MARCH
—APRIL—
—MAY—

Are the best months in which to purify your blood. During the long, cold winter, the blood becomes thin and impure, the body becomes weak and tired, the appetite may be lost, and just now the system craves the aid of a reliable medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiarly adapted to purify and enrich the blood, to create a good appetite and to overcome that tired feeling. It increases in popularity every year for it is the ideal spring medicine.
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA
"Every spring for years I have made it a practice to take from three to five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, because I know it purifies the blood and thoroughly cleanses the system of all impurities. That languid feeling, sometimes called 'spring fever,' will never visit the system that has been properly cared for by this never-failing remedy." W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor Agricultural Epitomist, Indianapolis, Ind.
THE BEST SPRING MEDICINE
"I have taken three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and consider it the best blood medicine I have ever taken. It builds me up, makes me sleep better, gives me a good appetite and improves my health generally." Mrs. A. P. LEZAROS, Portland, Me.

RIPE WHEAT.
We bent to-day o'er a coffin'd form,
And our tears fell softly down;
We looked on last on the aged face,
With its smiles of peace, its patient grace,
And hair like a silver crown.
We touched our own to the clay-cold hands,
From Life's long labor at rest and sweet,
We noted a bunch of golden wheat
Clasped close to the silent breast.
We know not what work her hands had found,
What rugged places her feet;
What cross was hers, what blackness of night—
We saw but the peace, the blossoms white,
And the bunch of ripened wheat.
As each goes up from the field of earth,
Bearing the treasures of life,
God looks for some gathered grains of good
From the ripe harvest that shining stood,
But waiting the reaper's knife.
Then labor well, that in death you go,
Not only with blossoms sweet;
Not bent with doubt, and burdened with fears,
And the dead dry husks of wasted years,
But laden with golden wheat.
—Jerome Suidan, in Courier-Journal.

Wooden Toothpicks Injurious.
"Don't take a wooden toothpick. Take one of the quills," said a physician recently to a reporter for the New York Mail and Express. They had been dining together.
"I always thought that the wooden toothpicks were the least injurious to the teeth," ventured the scribbler.
"The best kind of toothpick any one can use is the quill. It is not injurious to the teeth and little pieces won't break off and get down the throat and cause many other ills," replied the doctor.
"The habit of toothpick chewing is responsible for a great number of human ills. A great many people stick a toothpick in their mouths, and chew on it until the wood is reduced to a pulp before they throw it away. Very often several small pieces of wood are swallowed. A man once came to me complaining of his stomach. I examined him and found that he was in a very bad condition, caused by this very habit. The small particles of wood that were swallowed frequently lodged in the walls of the stomach somewhere, and induced gastric disturbance.
"I know of several cases which proved fatal. A man may go on chewing toothpicks for fifty years and never suffer any ill effects, but his less fortunate neighbor may chew them for a few days and die on account of it. I tell you a fact when I say that lots of trouble with the digestive apparatus and lots of more serious ailments may be and have been known by me in many instances, traced to the use of toothpicks, as I have pointed out. The habit, I notice, is one that is growing rapidly, and aside from the fact that it is ill-bred and a rude custom, it is to be detested on hygienic principles.
"I found the other day that some restaurants dip their toothpicks in some aromatic fluid, like cinnamon, and this tends to cause a big spread in the toothpick-chewing habit. The person who puts one of these prepared sticks in his mouth could hardly resist the temptation to chew on it."

Working Off His Stock.
"Talk about the real-estate sharks who are biting Dakota!" said Colonel Tom Dolan with disgust. "They're nothing compared to the sharks I met out there during the early mining days fifteen years ago. I'll give you an instance:
"A storekeeper in one of the settlements who had a big stock, wasn't getting rid of it as fast as he thought he ought to. In fact there was danger of the settlement wasting away before his stock could be disposed of. He fixed up a scheme. One day a man dressed in a miner's garb and mounted on a broncho, rode into the settlement about the time of day when the store was most crowded. He dismounted, he strode into the store. He carried a pair of saddlebags on his arm.
"Give me a new suit of clothes, and all the sugar, coffee, tea, smoking and chewing tobacco, v. atech and diamonds my horse can carry back," he said to the storekeeper.
"The articles were bundled up, the man took a handful of large gold nuggets from his saddlebag, threw them down on the counter in payment, mounted his loaded horse, and rode away.
"Who is he?" asked the crowd, the moment he had left the store.
"Where does he come from?" they demanded, as soon as they had learned his name.
"Then the storekeeper let out the secret that he was Bob Clavin from Black Gulch, where he and some chums had struck a rich nugget find, and were becoming millionaires."
"He says the whole country around there is filled with nuggets," the storekeeper added incidentally.
"All the merchandise in the store was immediately purchased to equip the large party, which at once started for the new gold field.
"And when the party, footsore, heart-sore and dead broke, returned from their fruitless wanderings a week later, the storekeeper and Bob Clavin were a hundred miles away, cracking jokes over the gullibility of "some suckers."
[Chicago Tribune.]

