The Bowers.

B. Undertakes to Do the Family Washing.

Mr. Bower came home the other day and found the hammer for something. He went in the kitchen where the girl had been using it as a poker for the range. Mr. Bower gave expression to his outraged feelings. The girl replied with a good bit of spirit, and after supper she got her wages and walked off. Had I been the cause of her going Mr. Bower would have read me a lesson forty rods long. As he was the cause it was all right. He'd like to see the girl who could run his house while he lived—didn't propose to take "sass" from anybody—wished he had discharged her outright, etc.

All this happened on Monday. Tuesday is our wash day. I didn't think of it until after the girl had gone. Then I said to Mr. Bower: "You'll have to hunt around in the morning and get me a washerwoman. It would have been better to let the girl stay a day longer."

"Not a minute longer!" "But about the washing?" "I'll find a woman or do it myself."

After breakfast he took a walk through the locality where washerwomen abound, but his quest was a vain one. He came back to the house about nine o'clock and said: "Mrs. Bower, I have decided to do the washing myself."

"You wash?" "I will. I'll do it as a matter of principle. I don't propose to have this house upset because one hired girl gets her back up and quits."

"Let the washing go and I'll find a woman to do it." "Not by a jug-full! That washing will be on the line before noon!"

"Mr. Bower, you can't wash; you will only rub the skin off your knees, lame your back, and make a great mess of it."

"I will, eh? That's all you know about it. Now, then, I don't want you to come fooling around. Don't you show your head in the basement until the last rag is on the line."

Mr. Bower got into an old pair of pants and a vest, changed his boots for slippers, and disappeared down stairs and at once started a fire. I knew what the result of his efforts would be, and while he was at the barp for wood I ran down and rescued most of the fine clothes. He didn't notice the fact, and in a few minutes had the water heating, the boiler beltersker, and the water was no longer hot than he filled the clothes direct from the boiler and sozled them into a tub of cold water, and not knowing how much of the blue to use he decided to empty in the whole bottle and be on the safe side. He had a pretty fair quality of writing fluid when the water was stirred up. At this point I called to him: "Care you putting that sal soda into the boiler?"

"Sal—nonsense!" he growled in reply. "When I don't know my business I will apply for information!"

Mr. Bower knew that bluing was part and parcel of the laundry business. He had even seen a tub of blue water. At what stage of the game this blue business came in he did not know and he was too obstinate to inquire. He took the clothes direct from the boiler and sozled them into a tub of cold water, and not knowing how much of the blue to use he decided to empty in the whole bottle and be on the safe side. Just file your teeth to a point and you'll pass for a genuine cannibal!

He drove on and the egg woman backed out of the gate and said: "I've been furnishing you a dozen a week, and I've never missed a Tuesday, but I give you notice that I don't come no more. It would be taking chances. A man as is light in the head may be all right one day and worry wiole the next. Love to your excellent wife, and say I'm sorry for her."

Mr. Bower entered the kitchen in three jumps. I sat there laughing and found it in the kitchen where the girl had been using it as a poker for the range. Kendall's Remedies.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL REMEDY ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Read proof below.

BOOKLYN, Conn., May 5, '90. Dr. B. J. KENDALL CO.: Sirs:—Last summer I cured a Curb upon my horse with your celebrated Kendall's Spavin Cure and it was the best job I ever saw done. I have a dozen empty bottles, having used it tried it on. My neighbor had a horse with a very bad Spavin that made him lame. He recommended Kendall's Spavin Cure. He cured the Spavin in just three weeks.

Yours respectfully, WOLCOTT WRITER.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 4, '90. Dr. B. J. KENDALL CO.: Dear Sirs:—I have been selling more of Kendall's Spavin Cure and Flint's Condition Powder than ever before. One man said to me, if he had the best Powder I ever kept and the best he ever used.

Respectfully, OTTO L. HOFFMAN.

CHITTENANGO, N. Y., May 19, '90. Dr. B. J. KENDALL CO.: Dear Sirs:—I have used several bottles of your Kendall's Spavin Cure with perfect success, on a valuable and blooded mare that was quite lame with a Bone Spavin. The mare is now entirely free from lameness. An shows no bunch on the joint.

Respectfully, F. H. HUTCHINS.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

MONROE, La., May 8, '90. Dr. B. J. KENDALL CO.: Gents:—I think it my duty to render you my thanks for your farmed Kendall's Spavin Cure. I had a four-year-old filly which I prize very highly. She had a very severe swollen leg. I tried about eight different kinds of medicines which did no good. I purchased a bottle of your Kendall's Spavin Cure which cured her in four days.

Remain yours, MARIAN DOWDEN.

Prices $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors.
