Phillipsburg Pickings. A Batch of Interesting News Collected and Written By Our Own Special Correspondent.

Mr. William Lehman, a former Phillipsburg merchant, was here on last Friday.

Quite a good number of our people left Saturday and Monday for Gettysburg.

It strikes us that work upon the Old Fellows new book is progressing rather slowly.

The family of A. V. Carpenter left Monday for Greensburg, where they will hereafter reside.

While in the act of dumping coal, last Friday, Mr. Richard Ashcroft had one of his hands badly mashed.

J. N. Schover who recently left for the Far West, returned to Phillipsburg last week. He will stay in Phillipsburg.

Mr. Robert Manley is able to be about again. He had been confined several weeks with a rash of blood to the head.

Edward Cudworth, who has been a resident of our town for about ten years, left Tuesday for his former home in England.

Phil. Womelsdorf has purchased the property he has occupied for some time on South Centre street, of Capt. T. C. Fryberger.

Hon. J. N. Casanova and wife and niece who have been spending several weeks at Saratoga, have returned to Phillipsburg.

J. J. Parker, formerly a clerk in the Hale Hardware Co. store, has accepted a position as salesman in Weaver's grocery at Clearfield.

Chester Hill's public schools will open on next Monday morning. Miss Zana Gearhart, graduate at the last commencement at our High school, will teach the primary school.

Mr. Daniel Kellogg of this place has left with his family for Nova Scotia. He has been a good citizen and resident of our town for a number of years, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

R. Haworth, recently of the firm of R. Haworth & Bro., who, a few weeks since, went down into Virginia to go into business, not liking the town he desired locating in has returned to Phillipsburg.

Lewis Hess, Esq., and his son-in-law, accompanied by the latter's family, left Tuesday for Hanon, where they will hereafter make their homes. Both have accepted positions in a large planing mill at that place.

Rev. N. H. Miller, of Ocoosa, and the Lutheran minister of this place, Rev. A. K. Felton, exchanged pulpits on last Sunday morning. A Rev. Mr. Foster occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church in this place Sunday evening.

A sparring match, for $100 a side, is advertised to take place in the park on October 10th, but the Town Council decided at their last meeting that it shall not come off. They also instructed the Burgess not to issue any more licenses to street fairs.

It is rumored that Rev. S. A. Cornelius, pastor of the Presbyterian church, this place, has received a call from a church in California but as he is on a visit to his parents in Ohio, we are unable to find out whether he will accept the call or not, but it is our hope he will not, as he is universally liked by our people.

Charles E. Kemp, Superintendent of Hoop or Higgins & Co. planning mill at this place, has purchased the Shanty property on corner of Seventh and Presqueville streets. We understand that he intends fixing the property up in good style, and if that is his intention we may expect to see improvements in the property which was rapidly going to pieces.

At a meeting of Town Council the Light committee presented a bill for $158.52 for the arrears, but in consequence of the failure in giving the prescribed light, the company reduced the amount to $105.52, the Council however, considered $80 as a full equivalent for ever, considered $80 as a full equivalent for light received. This is right, and the borough should not pay for a thing they do not get.

Mrs. John S. Runk, living with her son Jerry on N. Second street, died of dropsy on last Saturday evening, aged about sixty-one years. She was a kind, christian old lady, and loved and esteemed by everybody. Her husband died about one year ago. Her remains were interred in the new cemetery on last Monday afternoon, and were followed by a great many friends and relatives.

We learn that a large brick building will be erected upon the ruins of the livery stable recently burned on corner of Second and Pine street, and that Rhule & Robinson have the contract. One of the buildings which were destroyed at the same time, and which joined the livery stable which belonged to W. T. Rothrock, will be replaced by a large brick dwelling and will be quite an improvement to that section of town.

David J. Davis who is employed in the Spring Hill colliery, met with a painful accident on last Friday. He was entering the mine, his lamp not giving very good light, and in order to pick his footsteps, held his head down, when he fell and unexpectedly he came in contact with a mine, which dealt him a fearful blow between the eyes with his hoof, knocking him senseless to the ground. His wounds were dressed by Dr. Biglow.

The public schools opened on last Monday morning, and the small boy and girl will have to be tied down for nine long months, under the Superintendent of J. B. Richey, A. B. We have no doubt that the coming term of school will be a great success. The corps of teachers are second to none, and are as follows: J. B. Richey, A. B., Superintendent, High School; R. M. Wilson, A. B., Principal; Miss Jennie Morrison, Assistant, Grammar school; 9th grade, Miss Emma J. Herrick, Precinctress; 8th grade, Miss Cora James; 7th grade, Miss Mollie Ward; 6th grade, Miss Margaret Meade; Intermediate schools; 5th grade, Miss Cora Vaughn; 4th grade, Miss Alla M. Smith; 4th grade, Miss Ella Ward; 2nd grade, Miss Lydia Holt; 2nd grade, Miss Agnes Shoemaker; 2nd grade, Mrs. Lucretia Colburn. Primary school: 1st grade, Miss Myrtle Gray; 1st grade Miss Phoebe Hoover.

