Revoluntionary Widows

The last Revolutionary soldier died years and years ago. But the Revolutionary widows are still with us. Twenty venerable women whose husbands "fit" for American independence are carried upon the pension rolls. It is amazing pret ent time Uncle Sam is disburs-$38,347 a year to the old soldiers of the war of 1812. But the widows of the also builds up and strengthens the whole body. old soldiers of the war of 1812 are drawing in pensions the snug sum of $1,263,-239 annually. When we get down to the Mexican war we find the survivors a little the best of it. They draw $1,728,027 a year. But the willows are creeping up on the survivors. It will be only a few years until the Mexican War widows will be drawing more pension money than the survivors. That is the way the pension laws work out. At the Pension Office this is well understood. It is explained in a few words. The old pensioners marry young wives and leave them their blessings and pensions. The pensioners of the Civil War will reach their maximum in numbers eight or ten years from now if there are no more pension laws enacted. But the widows' list will keep on growing for a quarter of a century. Fifty years from now there will not be a Grand Army man living. Seventy-five years from now a grateful Republic will still be reimbursing widows for what their husbands suffered at Gettysburg and Chickamauga Women are yet to be born who will become widows of old soldiers and draw pensions for their husbands' services in the war of

There are to day over one hundred thousand widows on the pension rolls. The pensioners now number 400,000. These figures will be reversed in twenty years, Ninety-eight thousand widows draw $12 a month. Last year the Civil War pensioners drew $71,877, 619. The Civil War widows drew $19,056,857, more than one fourth of the magnificent total .- Washington Letter.

The Anti-Cigarette Crusade.

Placards bearing the words "Cigarette smoking is forbidded in this office" have become quite common in the banking and brokerage houses down town. This prohibitory crusade against the cigarette is said to have been started by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, whose hatred of "paper cigars" is intense. As the story goes, Mr. Morgan stepped into a bank on Wall Street one morning to talk about some securities that his firm had been asked to handle. As he stood talking with the affable cashier the thin smoke and fumes from a cigarette attracted his attention, and looking over the railing he saw one of the subordinate attaches of the bank puffing away serenely.

Pretty soon the fumes became annoying to Mr. Morgan, and with an impatient gesture he exclaimed: "Why don't you put a stop to that sort of thing? I won't do business where they smoke cigarettes." The great financier then walked out of the bank, and it required a good deal of tact and persuasion on the part of the bank officers subsetions. Very soon afterward a notice that eigarette smoking was forbidden was put up in that bank, and so popular has the placard become among employers that venders find it worth their while to go about peddling them at ten and fifteen cents each.

Western Journ alism.

We have been in town only ten days. and already our warm friend, Splog Magin, the veteran mixer of the hole in the-dark saloon, intimates that it is time for us to whack up and give our score on his books a blight. We would like to inquire if this is the usual practice in this community? We have done the hole-in-the-dark honor to imbibe at its bar the greater portion of the elixir that we have absorbed since our arrival. It requires inspiration to fit one to illuminate and enlighten a community; if Splog Magin hesitates to supply the inspiration elixir we shall either transfer own patronage and saturate our system elsewhere, or we shall decline to illuminate and enlighten the community. We certainly will not submit to being buldozed by Mr. Splog Magin's duns, or even annoyed by his hints. We are destitute of wealth, but we are heated with giltedged dignity, and we will maintain our dignity untarnished.

A King's Joke,

Ву

M. S. FIEDLER.

A Swedish statesman recently inweighed most eloquently in Parliament against oleomargine. Next evening he was invited to dine with the King, who lov s a joke. There was only oleomargarine on the royal table, and the statesman liberally partook thereof. At the close of the meal the King asked him: "Well, sir, how do you like our butter!" "It is excellent," replied the statesman; "the contrast between it and artificial butter is very marked." "But," said the King, "that is artificial butter!" The other guests roared with laughter, but the "old par- | By liamentary hand" returned, quick as a By I flash: "Your Majesty, if one can be deceived so easily, there is all the more need of strict laws against bogus By 2
