How to Keep Wild Flowers.

Take home your basket of wild flowers, "nodding violets," bright eyes, ane-mones, cowslips, and spring beauties, with all the lovely buttercups and crowfoot; cut the ends of all the little stems. before grouping them for a vase, carefully seal them with wax, and place over them a glass cover; fill the groove in the wood in which the shade stands with melted wax. A Tennessee Man Explains Why He Has Taken to Peddling Pies.

"You wouldn't take me for a very sharp fellow, would you?" asked an old man who lives in a "boomed" district of Tennessee. Several men were sitting on the platform at a railway station, waiting for a train. The old fellow had come up with pies, made of dried peaches, and had offered in vain to sell

"No," answered one of the men, "I'd not take you to be very sharp."

"Well, I'll just tell you how sharp I was. Two or three weeks ago, atter the boom sot in over yander at Cardiff, I noticed one mornin' that a lot of fellers was poken round in my field. I went over an' found that they had a lot of chains and three-legged things, and was taken sight at nothin' in particular. But I soon seed that they must 'a' had somethin' particular in view' fur they didn't want to tell me what their business was an' finally they worried me so with the'r draggin' of chains an' taken' of sight that I told gift them that if they didn't move on away I would set the dogs on them. That brought them to time, an' one of them draw'd me to one side an' asked me would take for that field. Wall, I didn't know. It was a putty fa'r piece of land an I wa'n't itchin to sell it, still I mout be dragged into caps the humiliation. partin' with it. They didn't seem very anxious about the price-all they peared to want to know was if they could get the land. Finally I told them they mout have it for one thousand dollars, a putty high mark, I can tell you but they bit like a trout. They paid me the money an' I went home about as happy a man as thar was in the country. Wall, the next day, what did I diskiver, Them fellers begun to lay the hand off in the verand, free coverlets on the in town lots an' then my wife hopped on me. She 'lowed that I never did have billiardroom, free table napkins and gels; that's the brass band on the corme. She 'lowed that I never did have no sense no how, an' swore that them fellers would build a town right thar under our very noses an' sell the lots for the cupboard—free soup for the Presite the cupboard in the cupboard—free soup for the Presite that the when they knew I'm dying? Give me sit thar with our little thousand dollars an' see a city with great blocks of buildings grow up. I seed the point, an' the next day I got a feller to slip around an' buy up the lots. horrowed all the money I could an' wife she borred all she could, an' after investin' nearly four thousand dollars we were masters of the situation. We had heard of the new railroad that was comin' in an' we waited an' waited, but it didn't come; so after while, seein' that the men had stopped takin sight an' draggin' thar chains, 1 went around to investigate an' lo and behold the fellers had left the neighborhood. 1 have sense learned that they have played that trick in several places an't that they never did build no town. They put up the job mighthy nice and the fellow that was so sharp in buyin' back the land for me was one of the raskills himself. Waist Deep in Money.

Tom Kelly, the ticket seiler of Barnum's circus, is as much a specialist in his peculiar lines as strictly speaking, a professional man. The whole process of receiving the money, giving the ticket and making change is done in three movements with the regularity of clockwork. The ticket window is about four feet above the bottom of the wagon. Mr. Kelley sits upon a high stool, here to ask about it, and it is destroyed with a large sum of morey in dollars, for him. After the performance commences, and no more people want tickets, Mr. Kelly closes the window and steps carefully over this bed of money. The soul, says Dr. A. H. Stevens, of Philadelphia, is located in the corpus callosum, a little spongy body situated at the base of the brain, which has defied the efforts of physicians in their endeavors to ascertain its uses in the human anatomy. "The corpus callo-sum," said the doctor, "is the seat of the imperishable mind, and is the great reservoir and storehouse of electricity, which is abstracted from the blood in the arteries, and conveyed through the nerves up the spinal cord to the corpus

Summer Trips to the Seashore, via Pennsylvania Railroad.

In accordance with the custom of past ummers, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has arranged a series of pleasant summer trips for the people of Western Pennsylvania to the most popular resorts of the New Jersey Coast. The dates fixed for the excursions are July 10th and 24th and August 7th and 21st. The resorts covered by the tickets are Cape May, Atlantic City, Sea Isle City, or Ocean City, every one of which is a delightful place to pass a few days of rest. The excursion tickets will be valid for tendars and they will be call. valid for ten days, and they will be sold from Pittsburg at $10, and at proportionately low rates from other stations. A special train composed of day par-

Why Should They Be Augry?