A great deal of dissatisfaction is expressed by parents who are compelled to purchase a whole new outfit of school books this term of school. Don't know but it strikes us that they are justified in condemning the change of school books. It is now only two years since a new series of school books was introduced, and for the Principal, Directors, or whoever is instrumental in making this change so soon again, we don't think it is exactly right. We have plenty of families living in our midst who are really not able to stand this additional unnecessary expense. In our opinion this thing of changing school books every two or three years is a piece of "non-sensical nonsense," and the people should stop it. It is money in the pockets of the publisher and agent, but the poor devil who is compelled to purchase books for a family of from five to seven children—well that is a secondary consideration.

Political Colonization.

There is said to be a big political scheme on hand to colonize the new States of Montana and Washington with negroes, so as to hold them steady in the Republican column. It is a well known fact that both these proposed new States are Democratic and the only way the Republicans can see to get their electoral vote is to fill them with negroes from the States of the late confederacy. National Chairman Quay has the credit of being at the head of this piece of political chicanery, and the African M. E. church has been selected by him to do the dirty work, the preachers of which have already begun to call on the blacks to emigrate to the Northwestern States and particularly to the two above-mentioned. Rev. T. M. Henderson, of Quinn Chapel, Chicago, has made an elaborate report of the "State of the Country," in which he advises the darkeys to go to the Northwest. Said he:

"I have lived for a great many years in the South and am quite conversant with the subject treated. It was I who organized and conducted under Gov. St. John the great exodus of my people from the State of Mississippi to Kansas in 1879. At that time I was editor of two newspapers in Kansas. We got over 60,000 colored people to move to that State, gave most of them a mule and sold them forty acres of land each on five and ten years' time. The move was a great success. Many of them are now rich. All are well-to-do."

Henderson says this movement has been quietly worked for a long time and will be continued until enough blacks are scattered through these States to carry them for the Republican party. He added that they have a better "underground railroad" now than they had in the days of old John Brown.

Such is the scheme instituted by Quay to steal the States of Montana and Washington from the Democrats. But now that it is known Democratic management will be apt to checkmate it to a large extent, so that it will not be likely to be as successful as it otherwise might have been. To be forewarned is to be forearmed, and those Western Democrats will doubtless be on the lookout to arrest this piece of political jugglery.

Six Months of Harrison.

New York World. The first six months of the Harrison administration, an eighth of the full term, have passed. If "bad beginning makes a good ending," the new administration ought to go out in a blaze of glory, for none in forty years has made a worse start.

President Harrison has violated the most conspicuous of his own pledges, and his administration has already made a mockery of the rosy promises that were a part of his canvass. Instead of "extending the civil service reform" he has inaugurated a clean sweep. Removals for political reasons have not been so rife and so relentless since the inauguration of the spoils system. Wages have been reduced, strikes have increased and failures multiplied.

President Harrison signalled his accession to office by rewarding with high appointments men who have given large sums of money to promote his election. In this sordid and corrupt use of the appointing power he has surpassed the boldest acts of President Grant in his first term, as he has likewise in the nepotism and a favoritism which have characterized his appointments, and in his open alliance with the worst bosses of the party in every State.

In the last two months of the first half year there has been an increase of over $7,000,000 in the public debt. The deposits in "favored banks," which both Mr. Blair and Mr. Harrison made the occasion of a railing accusation against a Democratic Secretary of the Treasury, have increased under the new administration.

The most conspicuous feature of the Harrison regime at home has been the open mouth and reckless hand of Corporal Tanner in the Pension Office. The most notable scintillation of its "brilliant foreign policy" has been the farcical seizure of Canadian vessels in Behring Sea and their running away with the "prize crews" of one.

It is small wonder that sagacious Republican leaders "view with alarm" the approaching fall elections.

Pensions and National Expenses.

The following letter from a Germantown correspondent to the Philadelphia Times explains itself and is emphatically answered by the editor of that paper: To the Editor of the Times: Are you not in error in the surprising statement made in your editorial columns this morning, that the cost of pensions this year would be double the amount of the entire expenses of the national government before the war?

No; we were not mistaken. The total ordinary expenses of the national government, including interest, for the year ending June 30, 1890, were $63,200,875, and for the year ending June 30, 1891, they were $69,650,213. The appropriations for pensions this year are a little over $81,000,000, and the present Pension Commissioner has already drawn on the fund at a rate that would exhaust the entire appropriation in five months. He stated lately in a public speech that he was undecided whether his requisition for pensions would be $115,000,000 or $125,000,000, and unless his 're-arranging' policy will be adequate to pay his pension drafts.

