CALL AROUND TO-MORROW

I am an honest trading man;
I keep a little store;
Where many take the easy plan
Of running up a score,
And say when being asked for pay,
With much surprise and sorrow,
"It's not convenient, sir, to-day—
Please call around to-morrow."
Those people always want the best,
And want it very quick and neat;
They grumble more than all the rest
Who never buy on tick.
Yet they, when being asked for pay,
Say with surprise and sorrow:
"It's not convenient, sir, to-day—
Please call around to-morrow."
Those humbugs have a lofty air
And live in royal state,
And, judging by the clothes they wear,
They own a golden pile—
Yet they, when being asked for pay,
Excuse in fright and sorrow:
"It's not convenient, sir, to-day—
Please call around to-morrow."

The customers who buy for cash,
Have rights we should not meet;
To pay for other people's sins
They certainly object—
When tradesmen call "to-morrow"
On shoddy folks who never pay
And live on what they borrow.

To any honest trading man
Those funds are all a bore,
And when they come to a fan,
Walk gaily in a store.
They should be treated in their way,
And told with little sorrow,
"It's not convenient—till you pay—
Please call around to-morrow."
—H. C. Dodge, in Goodell's Sun.

Utah Charley's Last.

He Rides in a Coffin a Little Bit Ahead of His Time.

Let me relate to you some of my early experiences, said Conductor Frye, of the Burlington, when I was running baggage on the Union Pacific. It was back about ten years ago. We were coming east from Ogden, and at a small station a box supposed to contain a corpse was put in the express car, consigned to Lincoln, Neb. Bill Axley, now on the Santa Fe, was express messenger, and as we elevated the box into the car he remarked that it did not fit the coffin well, as he felt a reacting jar as the article was put in the car.

There were two men finely well dressed, and showing no signs of suspicion, together with what we took to be an aged woman, who accompanied the remains. She was represented as being the mother of the deceased, and the two men were the latter's brother. The woman, or man, as she turned out to be, was anxious to remain with the corpse in the car. She also desired that her two sons might be by her side. This was against the rules, and they were informed that transportation would only be allowed the corpse in the express car, and accordingly they agreed to take seats in a coach.

HER PONDEROUS FOOT.
Just before the train pulled out Bill said to me that though the game was a concealed robbery and was determined to have the box handed out and inspected before the train started. But what if it were a real corpse? The boys would have hooted Bill off the road for his cowardice. This I said to Bill, and he finally concluded to let the worst come if it must. The conductor signaled the train to start, and Bill jumped into his car and I got into mine, but the more I thought of the situation and more I found that Billy's suspicions were not unfounded. Finally, at the next station we stopped to wait a clear track, and, Bill not being in his accustomed place at the doorway of his car, I decided to ascertain where he was.

At the door the man sat Bill with a face as pale as a dead person, and with large drops of perspiration standing on his forehead. I was about to laugh, but a sudden motion of his hand prompted me to refrain. Finally he walked close to the door and with one eye on me and the other on the box he said: "There's a man in that box alive and I know it. You had better keep your eye on those other fellows or we're their game sure." I paused for a moment. I did not want to make a blunder by informing the conductor and being called a tenderfoot; but supposing that the box contains a live robber, there was the point.

I meditated and I finally said to Bill to watch further developments, but he refused and said that if I did not come to his assistance he would call on some body else. I saw that he was frightened, and he did not have much the better of me. Taking hold of the car door I entered it and we both stood and gazed at the box. It was sealed and neither of us had a right to open it. I finally called the conductor and informed him of the case. "Yes," said he, "and I notice that the old lady who is weeping in the coach back there has a ponderous foot for a woman." But we all agreed to await developments, and I agreed to ride in the express car with Bill.

THE TRAP DIDN'T WORK.
We again pulled out, but we had not gone far before the bell rope was pulled and the train began to slacken up. At this juncture Bill did not rush to the door to see what was up, but sat both eyes on the box. A moment of amazement and suddenly the cover of the box flew off and a heavily armed bandit attempted to rise, but Bill had him and in an instant a ball went whizzing through the fellow's neck and he fell over. "Guard the door!" shouted Bill, and the words had not fully escaped his lips when the individual in female attire appeared and was about to enter the car when I leveled my revolver and said, "Woman or man, throw up your hands or I'll shoot." In full range the individual could not do otherwise, and one of the hands while suspended clutched a fine specimen of firearms.