His IDEAS OF SECURITY.—"I want to borrow a hundred dollars," said he. "Can I have it?" "Certainly," was the courteous reply of the banker. "Come in and sign a note and get an indorsement."
"Hain't I good for a hundred?" "Yes, and a good hundred times that amount."
"Then what do yer want of a note? You know I'll pay it, don't yer?" "I have no doubt of it; but to loan money without security is not the proper way to do business."
"Pshaw! I only want the money for a month and it'll be all right."
"If you live. But should you chance to die?"
"Die?" exclaimed the man, as he turned away with the most disgusted look possible, "who the devil ever heard of a man dying in thirty days?"

Why Delamater Is to be Nominated.
Philadelphia Record.
The special reason urged for making young Mr. Delamater the Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania is that he has contrived to place Senator Quay under particular personal obligations for favors conferred. If the Grand Old Party can pay Mr. Quay's debts with such a trifle as a gubernatorial nomination, it will, of course, make haste to do it.

To Destroy Insects on Animals.
A wash made of the water in which potatoes have been boiled is a certain means of destroying insects on animals. The first application is generally effectual, but it had better be repeated a few times in order to destroy the eggs. The same means may be used against the parasites in which mange originates, and probably would remove plant lice also. This insecticidal property of the potato is supposed to be owing to the solanine, which is one of its constituents. —New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Hit or Miss Carpet.
Always make a rag carpet hit or miss. Some of the costliest velvet carpets are woven hit or miss, and they are beautiful. Use a little taste in choosing colors (the cost of weaving is less), and do away with the striped nuisance. A beautiful hit or miss is made by selecting pieces that will take brown colors of different shades, color with catch (or other brown dye if preferred) and avoid using very long pieces of any one shade in sewing. Try it. You cannot but be pleased with such a carpet. The "wood colors" and darker shades in it harmonize finely, and the effect is very pleasing. Short bits of black could undoubtedly be mixed in to advantage; and if you want a border, make it of black, red, brown and yellow mostly, with a good deal of black on the outside so as to shade down to the brown of the center. But you will be wise not to make a border, for the carpet is neat enough without it and the extra trouble and expense does not pay.

Plain Living.
"We've got to watch the corners mighty closely this year and retrench in every direction possible," said Mr. Bixby by the morning after a breakfast of porter-house steak, Mocha coffee, honey and rolls, "and I think, my dear, we'd better have a little plain table hereafter. I never did believe in this thing of putting so much money into one's stomach in the way of rich and expensive food. Plain living and high thinking ought to be our motto, so we'd better have a plain table after this."
"All right," replied Mrs. Bixby, "I am quite willing." And when Bixby came home to dinner he sat down to dried beef in a milk boiler, boiled potatoes and a dessert of boiled rice.
"Harriet Amanda Bixby," he said sternly, "what does this mean? Do you suppose I'm going to work like a slave and then be fed on such fodder as this? Not much, I won't."
"You said this morning that you believed in plain living and high—"
"Plain fiddlesticks! People who want to make starry jackasses of themselves on that tom-fool principle can do it! I believe in good living. It's about all the comfort a man gets in this life, anyhow. I'm going down to the hotel for my dinner now, and it'll cost me a dollar and a half, and I'll take all my meals there if you ever try to come your plain living and high thinking dodge on me again!" —Time.

