

Democratic Watchman

Terms, $2.00 a Year, in Advance.

Bellefonte, Pa., May 2, 1890.

P. GRAY MEEK, Editor.

The Executive Committee of the Democratic State Committee, at its meeting in Harrisburg on the 31st inst., fixed Wednesday, July 2nd, as the day for holding the Democratic State Convention at Scranton.

There is not that harmonious feeling in Lancaster county which should prevail among political brethren in such a stronghold of Republicanism. In comparison the Kilkenny cats were models of harmony.

The political jamboree in which the Republican leaders indulged at Pittsburg last week, was intended to be in honor of General GRANT's sixtieth birthday. Boss QUAY was there, and if he recalled to mind the expression, "Let no guilty man escape," which the General used upon a certain occasion, it should have made him feel uncomfortable.

The Press is of the opinion that the Democratic Senators will not succeed in "preventing the passage of the Federal election act by making ten-day speeches." With the gag rigorously applied, it is not likely that they will succeed. When free speech is suppressed in the halls of congress there is nothing left to interfere with the outrages which the Republican leaders are practicing upon American liberty.

There is but little reason to believe the report that President HARRISON has asked QUAY to resign the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee on account of the undenied charge that he looted the Pennsylvania State Treasury. Mr. HARRISON has a lively sense of the benefit of QUAY's methods, and as he wants to be re-elected, it is reasonable to believe that he would like to have those methods repeated two years hence.

We have received a copy of the Industrial Edition of the Pottstown Daily Ledger, a publication embracing sixteen handsomely printed pages. As a representative of the industrial progress and prosperity of that town it fills the bill in excellent style, and as an illustration of what can be done there in the way of fine printing it is very creditable. We had no idea that Pottstown was as much of a place as this publication clearly proves it to be.

Civil service reform was sustained by a vote in the House the other day when an attempt was made to vote down an appropriation for the Civil Service Commission. Even Republican congressmen didn't have the gall to openly strike down the civil service law, although the practice of both congress and the executive makes their professed regard for it the most complete farce that is now being performed on the political stage.

If the farmers are entitled to the assistance of the government in having their surplus crops taken off their hands, as is proposed by the "warehouse" project, why shouldn't everybody else who may have dead stock on hand of whatever kind, have an equal claim to such governmental aid? The fellows who project such schemes have a ludicrous idea of the object of government. What a paternal establishment they would make of it if they could have their way.

Mr. JAMES M. BECK, believing that the Democratic nomination for congress in the 3d district should go to an older member of the party, declares that he is not a candidate. His name was but recently brought to the attention of the public, but his declarations on the subject of tariff reform which served as his introduction, were so expressive of the true Democratic doctrine as to leave no doubt that the people of the district can not get a man who will be more serviceable on that question than Mr. BECK would be, were he their representative.

The fat-witted Republican pictorial organ gives its party away on the tariff question by a cartoon which represents imported pauper laborers pushing out of his workshop an American workman, who exclaims, "What's the good of protection to me if I am pushed out of the factory by cheap immigration labor?" In view of the fact that this pauper labor is imported to swell the profits of parties whose business is protected by a tariff, the fraud of claiming that the American workman is equally benefited by that tariff is glaringly apparent.

Wanamaker's "Unpardonable Sin."

Indignant at the irreverent manner in which wicked Democratic newspapers speak of "Holy John" Wanamaker, one of our Republican exchanges says: "The unpardonable sin of Mr. WANAMAKER in the eyes of these 'political bullies' is that he is an active worker in the Christian church and has probably done more good in 'one day than the whole gang of his assailants will be able to accomplish during the term of their lives.'"

If WANAMAKER had limited the field of his effort to Sunday school and church work no Democratic newspaper would have subjected him to adverse criticism. But when he took the contract to supply the boodle by which a Presidential election was debauched, acting in concert with the most accomplished political corruptionist of the age in purchasing the Presidency, and receiving a cabinet position in pay for such reprehensible service, he committed "the unpardonable sin" for which Democratic newspapers will persist in calling him to account, and which no amount of pharisaical church work can condone.

