Hotels.

TO THE PUBLIC. In consequence of the similarity of the names of the Parker and Puter Hotels, the proprietor of the Parker Hotel has changed the name of his hotel to COAL EXCHANGE HOTEL. He has also repaired, repainted and otherwise improved it, and has fitted up a large and cosy parlor and reception room on the first floor. WM. PARKER, Phillipsburg, Pa. 33 17

Central Hotel, Millsburg, Pa.

A. A. KOHLBRECK, Proprietor. This new and commodious Hotel, located opposite the depot, Millsburg, Centre county, has been entirely refitted, furnished and replastered throughout, and is now second to none in the county in the character of accommodations offered to the public. Its table is supplied with the best of the market affords, its bar contains the purest and choicest liquors, its stable has attentive hostlers, and every convenience and comfort is extended to its guests. Through travelers on the railroad will find this an excellent place to lunch or procure a meal, as all trains stop there about 25 minutes. 24 21

Cummings House, Bellefonte, Pa.

Having assumed the proprietorship of this finely located and well known hotel, I desire to inform the public that while it will have no bar, and be run strictly as a temperance hotel, it will furnish to its patrons all the comforts, conveniences and hospitalities offered by others. Its table will not be surpassed or any. Its rooms are large and comfortable. Its stabling is the best in town, and its prices to transient guests and regular boarders will be very reasonable. The citizens of the town will find in the basement of my hotel a FIRST-CLASS MEAT MARKET at which all kinds of Meat can be purchased at the very lowest rates. I earnestly solicit a share of the public patronage. GUTLEB HAAG, 33 13

Harpers' Publications.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE FOR 1890. ILLUSTRATED.—(o) A new Shakespeare—the Shakespeare of Edwin A. Abbey—will be presented in Harper's Magazine for 1890. Arrangements by Andrew Lang. Harper's Magazine has also made special arrangements with Alphonse Daudet, the greatest of living French novelists, for the exclusive publication, in serial form, of a humorous story, to be entitled "The Colonists of Tartarum"; the Last Adventures of the Famous Tartarum. The story will be translated by Henry James, and illustrated by Rossi and Verelst. W. D. Howells will contribute a novelette in two parts, entitled "Yonah," handsomely illustrated. In illustrated papers, touching subjects of current interest, and in his short stories, poems and timely articles, the Magazine will maintain its well-known standard.

HARPER'S WEEKLY FOR 1890.

Illustrated.—(o) Harper's Weekly has a well established place as the leading illustrated newspaper in America. The fairness of its editorial comments on current politics has earned for it the respect and confidence of all impartial readers, and the variety and excellence of its literary contents, which include serial and short stories by the best and most popular writers, fit it for the perusal of people of the widest range of tastes and pursuits. The Weekly supplements are of remarkable variety, interest, and value. No expense is spared to bring the highest order of artistic ability to bear on the illustration of the changes of place of home and foreign history. A Mexican romance, from the pen of Thomas A. Janvier, will appear in the Weekly in 1890.

HARPER'S BAZAR FOR 1890.

Illustrated.—(o) Harper's Bazar is a journal for the home. Giving the latest information with regard to the fashions, its numerous illustrations, fashion-plates, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable allies to the home dress-maker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared in making its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its clever short stories, parlor plays, and thoughtful essays satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues every thing is included which is of interest to women. During 1889, Harper's Bazar published papers on "The Daughter of the House," "Three Months' Day," and "The Woman of the Period." The serial novels will be written by Walter Besant and F. W. Robinson.

Discovery of a Statesman.

The New York World has found a statesman at last, and interviewed him. The ripe fruit gathered is presented to the public in the following form: "Jacob Pfalsgraff, the German saloon-keeper, was solicited for an opinion on the Cincinnati situation. 'What'der madder py dot willage?' inquired Mr. Pfalsgraff. 'When told of the arrest of 164 saloon-keepers for violating the Sunday closing law, he said: 'Py dotness, I tont see some use on all dot money pizness. When der law py Ny York says to keep my saloon glosed on Sunday I tont fly it, der face der der whole legislature py Albany and keep it open some more. All der law asks of a German saloon-keeper in dis country is to keep der front door of his saloon glosed on Sunday and open it by der back door. In Cincinnati der saloon men tink dot was a great hardship. It was more ash dot, py gracious; it was some outrages. But what can you do mit der law hangin' onto your gollar butt? Venneder der law says to glose up, why, der things is to glose up efter der der back door and say, der law has all right, and you like half some more of it to keep for Christmas.' 'You think this is the proper way to meet the emergency?' 'Sure.' 'But does it satisfy the law, Mr. Pfalsgraff?' 'It satisfies der boileeman on der beat and der law says noddings.'"

