TOTALLY HELPLESS

FROM SCIATIC RHEUMATISM—WHOLLY CURED BY HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

The fact that rheumatism is caused by accumulation of acid in the blood, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has wonderful power in purifying the blood, explain the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in curing this disease.

"In May, 1885, I was taken with sciatic rheumatism in my legs and arms. It entirely prevented me from working, and I was confined to my bed entirely helpless. I had medical attendance and in August, I was just able to move around. I was reduced to a mere skeleton and my appetite was gone. It was thought by all my friends that I could not possibly live. I took almost everything I could hear of, but with no good results, during the winter. One day, reading about taking Hood's Sarsaparilla in March, April, and May, I concluded to try it. One bottle gave me so much relief that I took four bottles, and since then I have not been troubled with rheumatism, and my general health has never been better. My appetite is increasing and I am gaining in flesh. I attribute my whole improvement to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I earnestly recommend it to all who are troubled with like disease. I consider it the greatest medicine ever put up."

"I hereby certify to the foregoing facts as stated." JONATHAN GIFFORD, Justice of the Peace, Emporium, Penn.—Be sure to get

ALWAYS RIGHT.

Don't take on so, Hiram. But do what you're told to do; It's fair to suppose that your mother knows a heap sight more than you.

I'll allow that sometimes her way Don't seem the wisest, quite; But the easiest way When she's had her say.

Is to reckon your mother is right. An' I reckoned yer mother was right.

Courted her ten long winters— Saw her to singin' school— When she went down one spell to town, I cried like a durned fool; Got mad at the boys for callin'.

When I sparked her Sunday night, But she said she knew A thing or two.

I courted till I was aching And she wuz past her prime— I'd have died, I guess, if she hadn't said yes When I popped fr the hundredth time; Said she'd never have took me If I hadn't stuck so tight—

Opined that we Could never agree, And I reckon yer mother wuz right! Eugene Field.

Cutting and Arranging Food.

It pays to be nice about it. Never use any but the bread knife to slice bread, and if possible cut no more than is actually needed.

It is a good plan to follow the modern fashion of "slice as wanted," though this may savor of stinginess to our country mothers. A lot of bread to dry is not economical. It does not add to the attractiveness of the table, especially if a lot of crumbs are allowed to remain, hence we say cut just enough.

See to it also that your knife is sharp, or your slices will be ragged and irregular. Evenly cut slices, not too thick or too thin, are more tempting.

In cutting a pie that is to grace the table before serving it is well to bring geometrical figures to bear. The eye and a little trained carefulness will generally do it. A chicken pie so cut that some pieces are a third larger than others is not illustrative of this carefulness. In the cutting of pies, as of all other things, it is a good plan to do it well. A pie that is carefully, neatly trimmed around the edge, in making looks nicer upon the table or plate and slips upon the knife better.

Perhaps all housekeepers are not so careful to have a cake-knife as one for bread, but I consider it quite essential. Only yesterday I ate a piece of cake I am sure was out with a knife used in peeling onions just before, and it did not add to the flavor of the cake. And again cut cake into regular blocks; calculate a little before beginning; you will have a nicer looking dish for your table.

We have not quite become accustomed to "cut as you go" in cake, but I am not sure but the day is fast approaching.

Sauces for tea in a glass dish with glass preserve plates beside add to the table. It may be less conventional, but surely has a cheerful look, especially if the berry spoon rests near.

The butter plate also receives less attention in many homes than it should. Glasses, I think preferable, and should have a good cover. Two covered butter dishes are within the reach of almost every family. They should never be used for anything but butter, and alternate often. A tidy butter dish will sometimes redeem a poorly set table; yet such is the positive fact, notwithstanding many costly luxuries are upon it.—Good Housekeeping.

How to Iron a Shirt.

