Medical.

TOTALLY HELPLESS

FROM SCIATIC RHEUMATISM—WHOLLY CURED BY HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. The fact that rheumatism is caused by accumulation of acid in the blood, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has wonderful power in purifying the blood, explain the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in curing this disease. "In May, 1885, I was taken with sciatic rheumatism in my legs and arms. It entirely prevented me from working, and I was confined to my bed entirely helpless. I had medical attendance and in August, I was just able to move around. I was reduced to a mere skeleton and my appetite was gone. It was thought by all my friends that I could not possibly live. I took almost everything I could hear of, but with no good results, during the winter. One day, reading about taking Hood's Sarsaparilla in March, April, and May, I concluded to try it. One bottle gave me so much relief that I took four bottles, and since then I have not been troubled with rheumatism, and my general health has never been better. My appetite is increasing and I am gaining in flesh. I attribute my whole improvement to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I earnestly recommend it to all who are troubled with like disease. I consider it the greatest medicine ever put up." Wm. F. TYLER, Emporium, Cameron Co., Penn. "I hereby certify to the foregoing facts as stated." JOSEPH G. GURMAN, Justice of the Peace, Emporium, Penn.—Be sure to get HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. A Case of Mistaken Identity.

A young lady of this city who is engaged to a well-known young society gentleman, recently made an experiment to try the temper and habits of her fiancé which nearly resulted in disastrous consequences. Reading her morning paper she saw an advertisement for a domestic. The number of the house was that of her lover's, where he kept a sort of a bachelor's hall with his father, who was a widower. It occurred then and there to Miss H.—to supply the demand. Not in person, but by proxy. She knew of a tidy little German who was bright and engaging, and who wanted a place. She sent for her and gave instructions as to what she was to see and hear, and particularly charged her to observe how Mr. F.—conducted himself, what he ate, and if he was good-tempered and easy to please. Christine promised to watch everything and report at the end of the week.

But before the week was up the girl reported with all her belongings and her eyes overflowing with tears. She had been asked to black Mr. F.'s boots, and had ordered her about as if she were a dog, and he wouldn't eat anything but gruel and toast, and he swore at her because she forgot to wash off the front steps. Then Miss H. sat down and wrote to her lover: "You are a brute. No man who was not a brute would ask a woman to black his boots and swear at her for a moment's forgetfulness. I consider that I have had a narrow escape. There was a frantic man who was tearing up the avenue that evening and rushed into the presence of Miss H.—but it was sometime before he could make her understand the truth of the matter or that he was not that manner of man. The girl had not seen him at all, but had been employed by his dyspeptic old father—who she knew solely as Mr. F. It was simply a case of mistaken identity.—Detroit Free Press.

Stenographers and Typewriters on the Pennsylvania Limited.

Recognizing the increasing popularity of the Limited among the business and professional men of the country, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has decided to still further improve the facilities of this wonderful train, and add to the conveniences by introducing a stenographer. A bright, young man, expert in both branches of his profession, will be placed on each train between New York and Pittsburg to take the dictation and transcribe on the typewriter the correspondence of the passengers who desire to avail themselves of his services. By this means, a business or professional man can attend to his correspondence en route, and thus secure a great saving of time. A compartment will be fitted up on each train for this purpose, and all letters will be mailed from the train as they are written. This novel and convenient arrangement will go into effect on February 1st. The business men already have the advantage of the stock and weather reports on the Limited, the ladies have their maid, their private bath, and their drawing-room in the observation car, and the introduction of an amanuensis will round out the completeness of the train's conveniences to a perfect degree. No other railroad train in the world offers any one of the four advantages that are provided on the Pennsylvania Limited.

How to Stop a Runaway Horse.

A policeman, who has distinguished himself in stopping runaway horses, gives the following points as to how to accomplish that end with the greatest success: When you see a runaway coming do not try to check him by a rush from the opposite side or the side, for you will be immediately knocked flat by the collision; but, instead, prepare yourself for a short run with the horse. Measure with your eye the distance, start for the run while he is yet some way off, perhaps ten feet, in the case of fair to medium runaways. You may depend upon his keeping a straight line, but a really frightened horse is half blind and would not veer for a steam engine. He will go straight ahead until he smashes into something. Do not get close to the line on which he is rushing, and as he passes you grab the reins near the saddle. Gather the reins firmly, and then, leaning backward as you give them a powerful yank. You may be able to brace yourself somewhat as you give this jerk, half sliding on your feet. The strong jerk on the bit tells the horse that he again has a master, and prepares him for the final struggle. A step or two forward after the jerk will do the trick. This is the finishing stroke. It never fails when given by a determined man. The horse is on its haunches. Keep a firm pull on the reins till you grasp the horse by the nostrils and hold him so till he is pacified.

