Friday Morning, March 14, 1890.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—No communications published unless accompanied by the real name of the writer.

Mr. M. H. GIBB, of Penn Hall, is the duly authorized agent of the WATCHMAN for Gregg township.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

An increase of pensions has been granted to George H. Newman and Jeremiah Blair, both of Fleming.

Capt. John V. Miller has been appointed post master at Lewisburg in place of Wm. Himmelwright.

Judge Furst has reserved his decision in the Rush township and Phillipsburg poor house matter until the 17th inst.

It is said that Andrews intends to issue a new confession that won't contain as many lies as the first one did.

It was singularly coincidental that the death of the much lamented Miss Jennie Shortridge occurred on the 60th anniversary of her father's birthday.

W. F. Wise, of Tyrone, has the contract to furnish all the scenery and do the freighting of the opera house which Mr. D. Garman is going to build in this place.

The Andrews murder trial cost the county $3,000. The bill of the experts who had Andrews' shoes for examination, and detected the human blood on them, was $500.

The Clinton county court has acquitted Dr. Pettigill, of this place, of the charge of attempting to do a job of witness "fixing" at a recent term of court in that county.

Mrs. Magdalena Harshbager, recently deceased at Hurlersburg, was in her 86th year when she died. She was the mother of eleven children, six sons and five daughters, her husband and five children preceding her to the grave.

Mr. Joseph Schnell, who before the war was a telegraph operator and druggist in this place, but who now resides at Binghamton, N. Y., has been appointed Supervisor of the Census for the Ninth District of the State of New York.

William Bucknell, the rich Philadelphia who has been so liberal in endowing the Lewisburg University, and in whose honor the name of that institution was changed to Bucknell University, died last week after a short illness.

Judge Krebs has issued an order giving the Overseers of the Poor of Morris township, Clearfield county, power to lease a farm for the use of the paupers of the district. The farm is to be called the Morris township Poor Farm.

On the 4th inst., Mr. Anthony Farnsworth celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his arrival in Lock Haven. He may be said to have seen the entire growth of that town. His age is 76 years and he has been a prosperous business man.

Peter D. Bricker, of Jersey Shore, has been appointed census supervisor for the sixth district of Pennsylvania which consists of Bradford, Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Elk, Lycoming, McKean, Potter, Sullivan and Tioga counties.

There is a story afloat about a huge sucker caught in Weaver's mill dam, in the vicinity of Boalsburg, said sucker weighing four pounds and nearly fourteen ounces. It measured two feet in length and more than fifteen inches in circumference.

There was a big fall of rock and clay in the Morris lime-stone quarry, along the pike, last Sunday, the weight of which must have amounted to hundreds of tons. Had it fallen when the hands were at work somebody in all probability would have been hurt.

The following are the amounts realized from the contests at the U. B. fair held in the Bush Arcade: For doll No. 1—Lizzie Cole, $30.46; Cora Snyder, $31.32. Doll No. 2—Florence Cole, $53.55; Mardie Barlet, $14.22. For watch, Sadie Rhone, $34.61; Cora Lucas, $7.65.

We are pleased to learn, says the Phillipsburg Journal, that the operation for the removal of the cataracts from the eyes of Mr. Jonathan Rhule, for which he went to Philadelphia a few days since, has been eminently successful, a letter having been received this morning conveying the gratifying news.

By the burning of Nathan Haugh's saw mill, near Wolf's Store, Wednesday night of last week, all the machinery except the boiler and cut-off was destroyed together with the building. The fire originated near the boiler and if it had not been for prompt action several thousand feet of lumber which was piled up near the mill would have been also consumed.

THE RESULT OF TRUSTING DEAD-HEATS.—The Phillipsburg Journal says: Our young friend James N. Burchfield was forced to surrender the keys of his grocery store to the Sheriff, who has had possession since Monday. The sale will take place on Tuesday. It is a matter much to be regretted that Mr. Burchfield should become involved and get behind, but not very surprising when it is known that nearly every professional dead-beat in town had done him up for a good bill that wasn't worth the paper it was written on.

