

Rural Reflections. WEST SIDE, BALD EAGLE, Jan. 30th, 1891. Editor WATCHMAN. Upon noting the superscription of this letter you will perhaps wonder at any one writing from so near town, i. e., from so near Bellefonte; one might say from within the radius of your city of hills, where shadows were wont to fall darkly at night. In art, we know best of effects are produced by contiguity of feature in a scene, and the landscape most broken in pieces is the most picturesque and ideal. Just so it is with any community. It first speaks of itself as one character, and most likely we accept and assimilate in this one general effect. To be restricted to a part of the whole scene and at the same time realize the difference, is rather a heightening of one's sentiment bearings than a neutralization of tastes, tending to paralysis of the appreciative faculties, and culminating in the empiric ego of self-satisfaction.

Then, Mr. Editor, and you, dear reader, come with me to the West Side—west did we say?—well, Northwest Side, along the Bald Eagle, from Millsburg down to Curtis, and you will be reminded that there are other distant lands almost in sight when we measure distance by characteristic differences. At all events, you will ask what makes us like? Why have these laws of regression and differentiation in individuality been hitherto hidden? Is it all underlying the language we speak, the clothes we wear and the fashions we maintain?

There is our scholastic farmer and friend, C. J. A. Weaver. He speaks our language, puts on no airs, and yet were he a foreigner, in his own country even, would be recognized as the savant he really is. To us, like many others, he shades down and blends with us in the semblance of a national cosmogony. In the same category with the suave and genial Colonel Weaver, may be mentioned a number of gentlemen who can still spread their swath through the fragrant timothy of their own meadows as well as when in their youth-day was a gala day. There is George Noll who lives near the township road as comfortably housed and far better off than a German Margrave or an Irish king four centuries ago. The district school house is but a step away, consequently he enjoys the privilege of convenience in schooling his children.

Not so near to the pretty little school-house is the farm of Mr. I. M. Harvey, of dairy fame, who supplies the Bellefonte market daily with the best of new milk and cream. On this farm, the Austin Currier, Sr. there is much creek bank pasture and earlier than any other in this locality owing to the lay of the land, which presents to the morning sun the most advantageous exposure, the rays falling on the land above the water surface, gives them greater power. Thus in one way Mr. Harvey has the advantage while his children and those of his neighbors, Mr. Joseph Funk, Mr. Jas. A. Will Brooks and Mr. John Peace, all fresh driers, have a long walk to school. Mr. Jacob Shupe (Esquire) lives along the township road and enjoys the wealth of a productive farm. His family, however, have nearly all married, one daughter very recently.

Indeed there can be no higher praise mentioned of this northwest side of the Bald Eagle, than that here the typical American, which Max O'Rell failed by his own acknowledgment to find in America, resides and regains king, being one who can do his own work and who would willingly be President of the United States. Our friend, Mr. Lowrey Shupe, is still the champion cracker in this strip of country and he will probably carry the banner all his life. How many more, each noted in some clever trait, we might mention would space in your columns permit; but this we must say, though not a resident in this favored school district, H. L. Barnhart is the best tax-collector Boggs Township has ever had. Hast. Lyman is his next neighbor, and though they go apart sometimes in making the ticket, they are shoulder to shoulder when it comes down to the rank and file and the real battle begins. Individually these two men are strong, but united they are powerful. It may be said to be in great measure due to these men that this side of the Creek, from the Millsburg to the Mt. Eagle bridge, was sold for Patton with scarcely an exception. I might mention that Mr. James Zimmerman, whose land adjoins Col. Weaver, and J. S. Zimmerman, who farms the old Huston place for Mr. H. L. Harvey, are understood both to have voted for Patton, being the only Republican families on the Northwest side. Can even Miles do more than this part of Boggs, in a good cause, when it comes to a question of clear intellectual discrimination between right and wrong? Dear Mr. Editor, should we not labor to be always right?

SEVENTY-ONE YEARS. PINE GROVE MENTIONS. The snow has about all disappeared from the fields, but his majesty, the ground-hog, gets in his work and we will have six weeks more of solid winter. Musical convention and institutes are ended, and everybody is happy, or should be. Mr. S. W. Gilliland, the popular sale-cryer of Millin county, accompanied by his family, spent several days greeting their old acquaintances in Centre county last week.

Our jovial and obliging miller, Jake Wagner, is feeling jubilant over the prospects of having a new set of rollers erected, when he expects to compete with any of the large mills in quality of flour. Our mutual friend, H. S. Thompson, Esq., who spent several days in Centre county shaking his old comrades and friends by the hand, took his leave for East Waterford, Juniata county, last Friday, where he is extensively engaged in the mercantile business.

Among the numerous public sales in this section is Samuel Foray's, on the George Y. Meek farm, March 19th. First class stock and farm implements. One of Shaver's Creek's sturdy yeomen, D. H. Young, was seen on our streets this week in attendance at his sister Kate's funeral. Services next Sunday morning and evening, Rev. Elliott's regular appointments. Measles are prevalent in our schools, teachers and pupils alike being afflicted. Jake Kopley's boss farmer, David Otto, is confined to the house from the effects of an ugly gash made in his foot by an axe while on the mountain felling some timber. When in the act of cutting a twig in his way the axe turned and the bit buried itself in his foot. Dr. Woods was immediately called and stitched and dressed the wound. Since then Dave is issuing orders from his arm chair. On Monday last Mr. Wm. Meek went to Tyrone where he will be engaged in business. We are sorry to learn that Mr. Robt. Meek and Mr. Jacob L. Carter, both old and reliable citizens, with their families, will leave this locality in the spring, the former going to Altoona, and Mr. Carter to Tyrone where we wish them continued prosperity in their proposed new homes. We are sorry to lose them and see the old homesteads broken up. A trio pugilistic encounter took place on Main street in the presence of but a few spectators admitted to the ring. Fortunately no blood was shed, although one of the trio and tenly butted his lower jaw against a clenched fist with the usual result. Peace was proclaimed without seconds. A dog is said to be at the bottom of the feud.