He held the strange guest at the point of my revolver and was surprised to see a little gray haired man come out of the next coach with the two alleged brothers heavily shackled. The little man who subdued the two companions was a U. States marshal who was on board the train at the time. The conductor was covered and ordered to pull the bell rope but before he was able to see a stopped the little officer had both men in irons. The supposed female turned out to be a man in female attire. The feigned corpse was converted into a real one, and his companions were sentenced

Influence of Imagination.

General De Trobriand, in his book, "The Army of the Potomac," relates many incidents illustrating the influence of the imagination. One poor fellow believed he had a ball in the head, and prepared to die on account of it. He died. Another, with his eye gone and his eyebrows burned off, thought nothing was the matter. Another instance was that of a surgeon who had been allocated into the army by a salary. He found a man of luxurious habits, and found himself living without fire in a tent covered with snow.

To Make Merry Over.

A (somewhat illiterate)—"I read something in a paper about idiots. Are they human beings?" B.—"Certainly, they are human beings like yourself."

Stubs—Going to take your wife up to the mountains this year? Wrangler—No. She's going but I can't stay with her. The doctor says I must have rest and quiet. See?—Time.

Visitor in editorial room (to writer)—You seem to be busy? Writer—Yes. Visitor—What are you writing about? Writer—Don't know. I'm writing an editorial.—Arkansas Traveler.

Michigan must be an awful State. A man in Port Huron has just sold the city 17 acres of land to be used as a cemetery, provided, no liquor shall be sold on the premises.—Burlington Free Press.

"You are enjoying yourself, I hope?" said the hostess at a soiree to Galuchet. "You know, madam," said Galuchet, "with his most gracious smile, "that the duller parties never bore me. I can stand almost anything."—French Fun.

Patient—"Frankly, now, doctor, what do you think is the matter with me?" Physician—"Frankly, my dear sir, I haven't the least idea, but I shall know all about it after the autopsy."—Somerville Journal.

"Bromley, it was lucky that newsboy found your wallet, wasn't it?" "Yes. It had ten thousand in it." "But you only gave the boy a 20-cent piece." "Why, bless my soul! I thought it was a quarter."—Time.

In a lawsuit in Kentucky the other day it was proved that a horse which had kicked three men to death and had run away five times was warranted "perfectly gentle and safe for a lady to drive." Now and then there is a horse-trader who is absconding in his statements.—Dialist Free Press.

Passenger—"Captain, you haven't quite as big a crowd to-day as usual, have you?" Captain—"We have 1,600 passengers, sir." Another passenger (a few minutes later)—"Captain, it seems to me you haven't enough boats on this steamer." Captain (with cold dignity)—"I have boats enough for 15,000 passengers, sir, which is all my license calls for."—Chicago Tribune.

Vertigo Caused by Nicotine.

M. Decaisne has laid before the French Academy of medicine the results of various investigations relating to the vertigo peculiar to smokers. From this it appears that the numerous experiments made in this line have proved that nicotine contracts the muscular coat of the vessels, and that vertigo is due to the exaggerated contraction of the arteries of the brain—the patient experiences a feeling of emptiness in the head, so much so that he seems as if about to faint, everything turning around and his ideas becoming confused. M. Decaisne has further ascertained that these phenomena are chiefly found in smokers about fifty years of age, and especially in those who have been accustomed to smoking before meals; he has also known several of the persons to be treated for cerebral congestion, and even for disease of the heart, with the result, as might be supposed, of increasing the symptoms, the proper treatment consisting of absolute abstinence from the weed.

USE MARVELOUS COUGH SYRUP—A sure cure for Coughs, Whooping Cough, Bronchial or Throat Affections of any kind.

THE TYPEWRITER'S INFLUENCE.—The modest and attractive lady typewriter has thrown a grace and charm over the office in which she reigns that has banished the profane and suggestive word to the bar-room. For the privilege of sharing her company, smokers, their eyes on her pretty face and watching her winning ways, the man of the world has surrendered his former prerogative of saying whatever springs to his lips in moments of impatience; and by an unwritten law he is now obliged to be a gentleman in his office as in his own parlor in the companionship of his wife and children.