WILL GO TO FARMING.—Ex-District Attorney John Potter, who turned his back on the law some years ago, is about to take the management of a farm at Marsh Creek, for Judge Orvis. The hand of misfortune has overtaken Mr. Potter. The flood swept his property at Milesburg and shortly after fire destroyed his dwelling with all its contents—thus leaving him about penniless, and dependent upon friends for a new start. He means to push on, however, and by industry and honest manual labor to make a living for his large family.

PERMANENT LOCATION.—There being objections to the Granger picnic grounds in the Old Fort Woods, the Grangers of Centre county, through their representatives, have purchased for the annual granger exhibition and picnic of Central Pennsylvania twenty-five acres about a hundred yards west of the Centre Hall depot, along the railroad, for $115 per acre. In its present condition it is devoid of woods, but it will be planted with trees which in a few years will furnish all the shade and ornamentation that will be required. All the necessary buildings will be erected by the time of the next exhibition.

DEATH OF A FAITHFUL MINISTER.—Last Sabbath Rev. James T. Wilson, one of the most faithful and successful ministers of the M. E. Church, was laid to rest in Cedar Hill Cemetery among his kith and kin, who have "gone on before." Services were held in the M. E. church in Salona and high tributes were paid to his success and usefulness as a Christian minister. It is estimated a thousand souls were led through his ministry to seek a higher, purer life and unite with the church. He was a great revivalist, it not being unusual for his charge to enjoy a special season of grace every winter. He united with the church when a boy of fifteen and was untiring in his faithfulness. He leaves a wife and son to mourn his departure.—Lock Haven Express.

ROBBERY AT SNOW SHOE.—Quite an extensive robbery was committed on Monday night in Snow Shoe by burglars who made a raid on T. B. Budinger's store. Entrance was made through a back window and the marauders ransacked every accessible drawer in the store-room. Then after having broken the combination they blew open the door of the safe with powder. The amount of plunder scarcely paid them for this feat. They got checks to the amount of about four hundred dollars. Among them was one by Beecher & Sober in favor of Boak & Adams for $275.56; another by _____ in favor of Eliza Lewis for $86; another by John Madill in favor of T. Budinger for $20, and a fourth by E. Hugg in favor of Charles Ness for $12. The robbers took the small iron safe containing the cash drawer and carried it off entirely. The amount of money stolen is supposed to have been about a hundred dollars. Mr. Budinger cautions banks and individuals not to accept or cash the stolen checks.

SUDDEN DEATH.—John Brachbill, one of Bellefonte's old and well known citizens, died suddenly on Monday night while in bed, death coming almost instantaneously. About 12 o'clock he pulled the bed clothes up over him as if he was cold. This attracted Mrs. Brachbill's attention who asked him whether he was chilly. She received no reply and becoming alarmed she awakened the household to see what was the matter with the old gentleman, and it was found that he was dead. Dr. Hayes was sent for but he could do no more than pronounce him extinct. Mr. Brachbill was nearly 72 years old, having been born in Juniata county on the 7th of April, 1818. For a number of years he was engaged in the cabinet-making and furniture business in this place, having come here in 1841, and in 1846 built his cabinet making shop on the site on Spring street where his son W. R. Brachbill now carries on the furniture business. He was married to Miss Louisa Runkle and had eight children, only two of whom, Wm. R., of this place, and J. Calvin, of Curwensville, survive. The death of Mr. Brachbill is supposed to have resulted from hemorrhage of the brain. Some years ago he had an attack of paralysis which may have done his final work last Monday night. The deceased was an honest, upright business man during the time of his business activity, and at all times a good and consistent Christian, and no old citizen of our town has died more generally respected and regretted.

Mr. James Foster, chemist at the State College, has accepted the position of chemist at the West End steel works at Pittsburg.

The Lancaster News says: "Adjutant General Hastings said at brigade headquarters on Saturday that there would be no division encampment of the Pennsylvania National Guard this year on account of a scarcity of funds for the purpose."

