Mr. M. H. GUYER, of Penn Hall, is the duly authorized agent of the WATCHMAN for Gregg ownership.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY.

—Hon. John B. Beck, whose feeble health was recently noted, died in Williamsport last Saturday night.

—Last Sunday seven young men and five young women were confirmed in the Episcopal church at Phillipsburg by Bishop Rullison.

—Our old friend, Geo. B. Weaver, of Rebersburg, a solid Democrat and good citizen, was in our office on Monday and we were glad to see him.

—Mrs. Nancy Woodcock, mother of Rev. J. A. Woodcock, recently of this place, died at Altoona, last week, at the venerable age of four score years and ten.

—The Knights of Labor of this place will have their annual Halloween ball to-night, (Friday) in Armony Hall.

—We learn that on the 1st of November the telephone company will adopt in this place a new system of "calls," such as is in use in the large cities.

—Miss Annie Gerity, a recent resident of Bellefonte, died in Worcester, Mass., of consumption, last Friday night.

—John S. Morrison, recently deceased at Tyrone, bequeathed $60,000 for a public library and suitable building in that town for the use of its citizens. He also left $5,000 to the Altoona hospital.

—The W. C. T. U. throughout the county with the very best intentions are good faith, are praying that the Lord will influence the approaching Nebraska election in favor of Prohibition.

—Last Monday evening the Hungarians at the Taylor ore bank got into a fight about one of them stealing half a dollar, and the riot grew to such proportions that the Sheriff was telephoned for, who together with Policemen Gares and John Love proceeded to the scene of disturbance. Nobody was seriously hurt and only one man was arrested.

—The clipping party is the predominant young folks' amusement in the neighborhood of Phillipsburg. A person is given a pair of scissors, blindfolded and started toward a string suspended from the ceiling. If he does not succeed in clipping it as he passes by he must pay a forfeit, but, as a rebate, is allowed to kiss the belle of the occasion.

—The Centre Club, recently formed at this place, has elected the following officers: J. C. Myer, President; A. Fauble, Treasurer; F. K. Lukenbach, Secretary; George R. Meek and H. G. DeSilvia were made a committee to draw up constitution and by-laws, and a committee composed of Messrs. Fauble, Jenkins and Nagney was appointed with authority to make purchases for the club.

—Mr. David Crotty, whose illness at the Altoona hospital we mentioned last week, died last Saturday night, at the age of 28. He was finely developed physically, and had never been ill until the 4th of last July, when he was taken sick and rapidly went into a decline. His remains were brought home on Tuesday morning and buried from the Catholic church. He was a brother of Mrs. Cedar, Mrs. Gilmore Mrs. C. Garman, Mrs. Martin Cooney, and of James and Martin Crotty, of Boiling Springs.

—At a meeting at Houtzdale, Saturday night, by the Scandinavian association, which consists of Swedes, Danes and Norwegians, a resolution was passed endorsing Pattison and the whole democratic state ticket, together with the Democratic candidate for State Senate, P. GRAY MECK, who in a previous legislative position originated measures beneficial to workmen. The association numbers 200 members, who have always voted the straight republican ticket. Ad. Hanson, manager of the Scandinavian store, is president of the association.

—We regret to hear that our young friend Andrew J. Cruse is at home in this place, having permanently left the Naval Academy at Annapolis. The cause of Mr. Cruse's leaving the academy is about as follows: He was a member of the third class which considers it a duty to haze the members of the fourth class. Recently several members of the fourth class were hazed by some of the members of the third class, and it was at this hazing the authorities of the academy claim that Mr. Cruse was a spectator. Mr. Cruse was summoned before a court martial, who had been investigating the alleged hazing cases, and upon his refusing to disclose the names of the guilty parties he was discharged for refusing to obey orders. Andrew is well known in Bellefonte and has the sympathy of his many friends here.

