Medical.

CATARRH I. Constitutional and not a local disease, and therefore it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the disease, and effects a permanent cure. Thousands of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh when other preparations had failed. Hood's Sarsaparilla also builds up the whole system, and makes you feel renewed in health and strength. All who suffer from catarrh or debility should certainly give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial.

A PERFECT CURE. "I have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for the past four years at intervals. I was troubled with catarrh, and the medicine effected a perfect cure. I take it now whenever I feel debilitated, and it always gives me immediate strength, regulates the bowels and gives an excellent appetite." LEVI CAMPBELL, Parkersburg, W. Va.

GOOD RESULTS. "I have been a sufferer from catarrh for a good many years. I tried nearly everything I heard of, and also many different physicians, with little or no benefit, until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I am now using with good results. I can recommend it heartily to all, being confident that it is a good medicine." Mrs. A. R. DUNHAM, Maha, Ned.

Little Tim. Warm hearts are sometimes found under rugged jackets, as is shown by the following incident in the New York Mail and Express.

A kit is a box of tools of whatever outfit is needed in any particular branch of business. It surprised the shiners and news boys around the post office the other day to see "Little Tim" coming among them in a quiet way and hear him say: "Boys I want to sell my kit. Here's two brushes, a hul box of backing, a good stout box and the count goes for two shillings."

"Go in away, Tim?" inquired one. "Not 'zactly, boys, but I want a quarter the awfulest kind, just now."

"Go in on skurion?" asked another. "Not today, but I asked for a quarter," he answered.

One of the lads passed over the change and took the kit; Tim walked straight to the counting-room of a daily paper, put down the money and said: "I guess I can write if you give me a pencil."

With slow-moving fingers he wrote a death notice. It went into the paper just as he wrote it, but you might not have seen it. He wrote: "Died—Little Te—of Scarlet fever; gone up to heavin, let one brother."

"Was it your brother?" asked the cashier. "Tim tried to brace up, but he couldn't. The big tears came up his chin quivered and he pointed to the counter and gasped: 'I had to sell my kit to do it, b—but he had his arms around my neck when he d—died.'"

He hurried away home; but the news went to the boys, and they gathered into a group and talked. Tim had not been home an hour when a barefoot boy left the kit on the doorstep, and in the box was a bouquet of flowers, which had been purchased in the market by pennies contributed by the crowd of ragged but kind-hearted boys. Did God ever make a heart which would not respond if the right chords are touched?

He Broke Into Jail. My father was sheriff of a county in Indiana for a good many years, and the jail he first took charge of was a very humble affair. The jail proper was a one-story addition of stone about twenty feet square, and the two windows were defended by heavy outside blinds in place of bars. One night, returning home at a late hour, my father noticed a man working on the outside of one of the windows. He had piled up a lot of wood for a platform, and had broken into a blacksmith shop to get a crowbar. Father kept back and let him work away and by and by he got the blind open and disappeared inside. There were no prisoners in the jail, and the blind was softly closed and fastened with a prop. When this had been done father went inside, opened the door of the corridor, and there stood his man. He looked around him in a dazed sort of a way, but he got it through his head at last and then he queried: "This is the country jail, isn't it?" "It is."

"And I've been fool enough to break into it."

"You have."

"That's all. Lock me up till morning and then let some jackass kick me to death!"

The fun of it was that he turned out to be a robber with a reward of $200 on his head, and when he came to trial he got a sentence of fifteen years.

The Oldest Vessel. The oldest sailing vessel afloat! What must she look like and what is her history? She is 110 years old, built in Baltimore in 1780. Her name is the Vigilant. She has since then been a coaster, a peaceful common carrier of merchandise, a slaver and a pirate, and now today she does good service as mail carrier between St. Thomas and Santa Cruz, in the West India Islands. Her owner, Mr. S. Penthan, of Santa Cruz, was in Bangor and displayed a picture of the old craft which was taken as the vessel was rounding a coral reef under full sail. The picture is a good one and the lines of the craft are well brought out.

"How much of the original craft is there now?" asked the reporter. "The keelson, and main tributors of the hull which are laid in the construction of her are still there," said Mr. Penthan, "and they are good for many years to come."

What a story would the history of this old craft make!

Wizard Edison's Wife. "A pretty typewriter girl sat at her machine playing a wind like waltz over the keys, when a quiet, serious man in a suit of overalls stepped up and motioned her to stop. The small, white hands went down, the soft brown eyes were raised, and to their inquiring look he said: "Will you be my wife? I haven't any time for courtship and that kind of stuff. If you want to get married, say so and I'll treat you well." A wave of scarlet passed over the lovely brunette face, the eyes dropped, and a very sweet voice said "I would like to think it over." "How long?" "This evening." She thought about it, thought affirmatively, and to-day she is Mrs. Thomas Edison."

