

Democratic Watchman

Friday Morning, July 12, 1889.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—No communications published unless accompanied by the real name of the writer.

Mr. M. H. Geiss, of Penn Hall, is the duly authorized agent of the WATCHMAN for Gregg township.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY.

The salary of the Bellefonte postmaster has been raised from $2000 to $2100.

H. Beatty Tate, of Pleasant Gap, died on Tuesday last week, of dropsy, and was buried on the Fourth.

Miss Jennie Morrison, of this place, has been re-elected first assistant to the principal of the Phillipsburg public schools.

S. Cameron Burnside, of Bellefonte, has been bequeathed $50,000 by the will of his late grandfather, General Simon Cameron.

The Huntingdon Presbyterian church has reached the one hundredth year of its existence and the congregation is observing the event with appropriate exercises.

Excavation for the foundation of the new Lutheran church, corner of Linn and Allegheny streets, has been commenced. The plan of the building promises a handsome and imposing looking building.

We are pleased to learn that Miss Alpha Cornan and her mother who recently went from this town and settled in Seattle, W. T., were not affected by the fire that ravaged that place some weeks ago.

Dennis O'Leary, a three year old son of Mrs. Larry O'Leary, of this place, died last Friday night of consumption, it being a rare case of death from that disease for one so young in years. The funeral took place on Sunday.

The base ball nine of the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. went over to Altoona and played a game with the nine of the Association of that place on the Fourth of July. They won the game and were hospitably entertained by their Altoona antagonists.

An amateur performance of a burlesque called the "Wedding March" was given last Friday evening in Bush's Hall for the benefit of the sufferers from the recent flood. The performers included some of the best dramatic talent of the town and acquitted themselves with much credit.

Last Friday evening an entertainment was given in the grounds surrounding the residence of General Hastings for the purpose of increasing the fund for the benefit of the flood sufferers. Ice cream, cake, and other delicacies were served and the proceeds amounted to quite a handsome sum.

Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Canan, who from 1841 to 1872 lived at Stormstown, this county, died at Tyrone last Sunday evening, in her 64th year. She was the mother of Mrs. Rothrock, who lives near this place. She had been a member of the Presbyterian church at Port Matilda, where her body was taken for interment.

Elias Breon, of Pleasant Gap, made a narrow escape on the Fourth of July. He drove to Bellefonte in a buggy to which was hitched a colt that had never been in harness before. The animal frightened at exploding fire crackers and dashed down High street along the pavement. The buggy was badly wrecked, but neither Mr. Breon or the colt was seriously injured.

The large building which Dr. Hale is having erected east of the railroad depot will be a decided improvement to that immediate locality, as it will fill a vacancy that was something of an eye-sore to people looking east from the station. It will be built over the race, with a front of 200 feet, and we are told that corrugated iron will be the material of which it will be constructed. It is intended for warehousing purposes.

Thursday evening of last week while Frank Miles, of Milesburg, and Oscar Lucas, of Howard, were attending a festival at the latter place, a horse, breaking loose from another buggy, ran into the one in which they were, and rearing up planted its feet squarely into their vehicle, upsetting it and also the horse they were driving. In the confusion both young men were kicked by the strange horse, Frank Miles being injured quite seriously.

The Fourth of July, 1889, passed off quietly in Bellefonte, there being no public demonstration. A number of our people left for other places while about an equal number came in from the surrounding country. The explosion of fire crackers was the only thing that marked the distinction between it and ordinary days. There was a good deal of drinking done and quite a number of drunken men were seen on the streets. It is a pity that some American citizens think that they cannot observe Independence Day in good form without getting drunk.

A MEETING COMPLEMENTARY TO GEN. HASTINGS AND COL. SPANGLER.

