An Arabian Wild East Show.

Troubles of Competing with the Indian Wild West Circus.

Apocryphal of the recent decision by the United States government forbidding its wards, the American Indians, to overcrowd the dramatic profession and elevate before the crowned heads of Europe, an amusing story is told concerning the difficulties which recently befell the "Wild East" show in London in their endeavor to provide Arab chieftains for the delectation of their cockney clientele.

Previous to the opening of the show the managers decided that a band of fiery, untamed Bedouins, freshly imported from the desert of Sahara, was an indispensable adjunct to their exhibition. A consultation was held and two trusty agents, well provided with money, were commissioned to secure the troupe and arrived at Suoz. Then they procured an interpreter and sent out scouts saying that the queen of England wished to engage a body-guard of Arabian warriors. It was in famine time that the notice reached the Bedouins. They flocked like blackbirds to the appointed rendezvous in a little town near Cairo. When the agents arrived they found a savage, hungry horde of barbarians laying siege to the place. They entered the hotel through the back door and barricaded themselves in their room. A report arose that they had arrived. The Arabs at once made a charge, broke into the place and completely overpowered the agents. They then left and waited for their patrons. Through the interpreter a line was arranged and the agents walked through, scanning each savage with a view of possible engagement. Forty were chosen out of the lot, all perfect specimens of their race, and it seemed as if the mission was fulfilled. Not so, however, for that night a riot took place and the disappointed agents for Thespian honors killed no less than four of their lucky brethren. Next day another review was held and more men were chosen, and so it continued for a week until the Londoners succeeded in moving the troupe away. Nor was the trouble over yet. A chief of the crowd had been selected by the employers. His subjects rebelled against him and came very near throwing him off the ship on the return voyage. The wild East people were in despair until a mighty mind in the person of the press agent of the concern solved the difficulty. He summoned the Arabs before him and thus addressed them: "All of you fellows want to run the show as chief. But you must know, heathens as you are, that we can't have 40 chiefs in the play. Now sit down and throw dice. The highest man is chief this week we'll have another throw and you'll all get your turn, and the management will give the chief free drinks as long as he's in office and there's no fighting, see?" The Arabs promptly saw and henceforth the camp was as quiet as a Philadelphia Sunday and harmony was restored forever. Besides, the Londoners never learned the difference.

Leather Cannon.

They Were Successfully Used in Ancient English Warfare.

"Let me give you a bit of history," said a down town leather merchant yesterday, "that many a student has overlooked. The objects of peace are not all that leather figures in, for it is to leather that we owe the introduction of light artillery. The leather cannon have been actually tried on the battlefield, and, what is more, turned the tide of one of the greatest battles of modern times. The inventor of leather artillery was a certain Col. Robert Scott, a Scotchman in the service of Charles I. of England.

"He constructed guns of hardened leather and experimentally tried them. The result was that they were pronounced superior to guns made of brass or iron. The Colonel, however, did not live long to enjoy the greatest triumph of his invention. He died in 1631, and a monument erected to his memory I have seen in a churchyard in London. This monument represents him as an armor-clad, fierce-looking man, wearing a heavy mustache and pointed beard.

"In the very year of the colonel's death the effectiveness of his leather artillery was amply proved on the memorable field of Lepsic, where September 7, 1781, Gustave Adolphus, achieved his splendid victory over the Imperialists under Gen. Tilly. It is said that it was owing to the invention of Col. Scott that the victory was obtained.

The guns were found to be so easily carried that a small battery could fly from one part of the field to another, and thus artillery brought to bear when most needed—a thing impossible with the heavy artillery of that period. Certain it is that leather artillery was used in this great battle by Adolphus, though it is equally certain that the guns were never used afterward. The reason of that, however, was that the leather guns having demonstrated the value of light artillery, a way was discovered of making the metal guns lighter, and the greater durability of the latter gave them the superiority.