Thursday of last week was the birthday of Andrews, the murderer, he being but 22 years old on that day, a very immature age for so great a villain. There was a report of his being dangerously ill at the time, but it was an exaggeration. He was suffering from grip which prevailed among the prisoners in the jail.

C. A. Faulkner and John B. Howe, of Phillipsburg, recently purchased a tract of 300 acres of fossil iron ore in Bald Eagle Valley, near Martha Furnace. They have had a tempting offer for this piece of property, but do not care to sell, as it is worth much more than the amount offered, and they think of operating it themselves.

The seven year old son of William Lucas, living with a farmer about five miles outside of Bellefonte, was on Saturday killed by being thrown out of a wagon in which he was riding, one of the wheels passing over his body. The injuries were of an internal character, causing death in some hours, notwithstanding every effort was made to relieve him by the attending physician.

About a dozen members of the Bellefonte Council of the Order of United American Mechanics, on Thursday evening of last week attended the meeting of the Milesburg Council which on that evening had a watch drawing. The lucky man was E. C. Allan, of Excelsior Council, No. 2, Waterbury, Connecticut. The watch was a very valuable one, being a handsomely engraved, gold case, and valued at one hundred dollars. It bore on the face of the case the emblem of the order traced in the engraver's most artistic style and design.

There seems to be a revival of license to sell liquor in Juniata county, as indicated by the following dispatch from Millintown, dated 11th inst.: All the licenses applied for in the county, six in number, two in each borough and one each in Monroe and Greenwood townships, were granted to-day, not a single remonstrance being presented. The Jacobs house, in this place, and the Patterson house, in Patterson, had been refused license for the past two years, owing to the temperance war waged during that time, but met with no opposition this year.

J. Linn Smith, formerly of Howard, this county, but who more recently was employed on the Pennsylvania railroad between Altoona and Pittsburg, was killed on the railroad at Lockport, near Pittsburg, last Saturday. The remains were sent to Howard for interment. The deceased was a son of Mr. J. C. Smith, of Howard township. We have not learned the particulars of the accident. Linn Smith was an old railroad. On the fifteenth of this month he had intended to quit railroad, come home to Howard and assume active control of the notion store in that place which he started about a year ago.

Thursday night of last week, 6th inst., was the coldest night of this season—in fact one of the coldest experienced in this neighborhood in many years. Most of the thermometers in this place on Friday morning registered 12 degrees below zero, although several indicated 15 degrees. We learn that Mr. Zeigler's thermometer at the Snow Shoe intersection greenhouse registered 23 degrees below zero, indicating considerable difference between the temperature at this place and at that locality. A remarkable change of temperature preceded this cold snap, there having been a fall of over 40 degrees in 12 hours. What ice we shall have next summer was produced by this sudden dash of winter.

Adam Hart, the centenarian and oldest citizen of Lycoming county, died at his home in Clinton township, that county, last Saturday, at the age of 101 years, 10 months and 2 days. He was born in Turbutville, Northumberland county, May 6th, 1788. Had it not been for an unfortunate accident he met with about a year ago he might have lived longer than he did. At that time Mr. Hart sustained a fall and was so badly injured that he never entirely regained his former vigor and activity and was for a greater portion of the time confined to his bed. On several occasions his condition became such that his life was despaired of, but his remarkable vitality and strong constitution enabled him on each occasion to rally. A short time ago he suffered from a severe attack of illness, and hope of his recovery was abandoned, but again he rallied and became well enough to leave his bed. His last sickness was brief, and the end came suddenly without warning, the cause of death principally being a gradual wearing out of the system.