All this is as it should be. Places of business are now open at any hour of the day to ladies as well as men. Offices are put on a higher plane. Improper words are going out of fashion as the result, and, through fear of offending, a woman may be the loftiest motive toward virtue. If the race shall be uplifted in consequence, let's accept the blessing and not deride the cause.—New Haven Palladium.

Deafness can't be cured by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets in aned you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give you Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, caused by catarrh, that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

He Figured It Out—Algermon.

"Aren't you sometimes bored with young gentlemen callers who persist in stayin' too long?" Angelina—"No; mamma is acquainted with most of my callers and knows just how much time I care to waste on each of them, and she generally manages to terminate their calls about as I wish." Algermon (just arrived)—"What a capital idea." Angelina's Ma (putting her head in at the door)—"Pray do not hurry, daughter, but I should like you to come to the back parlor when you may do so with propriety."—Omaha World.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S RINGS.—It is said that the three rings which Queen Victoria prizes the most highly are: First of all her wedding ring, which she has never taken off; then a small enamel ring, with a tiny diamond in the centre, which the prince consort gave her at the age of sixteen; and an engagement ring. For many years after the prince consort's death her majesty slept with these rings on her fingers, only taking them off to wash her hands as the water would, of course, spoil the enamel.

France claims the honor of utilizing a higher water pressure than that recently put in operation in the Chollar shaft on the Comstock lode, in Nevada. At Brignoud, 11 miles from the valley of Gresivaud, near Grenoble, a turbine 9 feet 10 inches in diameter was put in operation in the year 1875, utilizing a head of 1,638 feet. It is still working, and gives a force of 1,500 horse-power, with a flow of 75 gallons of water per second.

MOLASSES GINGER COOKIES.—One cup of New Orleans molasses or sorghum put on the stove, and when it boils take off and stir in one tablespoonful of saleratus and one cup of brown sugar. When cool add two-thirds cup of shortening, not too stale, and cut into slices, dip into the milk and eggs and fry a delicate brown in the melted butter. Take the whites of three eggs, beat them to a froth, adding half a cup of powdered sugar, add the juice of one lemon and a cup of boiling water beating them in well. Serve over the toast as a sauce.

AN EXCLUSIVE PERSON.—On one occasion a lady called and presented a check which she wished cashed. As she was a perfect stranger to the paying teller, he said, very politely: "Madam, you will have to bring some one to introduce you before we can cash this check." Drawing herself up quite haughtily, she said, freely: "But I do not wish to know you, sir!"—Richmond Dispatch.

A boy of 16, who is pretty sure to break his neck one of these warm days, is David Pickering, of Newark, who is said to clear a bar of 5 feet 3 inches above the ground, head foremost, landing first on his hands and then on the back of his neck, without even the comfort of a mattress to break the violence of his fall.

A sharp fakir is making a good income by advertising a sure method of killing all insects. When you send him 50 cents you will receive a printed card on which are these words: "Get your insects to smoke cigarettes, and they will die within an hour. So long."

MEAT CAKES.—The remains of a cold roast or boiled leg of mutton that has been rarely cooked will be most delicious if prepared as follows: Chop the meat as fine as possible and mix it with half as much bread-crumbs and a quarter as much beef suet, also chopped very fine and freed from strings. Put these ingredients into a bowl with a couple of minced onions (fresh ones of course are best, but the canned ones may be used), add a seasoning of thyme, marjoram, pepper, salt, and a little powdered mace; mix with two well beaten eggs for a pound of the cold mutton; stir until it forms a stiff paste; form into balls or sausages and fry.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.—An exchange says: "We are, indeed, a happy elegant, moral, transcendent people. We have no masters, they are all principals; no shopmen, they are 'helps'; no jailers, they are all governors; nobody is flogged in prison, he merely receives the correction of the house; nobody is ever unable to meet his engagements; nobody is angry, he is only excited; nobody is cross, he is only nervous; lastly, nobody is drunk—the very utmost that you can assert is that 'he has taken his wine.'"

Leavenworth, Kan., has developed a notable epidemic of sickness, but it alarms no one but the doctors, who are not consulted. The patients themselves just grin the certificates setting forth that they are ill, and leave them at the drug stores, which are not permitted to sell liquor in the absence of such trustworthy data. Some wonderful health statistics will be made from these records some day.

