THE OLD CRADLE.

I'm banished to the garret now;

I'm banished to the garret now;
My busy days are o'er;
Within my sheltering embrace
The bables sleep no more.
Notmore, as in the bygone hours,
My drowsy beat keeps time
In batient, sleepy monotone
With the old nursery rhyme,
"Rock-a-by, baby, on the tree top;
When the wind blows the cradle will rock."

The last rays of the setting sun
Slant through the windows small;
They light the garret's dusky gloom,
And on my head they fall.
Along their level bars of gold
Old pictures come and go;
Again I hear the mother's voice
Singing so soft and low,
"Rock-a-by, baby, on the tree top;
When the wind blows the cradle will rock,"

Ah me! where once the baby heads

Ah mel where once the baby heads
The downy pillows prest,
Within my ample oaken hood
The spider has her nest.
Empty, forgotten and alone,
A useless thing am I;
The last words of her quaint old sorig
Fall like a parting sigh,
"When the bough breaks the cradle wil fall: Down will go baby and cradle and all."

E. M. Criffith in Harper's Bazar.

Keeping Moses Down.

The colored people in a small town in Georgia had gathered at their church to hold funeral services over the remains of a woman who died a couple of days before, and the ceremonies were about to begin when the bereaved husband, who was a large corpulent man, beckoned to one of the men standing in the vestibule to follow him to the horse shed in the rear of the church. When they had arrived there the bereaved turned on him with: 'See, heah, Moses, I wants an un-derstandin' wid yo' befo' dis funeral goes any furder.

What is it, Julius?" asked the other. "Las' week, when we buried Henry Carter's wife yo' was right at hand. You crowded yo'self up to de front. When de weepin' begun yo' set yo'-self to work an' moaned an' took on until Henry hadn't no show 'tall. Some of de white folks reckoned yo' was de bereaved yo'self."

"I dun couldn't help it, Julius.
"Yo' couldn't? Well, now, let me give yo' a pinter. Lucinda was my wife an' nobody else's. She libed wid me, an' died with me. I'ze got to foot all de' spenses. Now den, when de sadness begins I'ze number one from start to finish. I'ze de bereaved, while yo' is only en' outsider who feels sad cause I'ze left all alone in dis cold world. Yo' has got to keep shet. If times used to flavor wine, is merely yo' go to taken' on like yo' did last the morbid secretion of the liver of week I'ze gwine to forgit my great loss jist long 'nuff' to turn around an' gin jist long 'nuff to turn around an' gin fatty, waxy substance, disagreeable to yo' such a lift under the ear dat you'll sight or touch, but even in its crude reckon yo' is de subjek of de funeral. state exhaling a pleasant odor.

Do yo' h'ar me, Moses?"
"I does." "Den cum along, and recomember what I'ze bin sayın." Better take a seat in de back row an' hole yo'self is just the medicine to purify your blood and give you strength. down, fur at de werry fust whoop of sorrow I'ze gwine to light on yo' wid a fo'ce of fo'teen hoss power."

Destructive Worms in the Hay Fields.

Farmers in various parts of the State are complaining that a peculiar worm has made its appearance in their hay fields. The worm resembles the "army worm" in appearance, and its methods of operation are nearly similar. They are about three eighths of an inch in length, very slender, of a light gray color, and are not covered with hair as are caterpillars. They go into the ground at night and when it is cold, but emerge as soon as the sun warms up the ground Then they crawl to within a quarter of an inch of the top of the blade of grass twine themselves around it and stay there all day. They attack nothing but timothy grass, so far as the farmers have been able to observe. None have yet been found on the grain or clover. When they get into a field they appear by the millions and cover the whole of it. On an average there are four worms to every five blades of grass, and seldom more than one worm on a stock.

Malicious or Crazy.

"Jack, the Ink Slinger," whose proper name is John Conners, and who has ruined the elegant bright silk dresses of Mrs. James Bennett, Miss Tillie Horn and other New York ladies on their way home in full dress from evening parties, was captured on Friday night by Police-man Stafford at West Forty-ninth street and Ninth avenue, while trying to ink another lady's beautiful light-colored dress. In his pockets, which were all stained and damp with the leakings, were a bottle and three old corked-up clay pipe bowls, filled with aniline ink he claimed to have taken away from his children, as playthings improp-er for them to handle. But his wife told in the Police Court that the children had no such toys, and that her husband had behaved strangely, almost insanely, for some time. He has been held.

-Baked potatoes are more nutritious than those cooked in any other way, but they must be properly baked to be good. They should be washed clean but not soaked, and baked as soon as possible without burning. As soon as they are done each potato should be placed in a cloth to crack the skin and permit the escape of steam; this makes them mealy. Serve immediately with the skins on, and in a napkin, and seasoned as they are eaten, with salt, paper and a bit of butter, put into a hole in the top. They have a flavor that they lack when otherwise prepared.

—In bottling catchup or pickles 433 boil the corks, and while hot you can press them into the bottles, and when cold they are tightly sealed. Use the 433 433 tin foil from compressed yeast to cover the corks.

MACARONI.—Break the macaroni in pieces an inch long. Boil one-half hour and drain; add one pint of cream, one well-beaten egg, season with butter, salt and a little pepper. Stir over a clear fire until it thickens, and serve hot:

-Boiled Mutton Chops .- Cut the steaks, season with pepper and salt. Broil on hot coals, baste with butter and sprinkle with grated bread crumbs. Serve with stewed onions.
