

Democratic Watchman

Friday Morning, January 31, 1890.

To Correspondents.—No communications published unless accompanied by the real name of the writer.

Mr. M. H. Guss, of Penn Hall, is the duly authorized agent of the WATCHMAN for Gregg township.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY.

—Mr. W. H. Tibbens, one of College townships best citizens is lying dangerously ill.

—Quite a number of Bellefonte's "four hundred" attended the Assembly, at Tyrone, on last Friday evening.

—Within a month past, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peters, residing near Philipsburg have lost three children from diphtheria.

—Almost two car-loads of witnesses were brought in from Karthaus on Monday to testify in the murder trial of Andrews, now in progress.

—Mr. John Fox and wife formerly of this county but for years residents of the State of Iowa, are visiting friends in the upper end of the county.

—The chicken and waffle Supper given by the American Mechanics in Bush Arcade on Saturday evening last was a most enjoyable affair.

—Mr. J. F. Montgomery an old and highly respected citizen of Howard, and well known in this place, died in that place on Friday last, after a short illness.

—Michael Petherhoff, a resident of Huntingdon county, who has been employed at the college for some time as a carpenter, had a slight attack of paralysis on Saturday.

—There is not so much Grippe about Bellefonte as there was ten days ago, but the fellows who have it, all imagine they have it a thundering sight worse than any one else had.

—Mr. D. J. Meyer, the genial proprietor of the Centre Hall Hotel, has sold his hotel and is now living on Main street, in that borough. Mr. Meyer is engaged in the lumber business.

—It looks like old times to see so many familiar faces among the glass workers who have returned to go to work with the re-opening of the factory. Our only wish is that there stay with us may be a long one.

—The body of the late Joseph G. Ditman, president of the Quaker City National bank was found floating in the Schuylkill on last Sunday morning. It had been in the water forty-three days and was badly swollen and distorted through rot beyond recognition.

—It is reported that in order to meet the demands of his increasing trade, Harry Schreyer has been compelled to procure larger quarters for his carpet store. The entire building of S. A. Leeb has been leased and he expects to move into it just as soon as possible.

—The Cornell Glee and Banjo clubs will be in Bellefonte some-time during the month of March. The two clubs number twenty eight men and contain some fine voices and good musicians. They sing in Williamsport the night before they come here and in Pittsburg the following night.

—Messrs McCalmont & Co., the extensive, implement, coal and grain dealers of this place expect to move into Dr. Hale's new building, over the race, in the spring. They will be better prepared to display their immense stock in the new quarters as it is the largest store room in this part of the state.

—We have positive assurance from one who is in a position to know, that the Bellefonte Opera House is not all talk but that it will be ready for plays by the opening of next season. The parties interested are now engaged in making contracts for its erection, and it will not be long ere we will have a play-house second to none in this part of the county.

—The many friends of Mrs. Vince Bauer of this place will be glad to hear that she is recovering rapidly from her recent serious illness. Mrs. B. had taken a very heavy cold which settled in her head and effected the sight of both eyes; for some time it was thought that she would lose the sight of one of them but we are informed that the doctors still have hopes of saving it.

—The Philadelphia Times, hotel register editor, found Mr. Cam Burnside and wife, of this place, stopping at the continental on Thursday last, and immediately proceeded to herald him to the world as one of the "brightest lawyers in Bellefonte," which will be news not only to his friends, but to himself. Up here Mr. Burnside is known as a gentleman—not as a lawyer.

—After an illness of over a year the Glass works at this place are again ready to be put in operation. The furnaces have been heating for some time and the first blowing is expected to be made to-day or to-morrow. Our citizens are very much interested in the success of the works, because they put more money into the town, for the number of men employed, than any other industry we have.

IS IT WILFUL MURDER, OR WAS IT DONE IN SELF DEFENCE?

—Another crime that hurried one man into eternity and that may bring three others, an old woman, her daughter and her son, one or all, into the shadow of the gallows, or consign one or all to the penitentiary, is Centre county's contribution to the criminal record of the country for this week.

One mile south of where Stover's distillery used to stand in Penn township, in a desolate, uninviting and unfrequented hollow, between two mountains are a couple of miserable huts. Until Tuesday last, Mrs. Susan Auman, her son "Yony" or Jonathan and Andrew Weaver Sr., were the occupants of one and a few rods distant, Mrs. Auman's daughter, Fietta, and her husband Andrew Weaver Jr. with their two children, of the other. This (Tuesday) evening, Andrew Weaver Sr. is with the great majority, having been sent there through the aid of a knife, and Fietta Weaver, his daughter-in-law, her mother Mrs. Auman, and her brother "Yony," are occupying cells in the jail; the former of these three charged with the crime, the latter held as accessories too, or witnesses of its commission.