WEDDING BELLS.—A large concourse of Bellefonte people assembled in the Methodist church on Wednesday evening to see the marriage of Mr. Phil Foster, of State College, to Miss Bertha Haupt, of this place. Promptly at six o'clock the church organist, Miss Macumsey, commenced the beautiful Hymenial march by Mendelssohn, and the main entrance doors were thrown open, revealing the bridal procession. First came the ushers, Messrs Rankin and Noll, of Bellefonte, Charles Foster, a cousin of the groom, from State College, and H. B. McLean, of Pittsburg. Then the prospective bride and groom. The Rev. Houck was waiting at the altar to receive them, and as the ushers stepped to either side, the young couple took their place before the minister who quickly made them man and wife. The groom is one of State College's popular merchants and is a very promising young man. His bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. Simon Haupt and is one of Bellefonte's fairest young ladies. She was dressed in a charming traveling costume of brown. They left on the evening train for a tour through the east. Our congratulations are extended to the young people.

A MURDER IN SUGAR VALLEY.—The Lock Haven Democrat states that a terrible affair occurred on the 18th inst in the Sugar Valley narrows, which has just come to light, the result of which was the loss of another valuable life at the hands of an unrelenting and cruel murderer. The fearful deed was committed in the broad glare of the open day, about one mile from the public road, in a place not much frequented by man or beast. What the victim's first name was we do not know, but his surname was Bear and he did not belong to the white or Caucasian race. On the contrary he was quite black, and was hunting chestnuts, when he was met by a man from Centre Hall by the name of Webber, who was prowling around those parts and had been frequently seen by various persons. Whether they had ever met before we do not know, but at any rate, on coming in contact with each other on this occasion Webber immediately raised his gun and shot Bear dead. Next day Webber was not seen and has not been heard from since. No arrest has yet been made.

A FAITHFUL DOG WHO SAVED HIS MASTER'S LIFE.—On Thursday night of last week, says the Coalport Standard Farmer L. Imler, living near Houtzdale, returned from Houtzdale, where he had been to collect some money, and while putting his horse away in the barn, was assaulted by two unknown ruffians, who had, doubtless, followed him from Houtzdale, to rob him. One of the ruffians struck him with a knife while the other beat him with a club. They would have murdered him but for the sudden appearance of Mr. Imler's huge farm dog, which bounded on the scene and pinned one of the villains to the ground, allowing Mr. Imler to escape to the house, where he aroused his family and rang the farm bell and brought the neighbors to the rescue. The dog in the meantime had fought valiantly, but the two robbers managed to escape from him and get away in the darkness.

CLAIMS $6,000.—Judge Mayer will have a case of somewhat more than ordinary interest before him at the next term of the court in Elk county, as we learn from one of the papers of that section that Mrs. Harry Wilson has brought action against Robert Cochran, of Weedville, claiming damages to the extent of $6,000 for the illegal selling of liquor to her husband, Harry Wilson, on the 20th day of August, and at previous times, causing him on the last mentioned date to become intoxicated, by reason of which he wandered on the A. V. railroad track and was struck by a train of cars and permanently crippled and disabled. Mr. Wilson is now under treatment in a hospital. The family consists of three children. A. H. Cole is the attorney for the plaintiff.—Lock Haven Democrat.

ENGINEER BLAIR HURT.—W. H. Blair, an engineer on the Bald Eagle Valley road, in getting off the train at Snow Shoe Intersection yesterday, had a severe fall and was badly hurt. He was brought to his home in this city on a stretcher, and was supposed to be badly hurt, but a thorough examination since gives the assurance that there is no internal injury. Mr. Blair lives on Fairview street, and is getting along all right.—Lock Haven Democrat of Saturday.

APPLE BLOSSOMS AT EAGLEVILLE.—Mr. John J. Shaffer, the popular insurance man, returned last evening from a trip to the Bald Eagle Valley and brought with him a handsome bouquet of apple blossoms which he left at this office. The blossoms were taken from a tree on the premises of David Bumgardner near Eagleville, which is now full of blossoms.—Lock Haven Democrat.

REMOVAL.—On and after the 1st of Nov., 1890, any one wishing the services of Dr. W. S. Glenn will find him at his office, in his residence, at State College, instead of at Snyder's Drug Store.