In compliance with a call for a public meeting to welcome Adjutant General Hastings and Col. Spangler home from Johnstown, where for more than five weeks they had taken a prominent part in the movements for the relief of that afflicted locality, a large number of the citizens of Bellefonte met in the hall in Bush's Arcade on Wednesday evening for the purpose above named. J. M. Dale, Esq., called the meeting to order, and Mr. Geo. C. Potts being called to the chair he referred in eulogistic terms to the gentleman in whose honor the meeting was held. The organization was then completed by making Wm. F. Reber, Esq., and S. M. Back, Secretaries. Hon. Daniel Rhoads, Dr. Geo. F. Harris, L. T. Munson and L. L. Brown were appointed a committee to escort General Hastings and Colonel Spangler to the meeting. Upon the appearance of these two gentlemen they were greeted with cheers, and upon Chairman Potts selecting Mr. E. C. Humes to express the sentiments of the meeting, that gentleman in appropriate terms referred to the eminent services that Messrs. Hastings and Spangler performed in Johnstown's hour of need and affliction. Their going there was the spontaneous impulse of men who were actuated by the desire to help their fellow men in distress. General Hastings replied briefly and modestly, and Colonel Spangler's remarks were of the same character. The latter said that they both were in Cambria county, on private business, wearing rubber coats and gun blankets in the rain that prevailed at that time, when the landlord with whom they were stopping told them that a flood had occurred at Johnstown in which 500 people had been drowned. That was sufficient incentive for them to start immediately for the scene of the calamity, to render what aid they could, and the world knows the rest of the sad story. Colonel Spangler gave a synopsis of what had been done for the relief of the sufferers and the progress that had been made to put the survivors on their feet again. Such a meeting of their fellow citizens was a compliment of which the two gentlemen may be justly proud.

CONVENTION OF THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.—Sub-divisions Nos. 2 and 27, miners and nine laborers of the K. of L., met in Altoona on Monday. The meeting was called in accordance with an order issued recently to the miners and nine laborers included in the Clearfield, Centre, Cambria, Blair and Jefferson counties. The meeting was well attended, there being forty delegates present. The press committee prepared the following report and on being accepted by the convention was ordered to be issued for publication:

"Owing to Maryland and Virginia not being represented, it was decided not to enforce a general suspension at the present time. All places working below the district price are to remain out and all not out are to be called out. A levy sufficient to support the striking men has been laid on those working at the district price. A Central Committee was appointed, whose business it shall be to distribute relief. The convention was a unit in all things and is confident of a victory in the near future. J. B. Rea, master workman of National Trades Assembly, 135, was present during the convention and approved the action taken. The eight hours' movement is to be thoroughly discussed all over the district on the coming 'Labor Day'."

A BELLEFONTE ENGLISHMAN.—We have in our hands copies of the London Financial Times, which contain letters from Mr. Thomas Burnside written from the west coast of South America, descriptive of the immense and invaluable deposits of nitrate in that portion of Chili captured some years ago from Peru, and also giving scenes and incidents in a region that has been so wonderfully endowed by nature with mineral wealth. The nitrate alone is a source of untold riches, and has fallen into the hands of English parties in whose interest Mr. Burnside appears to be operating. As is well known in this neighborhood he is a son of the late Judge James Burnside, of Bellefonte, grandson of the late General Cameron, and brother of S. Cameron Burnside of our vicinity. He settled in London some years ago and has identified himself with English interests.

HELP FOR JERSEY SHORE.—From a Williamsport paper we learn that Dr. Edwards, of the State Board of Health, who was sent to inspect Jersey Shore, and two or three points in Tioga county, recommends that ten thousand dollars be given to Jersey Shore, and smaller amounts to Lawrenceville and Tioga. He states that the dirt wells in Jersey Shore are in a polluted condition and recommends the sinking of new wells. There is no doubt that Jersey Shore, from its location, suffered more proportionately than any other town in the West Branch Valley, and Dr. Edwards would not have been extravagant if he had recommended fifteen thousand dollars for that place. But if ten thousand dollars is applied to the borough, which we have no doubt will be done, it will aid very materially in putting it in good sanitary condition again.

It is stated that out of 400 houses in Jersey Shore in the line of the flood, only nine escaped being inundated.

The contract for rebuilding the Normal School edifice at Lock Haven has been awarded to C. W. Uhdey, of Warren, Pa.

A moonlight picnic party left town last Wednesday evening about six o'clock in Lose's large hack, proceeding to Snow Shoe Intersection where a delightful evening was spent, the party returning under the bright rays of the moon.

The school board of Union township has elected the following teachers for the coming winter term: Cherry Grove, Miss Bartha Davidson; Maple Grove, Miss Joda Erhard; Bell Grove, Mr. Frank McCoy; Bush Grove, Miss Dora White; Plum Grove, Miss Sallie Davidson.