We desire to correct an error that previously appeared in the local columns of the WATCHMAN as to the recent musical convention. It was the largest and most harmonious convention ever held in our town, in every way a success, more especially financially. One hundred and seventy-five dollars for all necessary expenses were paid. A long standing church debt will be lightened for the M. E. church of Pine Grove Mills.

Books, Magazines, etc. THE NEW ENGLAND MAGAZINE recently published an article by Rev. Charles I. Dole, entitled, "What Shall We Do with the Millionaires?" in the February number of the magazine there are some important articles which are in the line of an answer to that question. One, entitled "A Model New England Village," is on St. Johnsbury, Vermont, showing how the munificence of the Fairbanks family has furnished that beautiful town with an art gallery, public library, academy, natural history museum, and other things which make a rich intellectual life possible among the country hills. The article, which is by Edwin A. Starr, is an important contribution to the series of papers which have been appearing in the NEW ENGLAND MAGAZINE during the past year, bearing upon the elevation of New England country life. The other article is by Mr. Aston B. Willard, on the "Rindge Gifts to Cambridge," describing the magnificent new City Hall, Public Library, and Manual Training School, which in Cambridge bear witness to the generosity of another millionaire. These articles are both richly illustrated. The opening article of the magazine is on "Old Masters of Boston." A striking portrait of William Morris accompanies a strong article on the great English poet and socialist, by William Clarke. There is an article on the experience of Dr. Ezra Stiles, the old president of Yale College, during the Revolution, accompanied by portraits and interesting cuts of old college buildings. Mrs. Lillie B. Chase Wyman contributes a valuable paper on "Colored Schools and Churches in the South," and Mrs. Sara A. Underwood writes on "Woman's Work in Science."

A very successful tableau-entertainment was recently given in New York, the subjects being taken from illustrations in the current magazines. The idea is a simple one, and if the subjects are well chosen it can be made very interesting. The Century Company has prepared a list of suitable pictures with suggestions for any one who wishes to get up the entertainment. They will send it free on request.

All lovers of dogs will find profit and enjoyment in Dr. H. Clay Glover's article on "The Proper Care of Dogs," to be published in Harper's Young People for February 10th. Frank French has engraved for the same number of the Young People a beautiful picture appropriate to the season of St. Valentine.

John Nealand's Double dramatized for E. S. Willard, was successfully presented, for the first time on any stage, at Palmer's Theatre on Wednesday evening, February 4th. The story from which the play is derived is Joseph Hatton's novel of the same name, published by Harper & Brothers.

Students of history, and especially of European history, in the nineteenth century, are to be congratulated upon the recent appearance of so many important works relating to the men and events of our own times. As a critical and impartial review of the English political, society, and literature during the past quarter of a century, Smalley's Letters from London and Some Others, published by Harper & Brothers, may as well be regarded as unsurpassed. They are indeed, as the London Spectator declares, "history in the true sense." Harper & Brothers have also in course of publication an important series of works—biographical and historical—on Queen Victoria's Prime Ministers. Two volumes of this series—Lord Beaconsfield and Lord Melbourne—have already appeared. That on Sir Robert Peel is nearly ready for publication.

The following letters remain in the Bellefonte P. O., unclaimed, Feb. 9th, 1891. F. C. Benton, H. G. Clark, John Clark, Mrs. John Dary, Russell Gohler, Sarah Kling, Berth Kline, Mary Meyer, M. Wm. Phillips, Lizzie Pearson, E. George Reeson, W. Hugh Riddle, Minnie Ried, Emma Speese, Annie Lipton.

When called for please say advertised. J. A. FIELDER, P. M.

SECHLER'S GROCERY. It is only those who eat—the many who require the necessities of life, to prolong their existence, that we address. Those who use nothing—who think they need nothing—who live on expectation, hope or some intangible nothing, will save time by passing this column by. It is not intended for them but the other fellows. We write what is here put down for the people who are mortal enough to get hungry, and in consequence of getting hungry are sensible enough to try to get what is good, pure, wholesome and necessary, at prices that do not require them to lay out all that they earn, to appease their appetites. We have seen in the hunger appeasing business for many, many years. We know what men want, we know what women and children desire, and we know how much better and how much more pleasant it is to reside in a community where people enjoy good health, than among dyspeptic complainers, growlers and sufferers. To have healthy people pure food must be used. We understand this, and understanding it, keep nothing but the purest of everything that can be found in the market. To satisfy the demands of the many different stomachs that we try to gratify, requires a vast variety of dainties, condiments and relishes, as well as the substantial; and knowing this there is nothing that is eatable, reliable or appetizing, that we do not keep. It is for you who want, or use anything eatable, either as meats, fish, groceries, fruits, nuts, relishes, or in fact anything from a piece of chewing gum to a first class beef steak, that we write and pay the printer to print this invitation for you to come and see us. If you live in town drop in and see what all we have and what quality of goods we carry. If you live in the country come in the first time you come to town and learn how easy it is to get good, pure, fresh groceries, as low if not lower than many have been in the habit of paying for old, impure and strengthless articles of diet. If you have any good fresh farm produce bring it along. Under any and all circumstances COME AND SEE US SECHLER & CO 68 West High St. 35.
