

OUT OF THE WAY.

Jamie's feet are restless and rough, Jamie's fingers cause dismay, Jamie can never make noise enough, Jamie is told to get out of the way.

THE VERDICT.

And Then the Private Opinions of the Members of the Jury.

It is the morning of his trial. The sun is shining gloriously outside the jail, and he stands at his barred window and looks out over the fields that lie around the village.

"I can't make that young man out," said the jailer to his wife as he returned to his breakfast table.

"He is only acting a part," answered the woman as she poured out a cup of coffee.

"I want to see my client before court opens," said the prisoner's lawyer, at the jail door.

"The heavy iron door swung open. The accused and his counsel were alone together.

"I feel as if you bring me good news," said he. "I have never for one instant doubted that I would be declared innocent."

"My time is valuable," said he with a trace of impatience in his brusque tone.

"The face of the prison-pale man had taken on a puzzled expression.

"I don't understand," said he, giving the lawyer his eyes unflinchingly.

"I will give you an example," said he looking at his watch and then winding it as he continued.

"It is unanimous. Every ticket contains but a single word."

"The prisoner turned two startled eyes full on the lawyer and said: 'And you want me to confess that I did it?'"

"But before God I am innocent!" The lawyer shrugged his shoulders and half smiled meaningly as he rose.

"The thief must have taken the money and hidden the purse in my coat which lay on the table outside of the room. I know I am innocent and am not afraid of being convicted."

the fact that if you were to plead guilty and throw yourself on the mercy of the court your punishment would be lighter.

"Here I am, Jennie!" called out the prisoner. "I can see you, but you can't see me back here in the shade."

"Have you had any breakfast?" she asked, tremblingly.

"Yes, and have eaten heartily. You told me you would find out whether our neighbors believed me guilty; did you do it?"

"Jennie, did you hear me?" "Some do believe it, and the others won't speak for me about it."

"He was silent, and the pained look that was settling on his face deepened.

"A few moments later he sat on the prisoner's bench and scanned the faces of the jurors who had been chosen.

"I don't know—don't ask me," replied the attorney, with white lips; and he hastened home to her and child.

"I don't know—don't ask me," replied the attorney, with white lips; and he hastened home to her and child.

"No one was in the court-room except the twelve jurors. They had not exchanged one word with one another.

"For our own satisfaction," said he meaningly, "it might be well for us to know one another's opinion now."

"The foreman took up the slips and ran over them nervously.

"There is only one man in the South more envied than the colored freeman on a locomotive, and he is the colored policeman."

"What you all doin' yere?" "Lookin' at yo'."

"What you all lookin' at?" "Lookin' at yo'."

"What about me?" "Yo is as fine as silk. Hu! But wouldn't I like to be in yo' place?"

"Yo nebbin kin git up dis high, James Johnson," answered the officer.

"No, he can't."

"Can't yo, Misser Blivens?" appealed the young man.

"Reckon I might if I was younger," answered the father, who was old and bow-legged and bawbacked.

Want of Tact Almost a Fault. Never say too much. Manners go a great way, and delicate matters managed with tact can be carried out without the slightest blow to the sensitive feelings of those concerned.

A Lesson in Self-Reliance. Mr. Depew told me an anecdote. A good many years ago a young freight clerk was employed at one of the country stations on the Erie Railroad.

Destruction of the Forests. The reservations which have been created by the Chippewas in this state to the government embrace the heaviest white pine forests now available as a source of lumber supply.

Grave Consequences Which May Result from Their Denudation. These are grave consequences, and the question is, Shall the denudation of this new region be allowed to go on without some regulations as to cutting and forest renewal?

Knocking Out a Waiter. Erastus Gurley was in town and, as usual, proceeded to make his presence felt. He arrived about 10 a. m., and for a change dropped into a cafe for dinner.

Facts About Fish. Anglers generally agree on the subject of the sense of sight in fishes. A fish can see in water, but not out of it.

Marching Through Georgia. Gen. Sherman occupied a box in a theater the other evening, and when he was recognized the audience broke out into loud applause.

A Little Tariff Poem. He sat in his door at noonday, lonely and gloomy and sad; brooding over the price of his corn crop and figuring how much he had.

The World's Oldest Engineer Dead—Never Killed a Man. BALTIMORE, Md., April 7.—William Galloway, who ran the first engine over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and who was probably the oldest engineer in the world, has pulled his last trolley.

Two Brave Little Girls. Two little girls, aged seven and four years respectively, got supper at the Park House, Williamsport, Monday evening, having traveled from Stockton, California, a distance of 3218 miles, on their way to Philadelphia.

She Didn't Run the Town. No matter what may be a man's personal convictions on the temperance question, he is bound to respect those of his wife.