On Saturday morning a fire took place on the premises of Mr. W. Richards at Black Rock, near Phillipsburg, a spot well known to fishermen. The barn was wholly destroyed. It contained a large quantity of farming implements and a new buggy which were all rendered useless for further service. When discovered every effort was made to extinguish it but without avail. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The following from the Altoona Tribune indicates that Dr. Monroë in his new field of duty has in no way diminished his ministerial activity: "The true Woman" will be the theme of Dr. Monroë's discourse in the First Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday evening. "The Young Man With His Eyes Open" formed the subject of his discourse last evening, and it was listened to by a large and appreciative audience. It was instructive in character and entertaining in its sallies upon the follies of the present age.

Last Monday a fatal and terrible accident occurred in Nippenose Valley, Lycoming county. A farmer named Samuel Dower had been mowing grass, and having occasion to go into the house for something laid the scythe down on the ground. During his absence an eight year old son took it up and commenced swinging it back and forth, not noticing that his little sister, about three years old, was close behind him; the result was that he slashed into the little one's throat, almost cutting her head off. Death was instantaneous.

Judge Krebs, of Clearfield county, while recently taking his family on a visit to his brother at Pine Grove Mills, met with an adventure which might have proved calamitous. They were driving in their private conveyance, and when Clearfield creek was reached the Judge attempted to ford the stream, and near the middle the horse went into a deep hole, drawing the carriage after them. Immediately the carriage filled and began to float down the stream, when the Judge, with rare presence of mind, whipped up his horses and in their struggles managed to secure a foot-hold, and soon afterward had the vehicle safe on the other side. The party arrived in Phillipsburg sometime after dark, wet to the skin and baggage soaked with water. Judge Krebs, in speaking of the mishap to a friend, said he regarded the escape as nothing short of miraculous.

On the evening of the Fourth inst., a very interesting wedding took place at the parochial residence of Rev. Father Kummerant in Phillipsburg. The contracting parties were Mr. Michael Kelley, of Bellefonte, boiler maker, and Miss Jennie Botwright, of Chester Hill. The ceremony took place in the presence of a large number of the friends of both, including several members of the Hope Fire Company, the groom being attired in a fireman's uniform. The groom is no stranger to Phillipsburg, and a member of the Logan Hose Co. No. 1, Bellefonte, and is very highly spoken of by the resident priest at Bellefonte. The bride is well known in Phillipsburg as a prepossessing and amiable young lady, with all the qualities for making a good wife and deserving of a good husband. We wish for the small a long life of happiness, with the smallest share of the cares that usually follow in the wake of married life.

Independence Day of 1889 seems to have been celebrated with more spirit in Phillipsburg than in Bellefonte. In the morning a procession including the veterans of the G. A. R., Hope Fire Company, visiting firemen and the Temperance Legion, was formed on Presquile street, and headed by the drum corps of the G. A. R., paraded the streets. In the afternoon and evening a dance was held at the Hope Fire Company's pavilion. At the driving park, where the services of the Woodland brass band were engaged, a foot ball game formed the sport for the morning and in the afternoon, man, horse, and dog races, putting the shot and other games were ably carried out, affording much pleasure to the large number which assembled and enjoyed that kind of sport. The ladies of the W. C. T. U., assisted by the "Y's," provided refreshments at Barber's old stand and were well patronized during the day.

SOMETHING NEW IN INLAND WATERS.

A recent issue of the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin says: The Pennsylvania Railroad Company always prompt to have things in shape, have a sub-marine diver at work to examine the abutments of their bridges in this locality. The diver's name is Herman Walters, whose home is Philadelphia. Mr. Walters is a very pleasant man to talk with, and he evidently possesses a thorough knowledge of the work he undertakes to perform; if he did not, he would not be in the employ of the great Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

His first work on this line of the railroad was at the Montgomery bridge, on Wednesday. On Thursday he examined the abutments of the railroad bridge, this city, and yesterday he was at the Linden bridge, where he descended twenty feet and remained under the water half an hour. Today he will examine the abutments of the Queen's Run bridge.

It is a novel thing to see a sub-marine diver at work so far in the interior of the State, and this in all probability is the first time that such an event has taken place in Pennsylvania. Mr. Walters no doubt considers this mere child's play in comparison with what he has undergone as a diver, for he has dropped down into the water to a depth of over two hundred feet.

Mr. Walters, before entering the water, clothes himself in two full suits of flannel—in order, he says, to avoid rheumatism—and over this he has a heavy rubber suit. Of course, then comes the metal suit, which covers the head and body, and is made of the very finest steel.