It is possible that the actual circumstances connected with this case will never be known. All that any one knows outside of the knowledge possessed by the three accused individuals, is that old man Weaver was found dead at the door of his daughter-in-law's shanty, from a knife thrust under the left arm and reaching to the heart. Outside of those under arrest, there was no witness to the fracas, and those who are acquainted with them only know that the whole lot were constantly quarreling and threatening all manner of vengeance against each other.

The particulars as told by the three now in jail is substantially as follows: Andrew Weaver Jr. left home early on Tuesday morning to do some work, a considerable distance from where he lived. Old man Weaver and young Auman arranged to go up the Valley a short distance, and about nine o'clock started on the trip. They had gone but a little way, when Mrs. Fietta Weaver, who was near her door, called out something that offended the old man and he immediately retraced his steps, throwing stones at her as he went and swearing that they "would fight it out now and that one or the other must die." Fietta Weaver, went into her shanty and shut and tried to bolt the door, but Weaver reaching it before it was fastened, pushed it open and taking her by the throat began to choke and beat her. She cried for help but before either her brother or her mother reached her, Weaver fell dead out of the door stabbed to the heart. She asserts that while he had her by the throat he tried to cut her with his knife and fell upon it as he stumbled out of the door. The fact that his knife was a small one and was found between his vest and shirt with the smallest of the blades open, while the cut that caused death was a larger one and passed through all his clothing, shows the absurdity of this part of her story.

Word was immediately sent to Coburn, when a coroners jury was empaneled which after a short examination returned their verdict that, "Andrew Weaver Sr. came to his death through a knife wound inflicted by Mrs. Fietta Weaver."

Whether the mother and brother will be held as participants in the crime, depends upon further development.

SAD ACCIDENT.—On Thursday night of last week Joseph Thompson of Tyrone was detailed as brakeman on special coal train to run to this place. The train and crew got through safely, as most all trains on the Bald Eagle Valley does, and after leaving its cars at the Nail Works, the engine started back to Wallace's Brick Kiln's above Milesburg for a car loaded with brick. When the place was reached the engine was backed to the car and Thompson went back to make the coupling. The engine and car came together, but there was no signal from him to go ahead. After waiting a reasonable length of time the fireman went back to see what was wrong, and was terrified to find Thompson crushed between the bumpers which had caught him right across the thighs, too badly injured to even cry out. The engine was started and the man loosened, after which a car was procured and the injured man brought to this place and carried to room 43, Bush house. Dr. George F. Harris was summoned, a nurse procured, and everything in the power of those present done to relieve the sufferer from the agony he seemed to be in. It was of no avail however, and at 12.45 his spirit took its flight. Thompson was formerly from the vicinity of Milesburg, was a strong fine looking man about thirty years of age, and leaves a wife and four children. His remains were tenderly cared for, prepared for burial and sent to his sorrowing family on the 10:25 train Friday morning.

—Mr. Wharton Rider, a resident of Milesburg, this county, died at his home on Monday last.

—Next Sunday is ground hog day, and the actions of his hogship on that occasion will be a matter of very particular interest to the peculiar people who believe in signs and shadows. Ice men are praying earnestly that he may see his shadow and vanish for the next six weeks.

Will "Old Sol" please come out and shine on this despondent earth; So that the festive ground hog, May see his shadow on the turf.

—The Gymnasium, connected with the Y. M. C. Association, in this place, was formerly opened on Friday evening last, with Music, Sandwiches, Coffee, Cake and Cream. We have not seen the building nor examined the apparatus and don't know if we could judge of its completeness or perfection if we had. On matters of that kind, we are not even an amateur much less an expert, and must take the word of a lady, who knows less even of gymnastic needs and requirements than we do, that it is complete in all its arrangements, and is destined to change our small chested, crooked-shouldered, little limbed young men into fine, stalwart examples of athletic beauty—if they are not too lazy to benefit by it. We hope she is right and that the Gymnasium may be a success both physically and morally.