First, iron the wristbands dry and the sleeves. Open the sleeves before the dry stick, so that the steam will reach the starch. Then pick up the shirt at the shoulders and iron the yoke. This done, iron the back by folding down the middle, ironing toward each sleeve to avoid touching the bosom. Now lay the shirt down with the bosom uppermost, and iron the neck band. As you iron the band pull the body of the shirt at the neck out at right angles to the face of the iron. When your band is thus ironed you will find it nicely in shape. Now iron all the front of the shirt except the bosom. Put in the bosom board, get a nice fresh iron which is not too hot, rub off your bosom with a bit of damp cloth, stretch tight and iron dry. Now for folding. Lay the shirt on the bosom, and take up a plait in the back, then fold one side over from the edge of the bosom and lay the sleeve of this side upon it; fold the other side upon this, and sleeve on top of this. Now you can pick up without disarranging, place on line over quick heat, and your work is done.—New York Herald.

The Laughing Plant.

The "Laughing Plant" grows in Arabia, and has been given its name from the effects produced by eating its seeds. The plant is of moderate size, with bright yellow flowers and soft, velvety seed pods, each of which contains two or three seeds resembling small black beans. The natives of the district where the plant grows dry these seeds and reduce them to powder. A small dose of this powder has similar effects to those arising from the inhalation of laughing gas. It causes the most sober person to dance, shout and laugh with the boisterous excitement of a madman, and to rush about cutting the most ridiculous capers for about an hour. At the expiration of this time exhaustion sets in and the excited person falls asleep, to wake after several hours with no recollection whatever of his antics.

Progressive Intoxication.

From the Appleton Post.

When a man sits down on the pavement and waits for a procession of lamp posts to go by, he is drunk; when he takes off his boots, lies down in the gutter, and tries to blow out the moon, under the impression that it is the bedroom candle, he is more drunk; but when he goes to the police station and tries to bully the inspector into sending for a doctor to certify that he is sober, he is most drunk.

A Famous Scaffold.

The scaffold at Fort Smith, Ark., upon which sixty-nine men have been hanged in the past fifteen years was built by men who evidently had premonition of the work that was in store for it, as they made it for all time and possible emergencies.

The structure stands about midway on the south wall of the prison, in plain view from the front of the jail and court house, but out of range of the windows of either. It is built against the wall which surrounds the grounds, and of late years a high stockade has been placed about it upon the three other sides. Around the top of this stockade a way was worn by the guards stand heavily armed during the execution. At present this precaution is by no means so imperative as it once was, when the officials did not and could not know but that an armed raid for rescue might be made across the border. The framework of this structure is solid oak and it stands to-day as firmly as it did years ago when first erected. The cross beam from which the ropes are suspended, and which is called upon to sustain the full force of the drop, is a massive piece of oak. The trap is of the simplest possible construction, consisting of two doors opening down, one forward and the other back, extending nearly the full length of the platform.—Kansas City Times.

The Perils of Orthography.

I was riding through the country west of Pekin, Ill., with an organ and piano man, when we came along to a schoolhouse one evening and found a spelling school in progress. We had three miles yet to go to reach town, but the agent suggested that we stop for a while, adding:

"If I can't spell the whole class down then I don't want a cent."

There was a big turn out, and the master at once invited us to take a hand in. I had been there before, and politely declined. The agent, however, went into the ranks with great enthusiasm, and, in the course of fifteen minutes, had downed all but twelve. Then I overheard growls and threats and mutterings from several young men, and knew that he was galloping to his doom. Five minutes later there were only six up, and at the end of another five the agent and the bells of the school stood alone. The mutterings grew louder and more menacing, and I decided to slip out doors. I was unhitching the team when there was a loud cry, followed by a succession of crashes, and a crowd poured out through the door. The agent was being dragged by the hair of the head, and as soon as well out in the yard they rolled him down a bank into the creek. I got out with the team by the skin of my teeth, and, reaching the town, sat up all night for the agent. He came in about daylight, clothing in ags, eyes bunged up, two fingers broken and going lame in both legs, and as he fell into a chair he exclaimed:

"I first downed the school, and then school downed me, and I'll be hanged if I ever spell another word according to Webster in my life!"—New York Sun.

Letting Babies Walk Too Early.

The senseless conduct of many parents in encouraging their babies to walk is productive of lasting injury. Long before their soft bones ought to have any strain put upon them, you will see these poor infants encouraged to stand, and even to walk, and by the time they are fourteen or sixteen months old their little legs have been bent very considerably, and the greatest care is needed to straighten the bones again. Sometimes unsatisfactory operations are required, and at other times cumbersome appliances have to be used, which cause the poor child much trouble, and represent a very considerable outlay.

