

That Turnpike Case.

EDITOR WATKINSON.—The Gazette of last week repeated its attack of two weeks ago, upon Mr. Rishel and others, thereby hoping to break the force of the result in the turnpike case, and also to shield Judge Furst from the deserved accusations of favoritism and partiality. No one who was present at the trial, or who is cognizant of the true state of the case, will for a moment believe one word of the charge made by the Gazette, but in justice to Mr. Rishel, Mr. Bunnell, and others, who have been maliciously attacked by this vile sheet, we ask for the facts in the case until it came before the court, and to give an unbiased statement of the entire controversy.

The litigation which has given the Republican ring and its servile organ so much concern of late, had its origin in the proceedings instituted about two years ago by a large number of citizens of this county to have the Centre and Kishwaukee turnpike road condemned and freed from tolls and toll-gates. The petition for viewers is signed by hundreds of the best people in the county, a large majority of whom are from Spring and Potter townships, and Bellefonte and Centre Hall boroughs, and prominent and substantial men from these boroughs and townships, as well as from Benner and Haines township, are furnishing the means to carry on the litigation. Such men as William Hilger, Joseph Tressler, John Blahel, J. M. Bunnell, J. A. Alkens, D. K. Guise, Henry P. Sankey, John Wolf, Samuel Slack, Alfred Durst, and a number of others of like influence and standing in the community, have contributed of their means, and given their active support to the movement. The men have no party interests to subserve, and politics was not in the case until it came before Judge Furst upon an appeal from the report of the viewers, who condemned the road and assessed the damages.

The question is frequently asked, by those unacquainted with the condition of affairs, why was this proceeding begun? What benefit could the condemnation of this road be to these petitioners and the county generally? A few extracts from the evidence taken before the viewers, and a glimpse at the history of turnpikes, will show very plainly why these people are so anxious to have the road condemned. From the time this turnpike was opened until the opening of railroads through this section, this road was a through route from the Juniata to the head waters of the West Branch. The road was continually crowded with teams of all descriptions carrying on the trade between these sections. In fact it was one of the main thoroughfares of the State. Then the road from Bellefonte to Lewistown, a distance of forty miles, had but five toll-gates. The through travel predominated, and the toll gates were so arranged that the burden of the tolls exacted fell upon the general trade on the road, and not upon the people of different localities. Any one familiar with the turnpike legislation of this State knows that the spirit of it is to collect the tolls authorized mostly from general and not from local trade, and any company owning a turnpike that would collect its tolls upon the opposite principle would not only violate the provisions of its charter, but forfeit its right to collect any tolls at all. As soon as the different railroads now being operated in this section were opened, through trade on this turnpike ceased, and the tolls upon this company depended for its dividends ceased to drop into its coffers. Unless the expenses could be decreased, and the tolls kept up to a good round sum, the stock would become worthless. The facts are that about the time our railroads were opened, the tolls went down from fifty dollars a share to merely nominal value. This stock was then owned principally by the estate of the late Wm. A. Thomas, deceased, Judge Rhoads being the trustee; the estate of Wm. P. Wilson, dec'd., Gov. Beaver, Robert Valentine, Dr. Hale, William Allison, and a few others. The late Judge Irwin was the principal manager and retained so much of the time of his office that he was succeeded by Robert Valentine. In order to restore the failing condition of the road and keep up the dividends, the entire policy of its management was now changed. The first step was to abandon the portion of the road in Mifflin county, thus making it exclusively a local road. This action was followed by the erection of additional toll gates in this county, the increase of rates of tolls, and a system of extortion from local travel that was offensive in the extreme. The increase of tolls and toll-gates was quietly submitted to for a long time, but when the road was allowed to go down, and at places become almost impassable, the people commenced to grow restless, and it finally resulted in this proceeding to get rid of what to any reasonable mind is extortion and oppression.

