery, July 21st, the $10,000 prize was drawn by ticket No. 20,742, which belonged to a hard working widow named Mrs. McDermott who supports her family by taking in washing.
