CENTRAL HOTEL, MILESBERG, PA. A. A. KOHLMEYER, Proprietor.

This new and commodious Hotel, located opposite the depot, Milesburg, Centre county, has been entirely refitted, refurnished and replenished throughout, and is now second to none in the county in the character of accommodations offered the public. Its table is supplied with the best market affords, its bar contains the purest and choicest liquors, its stable has attentive hostlers, and every convenience and comfort is extended to its guests. Through travelers on the railroad will find this an excellent place to lunch or procure a meal, as all trains stop there about 25 minutes. 24 24

THE CUMMINGS HOUSE, BELLEFONTE, PA. Having assumed the proprietorship of this finely located and well known hotel, I desire to inform the public that while it will have no bar, and be run strictly as a temperance hotel, it will furnish to its patrons all the comforts, conveniences and hospitalities offered by others. Its table will not be surpassed by any. Its rooms are large and comfortable. Its stabling is the best in town, and its prices to transient guests and regular boarders will be very reasonable.

The citizens of the town will find in the basement of my hotel a

RINGING NOISES

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, or snapping like the report of a pistol, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also results from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for catarrh, which it cures by eradicating from the blood the impurity which causes and promotes this disease. Try

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by yawning and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold. Mrs. G. B. Gibb, 1029 Eight Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

CURES CATARRH

"I feel it my duty to say that I saw Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised and took two bottles. I am completely cured of irregularities and constipation of my bowels, catarrh and bronchial affections. I can recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to strangers and friends." H. H. Durgan, Atlantic City, N. J.

RADAM'S MICROBE KILLER

CURES ALL DISEASES. The claim to cure all diseases may at first glance seem very absurd; but after reading our pamphlet, giving a history of the Microbe Killer, explaining the germ theory of disease, and reading our testimonials, which prove conclusively there is no disease that is not cured, the truth of our assertion becomes clear. No person suffering from any blood, chronic or contagious disease should let a day pass without getting and reading this interesting book, which will be given away or mailed free. Colonel Quay Disusted.

Why His Political Mission in Louisiana Terminated Suddenly.

A former New Orleans carpetbagger tells this story of Senator Quay. It was before the Pennsylvania fire worker had achieved the glory of buying the election of a President of the United States. He was pretty well known, however, as a sleek article, and William Pitt Kellogg, who is now getting rich out of Washington real estate, but who was then Governor of Louisiana, sent all the way to Pittsburgh to ask Quay to go down to New Orleans and help the Republicans carry the election. Quay went down. He arrived at the St. Charles Hotel at 9 o'clock one evening and sent a messenger to the Governor to announce his presence. The Governor sent his private secretary over to the hotel in a hurry. Quay saw at once that the private secretary was a bright chap, pretty well up on local politics, and he asked the young man a few questions.

"Who appoints the judges and clerks of election in the voting precincts?" he queried.

"The electoral board," replied the Secretary.

"And who appoints the electoral board?"

"The Governor."

"And who canvasses the vote as returned by the officers of election and issues the certificates of election to the successful candidates?"

"The board of canvassers."

"And who appoints the board of canvassers?"

"The Governor."

"The Governor of the State?"

"Yes."

"Who is now William Kellogg?"

"The same."

"What time does the next train leave for New York?" You have no use for me here. If with all that in your hands you can't carry the election, you are the blindest set of fools on the face of the earth. Tell the Governor so for me, and order me a carriage and a sleeping car for the first train out for New York, please.

"What time does the next train leave for New York?" You have no use for me here. If with all that in your hands you can't carry the election, you are the blindest set of fools on the face of the earth. Tell the Governor so for me, and order me a carriage and a sleeping car for the first train out for New York, please.

Mr. Quay was on his way back to the North, without having seen Governor Kellogg or any other man in Louisiana, except the private secretary. But at the ensuing election the Kellogg party was overwhelmingly successful.

An Indian's Stomach Capacity.