The tendency of silver table ware has been toward smallness and compactness, and this has affected the size of smaller ware. The butter plates, salt cellars and pepper pots are very diminutive, and as a rule they are decorated in the same manner as the larger pieces, although there are many odd and striking designs. A new style of salt cellar is made in the form of a diminutive stevedore. Others imitate leav's, fruits and flowers.

A real estate dealer of Chicago hit upon a novel way to advertise his business and to celebrate the national holiday. July 4 he held a jubilee on his allotment and fired into the sky a skyrocket to which was attached a quit claim deed for a lot. The man who found the deed gets the lot.

It is to be presumed that a London paper has made its computation with accuracy when it says that all the people now living in the world, or about 1,400,000,000, could find standing room within the limits of a field ten miles square, and by the aid of a telephone, could be addressed by a single speaker.

Sechler & Company.

GLASSWARE,
QUEENSWARE
ROCKINGHAM
—AND—
YELLOW-WARE.

We have just put in a very complete stock of goods in this line. Our assortment runs from the common ware for kitchen use up through the various grades to Haviland's fine French China.

Our stock is all new. Has just been selected from goods manufactured for this spring's trade. The style and shapes are new and very pretty. People who like nice smooth stylish ware of newest patterns and honest reliable goods, can select from our stock at will without the least danger of getting anything undesirable, as we buy no old styles or second quality goods. Even our lowest grades are all carefully selected and of first quality in each grade.

Our lowest grade of table ware, American Best Granite, is a strong, heavy body goods, of excellent article for every day use and at an exceedingly low price. Cups and saucers, large and heavy, 30c. a set. Plates, regular size, 75c. dozen. Plates, large size, 90c. dozen. Tea Sets, 46 pieces, $2.50.

We next come to our Best American White Granite Ware. These are as reliable goods as any American manufacturer has yet produced. The shapes are very tasty and the goods in every way very desirable and will do good service. Tea Sets, 58 pieces, $3.50. Combined Dinner and Tea Sets, 124 pieces, $12.00. All selected ware.

Then we reach our English White Granite—Every piece of this goods we guarantee will not craze in any reasonable length of time. This ware is good for twenty years although an exceptional piece may craze in much less time. This brand stands as high and comes as near perfection in glazing as any granite ware yet produced in any country, and we think this is altogether the most economical and most satisfactory goods for every day use, and in our new shapes makes a very desirable dinner set.

Tea Sets, 58 pieces, $3.75. Combined Dinner and Tea Sets, 124 pieces, $12.75. If any pieces of this brand craze we will replace them.

Our English Porcelain Opaque Ware is finer and richer goods in appearance than white granite, but not so strong. In the latest shapes they make a very handsome tea or dinner set. These are the highest grade of goods made below china. The teas and coffees are especially good style and come in eight different sizes and shapes. We sell a 46-piece tea set of this fine ware at $4.50.

This whole line is offered in any combination or any separate pieces desired.

In desirable ware we have some very pretty things at moderate prices. It is difficult to describe this class of goods in print but will endeavor to interest any one who will call to see what we have. It is a pleasure and a satisfaction to us to have the people come in and look through our stock even if they do not intend to buy.

Haviland's French China, we deal direct with Messrs. Haviland, and get their newest shapes and finest selections, and by dealing direct with them, we are able to sell anything in white goods and many of the most desirable designs in decorated ware in any combination according to customers' own selection or by any separate pieces that may be wanted. We are giving special attention to this class of goods, and are able to do as well on prices as any retail house in Philadelphia or New York.

In glass ware our assortment is large and the styles and patterns are new and desirable. Molasses Pitchers, 10c. apiece. Table Tumblers, 8c. dozen. Table Goblets, 50c. dozen. Glass Sets, 25c. per set up.

Water Sets, $1.00 per set up. Also a nice assortment of small ware, useful things at exceedingly low prices.

Rockingham and Yellowware we have—Tea Pots, Pitchers, Nappies, Bakers, Pie Plates, and the whole line of these goods. Our stock is complete from lowest to highest grade—all honest goods. As to general prices we state positively that no house in country or city has lower prices for the same goods than we have made. We are prepared to do a brisk trade in this line and will be glad to see all who read this ad.

In adding this new line of goods we have not suffered it in any way to interfere with or detract our interest from Groceries, Fruits, Confections and the meat trade. We keep this line of business as bright and fresh as ever.
