Medical.

AFTER THE FLOODS.

Those who have become run down by exposure to the weather or by nervous excitement, or worry, should take a good medicine to tune up the system, put the digestive organs in good condition, purify the blood and expel malaria or other previous germs. Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiarly adapted for just this purpose. It is undoubtedly the best blood purifier and regulating medicine before the people. It gives great nerve, bodily and digestive strength. Give it freely.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

"I was severely troubled with biliousness, and thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla. When I had taken half a bottle I noticed a big change for the better, and after taking two bottles I consider myself entirely cured. I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla will do all that is claimed for it." J. B. Smith, Collector of Bell Telephone Company, 73 East street, Rochester N. Y.

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

"For over a year we have been using that admirable preparation, Hood's Sarsaparilla, among the inmates of St. John's Home, with constantly increasing benefit and satisfaction; we want nothing better. In cases of general debility and loss of appetite we find it invaluable also when an impure state of the blood is indicated by eruptions, etc. We shall continue to keep it among our regular supplies." N. B. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Fashion Fancies.

—The simplest shapes are still most favored for morning wrappers and dressing-gowns.

—Some of the newest bonnets are the merest headresses, consisting of a bit of lace, a ribbon bow and one or two large roses.

—Colored floral designs are not only interwoven in many of the new ribbons, but in many instances are painted upon them.

—It is predicted that the tight-fitting halting jacket in Louis xv style will be in fashion in the not distant future.

—Small, low hats, low collars, undraped skirts, no bustles, full sleeves and wide belts are the features in all fashionable toilets.

—Young ladies who affect the simple Empire style of dress wear white or pale-tinted open-work stockings and shoes with sandals.

—Side combs of tortoise shell, topped with turquoise, surrounded by semicircular pearls, are among the novelties in the jewelry line.

—Berage is an old-time material which has come to us again. It may be had plain, with intervenew border stripes is regarded as a novelty.

—Placed toilets are a pretty novelty, and are very simple and easily made. Only fine, thin stuff lends themselves to this arrangement, however.

—Some of the new ribbons are of Scotch plaid in the most brilliant hues for half of their width, the other half being filled with a soft monotone.

—In tailor fancy cloths for ladies everything must be rough and heeled to be in the fashion. Smooth cloths are out of date, except just the plain kinds.

—Tulle of a coarse make, either plain or embroidered, is being the place as a dress material of the black and white laces so long considered indispensable.

—Flower toques are very popular with young ladies. The tulle-covered shape is edged with velvet, and a single poppy or other large flower forms the crown.

—Sea-wave velvet, exactly the tone you see when you look down into the hollow of the waves, is being made up into the simplest dinner gowns, with just a sash of cream crepe de chine.

—Puffed casings, run with ribbons of various widths, divide favor with gauging, smocking and bouillons of fashionable summer gowns of mull, batiste and mousseline de chifon.

—Broad bands of soft leather, in colors to match the material of the gown, are worn as hems, cuffs, collars, waistcoats and revers on walking and driving suits intended for country wear.

—An entirely novel color, which appears in some of the newest summer silks, is known as "spirit flame." It is a blending of violet, blue and red, resembling the hues noted in burning spirits.

—There are many novelties in ribbon just now, and the hitherto prevailing plain surfaces have disappeared. If a ribbon shows but a single color it is at least watered, broadened ribbon.

—The revived berages of this summer come with interwoven and printed borders on plain colored grounds of delicate intermediate shades, blue, rose, gray, beige, green, bronze, purple, yellow and cream.

—Tailor-made gowns have but little trimming this season, depending on the perfect fit for their excellent effect. When garnitures are used they are invariably embroideries of some sort, open-work, satin stitch, metallic embroidery or soutache braiding.

—The low hats so long promised have become far a reality that we now see the perfectly flat, low hat tied on with strings. The crown is usually of tulle, with a preceding brim of straw, and a little head lace and a cluster of flowers, with the velvet strings, are the only trimmings required.

—Deafness can't be cured by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, (caused by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

How MR. CLUGSTON FOILED THE ENEMY.—That poem you published this morning was rather clever, Mr. Clugston, remarked the editor, though to the critical reader it might have seemed a trifle incoherent and disconnected. "That poem," replied the editor of the Doodleville Yelper, fishing a fly out of his paste-pot, "was a contribution. After we had the forms made up we discovered it was an acoustic conveying the information that Clugston is a darning chump! We had no time to wait, and hadn't anything to take the place of that poem, so I told the foreman to change the order of the verses and mix up the lines so that the first letters wouldn't spell anything, and go to press. It spelled the thing for an acoustic," continued Mr. Clugston, with a heavy sigh indicative of the burden that oppresses the mind of a man charged with the destinies of a great journal, "but it didn't seem to hurt it much as a poem."—Chicago Tribune.

