

The J. V. P. A. Visits Carlisle, Hagerstown, Winchester and Chambersburg.

The generous courtesy of the P. R. R. and C. V. R. R. in giving a ride over their systems of roads through the Juniata and Cumberland valleys from headwaters of the former to the historic city of Winchester in the heart of the Cumberland valley, was accepted by the poor-scribes, September second being the date agreed upon, we boarded the seashore express at the various stations between Cresson, at the top of the Alleghenies, and Newport near the junction of the Juniata and Susquehanna where our party had assumed such proportions as to comfortably fill the elegant and newly upholstered and freshly painted car, supplied for the accommodation of their humanity and swollen heads.

At this season of the year no more attractive mountain and valley scenery can be found than that traversed by the P. R. R. as it passes through the mountains and valleys of this part of Pennsylvania, and no better equipped road hurries man on to his destination.

At Harrisburg the party were met by a committee from Carlisle, who assured us that no harm could befall us while passing through Cumberland county, and that if we would commit our selves to their keeping the generous people of that town would be glad to aid in making our stop at that point enjoyable. Here, after a sumptuous dinner at the Washington house, we were taken in carriages to the county buildings, Dickinson college, (the oldest and best equipped church college in the state.) public school buildings, shoe factory, machine shops, and National Indian school, where great interest seemed to be manifested in the welfare of the red man. The above institutions and factories are only a few of the industries which energy, time and money have substantially established in the thriving city of Carlisle.

Having spent our limited time in this beautiful and hospitable town we returned thanks and sped onward through the heart of the Cumberland valley, the finest in the world, to Hagerstown, where we found the doors of the Hotel Hamilton thrown open, and that prince of landlords, Charles Webb, with kind words of welcome awaiting us. Hotel Hamilton is first-class in every particular, and should you ever go to Hagerstown you cannot go amiss by stopping at the Hamilton.

Hagerstown, like many other southern cities, was reduced by the ravages of the late war, but now it is one of the busiest cities of the country. Her capitalists have joined lands in one common cause for the erection of factories, mills and shops, for the employment of labor. Within the last 60 days they have completed a glass factory, planing mill and bicycle works, and are erecting other buildings suitable for factories which they purpose donating to enterprising parties (free of charge), who will bring their machinery and locate business permanently among them.

Her mineral and lumber supply is inexhaustible, the face of the mountains being well covered with timber suitable for the manufacturer, while its soil is filled with minerals and coal. Hagerstown has outlets second to none by way of the Cumberland valley, B. and O. Western Maryland and Shenandoah valley railroads, leading to all sections of the country. Her people are hospitable, sociable and ever ready to assist those who come and settle in their midst.

On Wednesday we visited the battle grounds of Antietam and National cemetery connected therewith. The battle lines are almost obliterated by the changes and improvements made in and around that locality. The present appearance of the surroundings would lead one to regard it as being extremely fertile, the crops look well, and the big hay stacks show a good and bountiful supply for the stock raiser, while the fences are elegant and fields clean and neat.

Penmar, the next point of interest, is reached by the Western Maryland railroad from Hagerstown. It is not alone suitable for picnic parties, but an elegant road and good hacks are always in waiting to convey the visitors from the foot hills of the Blue mountain to the top, where large and substantial observatories have been erected, from which one can see over the entire valley of the Cumberland from Harrisburg to Tennessee. With the naked eye you can readily see Harrisburg, Carlisle, Gettysburg, Chambersburg, Hagerstown, Winchester, Roanoke, Cumberland, and hundreds of smaller towns dotted here and there in that great and fertile valley.

The evening was spent in the hotel parlors, where Mr. Webb had supplied an elegant orchestra and a juggler for the edification of his guests.

Thursday morning we again fell into the hands of the Cumberland valley railroad and enjoyed a ride still further south to the famous town of Winchester, around which cluster many war recollections. Here we were met by a committee of citizens who extended to us the true welcome that can be extended only by our southern friends. After an interchange and social meeting we were taken in carriages to the National and Confederate cemeteries, the first under charge of the United States, the latter a part of the city cemetery in which are erected some handsome shafts to the memory of the hundreds of unknown. Within this, the city cemetery, rest the remains of General Morgan, of the Revolutionary war, and the only thing that marks his resting place is a blue mountain slab, and it is broken into pieces. The attention of congress should be called to it and immediate steps taken to secure for this great soldier a stone worthy of his heroism. We next visited the water works, factories, business interests, and the Female College which is located on the ground where Washington erected a fort during the troubles with the French and Indians. From the top of this institution were pointed out to us the lines were many hard fought battles of the late civil war took place. The forts and rifle pits, constructed by General Early, may still be seen. It was from this point that Sheridan started his raid down the valley. Our time being limited we returned to the Taylor house, where an elaborate dinner was in waiting. After feasting on the good things, speeches were made by several members of the party.