In the same connection the Lock Haven Democrat says: Mr. Walters examined the Queen's Run bridge above Lock Haven this morning, and pronounced the abutments all right. He wore a brass cap over his head with glass in it through which to see, and heavy iron-soled shoes. A belt of lead weighing ninety pounds was strapped around his waist, and an air pipe or hose was attached to the cap or helmet on his head, the air being sent down by a sort of wind mill arrangement. When at the bottom one could tell just where he was by the bubbles welling up from below. When he came out he was entirely dry except his hands, which of course must be uncovered.

ANECDOTES ABOUT OLD BELLEFONTE LAWYERS.—The legal fraternity as well as some of our older citizens will enjoy the following anecdotes as related by the Clearfield Craftsman's Journal:

A good anecdote is on record concerning James M. Petriken, Esq., at an early day the life of the Clearfield bar, and the elder Judge Burnside. Petriken raised a point and the Judge decided against him, but the lawyer promptly produced an authority sustaining his position. Burnside was inflexible and Petriken impudently tore the leaf from the book and threw it upon the floor. In answer to the Judge's demand for the reason Petriken declared, "If it is not the law it has no right to be in the book."

Judge Burnside is said to have had a hearty contempt for legal forms and technicalities. Even-handed justice was what he wanted and he cared little how it came about, yet it is said that upon the Supreme Bench, to which he was afterward commissioned, he made an excellent record. During the trial of another case in this county Mr. Petriken and James T. Hale were associate counsel, and Mr. Hale, understanding the obdurate Judge upon the book question, made the statement that he was supported by the authorities in a position he had just taken. "Well, why didn't you bring your books here?" said the Judge. "I will go and get them," replied Mr. Hale, and as he was going out the Judge remarked, "That reminds me of a carpenter coming to work for me without tools. The Court has forgotten more law than that young man knows!" "That," quickly replied Mr. Petriken in his waggish mood, "is what we complain of—your Honor has forgotten too much."

It appears from a Johnstown correspondence in the Philadelphia Press that an offender who had been the cause of the death of ten men, has recently been lurking in this neighborhood. In regard to this circumstance the correspondent says: Superintendent Mason, of the Mann Detective Agency, of Philadelphia, has been at Johnstown for the past few days looking for John Decker, a Hungarian coal miner who is wanted in Schuylkill County for manslaughter. The detective tracked him to Bellefonte and there learned that he started in the direction of Johnstown. Upon arriving here the detective found a man working on the drift who answered the description of the Hungarian, but it was not he. It is expected that the man is working in the vicinity of the town and descriptions of him will be posted throughout the country. Decker was the miner in the employ of the Kaska William Colliery Company.

Charles Hughes, son of Rev. James P. Hughes, John Furst, son of Judge Furst, and Lee Woodcock, son of Rev. J. A. Woodcock, all of this place, passed creditable examinations preparatory to entering Princeton College.

A meeting of the stock-holders of the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad Company will be held in Philadelphia on the 25th inst., for the purpose of determining whether the Bellefonte, Nittany and Lemont railroad company shall be consolidated with and merged into the Bald Eagle Valley Company.

The furnace of the Bellefonte Furnace Company (Collins') which had been out of blast for the last two months for repairs, was put in operation last Tuesday and is now turning out its usual amount of iron. The stack was thoroughly relined with fire-brick, and other improvements were made to facilitate the operations and increase the capacity of the works.

Before the departure of General Hastings from Johnstown he was presented with a badge and emblem by Colonel Stewart on behalf of the Grand Army of the Republic. The gift was in recognition of the service rendered by the General at Johnstown. He responded feelingly to the presentation speech of Colonel Stewart.

The citizens of Bellefonte, who were on duty at Johnstown since the flood, rendering assistance in the restoration of that ravaged locality, have all returned home. S. H. Williams, Harry Keller, Capt. Mullin, S. M. Buck, Quarter-master Singer, and others, got back last week and the early part of this week, and General Hastings and Colonel Spangler arrived home on Wednesday morning. The absence of most of them comprehended a period of nearly a month.

Speaking of the sentiment of the miners in the Beech Creek and Clearfield regions, a correspondent of the Altoona Tribune says: They will generously assist the miners now on strike in regions paying less than 50 cents per gross ton; they are opposed to a suspension of mining operations—general or otherwise—in regions paying the 50 cent scale, and have not, nor are they contemplating, making a demand for an increase of 10 cents, 5 cents or any other amount. Delegates have been elected to attend the Altoona meeting of miners on the 8th inst., with instructions to pledge liberal support to Gallitzin men, but not to favor the general suspension idea.

