Dear daughter: Why do we mourn for dving friends. Or shake at death's alarms, Are we not tending upward too

As fast as time can move?

Dear sister, I have sometimes felt that the burden Of life was too heavy to bear, But over my heart comes a message It is better to live and to suffer, Than to die to be rid of pain. I know there is rest in dying, And that in heaven there is peace and love; No sorrow nor pain can enter there. Sometimes I think, why was I left to suffer? But perhaps in the struggle of my living There is a soul that needs my care; Some heart may be bearing a burden That my hand may lighten to share. So I think I will live and be strong and suffer. If need be, until I find rest, sweet rest.

Oh, dear sister, how I prayed to God to spare But God knows best : So now farewell, dear sister, 'tis hard To give thee up, but God's will be done.

In their removal Hecla loses a kind family and good neighbor. The writer wishes them success and much pleasure in their enterprise and new home

The festival held by the Reformed church at Hublersburg was a grand success. Everything moved along quietly and pleasantly. They realized about eighty or ninety dollars. L. S. Zimmerman has supplied a long felt want in his hospitable home, in the line of a