—The Students at the Pennsylvania State College are in great joy just now over the passage of their petition for dancing. For a number of years the students have requested the Board of Trustees, in various ways, to permit this pleasant enjoyment, but it was deemed inadvisable by the Board as dancing had been allowed during the early days of the College and the privilege was abused. This year the senior class asked for three dances a year, one in each term. The request being granted the students are extremely happy because, we venture to say, that they have the finest dance hall in the State and will be allowed to use it now. The Armory is 160, by 80 feet with a polished maple floor so one can imagine what a place for a hop it will be. It is rumored that the students will give their first assembly on Friday evening February 21st.

—Mr. Calvin Meyer, whose death from falling from the cross loft of his barn at Linden Hall, was noticed briefly in last week's WATCHMAN, was a brother of Mr. Philip Meyer, the well known music teacher of Boalsburg, a distant relative of District Attorney J. C. Meyer and one of the most exemplary and promising young men of Pennsylv. His death is widely felt, and will be universally mourned by all who knew him. The funeral was a sad one indeed, and brought together an immense concourse of relatives and friends to the home of the deceased, on last Friday morning (24th). Notwithstanding the somewhat inclement weather, and the early hour, 9 o'clock, to congregate, there were between 75 and 100 conveyances in attendance. The Reformed minister, Rev. Black, at the appointed time took his position beside the casket, placing his one hand gently upon it, with the Bible in the other hand began reading in a tender and affecting manner one of the Psalms, relating to the brevity and mysteriousness of human life. Then read the hymn: "Asleep, in Jesus, blessed sleep From whence no waking ever comes." When the organist touched the keys and the sweet low notes, mingled with three male voices, carrying three parts, arose thrilling harmony, and filled the hearts of the bereaved ones, as they hearkened to the comforting lines with a satisfaction full and complete. Many a silent tear tickled down the cheeks of a loving friend. A solemn and impressive prayer then followed and the assembly took their departure to the Cemetery in Boalsburg, where his remains were interred. The deceased was about thirty-six years old, single, a model young man, highly respected and beloved by a host of friends. He had just returned from Linden Hall, sometime after five o'clock on Wednesday evening and was at the barn assisting his brother Jacob in feeding the stock. His brother asked him to throw down some hay, which he did, and was crossing above the threshing floor to the other mow which was quite full of straw, with a hole four or five foot square through it, to the floor at the front end of the barn. It being dark and perhaps forgetting about the hole, (he had not been doing this work during the winter), he stepped into it, and fell a great distance to the floor beneath, and from all indications from the blood on the floor and on the wagon tongue, he most likely first struck the tongue with his left temple, as there was a large contusion above the left eye and discoloration above and below it. His brother heard the fall and ran up and called him, he replied that he was on the floor; he found him on his knees and caught him under the arm, raised him up and assisted him to the house; he told his brother not to press on him and not to let him walk on the stones as it hurt his head. After getting to the house he introduced his brother to some lady there, his brother not hearing it, he repeated it and said "don't you hear me." This was about the last he spoke. Medical skill was at once summoned but without avail; he expired about three hours later.

ANOTHER SHOOTING AFFAIR.

—On Thursday last, Mike Bordner and a fellow hungarian named Stahic were shooting mark at the Sugar Camp in Snow-Shoe. The men were using bird shot in their guns and as will be surmised, their work was not calculated to show any great degree of skill. After they had been practicing some time, the target fell from the tree and Bordner went to replace it. While doing so, he called back to Stahic, saying that he would not be afraid to stand for a mark for such a shot to fire at." Stahic asked him if he meant it, and Bordner replied "yes, try it over." He turned his back stooped down, lifted his coat tail and said "go ahead." Stahic without further hesitation blazed away, the entire load lodging in Bordner's body, causing instant death. A crowd soon collected and when Stahic discovered the result of his act, he at once claimed it as accidental, and insisted that while he had deliberately taken aim, the gun had gone off accidentally and unexpectedly to him. There was no feud between the two men, nor was their any known motive for the commission of the crime. While others were getting over the shock of the sudden death, Stahic started ostensibly to hunt a doctor, and up to this time has not been seen or heard from.

The coroner's Jury that made inquiry into the circumstances returned a verdict that Bordner "came to his death from a gun shot wound, the result of criminal carelessness, on the part of Stahic."

THE ELECTION OF CONSTABLES.