The government has already paid over $1,000,000,000 in pensions since the close of the civil war, and it will require much more than $1,000,000,000 in addition to execute our present pension laws, while the new disability and service pension bills proposed by the Grand Army National encampment would add fully $1,000,000,000 more to the present pension obligations of the government. These are startling figures, but they present the sober truth.

The Grand Old Man on the Stump.

I do not remember ever to have seen what I consider a good or full description of Gladstone when speaking, and as speaking is one of his commonest avocations in daily life it is curious that no one has ever endeavored to reproduce to the mind's eye of far distant readers a pen picture of one of the most prominent men in all Europe when engaged in making a speech. Let me therefore have a try. In the first place, it must be borne in mind that Gladstone is a small man, and that when standing up to address an audience his low stature is all the more noticeable. People who are accustomed to judge the Grand Old Man (those who never see him) by his photographs are apt to think him a large tall man. The immense broad head and width of shoulders naturally give the impression of a body and frame to each other across his forehead, the long, dark, deep line on each side of the nose from eye corner to chin, the firm, clinched lips, and the eyes which blink in sullen thought, all combine to suggest a temporarily subdued, but anger-slumbering, Bengal tiger.

Once he opens his lips, this expression vanishes. His face brightens up, and his voice comes forth clear and musical, as unlike the voice of an octogenarian as his old power, but it cannot be called a weak voice. There is never a quaver or querulous shrillness, never an approach to the piping, childish treble, or tremulous bass of our grandfathers, and Gladstone might be the great-grandfather of some of us. Though it cannot reach me, save as I can catch an utterance or two at intervals, it is the voice of middle-aged manhood still. On and on he talks, never hesitating, never stumbling, never repeating, never stammering, never at a loss for a word. His ease and fluency make you think his speeches commonplace. At intervals of say fifty words, he has a curious facial trick of spreading and tightening his lower lip across his teeth, about as a man does whose teeth are set on edge, and you listen for the whistling inhalation which commonly accompanies clinched teeth.

This gives his face a hard, sinister, cruel look for an instant. Then it vanishes, to come again and again until you get so used to it that you miss it if perchance he lets too long an interval go by. Sometimes he scratches his temple with his bent forefinger, sometimes the top of his head with his thumb; again, he is brating time with pointed finger or fining a crushing sentence with a twirl of his hand. At other times he is holding his double eye-glasses up to his eyes to read some statistic, or extract, or quotation, and then taking them down again. Altogether, as you stand and watch him, you cannot realize that you are being addressed by one of the great orators of modern times. His dress consisted Wednesday of a black frock coat and waistcoat, the coat worn open, and the top buttons of the waistcoat left unbuttoned over an expanse of white shirt bosom; a black silk handkerchief tied round a not by any means so large a shirt collar as is generally given him. Dark-brown trousers completed his costume, which was simplicity itself. —Cockaigne's London Letter.

Couldn't Beat the Yankee.

While the United States ship Nipic and several men-of-war of different nations were anchored near each other in the harbor of Montevideo, the crew of a Dutch man-of-war which was moored near Uncle Sam's ship entered into a lively competitive drill and did their utmost to beat the time made by the American boys in shining masts up and down and crossing yards. After some very determined racing, in which the Americans had slightly laid the Dutchmen over their persistent competitor, one of the Dutchmen, who had succeeded in crossing the mainyard at a few seconds astern of the time made by the Nipic, gave a loud shout, which drew the attention of every ship in the harbor, and shinning up the pole to the truck, which is a circular piece of wood about the size of a dinner plate fixed at the very top of the mast and used for the purpose of hoisting the flags he drew himself up and stood on his head on the truck, and twirled his legs around as if to challenge and deride the possibility of any man daring to rival him in that line of business, and after maintaining his position for almost a minute he repeated his yell of defiance and slid down the royal backstay to the deck, where he was received by a cheer that could be heard all over the city of Montevideo. The rousing cheer had an instantaneous effect upon the temper of Jack Peterson, the crew's headed Capt. of the Nipic's foretop who, after declaring that no square headed Dutchman under the sun could get ahead of him, rushed up on the main truck, and in attempting to stand on his head, which he had never before attempted to do, he instantly overbalanced and fell a distance of 180 feet into the water, accidentally going in feet first, after the manner of an expert diver. The somerset and fall were entirely accidental, and looked from a distance like a feat of great skill. Jack was at once pulled aboard the ship and before he had fully recovered his breath he jumped on the rail, and shaking his clenched fist in the direction of the Hollander, he shouted at the top of his voice: "There, you Dutch pea soup guzzling son of a sea cook, let's see you beat that." —San Francisco Examiner.

Peace Cake.