As is their summer custom, a party of young people of Bellefonte went out on an camping excursion in the woods last week, Cherry Run, a charming sylvan locality in Union county being the place selected this year, as it was last year, for pitching their tents. Four sturdy youths, Geo. Jackson, Will Furst and James Hughes, of Bellefonte, and A. Wilson Norris, of Philadelphia, went ahead Monday of last week and prepared the camp, and were followed by the rest of the excursionists the next day, among whom were a number of young ladies. Mrs. A. Wilson Norris, of Philadelphia, chaperoned the young people who remained in camp for a week.

Mr. Wm. M. Lyon, brother of S. Stewart Lyon, Esq., of this place, died at Pittsburg last week. He was well known in Bellefonte, frequently visiting his brother here. His father, John Lyon, was connected with the early iron operations of the Juniata, Bald Eagle and Spruce Creek valleys, and subsequently engaged in extensive iron operations in Pittsburg. John Lyon, the father, was married four times. The first wife, and mother of William M., was Jane McClay, a daughter of William McClay, who, with his colleague, Robert Morris, was the first United States senator from Pennsylvania, serving from 1789 to 1791. His second wife was a daughter of General John Patton, of Centre county. To this union one son was born, J. Patton Lyon, who died a few years ago at his home in Pittsburg. His third wife was Margaret, a sister of his partner, David Stewart. To this union eight children were born as follows: James B. Lyon, of Pittsburg; S. Stewart Lyon, of Bellefonte; Mary A. Lowrie, wife of J. R. Lowrie, of Warriorsmark, both deceased; George W. Lyon, of Pennsylvania Furnace; Mrs. Bucher Ayers, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Hamill, deceased, wife of Rev. J. R. Hamill, of Centre county; Sarah W., wife of George W. Porter, of Alexandria, Huntingdon county; and Thomas S. Lyon, of Topeka, Kansas. The fourth wife was Anna P. Hubley, of Lancaster, without issue. Wm. M. Lyon was born in Harrisburg, April 30, 1809, and died aged 80 years 2 months and 3 days. In his boyhood days he was a student at Dickinson college, Carlisle, and soon afterward he entered the Western university at Pittsburg, from which he graduated, after which he took up the study of law and finished a course in that branch, but never made application for admittance to the bar, preferring a life of business, for which after experience he has proved himself well fitted.

RING THE BELLS.—We have received from our talented friend, C. C. Ziegler, (Carl Schreiber) of St. Louis, a handsomely printed card, the text of which was as follows and fully explains itself:

GRIM!
Calla Alpha and Laura Alpha,
Born to
Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ziegler,
June 21st, 1889. St. Louis, Mo.
"Ring out wild bells—tune ones, too—
Ring out the lover's moon;
Ring in the little worsted socks,
Ring in the life and spoon!"
Ring out the muse—ring in the nurse!
Across the unknown waters
They've safely sailed and come to port,
My daughters, O my daughters!"

"Elegi Monumentum."

Behold, I am deathless! The scythe-man
Who deems that all flesh is but grass,
Shall find me a tough and a little man,
Full of years as the sands in his glass.
But fare as it may with the Ego,
And whether or no I am crowned,
My life shall not fare like Carthago—
Shall not be brought down to the ground.
I have fashioned a poem sultrier
Than any that Milton e'er penned,
Nor did the great German at Weimar
My latest endeavor transcend.
No more by the critical croaker
Shall my work as unworthy be classed;
I am out of the hole medicine,
I'm an author immortal at last!

Not in books, like the lyrics of Horace,
But in forms of the flesh, sweet and rare,
In my Lalage, Lilies and Lauras
Shall my spirit persist and grow fair.
And to prove what I claim—for I know you
Are anxious for facts that convince—
Come up to the house and I'll show you
My poem immortal—the twins!

—Carl Schreiber.

The Reliance Fire Company of Phillipsburg eclipsed all competitors at Clearfield on the 4th. The company took the $15 prize for neatness in dress, marching and deportment. Not a single member of the company indulged in the use of strong drink all day and the boys were cheered and flattered in a manner that made them and their friends feel very proud.