The question may arise as to whether the facts will bear out these assertions. The evidence taken before the Master and Viewers is a matter of record, and open to the inspection of everybody. It was there proved conclusively, that the road now is entirely a local road, and the travel upon it almost exclusively local; that the number of toll-gates, and the rates of toll, have gradually been increased; that the road is generally in very bad condition, in many places worn out; and Judge Irwin, the manager, admitted that if the road was kept in even ordinary repair along the entire route, the income would be insufficient to pay the expenses, and the stock would be of no value at all. In the light of these facts, are not these people justifiable in asking that this road be condemned, and this system of extortion removed? Under what theory or pretext can the owners of this road asked the people of the County to pay tribute to them, when they simply pocket the proceeds and refuse to maintain the road in even a fair condition? The truth is, the company do not care to maintain the road, and have expressed willingness to have it condemned, but insist that they must have an excessive amount of damages for what they, or their manager, admitted was a worthless road.

When the petition upon which these proceedings are based was presented, the company appeared in Court voluntarily, and participated in the selection of a Master and Viewers. Counsel for the company consented to and acquiesced in the appointment of the Master, and every viewer selected by the Court. Three days were spent in the examination of the road and the hearing of the case. Col. Keller, the master, who had the same powers as a Judge trying a case, carefully supervised the taking of the testimony, and in an elaborate and able charge submitted the case to the viewers. They condemned the road, and assessed the damages at $327. This finding raised a perfect hurricane. While those people admitted that their stock had no practical value, they insisted that they must have large damages to compensate them for their property which was about to be taken. For some reason, then not apparent, Judge Furst assented openly that the award was an outrage, and boasted that an appeal would be taken, and that he would preside at the trial. He did preside at that trial upon the appeal, and the jury assessed the damages for this same road at $12,300. Why this difference? Col. Keller, one of our leading lawyers, and a thoroughly honest man, presided at the first trial. He admitted evidence to show the condition of the road, the value of the stock, the income of the road, and the cost necessary to put the road in ordinary repair, as well as the value of the road itself. Upon the evidence adduced under these rulings the viewers condemned the road and assessed the damages at $327. Judge Furst, who presided at the next trial, admitted evidence showing the value of the road, and to some extent its condition, but excluded the evidence showing the value of the stock, or the cost of putting the road in ordinary repair. In hearing the testimony, Judge Furst allowed railroad contractors, railroad engineers, lumber men and iron masters to testify to a fancy value of the road itself, some even testifying that the road was worth $1800 per mile; but when farmers, and men who had experience in building public roads, were placed upon the stand, he refused to allow them to give their opinions of the value of the road, because they did not have sufficient experience. The evidence admitted under this ruling was necessarily one-sided, and, as a change of the same quality, the jury could do nothing else than render a verdict, giving this Company exorbitant damages for a worthless road.

Why Judge Furst should be so zealous in caring for the interests of this corporation is not difficult to understand, in the light of the fact that the leading characters of the Republican ring of this county, and those who furnish the means of war for the Republican campaign are the principal owners of the stock and the beneficiaries of this contemptible system of extorting money from the people of the county. This conclusion is materially strengthened by the fact that the Gazette, the official organ of this ring, seeks to defend these extraordinary antics by falsehood and misrepresentation. John Rishel, a member of the committee appointed to prosecute this case, admitted every imaginable crime, simply because he did his duty, and the attorneys who appeared for the petitioners are accused of attempting to bring money from the county, when their entire effort upon this trial was to cut down the damages as low as possible in order to prevent the ringsters from taking money from the county treasury to which they are not entitled under any circumstances.

The law firm of Orris, Bower & Orris need no defence or vindication in this matter. The rulings of Col. Keller upon the first trial, and the $327 damages assessed by the viewers, place them in the proper light before the people of the county. The petitioners are their clients, and not the company. The petitioners are interested in having the damages assessed as low as possible, the company as high as possible. The only persons who could possibly be benefited by excessive damages are these stockholders, and not the petitioners or their attorneys. If there is a steal in this case the friends of the Gazette are the parties who have a "firm grip on the swag." No doubt this is why this cry of "stop thief" is raised so promptly by the little rascals of the ring. He is paid for this purpose, and he must be worthy of his hire.