—Maria Mayo, the leading belle of Richmond, Va., had 100 suitors, and refused 99 of them before accepting General Winfield Scott. He had courted Miss Mayo when he was a young lawyer. After entering the army he continued his addresses, and was refused successively as Captain Scott and Colonel Scott, and it was only as General Scott, the hero of Lundy's Lane, that he at last won the hand of the much admired belle.

—The chronically unhappy man, who persists in trying to sour humanity, should get him to the closet with his woe, and give the sunshine a chance to warm his neighbors.

Is This What Ails You?

Do you have dull, heavy headaches, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, watery, and inflamed; ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; voice changed and nasal twang; breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; is there a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility? If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from Nasal Catarrh. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, a reward of $500 for a case of this disease which they cannot cure. The remedy is sold by druggists, at only 50 cents.

—A recent prize offered by an Eastern horticultural society for the largest money product from a given area of small fruits was awarded to a strawberry grower, whose sales from two acres amounted to more than seventeen hundred dollars; and Mr. E. P. Roe, in play and profit in My Garden, has told us how he secured a gross return of slightly more than two thousand dollars from the same amount of land. In the report of the last annual meeting of the New Jersey Horticultural Society the following are given as some of the yields obtained by its members, "although the season had been uniformly bad." Early cabbage produced $455 per acre; early tomatoes, $585 per acre; asparagus, four acres reached $900; seven acres, $1,000; four acres, $200 per acre, and some instances as high as $300 per acre.

IN MONTREAL.—Among those who have applied for the position of cashier is a man who used to be a cashier in a New York bank. He embezzled the funds of the bank and skipped over here. President.—Give him the position. Secretary.—What! Give it to a man with such a record as that? President.—Certainly. He doesn't dare embezzle our funds, for he can't skip to the United States for fear of being arrested. A Canadian with a clear record might do so. He is just the man we want. —Muncy's Weekly.

THE DOG AND THE SAGE.—A Dog was barking at the Moon, when a Sage inquired why he did so, adding that he could not possibly effect the great Luminary one way or the other, and that it seemed a Useless Waste of Energy. "Oh, it isn't that it makes any difference with the Moon," replied the canine, "but I want the other Dogs in this neighborhood to know that I'm not Dead."

Moral.—We never know that some men have been buried until after we miss their bluster. —Detroit Free Press.

A DOCTOR'S SCHEME.—Peterby—Look here, doctor, what's that bill for two dollars? You haven't been called to attend me or any of my family. Doctor—No, old man. But, don't you remember, you asked me to treat when we were at the Brunswick the other day? Peterby (mystified)—Yes, but— "Well, I charge two dollars every time I treat a man."

—Every man has an inclination to communicate what he knows; and if he does not do so, it is simply because his reason and judgment are strong enough to control this inherent propensity. When you find a friend who can exercise absolute power over the communicative instinct, wear him in your heart. If you have no such friend, keep your own counsel.

A poor unfortunate in Milwaukee is said to have sneezed himself to death. Alas! poor creature, living in the light of the nineteenth century and never heard of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Well, this is more than Egyptian darkness!

CREAMED OYSTERS.—Put three dozen oysters on a boil in their own liquor; as soon as they come to a boil, drain. Put a pin of cream on to boil. Rub two ounces of butter and two tablespoons of flour together, and add to the cream. Stir until it thickens, add the oysters, season with salt and pepper; stir and heat. Serve immediately.

—The invalid must be fed in order that the restorative powers be sustained. But this does not mean that ordinary food should be given. The most nutritious and easily digestible food must be used. Mellin's Food possesses both the requirements.

She—Sir, what do you mean by putting your arm around my waist? He—Do you object? She—Mr. Arthur Gordon, I'll give you just five hours to remove your arm.—Bacon.

—The worst feature about catarrh is its dangerous tendency to consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by purifying the blood.

SHE (enthusiastically)—"Oh, George! I don't you think the greatest joy in life is the pursuit of the good, the true and the beautiful?" He—"You bet! that's why I'm here to-night!"