—Mr. Ed Rhoades, the enterprising young coal dealer of this place, is putting new trestling in his coal yards.

—As the new U. B. church, on the corner of High and Thomas streets, nears completion it shows what an ornament it will be to that locality.

—"The Kindergarten" Co. will play here Monday evening. Go and see them. They are very good. Full Band and Orchestra.

—The installation of Rev. Edgar F. Johnson as pastor of the Presbyterian church of Phillipsburg took place last Tuesday evening, the services being conducted by Revs. Charles Herron, R. A. McKinney and A. H. Jolly.

—Go to see the charming Miss Kittie Rhoades to-night and to-morrow night. Don't forget to take your little one! See "Little Lord Fauntleroy" at the matinee on Saturday. It is specially arranged for children.

—Is it possible that Guyer Marten has been berating one of the most reliable and intelligent old Republicans of the Scotia plant as a crank because he believes that Guyer is not capable of filing the position to which he aspires? Oh, for shame, Guyer!

—It is hoped that Mr. Wanamaker's postmaster at Bellefonte, Pa., although he does not understand the post office business, is possessed of a general idea of what a man's duty is to himself when he is caught out in the rain.—N. Y. World.

—The many friends of W. C. McMasters will be pained to learn of his death which took place at his home in West Union, Io., last Saturday night. Mr. McMasters was a prominent business man of West Union and a former well known resident of this county.

—The Kindergarten Co. which will play in the opera house on Monday night comprises twenty-six star specialty people with a full band and orchestra. The Daily Democrat of Lock Haven lauds their playing to the skies. So if Joe Furey says so it must be a dandy show.

—If there be any truth in the Indian belief that cold weather never sets in until the streams are full, the time for its arrival is now here. The rivers and creeks are full to overflowing, so that Jack Frost will have no excuse for delaying his appearance until December, even though the Indian Summer has not yet reported.

—Workmen will be interested in learning that overalls have gone up in price two dollars a dozen since the passage of the McKinley tariff bill, and all who wear them for men, women and children has also been increased in price since that iniquitous measure has come to oppress the common class of people and enrich the favored manufacturers. This is something for the people to think about when they go to vote for members of congress.

—It begins to look as though we were going to have a hard winter for working people. A great many are now out of employment, and from all that can be learned a great many more will be before the cold weather sets in. This, coupled with the general increase in the prices of necessities of life, is not a very pleasant prospect. Business which now for some reason is dull, may revive, but the chances are against any such change.—Phillipsburg Journal.

DEATH CLAIMS ANOTHER.—On Monday evening the remains of Miss Annie Garity, a young girl who formerly lived here, were brought from Millbury, Mass., for burial. The deceased was but seventeen years old and when a little girl here was beloved and admired by all who knew her. About a year ago she went with her mother to live in Massachusetts where her brother and two sisters were employed, and it was there that she contracted a cold which developed into consumption.

—Midst all the pleasures and beauties of life the blighting hand of death is thrust. Lives that were bright and happy wither and fall before its cold impress, but the sweet memory of loved ones who are gone blooms ever full in the mind of sorrow.

PHILADELPHIA'S JEWEL PALACE.—Among other things that are attractive in Philadelphia, is the large jewelry establishment of Baily, Banks & Biddle. It is the finest house of its kind in the country, and since it has been redecorated, with the richness of its displays of jewels, fine porcelains, shimmering silver, and exquisite sculpture, is palatial in its appearance. It is one of the points of interest in the Quaker city, and is a perfect museum of modern art and contains possibly larger collections than the majority of art galleries and museums.

—The finest and largest line of Foreign and Domestic woolsens for suits and overcoats ever shown by us. Full assortment of Ready Made Clothing Hats, Caps, and Furnishing Goods. MONTGOMERY & Co. Tailors.

—The Latest Paris Novelty—The ostrich collarrette in all shades at Strehle's Millinery.