Suggestions for Mothers.

What to do When one of the Little Ones Has the Earache or Croup.

One of our little girls has been troubled with earache ever since her babyhood, says a writer in Good Housekeeping. No sores have gathered, but a cold or exposure to a strong wind is almost certain to cause her acute suffering with earache. After trying almost everything I have seen or heard recommended, I have settled on this application as giving surest and quickest relief. It is a flannel bag stuffed with hops and wrung from hot vinegar. I lay the bag over the child's ear, as hot as she will bear it, cover the whole side of the face with dry flannel, and change the hop bag as often as it becomes cool. The warm steam filling the child's ear, soon relieves the pain.

Stuffing the ear with the "heart of a warm onion," tricklings of molasses, wads of peppered cotton and lumps of mutton tallow have never yet, in my experience, eased earache, and such irritating masses crowded or poured into the delicate labyrinth of the ear may do much mischief.

Another child is the victim of legache, inherited probably, for well do we remember what we suffered with its tortures in our own childhood. Heat and moisture gave relief, and, following in our mother's foot-steps, we have routed night after night from our warm quarters, in the dead of winter, to kindle fires and fill frosty kettles from water pails thickly crusted with ice, that we might get the writhing pedal extremities of our little feet into a tub of hot water as quickly as possible. But lately we have learned that all this work and exposure is needless. We simply wring a towel from salted water—a bowl of it standing in our sleeping room ready for such an emergency—wrap the limb in it from ankle to knee, without taking the child from the bed, and then swathe with dry flannels, thick and warm, tucking the blankets about him a little closer, and relief is sure.

A croupy cough can often be loosened and prevented by swathing the throat with dry, warm flannels; a thick pack of them to sweat the throat and chest often helps so rapidly that it is not necessary to sicken the child with ipecac or to wake the household kindling fires or preparing hot packs.

A PETTICOATING DOG.—Congressman Allen, representative from Mississippi, tells the following:

While practicing law in his native State the case of a man whose dog had been shot by a neighbor, and who wished to obtain damages for him, was brought before the court.

Among the witnesses summoned to testify to the qualities of the dead animal was a slow talking old dandy, familiarly known as "Uncle Sam."

"Did you know anything about this dog, Sam?" asked the counsel for the plaintiff.

"I reckon I did," replied Uncle Sam. "I've known him ever since he were a pup."

"Well, what sort of a dog was he?" asked the lawyer.

"He was a big yaller dog," replied Sam.

"Oh," said the lawyer somewhat impatiently, "I don't mean how did he look. I mean what sort of a dog was he—could he hunt? was he a guard?"

"He couldn't do nothing, as I knowed on," replied Sam, slowly, "cept eat an sleep, an' lay roun' an' holler, an' make a fuss. Dat's what made 'em call 'im what dey did."

"And what did they call him?" asked the lawyer.

"Why, sah," replied Sam, "folks called 'im Lawyer."—Drake's Magazine.

ORIGIN OF NATURAL SOAP MINES.—The natural soap mines of Owens Lake, California, are accounted for by the following theory: The water of the lake contains a strong solution of borax and soda. In these waters there breeds a grub that becomes a fly. The flies die in the water and drift ashore, covering the ground to the depth of a foot or more. The oily substance of the flies blends with the borax and soda, and the result is a layer of pure soap. These strata, repeated from year to year, form the soap mines, where large forces of men are now employed. This theory as the Italians say, "if not true, is well founded."

SHE GOT IT.—They were sitting on the piazza that faces the sea, watching the white yachts as they crossed the moon's track, when he suddenly said: "I think it must be delightful sailing on such a lovely night." "Oh, lovely, I should think." "I wish I owned one for your sake. I would take you sailing every night." "That would be just lovely!" "What kind of a yacht would you prefer—a steam yacht or a sailing one?" "I think, she murmured, as she glanced around, "I would like a little snacker." She got it.—Boston Courier.

HENRY WAS A SUCCESS.—"Tell me, Uncle Charles," pleaded Amelia, "do you think that Henry will make a good husband?" "I think he will," replied Uncle Charles, without hesitation. "I offered him a cigar last evening, and he took it as freely as it was given. When he opened his coat in search of a match he exposed his waistcoat, and its two upper pockets were filled with cigars. I have no hesitation in saying that Henry will prove a saving, economical husband."—Boston Transcript.