Corn Meal for the Human Hands.

Never Wipe the Face Downward if You Want to Keep it Youthful Looking. This being the season for chapped hands and lips, the following hints upon the care of the masculine hands and face, which are culled from a San article, will be found alike timely and useful: Keep two pots in your bed-room, a little one of cold cream and a big open-mouthed jar of corn meal or Indian meal. Every night rub a little cold cream on your face. Rub it in well, and then wipe it off the skin without wiping it out of the skin. The heat of our houses and buildings generally bakes the human face, and it needs a corrective. When you wash your hands soap them well, and then rub a teaspoonful of corn meal in the palm of one hand and rub both both hands together, backs and fronts. Then wash the soap and meal off, and if you are not proud of the appearance and feeling of your hands you are beyond the reach of pride. Another beauty of this plan is that he who follows it never will have chapped or rough hands. Remember this, that whether you rub or wipe your face do so with an upward motion. The general custom, and natural one, of wiping downward, sags the loose skin of the face into wrinkles and ages a man before his time.

And herewith is appended another idea in the toilet line, which, from its somewhat radical nature, however, will surely find many men willing to try it. A resident of this city had a corn on the middle toe of his left foot, which had bothered him for many years. One morning he could bear it no longer, and adopted a unique and sudden method of getting rid of it. He obtained a rifle and fastened it firmly, muzzle downward, on a board set for the purpose. Then he laid a board down under it and fired it twice. The bullet entering the board at exactly the same point each time convinced him that the rifle was firmly fixed and properly adjusted, and he pulled the trigger. The bullet went through his toe and carried the corn with it, leaving a large ragged hole, which will be quite likely to give him as much trouble as did the corn. He refused to have a physician, and says a bullet hole is better than a corn any day.—Concord Monitor.

Slightly Mixed.—"Look here Mr. Higginbottom," said the grocer, by way of a joke to the old farmer, "I found this stone, which weighs five pounds, in the last crock of butter I bought of you."

"Lucey, concur your pieter, this is your fault!" rejoined the man, as he turned to his wife.

"Tain't neither! You handled the crocks!"

"But you must hev mixed 'em up down cellar."

"No, I didn't, though the gal probably did. She's just that careless."

"Wall, Smith, I'll allow fur it. The crocks got mixed. This was the grocer went to take to the preacher's donation party, and I've been horn swaggled out of a clean dollar. I order hev put a label on it!"

An Expensive Shine.—Mr. Heavy-swell (who is breaking in a new Irish valet)—"Michael, brush my shoes and hat. Be very careful of that hat; it's a new one. You'll find the blacking and brushes in the closet."

Michael (half an hour later)—"It's an illigant shine them shoes tuk, sorr; but it's 'th' laythen bast of a job O've hed with 't' hat, sorr. That blackenin' don't seem to be noway suited for hats, at all, at all, sorr."

A Story of Addition.

The new "Temperance Arithmetic," by Mrs. J. McNair Wright, has some most valuable lessons for the children of America, and for everybody who wants a little cottage home. The chapter on "Addition" has this little story as a preface: I passed one day a very lovely little cottage home. The windows were bright, the white walls were draped in blooming vines. Flowers-beds bordered the walks. There were bee-hives in a corner, a row of currant bushes, and cherry and apple trees, gave promise of fruit. The little children played in the arbor. The elder boy was setting of to school. In the clean kitchen, the mother made bread for the household. "This house must cost a good rent to you?" we said. "We own it," said the mother. "Ah! It's price must have been a large sum."

"We got it—for ten dollars," she replied. "Pray, how was that?"