—The question whether constables elected last February, were chosen under the act of February 14, 1889 to serve three years, has caused no little contention, and from present appearance is likely not to be settled short of a decision by our highest tribunal—the Supreme Court. Common Pleas Judges differ on this matter as widely as do the people. Judge Krebs of Clearfield, the other day filed his opinion, that the act referred to, governs the election of last Spring and that constables elected at that time, can legally hold the office for three years. A number of other learned lawyers have given this as their opinion, while fully as many have decided otherwise. Judge Furst, whose ruling will be taken as the law in Centre county, is of the other way of thinking, and construes the law exactly the reverse from Judge Krebs. His opinion which was handed down one day last week has been furnished us for publication, and with the act to which it refers is as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted, etc. That the qualified voters of every borough and township, and when a borough is divided into wards, and every ward in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, shall on the third Tuesday of February next, and triennially thereafter, vote and elect a proper qualified person for constable in each of said districts, who shall serve for three years.

SECTION 2. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

APPROVED—the 14th day of February, A. D. 1889.

JAMES A. BEAVER.

By the provisions of this act, constables are to be elected for the period of three years. The act provides that the qualified votes of every borough and township, and when a borough is divided into wards, of every ward in the Commonwealth, shall on the third Tuesday of February next and triennially thereafter, vote for and elect a proper qualified person for constable in each of said districts, who shall serve for three years.

This act, like every other act of Assembly, must speak from the date of its approval by the Governor. The act was approved on the second Tuesday of February, 1889. The spring election following it occurred in one week thereafter. At the time of that election the provisions of this act were generally unknown. The act makes provision for the election of constables in every ward of the several boroughs, but in no instance would be made clear in this Commonwealth. This provision was not complied with and could not have been at the last election for want of proper time to give the notice required by law. There are many boroughs in the Commonwealth which have but one constable for the entire borough.

The difficulty in the construction of the act of Assembly arises upon the word "next." This word, as used, is an adjective qualifying "February." If it preceded the word it qualifies the sense of the act then would be made clear and manifest. The act then would read—"the 3d Tuesday of next February, which would be in the year 1890."

This is the construction we give to this act of Assembly, and it follows therefore, that constables elected in 1889 were elected for the term of one year only, and that at the coming election in February next, constables must be elected of a borough to serve for township and ward of a borough to serve for the term of three years.

—Through the liberality of Mrs. C. T. Alexander and Mrs. Samuel Shaffer, people about Bellefonte who were willing to contribute a mite towards the expenses of the Presbyterian church, were furnished yesterday evening, one of the best suppers a hungry person ever set down too. From the way it was being patronized about our time of going to press, we should judge that unless the supply was unlimited, there would be a dearth of good things before closing time.

—Jackson McDaniel, an old and highly respected colored citizen of this place, died at his residence in the North Ward on Friday night last. Since coming to the town eighteen years ago, he has lived in the family of E. C. Humes, Esq. as a trusted and faithful servant. He was one of the supports and a consistent member of the A. M. E. church and a christian whose humble and conscientious life many might follow to advantage.

—The clergymen of the state will be pleased to learn that the Pennsylvania railroad company has restored the rule, abrogated some years ago, under which they were enabled to travel at reduced rates of fare. Clerical orders will now be issued to clergymen not engaged in other occupations bearing compensation, who are regular pastors of churches located on the line of the road, on application to the ticket agent residing nearest to their residence. The certificate will cover the entire year, and will entitle the holder to tickets at the rate of two cents a mile for the distance traveled. Ministers do a good deal of traveling, and they will appreciate this favor.

—The Clinton Democrat pays the following just tribute to one whose memory, among those who knew her, will long be remembered for her womanly virtues and steadfast christian belief: "Good old Lettie Leech, of Milesburg, died on Thursday last week. She was about 86 years old and had always lived unmarried. She was a devout member of the Presbyterian church, conscientious and full of christian love and charity. She died setting in her chair just after breakfast, which she said "tasted so good." Some neighbor who was talking to her noticed her head fall forward and spoke to her, but no answer came and then it was seen that she was dead. Thus passed to the other world one of the best and most inoffensive of women, after a long life spent in the service of her maker. She was buried in the Union cemetery in Bellefonte."

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS.

—The grangers of this county are getting down to business right. They intend to be on the ground floor hereafter when laws are made that are to effect their interests. At the recent meeting of the Centre Co. Pomona Grange, held at Oak Hall on the 21 inst. the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Professional classes have monopolized the positions of honor in our government by exclusively appropriating to themselves the positions of Governors and State Senators, therefore—

Resolved, That we demand of the political parties as a matter of justice and courtesy due to the farmers of our State who represent the largest class of voters, that they be accorded an equitable share of these positions of honor and trust in our State in the coming election.