All of which is very pretty, of course, but all of which is untrue. It is time this yarn was called in. Mrs. Thomas A. Edison was Miss Mina Miller, eldest daughter of Lewis Miller, the mill-horse mower and reaper manufacturer, of Ohio. She is a beautiful and accomplished lady, and it is very doubtful whether she has ever seen a typewriter. She certainly never manipulated the keys of one.

A silk handkerchief, so often recommended for wiping the spectacles or eye-glasses, is not good for this purpose as it makes the glasses electrical and causes dust to adhere to them.

Fashionable Indecency.

In the drawing room fashions of dress at this day is the hypothesis of the handsome, immodest, luxurious cat, says a writer in New York Truth. The expression of a fashionably dressed woman is now emphatically one of nakedness. Her sleeveless bodice, but half way to her waist, betrays much and suggests more. Her large white arms, her uncovered shoulder crossed with an airy line, her bust displayed to the last inch permitted by the law which protects morality and forbids obscenity, her back bared in a wedged-shaped track to her hand, the color of her gown scarcely distinguishable from her skin, and the "fit" one which molds the figure and makes no pretense at disguise—in this indecent nudity she offers herself to public admiration; and the bold looks of the men are the carcases that makes her purr with pride and pleasure.

Her dress is her note of invitation, and if but few honestly confess, no one is deceived. The modern dressmaker is the janitor of the divorce courts, for when women abandon modesty chastity soon follows suit; and a mode of dress which shocks the unaccustomed as a foul word might shock them, and which intentionally appeals to the coarse passions of men, is unquestionably responsible for much of the conjugal infidelity and unmarried impropriety which takes place. Let fathers and husbands look to it if women themselves are too weak to forbid or to luxurious to refrain.

The Hottest Place on Earth.—The hottest place on earth is on the South-western coast of Persia, where Persia borders on the gulf of the same name. For forty consecutive days in the months of July and August the thermometer has been known not to fall lower than 100 degrees, night or day, and often run up as high as 128 degrees in the afternoon. At Bahrin, in the center of the torrid part of the torrid belt, as it were, nature's intention to make the region as unbearable as possible, no water can be obtained by digging wells 100, 200 or even 500 feet deep, yet a comparatively numerous population contrive to live there, thanks to copious springs which break forth from the bottom of the gulf more than a mile from the shore. The water from these springs are obtained by divers, who dive to the bottom and fill goat-skin bags with the cooling liquid and sell it for a living. The source of these submarine fountains is thought to be in the green hills of Osman some 500 or 600 miles away.

Handsome Prizes. They Were Sent from Philadelphia for the S. I. A. C. Meet in New York.

Bailey, Banks & Biddle, of Philadelphia, have just sent to New York a large number of prizes for the midwinter meeting of the Staten Island Athletic Club, which is to be held in Madison Square Garden on December 11th, 12th, and 13th. This meeting will be the largest and most important athletic event of its kind ever held in this country, and the prizes are the most costly ever offered at a similar event. It reflects considerable credit upon Philadelphia industries to have so important an order given to a firm in that city when it is taken into consideration that New York is the center of the jewelry trade in the United States. The prizes which have just been completed include among other trophies twenty sets of medals and fifty gold watches. The medals are of twenty-four karat virgin gold, coin silver and bronze. They contain on the obverse side the figure of a sea-horse, the insignia of the Club, and around it the inscription, "Staten Island Athletic Club, 1877—1890." A finely-modelled laurel wreath and the words, "Madison Square Garden, New York, December 11, 12, 13, 1890," occupy the reverse. A bar of metal, from which is suspended a yellow and black ribbon, the club colors, holds each medal. These medals are said to be the finest ever struck in Philadelphia, and the watches have the American Waltham movement and fine hunting cases. The front cases bear the club emblem engraved upon their surfaces.

A recently Scottish paper publishes a letter from a traveler in Bechuanaland, Africa, in which is the following testimony in favor of working barefooted horses: "It may interest lovers of horses to know that the roads are very hard, bare rock in many places; that both our horses were unshod, though one of them had worn shoes until the last ten days; that we rode most of the way at the hand gallop or rough canter, which is the pace of the up-country horse; and that their hoofs were as perfect at the end of the journey as they were at the beginning."

An Art Pupil.—Doctor—"The trouble with you is that you don't take enough exercise. Take more. Blinks—Thanks. How much do I owe you?" Doctor—"Two dollars. Here is your change. Much obliged. Heigho! I don't feel very well myself. Blinks—"You take too much exercise, doctor. Take less. Two dollars, please.—Good News.