MARRIAGE OF JUDGE LINN'S DAUGHTER.—Miss Blanche Linn, of Williamsport, was previous to her father's death, engaged to be married to Prof. Charles W. Fleming, of Pittsburg. The following is an account of their marriage under extraordinary circumstances:

Early in the present month Professor Fleming went to Philadelphia on business. While there he received a telegram from his betrothed stating that her father, who had been an invalid for years, had become suddenly worse, and was at the point of death. The Professor was urged to hasten to Williamsport.

He took the first train, and on his arrival found Judge Linn on his death bed. Calling his daughter and the Professor to his bedside, he said it had been his desire to see them married before he died, but as dissolution was near he knew his wish could not be gratified. He insisted, however, that as all the members of the family had gathered at the homestead, the wedding ceremony should take place before his body was carried from the house.

The young people promised the dying man that his wish would be carried out. The family was summoned and informed of the agreement. No objection was offered and Judge Linn fell back on his bed and expired.

Thursday afternoon, October 16, the Linn homestead at Williamsport was filled with the friends of the dead Judge and his family. The corpse of the jurist reposed in a handsome casket in the center of the room. In a few minutes a most extraordinary scene took place. A minister arose and requested Blanche Linn and Charles W. Fleming to step to an open space in the room near the head of the coffin. The young lady, leaning on the arm of Mr. Fleming, sobbing and with grief depicted on every feature, took a position where they could look upon the face of the dead. The Judge's wish was complied with and the young couple were married. After pronouncing the pair man and wife and bestowing on them his blessing the minister proceeded to conduct the funeral services over the remains of Judge Linn.

It is to be regretted that the marriage under such peculiar circumstances, did not, in its most essential particulars, conform with the above statement which appeared in the Philadelphia Press, and that it occurred contrary to the wishes of the Judge's family. The Williamsport Republican, whose reporter interviewed the family, reports the facts to be as follows:

During April of the present year Miss Blanche Linn visited Pittsburg and there for the first time met Professor Fleming. He was an accomplished musician, and when Miss Linn returned from Pittsburg it was to inform her friends that she was engaged to be married to the Professor. Later the time for the wedding was appointed and the holidays promised to find the Williamsport lady and the Pittsburg professor made one.

On the Saturday before the death of Judge Linn, Professor Fleming arrived in Williamsport on a visit. Within the next few days the Judge died and on Wednesday, October 16th, the family was horrified to learn from Miss Linn and the Professor that they had made up their minds to be married on the following day. In vain the relatives protested. Miss Linn and the Professor had made up their minds and al of the entreaties of friends would not change them. They were married in the parlor of the Linn homestead on Thursday. The body of Judge Linn was in a room up stairs at the time, and the only persons present with the bride and groom and minister, Rev. Mr. Boal, of Newberry, were two married sisters and one brother-in-law, and they were there under protest. Judge Linn had no part in bringing about the marriage and his relatives in the city are indignant that Professor Fleming should have gone off to Pittsburg and circulated such a yarn. The idea of the friends of Judge Linn is that Fleming wanted a little cheap notoriety, and that he prevailed upon Miss Linn to consent to the marriage which took place within the house of death. His action in going to Pittsburg and causing the widespread circulation of the yarn published above proves this fact, and it is not to be wondered at that the relatives of the dead Judge are indignant.

Pine Grove Mentions.
Dr. Ward and wife spent Sunday recently in our town.

Dr. Simon McCormick and wife spent several days in and about our town lately. We gladly note the recovery of Mr. W. C. McWilliams from an attack of typhoid fever. The Senatorial nomination is well received in this western part of the county and will add strength to the ticket.

J. B. Ard and wife have again taken to their domestic duties after rustivating several weeks along the head waters of Stone creek.

We desire to correct an error in our last mentions when we stated the marriage of Miss Hezlip, which happy event took place on the 22nd inst.

Among the boss threshers of this section are Messrs. Bathurst and Pearcey. They threshed one hundred bushels of wheat in one hundred minutes with a Gieser thresher.

Mrs. Postmaster Heberling, after airing herself for a week or more at the chestnut grove, near Huntingdon Furnace, returned home with four bushels of chestnuts gathered with her own hands.