—What's better for a wound than Salvation Oil? Echo answers: "What? We answer: "Nothing." "So say we all of us, so say we all!"

Smoking by Proxy.

IRA TRIPP, a retired coal operator of Scranton, is one of the few men on record who enjoys the luxury of smoking by proxy. Twenty years ago his physician told him that smoking was prejudicial to his health, and that he was a confirmed smoker. He obeyed the doctor's injunction. Since then he has never smoked a cigar. At the same time, he has not totally denied himself his chief luxury. To indulge it without disobeying the doctor's injunction he employs what might be called his "smoking valve." It is the duty of this Mr. Tripp feels like indulging in a little tobacco dissipation, and blow the smoke in his employer's face. The latter eagerly inhales the fragrant cloud and then exhales it through his nostrils and blows it down through the meshes of his long white beard. Mr. Tripp declares that he enjoys this second-hand puffing himself. He often comes to Philadelphia and never travels without his smoking companion.—Philadelphia Press.

Evolution of the Banana. In a garden in Church street, Charleston, is a very handsome group of banana trees, upon one of which, and just topping the fence, is a fine bunch of fruit in the process of development. Three or four of the upper rows of the fruit are well advanced, while pendant from the end of the stem hangs the gradually unfolding flower or blossom, which is a dusky crimson color on the inside, while on the outside of the leaves the shade is of a light crimson. Under each of these leaves lies a row of fruit numbering from six to eight. This shield or covering gradually rises, exposing the layers of fruit to the sun and air; they then fall off and give place to the next.

The life of the tree, or more properly the plant, ends with the production of the fruit. As it continues to mature the tree begins to languish until the coming of cool weather, when it dies off and gives place to younger and numerous shoots, which are thrown up in great numbers from the bulblike root of the tree.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

CARD OF THANKS.—If the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam should publish a card of thanks, containing expressions of gratitude which come daily, from those who have been cured of severe throat and lung troubles by the use of Kemp's Balsam, it would fill a fair sized book. How much better to invite all to call on any druggist and get a free sample bottle that you may test for yourself its power. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

—For a common wrap for the baby carriage a little comforter made of the pretty blue and cream-colored lawn-tennis cloth is both serviceable and tasteful. Put one thickness of wadding and catch it in place with bright embroidery—silk or crows or even saxon yarn will do—on the light-colored stripe. This may be done with single cross-stitch, or in the form of small stars.

To dream of a ponderous whale, Ereot on the tip of his tail, Let the sign of a doctor be done (If the weather is warm), Unless it should happen to fall. Dreams don't amount to much, anyhow. Some signs, however, are infallible. If you are constipated, with no appetite, tortured with sick headache and bilious symptoms, these signs indicate that you need Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. They will cure you. All druggists.

Cracker jars are an attractive novelty, and in many families where crackers are extensively used at meal times these may be used as a pleasing as well as useful addition. They are of china, prettily decorated, have a close-fitting cover, and are about the size of an ordinary quart tin fruit can. As their capacity is not large, several of them may be used on the table at one time.

Medicinal. A BURNING SORE LEG. ULCERS FORM. HOSPITALS AND DOCTORS USELESS. CRAZED WITH PAIN. CURED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES. About eight years ago I wrote you from Williamsport, Pa., describing how your remedies completely cured me of a terrible case of eczema or salt rheum. I must now tell you what CUTICURA REMEDIES have again done for me. On the 22d of last September, I had the misfortune to bruise my leg, and I put a piece of shining brass on it, and in a few days I had a terrible leg. My wife became frightened and advised me to go to a surgeon, who had been called in by the doctor, but I would not do so. I got scarce about it and determined to try CUTICURA REMEDIES. I obtained a set, and inside of five weeks my leg was healed up as well as it ever was, except the terrible scar left for a reminder of what was once a terrible sore leg. These Remedies are worth their weight in gold. JOHN THIEL, 117 E. 8th Street, New York.
