SHE WHO HELPS HER MOTHER. There are girls who paint and girls who
And girls who dance with grace,
And girls who steal our hearts away
With charms of form and face.
But there's a girl whom I respect
Much more than any other,
And as a wife I shall select
The girl who helps her mother.

Although it may be out of style, She grants her mother's wishes,
Nor does she idle all the while
Her ma is washing dishes.
She has a kindly, loving way
For parent, sister, brother;
She proves a blessing every day,
The girl who helps her mother.

She may not read the latest trash
Nor sigh for a flir ation,
She may not care to make a mash,
Nor pine for a sensation.
Such lives as hers with grace abound,
And love for one another,
She scatters sunshine all around—
The girl who helps her mother.

The Public Roads.

Hon. John Dean has filed in the prothonotory's office at Hollidaysburg rilla in my house, as I consider it worth its weight in gold." D. F. KAYANAUGH, 15 Danie street, Albany. N. Y.

Al. McGraw, constable of Logan township, asking for instruction as to the meaning of "obstructions of highways". following opinion on the return of H. In the matter of the return of the constable of Logan township. In this re-turn the bad condition of the public road is mentioned, and the constable asks for instructions as to answers to the question: "Are there any obstructions of highways within your bailiwick?"
While it is clearly our duty to give such aid as we can to a public officer who must make return under oath to the court, we cannot, in the performance of this duty, touch on disputed questions or step on debatable ground. In all such cases we must hear before deciding. Therefore in our answers to this officer's inquiry we shall say nothing outside of the wording of the statute or the long settled law of the commonwealth. What is an obstruction? The public roads and hig ways are for the convenient struction. The judgment of the officer supervisor, has the right to a jury, to pass upon the evidence before he is adjudged guilty. "It is the duty of supervisors to open and constantly keep in repair all highways and roads laid out according to law,

True, the power lodged with the supervisor by the law may be used without regard to the convenience of the taxpayer, but for this there is no remedy except a change in the words of the statute. The notice should be a personal one to the land owner or his tenant; in case of non-residents it should be by advertisement, as decided in the case of Miller vs. Gorman, 2d Wright 309. I see nothing in the request for instructions by the constable of Logan township which calls for further notice.

At first he was assisted by the members of his own religious faith. But in time his supplies that there was a large reward offered for his arrest. The country was scoured by Federal cavalry, and several times he reached the boundary of Florida and Georgia. It was unsafe for him to apply at plantations for shelter. He slept in thickets and wherever he thought it would be safe. One night, foot-sore, he sia, or indigestion, and all derangement voice shouted: "Hurrah for Jeff." It startled him. At first he thought that it came from some Yankee trooper on his trail and trying to lure him out. The mocking birds were singing in the pine trees above the palmettos, and finches were twittering in the tops. Oc-casionally a cardinal groesbeak flew over him. All the time, however, he heard the words: "Hurrah for Jeff!" uttered in a shrill falsetto tone. At last he ventured to raise his head and cautiously peer over the scrubby palmettos. Nobody was in sight. He raised him-self in full height, which was very short, and looked around him. "Hurrah for Jeff!" was repeated. He saw, a few yard away, a parrot sitting upon the limb of a burned pine. He quickly concluded that the owner of the bird could be trusted. He approached the parrot, which gazed at him with apparent interest, and began to whistle "Away down in Dixie." A moment afterward the bird flew a hundred yards or more and again shouted: "Hurrah

Benjamin followed, and soon arrived at a plantation in the edge of a hammock, shaded with live oaks. Its owner lived in a large log house, with a cart-way through the middle. The chimneys were built upon the outside of the dwelling, and there was a min asked him if he owned the parrot, He replied that he did, and added: "That bird's a rale old rebel, like the rest or us." There, upon Benjamin made himself known and was treated with the ut-most hospitality. More than that, the cracker gave him a mule and a saddle, and after that he had no difficulty in making his way to the coast .- New York Sun.

A Surprised Landlord. I regretted to see recorded in the American papers the death of Mr. Kingsley, the landlord of the Continental Hotel in our city. Quite Reasuring.

The City of Rome got into a little storm off the banks and pitched about a little, annoying a good old Methodist clergyman from Kansas. As it grew worse he became more alarmed and went up to see Captain Young. "Are we in any danger, Captain?" he asked tremulously,

"Oh, not the slighest." "Are you sure ? "Certainly. Don't you hear the mate swearing, at the crew? Whenever there is any real danger you will hear no swearing.

About midnight the winds blew furiously, and the clergyman's wife became alarmed. "Ambrose," she said, "do go up and see if we are in danger.

I heard the good old man clamber up by my state-room on his way to the deck. When he got back I heard his wife say : "Oh, Ambrose! are we safe?" "Yes, Mary, thank God, the whole crew are swearing." Ungallant Beaux Were These.

A reception was held at the home of one of society's local queens, says the Pioneer Press When gentlemen in Lee's surrender, when they beard of the coats of steel-pen cut, and ladies clad in assassination of Abraham Lincoln. The news appalled them. A council of war was held. All felt that the indignation ures of a quadrille, lo! a garter was seen of the North over Lincoln's death would be so great that summary vengeance would be wrecked upon any members of the Confederate Cabinet who were captured. Benjamin struck out for himself. He tried to make his owner, remembering how a king bent bury's garter, and made it the badge of England's highest order. The Seal Skin Industry.

The killing and skinning of the seals is altogether performed by native Aleuts who are paid 40 cents a skin for their work. From the fat of the seal oil is obtained which affords a brilliant and beautiful light. The seal eskins are taken to London in their salted state, and are there delivered at an establishment which is one of the two great fur mar-kets of the world, the other being a Leipsic. To these two emporiums all the furs of the world are brought by the producers and sorted out by experts according to quality and colors. Once a year each of the two great establishments has an auction sale to which fur buyers come from everywhere. All the furs are catalogued, so that a merchant can procure any number of any sort of skins perfectly matched, without seeing them at all before he makes the purchase. All the seal skins of the world go to the London emporium, because nowhere else than in England is the art of preparing them understood. In the British metropolis there are many big factories employing thousands of workmen, devoted to this industry.