It is with profuse sorrow that we note the death of the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McCormick, Alexander aged 13 years. He was thought to be out of danger at the time of the death of his little sister, Bertha, but, alas, how soon the fond hopes of the family were blighted when the death messenger came on the 27th and his remains were laid low by the side of little Bertha on the 28th inst. The sorrowing family have the sympathy of the entire community in this their hour of affliction.

Another link between the present and past was broken on the 17th inst., in the death of Mrs. Kate Dale, wife of Mr. Christian Dale, of stomach trouble, aged 53 years and two months. The deceased was born and raised in this county, as the youngest daughter of the late William Musser. Mrs. Dale was a lady of attractive presence, winning in manner and interesting in conversation. Her cheerfulness made her home pleasant and bright. For months she bore her severe illness with great patience and christian fortitude. During all that time she expected the death messenger. During her last days she directed the funeral services in detail. With her death was simply slipping over into the house not made by hands.

But few candidates have gone through an active contest and come out as free from jealousy and personal spite as did John T. McCormick. The canvass was most bitterly contested, but not a word escaped from him that wounded friend or foe. A sense of justice animated the Centre county Democracy with a determination which has again placed him in nomination for assembly. John has been one of the staunchest local Republicans and has well merited his place on the ticket. He is a good speaker and writer, and a farmer by occupation and takes a special interest in agriculture. He is yet a young man, with a character irreproachable, and has the courage and ability to make a first class representative. His majority will be away up in the hundreds as there are no anti McCormick Democrats, but John McCormick, Republicans, which will be well to paste in your hat and use for future reference.

Hecla Items.
I hear the farmers complain of a poor crop of potatoes caused by the dry rot.

The corn crop will soon be all garnered, a better crop than was expected.

We notice our fortnightly religious services held by Rev. Sarvics, of Pleasant Gap, are very well attended.

Mr. Irvin Neff, a resident of Kansas for several years, has returned to spend the winter with his mother, Mrs. C. Neff.

The building committee are progressing with their church, having had a raising on Monday afternoon. They are meeting with very good success in the way of subscriptions, hoping they will ere long have sufficient to complete it.

The dwelling house occupied by Mrs. Mary Stout and her grand son, Wm. Reynolds, was burned, Thursday, between the hours of 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. Every thing was gotten out of the house, except a couple of bedsteads. The fire is supposed to have caught from a defective flue.

Our community was startled from its monotony on last Thursday evening by the wedding bells chiming forth the news of the marriage of Mr. Irvin Yarnell and Miss Effie Decker, both of Hubersburg, by Rev. Diehl of Snydertown. That a long, useful and happy life, a cloudless sky and calm sailing may be their good fortune, is the wish of the writer.

For The Ladies.

All ladies are invited to call and investigate Newton's work now being taught at Newton's dress cutting school, 135 Willow Bank street. Through instructions given until the work is classified any time. Time not limited for those learning. Fittings and patterns cut to order and guaranteed to fit. No retting done. LIZZIE FLEMING, MARY E. THOMPSON, Bellefonte, Pa.

How Delamater Stands in His Own County.

TRUSSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 27th 1890.

EDITOR WATCHMAN:
Some of your readers may find interest in a report from a former Centre county boy on the present political situation at the home G. W. Delamater, Mr. Quay's man for Governor. I regret to state that Quay's man is much distrusted by his fellow citizens where he is best known. George Wallace Delamater was born and raised near Townville, Crawford county. Why Wallace is so unpopular at Townville I don't know, but if the Republicans of Townville keep their word, out of about seventy of his own party in that borough George Wallace will not receive more than ten votes at the coming election.

In Meadville, where Delamater resides, there is much bitter opposition to him in the Republican party, and it is said, on good authority, that his own ward, which is Republican, will give a majority against him.

Of course Quay's boots is looked for. The Democrats and Independent Republicans are well prepared for his corrupting appearance. They have raised a large fund for detecting and punishing all who make improper use of money to influence the coming election in Crawford county. They offer a reward of $100 for the discovery of each case of attempted corruption of the ballot which shall lead to the arrest, conviction and sentence of the offender. I believe Delamater will be beaten in his own county.