Indians are well known to be able to go without food for a very long time, and to possess also an astonishing capacity for devouring enormous quantities of edibles at one sitting. One of Capt. Marcy's men named Marino had suffered greatly from hunger on one of his winter expeditions. On getting back to the fort he took lodgings with a Mexican, and immediately ordered a bountiful supper, which he devoured with exceeding gusto, and called for more. After the second allowance had been disposed of, he smoked his pipe and related incidents of his journey to the family until 9 o'clock, when he began to feel hungry again and offered the hostess two dollars if she would cook him another supper, which she willingly did, and he again cleared the board.

This he thought would suffice him till morning. Accordingly, he lay down and went to sleep. But in the night he awoke, and, to his surprise, found himself again very hungry. By this time the family were all asleep; the fire was out, and Mariano was loth to disturb his friends; so for sometime he endured the cravings of appetite. Finally, not being able to stand it any longer, he called out to the woman of the house that if she would only be so kind as to get up and cook him one more supper, he would give her $5, and promise not to trouble her again till morning.

This tempting offer had the desired effect, and he ate his fourth repast, which as he smilingly said, in telling the remainder of the night, was the only one that he had ever had. Some readers may incline to incredulity, but if it is considered that Marino was a half breed Indian, and had been trained in their habits from infancy his gastronomic feats will not appear at all surprising.

The Acme of Valor.

The presentation of an American flag to the grammar schools of Bangor reminds me of a similar occurrence which took place in a Maine village in the summer of '63. A company of volunteers, being about to depart for the state capital, were drawn up on the green to receive a flag that had been made by the patriotic members of the local sewing circle. The village pastor made a sensible presentation speech, and the banner was received by the captain of the company, who handed it to the color-bearer, a witty Irishman. Then facing the worthy pastor and his fair flock, the embarrassed captain proceeded to acknowledge the gift, as follows: "Reverend sir and ladies: This beautiful flag which I see before me—" "It's behind yez, captain," interrupted the color-bearer.

"Which I see behind me," amended the blushing officer, "stands for something more than the emblem of a powerful nation. It is beauty's tribute to valor, and as such it is doubly dear to the gallant hearts around me. In thanking you for your gift, ladies, we pledge ourselves faithfully to defend it. At the close of the campaign, those of us who are spared will bring this flag back to you, unless it is blown to atoms by shots from the enemy, in which event we'll—we'll—" "We'll bring them back the pole!" shouted the enthusiastic Irishman, to the delight of the crowd and the relief of the superior officer.

"A woman is never so badly in love that she does not try to find out the cost of her engagement ring.

Marrying a Couple.

The late Benjamin F. Wade, of Ohio, was, at the beginning of his career at the bar, noted for his bashfulness; but another trait, his determination, enabled him to get through his work in a way which, though not conventional, landed him at his destination. Once, while a youth, he started with a bag of corn on his shoulders to a mill twenty miles away. It was in November, and coming to a full banked river, he discovered that the canoe was on the other side. Throwing off his clothes, he plunged in, gained the canoe, took it back where the bag of corn was, which he ferried across and then went on his way.

Another illustration of his way of doing things occurred while he was justice of the peace. One day a young couple called at his office to be married. The presence of four or five irreverent young men prompted the bashful justice to suggest privately to the pair that they had better meet him at the little hotel.

"You wish to be married?" he asked the pair. "Yes." "Stand up and take hands. You," addressing the not prepossessing groom, "wish to marry this young woman?" "Yes." "Of course you do!" exclaimed the justice, glancing at the pretty bride, and asking her, "Do you take this young man for your husband?" "Yes."

"Well, you are getting the worst of it, but I say you are husband and wife. There, boys, you see I did it!" he concluded, glancing at the spectators. The couple had to have it explained to them that they were, in the eyes of the law, wedded. Whereupon the husband offered the justice a fee—the statute made it $1.50—which, by a lofty motion of his hand, he waved off, saying "Nothing for a job like that!"—Youth's Companion.

Pertinent Inquiries.