Why not have a little patience? All in good time the tiny creature will learn to walk, and will walk well and safely, without danger of its tender bones bending. Under a year, let the child crawl, but do not let it walk, sed dom indeed stand, and then only but for a minute, and from one year to eighteen or twenty months do not allow it to walk much; and when grown-up people help it to walk, they ought to stoop very considerably, and not put any strain on its feeble little body. Many a cripple owes its life-long misery to the injudicious encouragement of proud but foolish parents, who could not be induced to wait for nature's good time.—Hall's Journal of Health.

A Skull for a Water Pail.

There is a terrible story coming from North Queensland about a man who was lost in the bush. He used up all his water and then dropped his "billy" in the agony of his thirst. By and by, fortunately, he came to a water hole, where he slaked his thirst and found the road again. He had still some thirty miles to go, however, and he had nothing whatever to carry water in. Of course it would have been madness to attempt to travel thirty miles on foot under a North Queensland sun without any water, so his ready invention came to his aid. He had been horrified a short distance back by the skeleton of a man who had evidently been dead several years. He went back and got the skull, plugged up the eye holes with clay and filled it with water. He then tramped that thirty miles on the water contained in the skull. Can any novelist imagine a more ghastly and frightful idea than this, for which we can vouch.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE GREAT AMERICAN CHORUS.

Sneezing, snuffing and coughing! This is the music all over the land just now. "I've got such an awful cold in my head." "Cure it with Ely's Cream Balm or it may end in the toughest form of catarrh. Maybe you have catarrh now. Nothing is more nauseous and dreadful. This remedy masters it as no other ever did. Not a sniff nor a liquid. Pleasant, certain, radical.

APPLE FLOAT.—Peel as many apples as will make a pint when cooked, and stew them until tender in as little water as possible; wash them through a sieve, sweeten; flavor slightly with a few drops of lemon and set away to get very cold; when ready to serve whip the whites of two eggs very stiff, and add them lightly to the apples.

Would you know the keen delight of a wholesome appetite? Unrestrained by colic's dire, Headache's curse, or fever's fire, Thoughts morose, or icy chills? Then use Dr. Pierce's pills.

Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets—the original and only genuine Little Liver Pills; 25 cent a vial.

—Very Fat Gentleman.—"Boy, can you tell me the quickest way I can get to the station?" Very naughty Boy (after looking him over carefully).—"I sh'd say you'd better lay down 'n roll over 'bout twice."

Lost.—"I don't know where, I can't tell when, I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz.: a good appetite."

FOUND.—"Health and strength, pure blood, an appetite like that of a wolf, regular digestion, all by taking that popular and peculiar medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I want every body to try it this season." It is sold by all druggists. One hundred doses one dollar.

NOTHING SEPARATED THEM.—"Perhaps," said the fresh young man, as he plumped himself down on the sofa between the two giddy girls, "perhaps you were discussing some choice secret?"

"Oh, no," said one of them, "I was just saying to Minnie that 'nothing should separate us,' but really I didn't expect it to happen so soon."

And the beating of his own heart was all the sound he heard.

—Would you believe the Proprietors of Kemp's Balsam give thousands of bottles away yearly? This mode of advertising would prove ruinous if the Balsam was not a perfect cure of Coughs and all Throat and Lung troubles. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Don't hesitate! Procure a bottle to-day to keep in your home or room for immediate or future use. Trial bottle free at all druggists'. Large size 50c and $1.00.

—Old Mr. Cumso.—"The doctor certainly told me to drink hot water one half hour before meals, and here I have been drinking for twenty minutes and I'll be eternally eternated if I can swallow another drop."

A BUSINESS-LIKE OFFER.—For many years the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy have offered, in good faith, $500 reward for a case of Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents. This wonderful remedy has fairly attained a world-wide reputation. If you have dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; if the eyes are weak, watery and inflamed; if there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scales from ulcers; the voice being changed and has a nasal twang; the breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility, you are suffering from nasal catarrh. The more complicated your disease, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians.