An Early Convention.

It is boldly suggested by certain influential Democratic journals that the Democratic State convention be held early and ahead of MAT QUAY's assemblage of retainers. The Democrats certainly have fair sailing ahead of them so far as their principles are concerned, and there can be nothing connected with the action of the Republican convention that to any material extent can exert an influence upon the action of the Democratic convention.

Our best man for Governor should be selected, and should that selection be made before the Republican candidate is nominated it would not in the least affect the choice which the Boss has long ago determined upon, and which the Democrats are anxious for him to make.

KEMMLER, the New York murderer, who was about being launched into eternity with electrical rapidity, has been revived again by the interference of a meddlesome lawyer, who, without being employed to do it by anybody, obtained a writ of habeas corpus from a federal court, which temporarily suspends the operation of the battery which was ready to terminate the worthless life of a murderer whose offense was peculiarly atrocious.

They Don't Want It.

A ballot bill, embracing the essential features of reform, which will suit the views of Gov. HILL and would receive his approval if passed, has been offered in the New York legislature, but the Republican leaders refuse to support it, in violation of their pledges. They professed to be anxious for ballot reform when they knew that the bill as presented to Governor HILL would not receive his signature. But when a measure is offered which the Governor will approve, they go back on it entirely. The truth is that the Republican bosses in New York, as in Pennsylvania, don't want ballot reform.

A Mistaken Contemporary.

"Mayor Grant, of New York, declares that he will not allow the charges against him to remain undisproved. Good for him. No public officer ever had a finer opportunity to do a lot of disproving than the Mayor has at this time."—Philadelphia Press.

In this you are mistaken, dear Press. Senator M. S. QUAY has a finer opportunity to do a lot of disproving, but he is not displaying the avidity to do it that is being displayed by Mayor GRANT.

Religious Journalism Doing Its Duty.

The religious press of the country is waking up to its duty in the Quay business, as is shown by the following remarks of the Christian Union on the charges brought against that politician, which he allows to go unnoticed:

We shall never have high-minded politics until voters detest corruption more than they value party. The silence of many of the Republican journals regarding the recent disclosures about Mr. Quay is profoundly discouraging. These disclosures have come in a form which cannot be met by silence; silence will be taken to mean, and will mean, confession. The Republican party cannot afford to have the chairman of its national committee rest undisturbed under such charges. The Christian Union, which believes thoroughly in the general helpfulness and soundness of American character in public and private life, believes also that the only way to preserve that soundness is to punish corruption with a fearless hand. Until honest men of all parties abhor a corruptionist of their own party as thoroughly as a corruptionist of another party, we cannot have a sound public life.

CLARKSON, in his speech before the Americans club, admitted that the journalistic ability of the country preponderates against the Republican party. It is also seen that the moral and religious journalistic sentiment is likewise being arrayed against it.

Composition of American Prize Butter

At the recent Convention of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations, a Committee was appointed to secure samples of the prize butters exhibited at the American Dairy Show in Chicago. The following is the Report of the Committee to the Association.

"By co-operation of the Illinois State Board of Agriculture and the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations, five samples were taken, by Drs. Babcock and Manns, Chemists of the Wisconsin and Illinois Experiment Stations, from each of nine lots of butter to which first prizes had been awarded in as many classes at the American Dairy show, held in Chicago in November, 1889, under the auspices of the Illinois State Board of Agriculture. A set of these samples was analyzed by each of the following chemists: Dr. H. W. Wiley of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture; Dr. E. H. Jenkins of the Conn. Experiment Station; Dr. A. G. Manns of the Illinois Experiment Station; Prof. M. A. Seovel of the Kentucky Experiment Station; Dr. S. M. Babcock of the Wisconsin Experiment Station, except that an accident prevented the analysis by Dr. Babcock, of the sample from lot No. 8.

In the table following are given the names and addresses of the exhibitors; the prize taken by each lot, and the rating of each by the awarding committee on the scale of points adopted; the average of the analyses of the five samples from each lot; and the general average of the forty-four analyses of the nine lots by the five chemists.