Is "cheap" food the cheapest? Do diamonds and dime novels go well together? Is not a secret safer with one than with half a dozen? Which is the worst? To be worried by fortune or misfortune? Is it not better to wait until the day is done, before boasting of its achievements? Does not he who picks a quarrel sometimes find the sore on his person, while the "picking" made?—Good Housekeeping.

An English physician has proved that "leggedness" is consequent on right-handedness. Standing, working with the right hand there is a tendency to use the left leg for balance, and as the left leg is the stronger it is more readily brought into action. Hence troops start with the left foot and place the left foot into the stirrup or step of the bicycle in mounting. The majority of movements are therefore performed more readily to the right.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

Warren Hume, who stands at the head of the hunters of the Adirondacks, is now sixty years of age. He commenced hunting when twelve, and much of the time since has made it a profession to hunt and trap for market. He has killed over 4,000 deer and 500 bears, beside great numbers of wolves, martens, otter and other fur-bearing animals. Mr. Hume says his best day's hunting was to kill, dress and hang up seven deer. This he has done on two different occasions. Mr. Hume estimates there are now in the Adirondack forests 35,000 deer and 4,000 bears.

A GREAT SURPRISE.—Is in store for all who use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the great guaranteed remedy. Would you believe that it is sold on its merits and that any druggist is authorized by the proprietor of this wonderful remedy to give you a sample bottle free? ORANGE PUDDING.—Put in a baking-dish three sweet oranges peeled and sliced; pour over one cupful of sugar, one pint of milk, yolks of three eggs, one tablespoonful of corn starch boiled until thick. Whip the whites, pour over the top, and set in the oven to stiffen.

Do you have dyspeptic troubles? Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has relieved thousands and will cure you. Sold by druggists.

No ONE ELSE.—Managing editor enters humorist's room. Humorist, shoving back his chair, says: "I was just thinking what a great difference there is between humorists." "Yes," the managing editor replies, "quite a difference." "Now," the humorist continues, "Artemus Ward used to chuckle, yes, even laugh, over his own jokes. I am of a different temperament. I never laugh at my jokes." "Neither does any one else," says the managing editor.

Beware of Naggedom.

Men must make allowances for women as women if they want to be happy themselves and to make their wives happy; and women must make allowance for men as men. They each have their own troubles and their own needs, and often the one does not understand and cannot understand the needs of the other. Men have their own troubles and worries and women have theirs; let each be assured of that as regards the other and act accordingly. It will be appreciated—don't be afraid of that. Beware of naggedom, my dear. The man that will stand being nagged at is a saint, and saints are not so plentiful as blackberries in the world. There's male nagging, my dear, as well as female—male grumbling and never being pleased; and folks who expect to come out as "ducks" at the end of 120 years would, after eighty or ninety years' nagging, make a poor figure in a matrimonial poultry show. If the man had been grumbling and woman nagging all that time they'd look like two moulting birds and not like two well established healthy fowls. Each to be the other's help, each the other's blessing; each to hope to be with the other for ever and ever, and so to live here that they may be fit for being together there.—Quiver.

IS THIS WHAT AILS YOU?—Do you have dull heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acid, and thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, and inflamed; ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat; expectation of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; voice changed and nasal twang; breath offensive; small and taste impaired; is there a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility? If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from Nasal Catarrh. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer in good faith a reward of $500 for a case of this disease which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists, at only 50 cents.

CIRCUMSTANCES ALTER CASES.—Jones was hunting one day, when he found himself confronted by a bear's cub. "I confess that I did not want to fire," he said to a friend in relating the circumstance; "but if it had been a fullgrown one there would have been a life-and-death struggle between us." "So you took pity on him?" "No; I put spurs to my horse and got out of the neighborhood as soon as possible, for I knew the little rascal's pa and ma could not be far off."

"We point with Pride" to the "Good name at home," won by Hood's Sarsaparilla. In Lowell, Mass., where it is prepared, there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold than of all other medicines, and it has given the best of satisfaction since its introduction ten years ago. This could not be if the medicine did not possess merit. If you suffer from impure blood, try Hood's Sarsaparilla and realize its peculiar curative power.