Gain of Young Stock.

In a comparison of breeds at the recent Fat Stock Show the calves under 1 year old made remarkable daily gains. The daily gain of the grades and crosses was 2.78 pounds, the Shorthorns 2.64 pounds and the Herefords 2.48 pounds, or an average 2.62 pounds. As the calves something at birth, this added to its daily gain for 365 days, brings the young animal to a weight quite respectable before it becomes even a yearling. The average gain of the yearlings was 2.07 pounds; of the 2-year-olds, 1.77 pounds, and of the 3-year-olds, 1.62 pounds. There is grain of an animal during its first year compared with its gain the two years following. As this showing is the result of a comparison of more than 100 animals it becomes a plain fact which farmer should consider. If they can by the use of pure breeds and grades, combined with liberal feeding, secure gains approaching those of the young steers experimented with, the breeding of cattle can be made profitable.

Gowen's Remarkable Ability.

Franklin B. Gowen was a conspicuously brilliant and useful member of the Constitutional Convention of 1873. Although he was then conducting one of the greatest business enterprises of the world, he found or made time to attend the sessions of the Convention regularly as long as he could be of public service, and when there was nothing but routine work to be done, he resigned. He was not the kind of a man to hold an office and neglect his duties. During the sessions he would bring his morning's mail to the hall, open it and answer letters with one hand while he was jotting down notes of the proceedings with the other, and notwithstanding this labor, it was found when he arose to speak that he was fully acquainted with the proceedings of the body and the speeches of its members, and ready for discussion with the best of them. He took an active part in framing the sections of the Constitution bearing upon railroad corporations, and did not hesitate to advocate radical restrictive measures, provided they accorded with the principles of law.

"Yes, I shall brake the engagement," she said folding her arms and looking defiantly; "It is really too much trouble to converse with him; he's as deaf as a post, and talks like he had a mouthful of mush. Besides the way he hawks and spits is disgusting." "Don't break the engagement for that; tell him to take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely." "Well, I'll tell him. I do hate to break it off, for in all other respects he's quite too charming." Of course, it cured his catarrh.

Little Louise was told that her grandmother had died and gone to heaven, and was asked if she didn't want to be in heaven with her. "Well," replied the little one, "I would like to live with grandma, but I don't want to go so early."

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands of desponding patients can testify. A trustworthy medical writer says: "Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but most of the remedies in general use by physicians afford but temporary benefit. A cure cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes." Ely's Cream Balm is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient.

An office boy in Johnson Company's office in Johnston, was summoned the other day for preparing the "McGinty" joke on the superintendent of the institution. After calling the superintendent to the telephone the boy asked him if McGinty was at work in the foundry. The official made a thorough search for McGinty, and upon being told by employees that he was being grieved, bounced the perpetrator of the joke.

The handsomest lady in Bellefonte remarked to a friend the other day that she knew Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs was a superior remedy, as it stopped her cough instantly when other cough remedies had no effect whatever. A porker that Adam Longenecker, of Maricetta, has just killed, floated down the Susquehanna in its pen during the disastrous floods last June. When captured by Mr. Longenecker it weighed 200 pounds, but when hung to the beam last week the waif of the Susquehanna had gone up to 365 pounds.

Pure Malt Whisky.

What is home without a house-craft old bachelor, of the holy office of wife and mother. And yet how many mothers and wives there are who are simply "housekeepers," household drudges, whose life is worked out while disease is let in, during the ceaseless routine of washing and scrubbing and dusting and baking and cooking. The same clothes and floors and furniture and dishes are gone over and over until the heart is sick and the body is broken with worry and disease. Amid this toil nervousness begins, bad digestion, irregularities of the productive organs, prolapso or other displacement, popularly known as "female weaknesses," sick head-aches and a host of female complaints follow on. For all such take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the only remedy sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction or money will be refunded.

RABBIT STEW.—Carefully prepare the rabbit; cut it into joints, dip them into a mixture of flour, pepper and salt. Have ready a frying pan with plenty of boiling butter in it; put in the rabbit and when nicely browned, take out and put in a sauce pan with two small cups of boiling water. Take two large Spanish onions, peel and slice them and place on the top of the rabbit; sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover closely. Let it simmer for about an hour and a half; then add one pint of cream and some finely shred parsley.

RINGING NOISES.—In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of small or hearing, also results from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh, try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

When a man is young he thinks to reform the world, but when he gets older he is quite satisfied if he is able to reform himself. Be sure and call for Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, if you are troubled with a bad cough or cold.

Your sight can be improved and preserved if properly corrected. It is a wrong idea that spectacles should be dispensed with as long as possible. If they assist the vision use them.