JUST CONDEMNATION.—Sheriff Cooke's conduct in allowing the capital offenders in his custody to become the heroes of a morbid and vicious curiosity is generally condemned. In speaking of it the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin says: "Morbid curiosity should be discouraged. Too many sorrowful pictures in this world to gaze upon without seeking to add to the distress and trials coming in natural channels. It is to be hoped that the Sheriff of Centre county will see the necessity of ruling out the receptions and levees in which murderer Andrews is the principal figure. With a confession scattered broadcast, bearing the lie on almost every page, and with a record as a brutal, unfeeling villain, it is all wrong to allow sentimentality or sympathy to hedge round and about his way to the grave. The man should be passing his remaining hours in retirement, seeking by earnest and soulful repentance forgiveness for a high crime against God and man. This should be the situation, but it is not, and we but voice a strong public belief that condemns the uncanny practice of parading murderers and their awful deeds at every opportunity. The terrible Kartaus tragedy does not end with Andrews in his payment of the penalty on the gallows. The deed will live and the one who caused it should sustain all the condemnation due his work."

A BASEBALL NAPOLEON.—The New York Sun makes the following favorable notice of a celebrated native of Bellefonte: John M. Ward bids fair to become the Napoleon of base ball. A certain lesson is to be learned from the success of the players in their efforts to make a successful showing against the moneyed men of the League. The outdoor life which the players have led, their incessant travel, and the necessity of meeting all sorts of people in the different places have had the effect of making alert minds as well as strong constitutions. The sport in some respects is the highest form of athletics and the players are often men of unusual intelligence. The public had no idea how much diplomacy, skill and brain work they were capable of until the present fight came on. Mr. Ward seems to hold the whip hand among them, too. He is certainly a popular idol of no mean importance. Aside from his skill as a player he has written entertainingly and clearly, and he is a lawyer of some ability.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—Mrs. J. Gray, of Phillipsburg, had a very narrow escape from what might have been a terrible death last Friday morning. The water back in the kitchen stove froze up during the night and in the morning after the lady had built the fire it became heated and burst, demolishing the stove and scattering fire and ashes all over the apartment. One of the stove griddles flew up to the ceiling, and knocked a hole in the plaster. Mrs. Gray had just stirred the fire and put on the teakettle, when the explosion occurred. Had she been a moment later in turning away the full force of the explosion would have struck her in the face. As it was she was hurled across the room and knocked down, but escaped unburned except slightly on the face and hands.

YOUTHFUL PRESENCE OF MIND.—Johnny Vail, the young son of Mr. Pat Vail, of Decatur township, says the Phillipsburg Ledger, is a boy of uncommon presence of mind. A few nights ago he and his little sister were asleep in bed with a lamp burning on a stand close to the bed. The children were restless and in tossing about the lamp was dislodged from the stand and fell to the floor and broke and the flood of oil ignited. The crash awakened the children and little Johnny, with a presence of mind that would have done credit to a man, instead of screaming and running, seized his clothes and his sister's dress and smothered the flames, thereby preventing a fire that would in all probability have burned the house but for his prompt action. Good boy, that.

WORTHY MASTER RHONE AGAIN ILL.—The Farmer's Friend was sorry to announce last week that Hon. Leonard Rhone, Worthy Master of the State Grange, was again indisposed. The week previous he went to Washington to assist his colleagues on the Legislative Committee appointed by the National Grange—Brothers Brigham and Trimble—in presenting to the Committee on Ways and Means of the National Congress the views of the National Grange on certain matters of legislation. On his return he found his health so precarious as to demand that he dismiss all mental and physical labor for the present. In his illness Brother Rhone will have the heartfelt sympathy of every Patron in the country.

NATURAL GAS AT ALTOONA.—Friday Times of that place announced that the Altoona Natural Gas Company struck a good gas well at the depth of 1,400 feet that evening. The loud roar could be heard quite a distance and every indication points to a strong supply.

County Treasurer Goss has bought a lot on East Linn street on which it is supposed he will erect his future residence.

Robert Mitchell, one of Clearfield's most prominent and influential business men and capitalists, died in that place last Monday, at the age of 77 years.

The revival meetings of the United Brethren at Coleville, which have been in progress for the past five weeks under the pastoral charge of Rev. G. M. Eminhizer, have resulted in 75 conversions, of which number 45 have joined the church.