Portrait of Murtal Halstead, who regularly contributes a review of current events of the day to the Commonwealth magazine, appears in the frontispiece of the June number. This is followed by an article by the late Minister to Persia, Mr. S. G. W. Benjamin, on Farm Life and Irrigation in that remote and interesting country. Mr. Lafacadio Hearn contributes a study of the Half-Breed Races in the West Indies, and an extremely popular article, entitled Side Glances at American Beauty, by Elizabeth Waddie, is illustrated with reproductions of photographs of some of the most beautiful women of the United States, selected from the more prominent cities, Memphis, Baltimore, Boston, New York, Leavenworth, and many others. Full descriptive personal notes accompany these engravings. The complete short novel of the month is entitled A Good At His Friesland, and is by Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton, with illustrations by Mr. Albert E. Steiner.

One of the brightest women in New York, Mrs. Isabel Mallon, who, perhaps, knows more about women's dress and fashions than any woman in America, has been added to the editorial staff of The Ladies Home Journal, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Mallon is an experienced editorial writer, and will conduct one of the fullest and strongest fashion departments in the Journal ever attempted in a general magazine. Her new position makes her the best paid fashion-writer in the country. Mrs. Mallon is young, pretty, and one of the best known women in New York society.

London's Monster Labor Demonstration. Half a Million People Assembled in Orderly Array in Hyde Park.

LONDON, May 4.—To-day's labor demonstration in Hyde Park was a magnificent success, and exceeded in point of numbers and orderly enthusiasm all working class gatherings since the great reform assemblage in 1866. The splendid organization of the different trades taking part in the processions brought together in the park half a million people who met, went through the business and dispersed without a single incident occurring of a disorderly character. The total number taking part in the various processions is estimated at 1,700,000, and these were almost lost in the vastness of the assemblage gathered around the thirteen platforms upon which the Labor Day advocates held forth.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED. Resolutions demanding that eight hours be recognized as a day's work were put and carried amid the exclamations of the multitude, and by five o'clock, when the paraders had returned in line, the assemblage began to disperse. Half a million in a moderate computation of the gathering, the character of which bore everywhere the unmistakable stamp of the solid, respectable artisan class, the rag bag and bottle being conspicuously absent. The speakers included Mr. Davitt, Mr. Cunningham Graham, John Burns, Thos. Mann, Benjamin Fillett, Mrs. Aveling and Annie Besant. By six o'clock the park was deserted and the thoroughfares were full of orderly crowds streaming homeward.

THE GIANTIC PROCESSION. The gigantic procession was in time to start at 3 o'clock, and punctually at that hour it moved off amid thunderous cheering and blending music of many bands. The route toward the park was along Bridge street, St. James Park and Birdcage walk, which were lined with spectators. Masses of artisans joined the paraders on the way until entering the park the estimated number of men in line was 150,000. Simultaneously with the appearance in the park of the trades columns sections of the social Democratic federation began to enter. Some of them had joined the main body on the Thames embankment, while others marched in from the distant suburbs; marched from different points converging toward the two platforms in the park especially allotted to Socialists speakers. The Railway Workers' Union had also a special procession, some of the groups of which swayed the embankment columns while others marched isolated towards the platform centers.

Labor's Contribution to Pensions. St. Louis Republic. Before the close of Harrison's administration the labor of the country will be paying out $150,000,000 a year as pensions. That is, 10,000,000 dollar-a-day laborers will have to give 15 days' work every year to support the G. A. R. and keep it in brass buttons, blue uniforms, gold-braided hats and copper medals.

A Scoff from the South. St. Louis Republic. Pennsylvania Republicans have the curious idea that when they elect a man to office they acquit him of his embezzlement and other crimes, whereas they demonstrate that he is too big a rascal for the penitentiary.

PIANOS AND ORGANS. The improved method of fastening strings of Pianos, invented by us, is one of the most important improvements ever made, making the instrument more richly musical in tone, more durable, and less liable to get out of tune. Both the Mason & Hamlin Organs and Pianos excel chiefly in that which is the chief excellence in any musical instrument, quality of tone. Other things, though important, are much less so than this. An instrument with unusual tones cannot be good. Illustrated catalogues of new styles, introduced this season, sent free. —MASON & HAMLIN—ORGAN & PIANO COMPANY. BOSTON, NEW YORK, CHICAGO. 35 18 81