One cup of pulverized sugar, one half cup of butter, stirred together until it looks like thick cream; one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one-half cup of sweet milk; beat the whites of three eggs and put them in with two teaspoonfuls of cream, and add one-half teaspoonful of corn starch. Flavor strongly with extract of peach. Bake in two square sponges tins in a moderately hot oven, and when done spread with finely-grated cocoanut and pink sugar frost with icing and sprinkle with pink pulverized sugar.

Difference in the Public Debt Statement.

Pittsburg Post. The public debt statement for August, just out, shows some remarkable facts that will interest the great American taxpayers.

While the receipts of the treasury for August, 1889, were about the same as for August, 1888, under the Cleveland administration, or in round numbers about $34,000,000, the expenditures of the past month exceed those for August, 1888, about 40 per cent, or $40,000,000 against $24,000,000 under Cleveland.

There is Tannism for you. "Treat the blacks liberally" was the salutation Benjamin gave the corporal when the latter took office. As a result of this "liberal" treatment, the public debt was increased for August, 1889, in the net sum of $6,076,662. The pension disbursements were nearly doubled during the month. The surplus is going, going, and will soon be gone. Tanner's plan there will have to be an increase of taxation to meet the raids on the treasury, rather than a reduction.

Sad Death of an Interesting Boy.

The Lewistown Gazette gives the following sad tale of woe and death: A most distressing accident occurred on the Shaw farm, at Redrock, Wednesday, which resulted in the instant death of Wilson Snook, a remarkably handsome and bright lad of 7 years. The little boy was at the dinner table and saw his elder brother passing the house with a load of manure. He snatched up a piece of pie, ran hurriedly and climbed upon the wagon. Just as the boy got on, his brother went to the rear to lock the wagon, as there is a steep incline in the road near the house. After drawing the lever he ran ahead of the horse, throwing the whip over his shoulder. The little boy playfully caught hold of the lash, but the brother's momentum pulled him off forward of the hind wheels, which passed over his neck, causing his untimely death. It was done so quickly that the elder brother was powerless to save him. It was truly a sad sight to see the pretty little boy lying upon the road dead and with the half eaten pie yet tightly clasped in his hand.

Prohibition Convention.

Call for Prohibition Convention to be held in the Court House, at Bellefonte, Thursday, Sept. 19th, at 10 o'clock a. m. hereby call a convention as stated above and invite all persons who are interested in the overthrow of the liquor traffic to be present. I extend you a special invitation and I earnestly desire that you will bring as many others with you as you can get to come. It is of the utmost importance that every member of the Prohibition Party should be present and I expect you to do all you can to bring this about. By the means of a large and enthusiastic convention I believe we can largely increase our vote in Centre county. Don't fail to come, and use all the influence you can bring to bear to get as many others to come as possible. This convention is for the purpose of nominating a county ticket, adopting a platform and to arrange plans for the campaign.

Signs of a Hard Winter.

"We are going to have an early fall and a long, cold, hard winter," remarked a farmer on Saturday.

"How do you figure that out?" he was asked.

"In the first place," the farmer replied, "just try the skin of your fruit. You will find your apples and peaches and grapes, and all your fruit, for that matter, which is home-grown, with a thicker and tougher skin than you have seen for several years. That is one of the indications. That is the way nature takes care of her products. Last winter apples and other fruits were so thin-skinned and tender that it was hard to gather them without bruising them, if you will remember, and we had a mild winter.

Corn is another of nature's sign boards. The ears this year are protected by thicker and stronger husks than I have ever seen before for years, and talking with farmers from different parts of the country I find it the same way. Wheat and rye straw are tougher, hay is wirier and seed pods are better protected than usual. These are old farmer's signs, and they are good ones, because they don't come from any moon-planting superstitions, but from actual observation year after year by a class of men whose interests lie in keeping close watch on all of nature's moods. Then another sign of a hard winter is the heavy crop of corn or wheat. You can just put it down that whenever there is an unusually heavy grain crop, there is going to be a hard winter.

HOT WATER RELIEVES PAIN.—There is scarcely an ache or pain in the whole body which is not soothed or removed by hot water if applied as follows. Dip a piece of flannel or cloth, of five or six folds or layers in boiling water and lay it on the painful part, covering it instantly with a dry flannel, of which the edges should extend over the wet an inch or more; as soon as the wet flannel has dried a little, or in about five minutes slip it out under one edge of the dry cloth, and introduce another flannel as hot as can be handled. Do this in so adroit a manner as to allow a little cold air as possible to get to the skin touched by the hot flannel; persevere until the pain is removed. Physicians assert that by this hot-water poultice the most violent, dry and distressing coughs have been relieved in a few minutes, and some forms croup of subdued in half an hour.

—In explaining a charge of bigamy George Bowerman of Cumberland county, said he did not think his marriage to his first wife was legal because they accidentally parted hands during the ceremony.