"On our wedding-day, my old grandfather, a poor man, too, gave us ten dollars, saying: 'If you will put this in banks, and firmly resolve to lay by something to add to it each week—if only a penny, you will own your own home before you know it.'"

"To our ten dollars each week we added—now one dollar, now five, now a quarter of a dollar, again only a dime—once or twice during illness, only a cent. But we added. It was weekly, add, add. In five years we got this little house; four half walls in a bare quarter of an acre—every day, every week, in work or money, we add, add. It is strange how large a sum one gets when you add together many little. We could sell this house to-day for twelve hundred dollars. But we shall not sell. Each day we shall go on, and add, add, add, to the worth of our home."

A Seared Editor.

A rugged farmer stalked into the sanctum with a big whip under his arm. "Be you the editor?" he asked. "I am," was the half apprehensive reply.

"Here's two dollars—send me your paper, for life," he said.

"You see," he went on, "our daughter was sick and liked to die; she drooped and grew weak and pale, and headaches, no appetite, back ached, feet and hands like ice, couldn't sleep, hacked with cough, and we thought she had contracted No medicine helped her till we tried that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription mentioned in your paper, when she began to mend in no time and is now well and handsome as a rose—put me down as a life subscriber."

Now the editor is looking for another scare. The medicine has cured scores afflicted as was the farmer's daughter, restoring the female functions to healthy action, and removing the obstructions and suppressions which caused her trouble. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or price ($1.00) refunded.

HE GOT THERE.—"Do you believe there is any truth in the adage that a man is known by the company he keeps?"

"Sure."—"Certainly. We see its truth illustrated every day."

"I believe in it myself, and I intend to act upon it."

"A wise resolution if it is good company you intend to keep."

"The very best; that is to say, if I can get into the company I would like to keep. The fact is, I want to keep your company."

Then she smiled a sweet smile and said it could no doubt be managed.

"Jack shall pipe and Gill shall dance" as they looked out in the open barn as they passed. The free born American citizen don't fear neuralgia with Salvation Oil to the front. Price only 25 cents.

KNEW HIS MAN.—In a small town in Baden a minister closed his sermon the other day with these words: "We would be pleased, moreover, to have the young man who is standing outside the door come in and make certain whether she is here or not. That would be a great deal better than opening the door half an inch and exposing the people in the last row of seats to a draught."

WHY continue the use of irritating powders, shufs or liquids Ely's Cream Balm, pleasant of application and a sure cure for catarrh and cold in head, can be had for 50c. It is easily applied into the nostrils, is safe and pleasant, and is curing the most obstinate cases. It gives relief at once.

ONE THING LACKING.—[Mr. Jones had married little Johnny's maiden aunt, and they were at the wedding breakfast.] "Little Johnny to his grandfather—'When are you going to begin on him, grandpa?'" "Grandpa—'Begin on who, Johnny?'" "On Mr. Jones. I heard you say he wouldn't be so bad if you could only put some brains in him."

[Breakfast was finished without Johnny.]

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is particularly recommended for children. It cures coughs, colds, croup, sore throat, and whooping cough. It is pleasant to the taste, and acts like a charm. 25 cts.

AN ENGINEER'S BIG PAY.—The Kane Leader says: Last month Robert Fitzpatrick, one of the oldest and best engineers in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, put in the most time and performed the greatest amount of work ever done by a single employee of the company. On the last day of the face of his check was for $29.50, which is the largest amount ever paid out to one man, by the company, for one month's work.

HE HAD EXPERIENCE.—"I have an article on How to Manage a Wife," remarked a man as he advanced to the editor's desk. "You are unmarried, I believe," replied the editor. "Yes; why?" "Nothing; I just thought so."

RINGING NOISES. In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, or snapping like the report of a pistol, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also results from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for catarrh, which it cures by eliminating from the blood the impurity which causes and promotes this disease. Try

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. "I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by yawning and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." Mrs. G. B. Gibb, 1029 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

CURES CATARRH. "I feel my duty to say that I saw Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised and took two bottles. I am completely cured of my catarrh and bronchial affections. I can recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to strangers and friends." H. H. Durgan, Atlantic City, N. J.