Mr. Conrad Singer, of Marsh Creek, father of William Singer, Esq., of Bellefonte, died at his residence last Saturday morning after a few days illness with the grip. He was getting over the attack, but was taken with a relapse which terminated fatally.

The team of Bowman & Yarnell, marble and granite dealers of Unionville, was in town on Tuesday with tombstones for Lucy W. Burnside and Mrs. Frances A. Boal. The memorials, though not elaborate, are evidence that the new firm has the ability to manufacture work of the highest order.

The following is the reported register of the weather on Friday morning of last week, the coldest of the season, at the following places: Tyrone, 10 below zero; Bellefonte, 12 below zero; Leont, 14 to 18 at four places; Centre Hall, 5 below; Rising Springs, 12 below at four places; Coburn, 6 below zero; Millmount, 6 below zero; Millifung, 4 above; Williamsport, 8 below zero; Snow Shoe, 18 below zero; Lewisburg, 4 above.

The people of Howard and vicinity were considerably surprised on reading last week's Gazette, which stated that a large number of friends of Miss Sallie Lucas assembled at her home and were treated to some very fine music and to a steaming plate of stewed oysters prepared by W. E. Confer who was acting on orders from James W., son of H. T. Lucas. It is also stated that the room was handsomely decorated with flowers, and that when the time came to depart they sang the old familiar hymn "God be with you till we meet again." The names of the vast assembly were all in the Gazette, so we will not give them. The truth and veracity of the Gazette and its Howard correspondent can be judged by the people who live in HOWARD.

Dr. J. E. Ward, dental practitioner of this place, was married on the 5th inst., at Centre Hall, to Miss Bella M. Stiver, of that place, by Rev. W. E. Fischer. The wedding was a quiet one, there being no attempt at the elaborate display that is so usual nowadays on occasions of that kind. The guests were not numerous, including only immediate friends and relatives. The Doctor, who is as modest as he is intelligent and efficient in his profession, has no fancy for parade, but the occasion which was the most important of his life was attended with features that made it as joyous as it was quiet, the leading feature being his selection of the estimable lady who will be his life-partner. In this he has the congratulation of his many friends.

The plans and specifications for the new U. B. church on the corner of West High and Thomas streets have been agreed upon, and if carried out as now contemplated, the brethren of that denomination will have one of the prettiest and most convenient churches in the town. The entire cost of the building is estimated at $6,000, a goodly part of which has already been subscribed, and as our citizens, outside of those who are members of that church, have not yet been asked for contributions, it is believed that the necessary balance to complete the building can be obtained without any great trouble. There is no good reason why every citizen of the town should not give something towards this improvement, and if all do a little the work will be completed without a heavy drain upon any one.

We observe that Mr. Gottlieb Haag, owner and proprietor of the Cummings House, on Bishop street, this place, is an applicant for a hotel license. Mr. Haag has greatly improved the hotel premises he occupies, putting the building in first-class condition and enlarging the stabling accommodations to an extent that makes them the most commodious in Bellefonte. In this respect the Cummings House affords a greatly needed convenience to farmers and travelers with conveyances. In other respects, such as its reasonable charges for accommodation, it supplies a want greatly needed by people coming from the county on business or to attend court. In granting licenses proper encouragement should be given to houses which accommodate this important and respectable class of citizens. License favors should not be bestowed entirely on the high-priced houses. Common people should have some attention paid to their wants.

Cards are out announcing the marriage, on the 9th of April, of Miss Maud Potts, of this place, to a Mr. Payne, of New York.

Died.
WALK.—Of typhoid fever, near Hannah station, March 6, 1890, Lucy, the little daughter of M. C. and Maggie Walk, aged two years, eight months and twenty-five days.
Sleep lovely Lucy, sweetly sleep,
Quietly rest, thy pain is o'er,
Though with sad hearts we weep,
We would not call you from that shore.
We miss you in your accustomed place,
Where now stands an empty little chair,
Your play things that you used so many ways,
With your little shoes still have a mother's care.