Resolved, That in the organization of the County and State political conventions, we demand and equitable share of the offices and committees. So that the farming class may have a voice in the nomination and a proper recognition of their interests in the adoption of the platform of the party.

Resolved, That we call upon farmers everywhere throughout the State, to use their utmost influence to prevent the re-nomination of every Senator and Representative, irrespective of party, who in the last session of the State Legislature voted and worked against the farmers tax and dressed beef bills.

WHEREAS, Good public highways are an imperative necessity for the convenience of the people, and should be kept in the best possible condition compatible with public interest therefore—

Resolved, That we favor such improvements in our public roads as may be required for the convenience of the people in their several communities; but that in all legislation on the subject it should be left to the people of each county to regulate the construction of roads as may best suit their wants and circumstances.

Resolved, That we protest against the creation of road Commissions, composed of men from Boroughs and Cities, who have never paid a dollar of road tax, and who are not citizens of the townships in the rural districts where the revenues must be paid and roads constructed; and further, that we protest against any Legislature increasing our road taxes to be paid in money until there is such a revision of the tax laws of our State, that will require Corporations, Personal and Mercantile property to pay the same mill rate of taxation as is paid on farm property and real estate in the commonwealth.

After the passage of the above platform, the following persons were chosen officers of the County Grange for the ensuing year; Mr. I. S. Frain, Master; Wm. Miller, Overseer; Col. J. F. Weaver, Lecturer; Samuel Ishler, Steward; George Gingerich, Assistant Steward; John Musser, Treasurer; James Gilliland, Secretary; Oscar Stover, Gate-keeper; Mrs. Frank Brown, Pomona; Miss May Rhone, Flora; Mrs. John Dauberman, Ceres; Miss Annie Bible, Lady Steward.

The Board of the Patrons' Fire Insurance Company elected James A. Keller President and C. Dale, Jr. Secretary. The report of the company showed an increased insurance, with no losses during the past year. Amount of insurance carried, $1,800,000; average cost of insurance for 13 years, $142 per thousand. The picnic committee was empowered to either buy or lease ground as they may find it expedient or necessary, and then call a special meeting of the County Grange to ratify their action.

—A very desirable home is offered for sale in this issue of the Watchman. See adv. of Mr. John Zimmerman.

—Our Lemont correspondent was a little late in the week with his items. They go over with other crowded out matter.

—The Brokerhoff House is to have a mansard roof and plate glass front, in all of its store rooms, with the coming of spring.

—It is quietly whispered, that the reason the county Commissioners have been so penurious about offering rewards for the apprehension of criminals, they are going to spring a new Court House upon us?

—The crowd at the depot on Tuesday evening, when the parties arrested as implicated in the Weaver murder at Green Briar was brought to jail was both large and noisy enough to scare any ordinary criminal to death.

—Mr. Newton S. Bailey is back from the west looking as fresh and hearty as ever. Mr. Bailey will take charge of the editorial department of the Keystone Gazette in order that Mr. Fiedler may give his entire time to the post office.

PERSONAL MENTION.—Governor Curtin is convalescing, at the Stratford in Philadelphia, after an attack of La grippe.

Mr. Aaron Williams is back from a trip to Richmond, Ind. where he had taken his wife whose father was stricken about a month ago with paralysis.

Miss Isabella Shortidge, of Concordville, Pa., is visiting at the residence of Wm. Shortidge, on Thomas street.

S. A. McQuiston is able to be out again after a serious attack of influenza.

Mr. Thos. Beightol, a successful farmer, of Hubersburg, was in town this week.

Mr. Enoch Hastings is the new postmaster of Beach Creek.

Dr. Alexander reports many cases of La Grippe at Centre Hall.

Messrs Ed. Elder and Henry McWilliams were down from Ferguson township to hear the murder trial. They took in everything that was to be seen and heard about the Court House and jail and we heard that Seeley took them in for one of his pictures.

E. F. Kerr, esq., a distinguished lawyer and banker of Bedford, and one of the best known Democrats in the State, spent Thursday in Bellefonte.

—Now is the time to leave your order for a Suit and Overcoat. Prices to suit the times. Perfect satisfaction in everything fully guaranteed.

—MONTGOMERY & Co. Tailors.

DIRECT FROM CONSTANTINOPLE.