Trussville is honored(?) by the citizenship of Wm. H. Andrews. This man, Bill Andrews, as he is called here, is a very recent factor in the politics of the State. But a short time since there were few so low as to do him reverence. It is true, he was once a big merchant. But it is also true that he failed as a merchant in each of six cities and towns, namely: Louisville, Ky., Cincinnati, O., Meadville, Trussville and Warren, Pa., and Jamestown, N. Y. Now, business failures may overtake a man no fault of his own. It is possible that not one of the six failures above referred to was the result of any fault of Mr. Andrews, but it is certain that he bit off more than he could chew. He is now Quay's chairman, or, perhaps more properly, Chairman of the State Committee of the party that is the property of Mr. Quay. The belief in this section is that Andrews is again biting off more than he can chew.

If Delamater fails of election, Quay is once more a broken man. You remember, Mr. Editor, that Quay, from the close of the campaign in 1878 to 1885, when he was elected State Treasurer, was a disabled politician. The New York World has published considerable of Quay's history during the time just spoken of, but did not publish all. It is not necessary now to supplement the record. But for about seven years Quay was practically a political bankrupt. In 1885 G. W. Delamater and the late Dr. Roberts furnished Quay with money for a campaign which again put him upon his feet. It seems that Quay always plays for a big stake. He owes to Delamater his restoration to political power, and he returned Delamater's favor by making him the Republican candidate for Governor. It was in the bargain between them. The two are now inseparable. If Delamater sinks, Quay goes down.

Crawford county constitutes a senatorial district. Andrews is the Republican candidate in this district. The Republicans have a majority of 1500 in the county. But, unless heedle shall accomplish wonders, both Delamater and Andrews will lose the county.

F. E. LETMAN.

An Appeal to the Laboring Men.

CHATHAM'S RUN, CLINTON CO., PA., Oct. 25th, 1890.

EDITOR WATCHMAN.—Dear Sir:—I suppose you will naturally be strong for P. Gray Meek for Senator. This is why I hope to get my appeal to the laboring men of our district through the WATCHMAN.

In my own peculiar way I have devoted my entire life and labor to the cause of the struggling toilers, and now I appeal to them to roll up a majority for P. Gray Meek that incorporated sharks may tremble in their boots. I am not in favor of Meek because he is a Democrat, or an editor, but because his past official record proves him to be a friend to labor. I am for Meek because he was the champion of the laborer in bill which secures the wages of the common laborer, and because he secured a special law for Centre county, to compel railroad companies to pay for the poor man's cow which their employees sometime kill on the track.

A man who has done so much for the laboring men of Centre county will look after the interest of labor for our Senatorial district.

There is no danger of incorporated wealth defeating him in a district like ours, but we ought to give him such a majority that only the friends of labor would dare seek office through our votes.

You need not vote for Meek because he is a Democrat. Throw your politics to the dogs when it interferes with your interests. But vote for him on his past official record. If we do not show our gratitude to friends of labor, how shall we make or retain the friendship of those in position to help us? If you only knew how I have been warmed up towards the laboring people when I learned how liberally they supported the paper for which I write, you would know the secret of making friends.

When I saw that the laboring men appreciated my work and patronized the news paper in which I was interested, I became one of them in thoughts, hopes and labor.

It will be so in case you roll up a rousing majority for Meek. He will know his friends and remember them. Always the friend of the oppressed poor.

Manufacturers Given Notice of Ad-

Advertisement of Gusky, Market St., Pittsburg. Mark us, these prices won't last They can't. The manufacturers are already notifying the trade of considerable advances in the near future. Take the current of low prices when it serves—that's now—lay in your winter clothing while a favorable opportunity lasts.

What we have said about clothing is just as true of underwear, hosiery and all the many articles which come in under this head of furnishings. The universal cry of higher prices isn't advertising or newspaper talk. It means something, and a man with but a limited knowledge of the present condition of business matters in this country knows full well that ere long prices of all wearing apparel will advance 25 to 40 per cent.