Advice to Wives.
Be gentle and firm with children. Beware of the first disagreement. Beware of meddlers and tale-bearers. Learn to speak in a gentle tone of voice. Avoid moods and pets and fits of sulks. Never charge a bad motive if a good one is conceivable. Learn to govern yourself and to be gentle and patient. Learn to say kind and pleasant things whenever opportunity offers. Remember that valuable as is the gift of speech, silence is often more valuable. Never retort a sharp or angry word. It is the second word that makes the quarrel. Remember that you are married to a man, not to a god; be prepared for imperfections. Study the characters of each and sympathize with all their troubles however small. One in a while let your husband have the last word; it will gratify him and be no particular loss to you. Do not expect too much from others, but forbear and forgive, as you desire forbearance and forgiveness yourself. Even if your husband should have no heart he is sure to have a stomach, so be careful to lubricate the marriage yoke with well cooked dinners. Respect your husband's relatives, especially his mother—she is none the less his mother because she is your mother-in-law; she loved him before you did. Let him know more than you do ones in a while keep up his self respect, and you are none the worse for admitting that you are not actually infallible. Be as kind and courteous to your husband as you were when he was your love. Then you will look up to him do not now look down upon him. Be a companion to your husband, if he be a wise man; and if he is not, try to make him become your companion. Raise his standard; do not let him lower yours.

A WEATHER PROPHECY.—Scientist—"So you have followed the sea all your life! I presume you are a thorough meteorologist and prognosticator by this time." "Jack Tarre—" "A which?" "A—I mean you can easily foretell a gale, can't you?" "Easy 'nough, sir. When you see the Captain dancin' around 'an yellin' out for orders at onet, you kin jest make up y'r mind thet it's going ter blow."

THE GREAT AMERICAN CHORUS.
Sneezing, snuffing and coughing! This is the music all over the land just now. "I've got such an awful cold in my head." "Cure it with Ely's Cream Balm or it may end in the toughest form of catarrh. Maybe you have catarrh now. Nothing is more nauseous and dreadful. This remedy masters it as no other ever did. Not a sniff nor a liquid. Pleasant, certain, radical.
—Mudge—"Doctor, if I were to lose my mind, do you suppose I would be aware of it myself?" Dr. Boless—"You would not. And very likely none of your acquaintances would notice it either."
—"Can't eat a thing." Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, regulating digestion, and giving strength.
—Chemical analysis is said to establish it as a fact that four and one-half pounds of potatoes are approximately equivalent to one pound of rice.
—"I had rather be a kitten and cry mew" than groan all night and scold all day with neuralgia, when one little bottle of Salvation Oil would make me gentle and well. Pussy, wouldn't you?"
—Coughs, hoarseness, asthma or irritation of the throat or bronchial tubes will be relieved by taking Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. It has cured thousands. Recommend it to your friend and neighbor.
—They were discussing the joys of matrimony the other night at the Union Club. "Well," said Jones, meditatively, "looking at her merely in a cold and unimaginative way, my wife is not a beauty; but she will be when her father dies."
—A child is not nourished in proportion to the bulk of food he receives into his stomach; he is only nourished by the food he can digest. Every atom of Mellin's Food is assimilable and nourishing. It contains in proper proportion those nitrogenous and phosphatic matters which are so essential for the healthy growth of a child.

THE EXCITEMENT NOT OVER.—The rush on the druggists still continues and daily scores of people call for a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption. Kemp's Balsam, the standard family remedy, is sold on a guarantee and never fails to give entire satisfaction. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free.

"I rather like that idea." said Henry, gazing at a man who was playing a drum, cymbals, clarinet and four other instruments at one time. "Why so?" asked William. "You have only to kill one man to wipe out the entire band," was the sanguinary reply.

"THE MANY ART OF SELF DEFENCE."—Giving "blow for blow" is often more thought of than that other "art of self defence," which consists in defending one's own system from the assaults of disease and neglect. When dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, "liver complaint," jaundice, and the like lay hold of the system, the best defence is the immediate use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets; tiny, sugar-coated granules, made from concentrated vegetable extracts; one a dose.

Opposing lawyers in Selma, Cal., who bet ten dollars in court and made the judge stakeholder, afterwards regretted their action, for as soon as quiet was restored the judge picked up the coin and ordered his clerk to enter a fine of ten dollars each against the attorneys for contempt of court, and give a receipt for the money.

ORANGE CAKE.—Beat one cupful of butter, one-half a pound of powdered sugar together until very light; then add a small cupful of sweet milk and the whites of four eggs beaten to a stiff froth; add flour enough to make a good batter, and one teaspoonful of baking powder, the grated rind and juice of one orange and the juice of a lemon; beat until smooth and bake in jelly-cakes tins.