SPONGE PUDDING.—One quart of milk, sweetened to taste, one-quarter of a pound of flour, six eggs. Boil the milk, stir in the flour and sugar; let boil one minute, remove, and let stand two or three hours. About one-half hour before it is ready to serve add the eggs beaten to a froth, pour into a greased pan; set in another pan filled with boiling water, and bake forty-five minutes.

Jones, to his friend.—"Yes, old boy, I've determined to economize on car fare, and walk home from the office every day. By the way let's go in and take something. It's a devilish long walk home."

USE MARVELOUS COUGH SYRUP.—A sure cure for Coughs, Whooping Cough, Bronchial or Throat Affections of any kind.

SHE OWNED THE EARTH.

—She held up her hand to the conductor to stop the car, but he was in no hurry about it and waited until it reached the crossing.

"Didn't I signal you to stop the car back there?" she demanded. "You did, madam." "Then why didn't you stop it?" "Against orders, ma'am; we stop only at crossings." "Whogave those orders?" "The manager." "Is the manager on the car?" "No, ma'am." "And I can't see him?" "Not unless you go to the office." "Very well, I withdraw my patronage from this line. Just inform the manager of this fact, will you, and suggest that he call and apologize. The car can now proceed." And the car, strange to relate, did proceed.—Detroit Free Press.

MERIT REWARDED.—A dry goods drummer said the met at one of the Western railroad stations the man who made the trunks for his house. "There," said the drummer, pointing to a porter, "is a man whom I am obliged to give Hail Columbia to on every trip; he does more damage to my baggage than all the others combined." "Is that so?" replied the trunk man, and without more talk he walked over and handed the astonished porter $5. "What's that for?" he asked. "That's for smashing trunks, and the next time I come here if you do as well as you have in the past I will do the same."—Dry Goods Reporter.

CREAMED CHICKEN.—Cut the remnants of cold boiled or roasted chicken in small pieces. Make a sauce of one pint of cream, two ounces of butter, the yolk of one egg, beaten, and a tablespoonful of cornstarch or flour seasoned with salt and pepper, a little sugar and a teaspoonful of anchovy sauce and one bay leaf or sprig of parsley. Let the pieces of chicken simmer in this sauce for half an hour. Stew some rice in milk, seasoning with salt and pepper. Put the chicken in the centre of a dish and surround it with the rice.

A dainty little pudding is made of any stale sponge-cake you have over, say about half a pound. Cut in slices and soak in a little scalding milk; then beat up lightly, mixing in the juice and finely grated rind of half a lemon or a tablespoonful of orange marmalade, a small piece of butter and an egg, well beaten; two ounces of sugar, if the lemon is used; bake half an hour in a quick oven. Roughly chopped preserved ginger or pine-apple can be used instead of the other fruit, adding some of the sirup instead of sugar.

RASPBERRY BUNS.—Mix six ounces each of ground rice and flour, rub in a quarter of a pound of lard, the same of white sugar and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Make into a stiff paste with the yolk of an egg and a little milk. Divide into small balls; hollow each and insert a little raspberry jam; close up neatly and dip into beaten white of the egg; flatten a little and bake on a tin in a sharp oven. They will crack during the baking and show the jam through.

PRUNE PUDDING.—Scald one pound of prunes; let them swell in the hot water till soft, drain, and extract the stones; spread on a dish, and dredge with flour; take a gill of milk from a quart, stir into it gradually eight tablespoonfuls sifted flour; beat six eggs very light, and stir by degrees into the remainder of the quart of milk, alternating with the batter; add prunes one at a time, stir all very hard, boil about two hours, and serve with sauce or cream.

RHUBARB AND ORANGE PRESERVES.—Six oranges, two pounds of rhubarb stalks, one pound and a half of sugar; peel the oranges carefully, take the white rind and the seeds, slice the pulp into a preserving kettle, add the peel cut very fine; then the rhubarb cut in very small pieces, and lastly the sugar. Boil the whole down in the usual way for preserves.

FORCE OF HABIT.—"Why is it that Cawdle has such a gait? He acts all the time as if he were walking on tiptoe." "Well, you see he had three babies in quick succession up at his house, and the poor fellow actually can't break himself of going around as if he were afraid of disturbing somebody."—Lowell Citizen.

A NECESSARY EVIL.—Rev. Mr. Rustle.—"I've succeeded in converting every man in this camp excepting one. Can't we together influence Hook-nose Sam to turn over a new leaf?" Gnawed Riley (the scout).—"I wouldn't nowise do, parson. Why, we wouldn't have a soul left to swear at th' mules."—Judge.

RICE FRITTERS.—Three tablespoonfuls of rice, four eggs, one teaspoonful of currants, sugar and nutmeg to suit the taste; boil rice gently until swelled; dredge currants with flour; beat eggs; mix all together thoroughly and fry.