Alas, for the Human Nature Revsaled in Such Cases as This.

I happened to be in the United States sub-treasury, on Wall street, the other day, and was rather amused at a little incident I witnessed. A gentleman entered, and, approaching one of the clerks, handed him a $20 bill, and asked if it was counterfeit. The clerk and is assimilated as soon as taken into minutes returned and handed out the bill without a word. Cut across its face with a die was the word "counter The rage of the owner knew no

"Confound you!" he shouted. "] didn't ask you to destroy the bill. I simply asked you to tell me if it was counterfeit. It's worthless now." "It never was of any value," mildly responded the clerk, "and the rule of the department is that all bills offered in this way must be defaced when counterfeits before returning them to the party presenting them. "Now, that,"remarked the examiner to me, "is an almost daily occurrence. A man gets a counterfeit bill passed on him, and, being in doubt, he comes in halves and quarters piled upon the shelf | as doubtless he gave value for it, and ing it here. A Republican Hint at Free Trade.

New York Herald.

The days of miracles are gone, says the cynic. The cynic, however, is mistaken, as usual. A large assort ment of miracles may be found close at hand, suited to every taste, political and æsthetic.

Here is the last one, to which we point with pride. Secretary Blaine recommends that the President be empowered to declare practical free trade between the United States and the various Republics in our vicinity, and the President transmits this letter to Congress with his approval.

A miracle, indeed! But hark! Seventeen Republics on this Western Hemisphere can have free trade with us, but not the effete monarchies of Europe. The line must be drawn somewhere, so Mr. Blaine draws it

But you ask, what becomes of the principle of protection so prominent in the Chicago platform of 1888, which reads: "We are uncompromisingly in favor of the American system of protection!" We protest against its destruction. Its abandonment has always been followed by general disaster to all interests except those of the usurer and the Sheriff-what becomes of that noble and heaven-born principle,

Well, that's the miracle That is to say, the miracle consists of a little olain Democratic sense percolating through the Republican brain. You wouldn't have thought it possible in 888, but in 1890 there it is.

Mr. Secretary Blaine and Mr. President Harrison need only take one more step in that direction, and we shall very gladly propose their names for at least honorary membership in the great and glorious Demo cratic party.

But, great Scott! what a blow these two gentlemen have delivered at the McKinley bill! It almost shivers our timbers.

Well, it seems in these days as on the point of leaving his party and seeking a resting place by the old Democratic fireside.

WEEKS BY CUTICURA REMEDIES.

I have been affiicted for twenty years with an obstinate skin disease, called by some M. D.'s Psoriasis' and others Leprosy, commencing on my scalp; and, in spite of all I could do, with the help of the most skilful doctors, it slowly but surely extended, until a year ago this winter it covered my entire person in the form of dry scales. For the last three years I have been unable to do any labor, and suffering intensely all the time. Every morning there could be nearly a dustpanful of scales taken from the sheet on my bed, some of them half as large as the envelope containing this letter. In the latter part of winter my skin commenced cracking open. I tried everything, almost, that could be thought of, without any relief. The 12th of June I started West, in hopes I could reach the Hot Springs. I reached Detroit, and was so low I thought I should have to go to the hospital, but finally got as far as Lansing, Mich., where I had a sister living. One Dr.—treated me about two weeks, but did me no good. All thought I had but a short time to live. I earnestly prayed to die. Cracked through the skin all over my back. across my ribs, arms, hands, limbs; feet badly swollen; toe-nails came off; finger-nails dead, and hard as a bone; hair dead, dry, and lifeless as old straw. O my God! how I did suffer. My sister, Mrs. E. H. Davis, had a small part of a box of Curicura, in the house. She wouldn't give up; "We will try Curicura." Some was applied on one hand and arm. Eureka! there was relief; stopped the terrible burning sensa sensation from the word go. They immediately got the Curicura, Curicura Resolvent, and soap. I commenced by taking one table-spoonful-of Resolvent three times a day, after meals; had a bath once a day, water about blood heat; used Curicura Soap freely; applied Curicura morning and evening. Result: returned to my home in just six weeks from the time I left, and my skin as smooth as this sheet of paper. heet of paper. HIRAM E. CARPENTER, Henderson, Jefferson Co., N. Y.