The business interests of Winchester are fast coming to the front; new and substantial industries have and are being erected, association of capital is developing her resources, and in the near future she will stand second to none in manufacturing industries. Through the courtesy of Mr. C. O. Scull, general passenger agent of the B. & O., we were indebted for a trip some 12 miles beyond Winchester and Middletown, where an encampment was then in session. Here, right out in the open country, a large town has been laid out, streets graded, foundations for several factories are already constructed, and the timber for their completion on the ground. The auctioneer's hammer could be heard as he knocked off lot after lot at prices ranging from $150 to $300 a piece.

After partaking of an elegant luncheon furnished by the improvement company and heartily enjoyed by all, we set our faces homeward, returning to Winchester, thence to Hagerstown, where still another reception committee from Chambersburg were in waiting to escort us to that beautiful town where we enjoyed an elegant night's rest. Friday morning we met in the opera house where an address of welcome and responses were delivered, after which we were shown through the opera house, and thence to carriages, and were driven to all points of interest and institutions of learning which occupied the entire forenoon. After partaking of the good things furnished by the hospitality of these good and generous people a visit was made to the Mt. Alto picnic grounds the property of the Cumberland Valley R. R. Co., where crystal springs, beautiful groves, rustic seats, inviting walks, with all the beauties and comforts nature and man can bestow, are in waiting for those who visit this lovely spot. An elegant pavilion and good music are supplied, while refreshments are served in good taste.

Before leaving Chambersburg, Messrs. W. W. Trout, of the Lewis-ton Free Press, McKnight Williamson, of the Huntingdon Globe, and T. H. Harter, of the Middletown Post, who had been appointed a committee on resolutions, reported the following which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the hearty and sincere thanks of the Juniata Valley Editorial association is hereby tendered to the Pennsylvania railroad company for transportation to Harrisburg and a special car through to Winchester, to the Cumberland Valley railroad for transportation and an extra car, to the Western Maryland railroad for transportation to Pen-Mar, to the Shenandoah railroad, and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for transportation to Messrs. Bidle and Boyd, of the Cumberland Valley railroad, for special favors; to the press and citizens of Carlisle and Chambersburg; to the Land and Improvement companies and officials and citizens of Hagerstown, Winchester and Middletown, for the lavish hospitality bestowed upon our party, making this excursion one of the most enjoyable that the association has ever had the pleasure of participating in.

Our thanks are also tendered to the officers of the Hagerstown Fair association for the excellent lunch furnished; to Charles Webb, of J., proprietor of the hotel Hamilton, for his untiring attention while at his hotel, and to H. C. Dern, president of the association; E. Conard, secretary, and George Shrom, of the executive committee, for arranging and carrying out the details of this excursion, which has resulted so satisfactory to every participant.

Resolved, That this association has been placed under lasting obligations to all who assisted in making this excursion so pleasant, and that the people of the Cumberland and Shenandoah valleys will ever have a green place in our hearts for the royal and sustained hospitality extended on this occasion. The association acknowledges one grand ovation from the beginning to the end of their excursion, and feel that cold type can not give adequate expression of their gratitude therefore.

The Outlook is Good.

Independent's Firmly Believe That Patison Will Be Re-Elected.

Philadelphia Record of Saturday.

Mr. George E. Mapes, who has been selected Chairman of the Independent Republican State Committee, returned to his home in this city yesterday from the Altoona conference of the Independent leaders. Mr. Mapes is very enthusiastic over the extent of the defection in the Republican ranks. He says the Independents will open headquarters at No. 321 Chestnut street on Monday, and that they will then plunge into the campaign. He said the conference at Altoona was a fruitful one in many ways and that all shared the opinion that Governor Pattison will be elected. The Independent Republicans of Chester county are reported to have a good organization there, of which Mr. Edwin A. Barber is Chairman. The committee now has the names of 700 Republicans in the county who intend to vote for Governor Pattison, and there are a number of districts yet to hear from.

Pine Grove Mentions.

Mr. W. H. Sanserman and wife, of Altoona, paid a brief visit to his afflicted mother who is suffering from a partial stroke of paralysis.

Mrs. Elizabeth Archey, one of our oldest and most highly respected old ladies, is seriously ill with heart trouble and dropsical affection. Little Samuel, a stepson of Joshua Lucas, accidentally fell from a load of fitting and had his leg broken by the wagon passing over it.

Mrs. Joseph Gates for several weeks has been confined to her bed with fever. At the writing slight changes for the better are noticeable by her attending physician, Dr. G. H. Woods.

The new house of E. T. Livingston, on Broad st., is well on the way, whilst the elegant residences of J. B. Mitchell and Judge Keller on Main st., are almost ready for occupancy.

But two of our most influential Republicans were enthusiastic enough to drive over to the Penna. State College on Monday last to see Senator Delamater. Of course the g. o. p. is safe now hereabouts.

Mr. Albert Inlow, who was seriously, if not fatally injured, last week at the Penna. State College Brick Works, is being cared for at the home of his father-in-law, G. H. Strubel. But little hope of his recovery is entertained by the family or his attending physician.

Our agricultural friends are mostly through seeding, which means a general attendance at the Grange Park picnic next week. The weather has been showery and the newly seeded grain is doing nicely; though much complaint is being made as to the great amount of grub worms that will likely get in their work later on.

Obituary.

Mrs. Lydia Clemson, wife of A. E. Clemson, died in the early morning of the 10th inst., aged 65 years and 8 months.

Thus, after months of suffering another loving mother, wife, faithful friend and earnest Christian, has quietly fallen asleep in Jesus. Ever seeing the sunny side of life's clouds, she threw many a sunbeam into the sorrow of others, so that her memory will long be fragrant.

For some years she was a sufferer from a tumorous growth in her side, coupled with dropsy, which caused her death. She was often visited with sore attacks which threatened fatal terminations, all of which she bore patiently.

The deceased lady was the fifth daughter of the late venerable Michael Riker, January 24th, 1859, who married Amos E. Clemson. Four sons and two daughters were the result of this union, all of whom but one son and a devoted husband survive to deplore their irreplaceable loss. She was a member of the Presbyterian church. Rev. J. C. Kelly had charge of the funeral services, assisted by Rev. C. T. Atkins. The funeral took place on 11th inst., at 2 o'clock, when her remains were laid at rest in the Gatesburg cemetery in sight of her childhood home.

The following letters remain in the Bellefonte post office unclaimed, Sept. 28th, 1899.

Mr. Wash Conner, Mr. Joseph Chesnut, Mr. Henry L. Gilbert, Mrs. Annie Kokenbury, Miss Annie Joslin, Mr. Charley Keesmer, Mr. Charles W. Lee, Mr. Sam Moore, Miss Rebecca J. Musser, Mr. Robt. Maclester, Mr. Wm. Sale, Miss C. Warner.

When called for please say advertised.

AWFUL SKIN DISEASE

MIRACULOUS CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES.

A face, from the hair to the neck on both sides, a raw mass of bleeding sores; a body riddled with ulcers and a head that was a mass of bleeding eruptions, and from the tips of her toes to the tips of her ears the skin was so raw as to be absolutely scalding to the touch. Such was the frightful condition of the little four-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Stout, of Danville, N. Y., when first she saw her, about two months ago. At that time I was clerking in the drug store of C. W. Woolever, had much faith in the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and resolved to try them on her. I could not bear to see the little one suffer as I knew she did. "I have tried everything suggested to me on my little daughter, who has been so afflicted from birth," said Mrs. Stout. "I have had three doctors experiment on her, but she seemed to be getting worse every day. I was almost distracted. Every night I had to bandage her all over and tie mittens on her hands to prevent her from digging the raw flesh with her fingers. Frequently little 'Rae' would lie awake all night sobbing and moaning with pain, which I feared could never be relieved until death ended her suffering. One day, Mr. Faulkner stopped in, said he had often noticed my little daughter, and believed that CUTICURA REMEDIES would cure her. He offered to be her physician, and I resolved to try them, but without much hope, for at that time she was worse than I had ever seen her, and three weeks to no purpose of recovery. He brought the remedies as promised, and a faithful use of CUTICURA, CUTICURA RESOLVE, and CUTICURA SOAP has wrought a miracle. Today her skin is smooth and fair, and I believe she is entirely recovered. I wish to express my most grateful thanks to Mr. E. Faulkner, and to the proprietors of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which, I am sure, saved my child's life." I tender the above in every particular, and refer to Mr. C. W. Woolever, druggist, or to any business man in good standing in Danville.
