About Our Kitchen.

Among the thousand and one things required to make home neat, tasteful and happy, is a well proportioned and arranged kitchen.

Some are so large and "Sahara like" that one is bewildered and lost in the "wilderness" called a kitchen, where everything is lost and nothing can be found; where the spider weaves his tiny home, and the rats and mice forage unmolested; where the servants, imagining their sins will not find them out, construct great piles of clothing, brushes and brooms, to be put away when "it hark time."

Long dark kitchens are often found in city houses. These are disliked owing to their murky, dismal and discouraging aspect. But likes and dislikes are usually controlled in building by master builders, who too often arbitrarily assure those who employ them that a stair-way cannot rise by easy ascent, that broad platforms for resting places, or that a cupboard cannot be made where one wants it; and, although one does not believe a word of it, yet being ignorant of their art you cannot gainsay their statements.

Mr. Ingraham was no miser, but a generous, genial and kindly man. He gathered up a fortune of over $100,000, enjoyed life, and died serenely happy, never having called for the services of a physician in all his life.

Dr. Cresswell is troubled with rats—that is to say, rats infest his drug store. Every now and then he will find a large rat in the trap. The other day an unusually large one was caught. It was not killed, for the doctor is too tender-hearted to kill anything.

The Division of Time.

A "solar day" is measured by the rotation of the earth upon its axis and is of different lengths, owing to the ellipticity of the earth's orbit and other causes; but a mean solar day is twenty-four hours long, as recorded by time pieces. An "astronomical day" commences at noon and is counted from the first to the twenty-fourth hour. A "civil day" commences at midnight and is counted from the first to the twelfth hours, when it is again counted from the first to the twelfth at night. A "nautical day" is counted as a "civil day," only that the reckoning is begun at noon, as with the "astronomical day." A "calendar month" varies in length from twenty-eight to thirty-one days. A mean "lunar month" is twenty-nine days, twelve hours, forty-four minutes, two seconds and 5.24 thirds. A "year" is divided in 365 days. A "solar year," which is the time occupied by the sun in passing from one vernal equinox to another, consists of 365.24224 solar days, which is equal to 365 days, five hours, forty-eight minutes and 49.536 seconds. A "Julian year" is 365 days. A "Gregorian year" is 365.2425 days. Every fourth year is "Bissextile" or "leap year," and is 366 days in length. The error in the Gregorian mode of reckoning time amounts to but one day in 3771.4286 years.

A Mother at Bay.

A Montclair, N. J., boy, aged ten, converses with his friend of equal years, as follows: Romeyn—My pa is going to get me a goat. Fairchild—I've got twenty goats. R.—Where are they? F.—Oh, they're down in New York, in pa's office. R.—Why don't you bring them here? F.—They're sick. A pause. Finally Romeyn speaks: I saw Anthony's Nose this summer. F.—I saw Anthony himself. R.—Anthony's Nose is a rock, and it broke off and fell into the water. F.—I saw it fall. Romeyn's mother, an interested listener, at this point deemed it expedient to interpose with a moral lesson. "Why, Fairchild," said she, "did you ever hear of Annanias and Sapphira?" F.—I know them both. R's mother—You know, Fairchild, they were struck dead for telling lies. F.—Yes, I saw them struck. R's mother—Fairchild, do you know where they went? (Very impressively) They went to hell. F.—I know it. I saw them go.

BEEF STEW WITH DUMPLINGS.—Two pound lean beef, cut into inch squares, sprinkled with salt, pepper, and two tablespoonful of flour. Cut fat from meat into small bits, put in stew pan fry ten minutes. Cut one onion, two slices carrot, two small turnips in small dice and fry in hot fat for ten minutes. Put in the meat and fry till brown, stirring to prevent burning; then pour over one large quart hot water, and set on stove where it will simmer gently two and one-half hours. Then add two sliced potatoes, boil ten minutes without lifting the cover. Dumplings—One pint flour, two teaspoonful Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder, one-half teaspoonful salt, one quart cup sugar. Mix thoroughly and wet with one small cup milk. Roll half inch thick, cut with biscuit cutter.

Sockless John Ingraham.

In the suburbs of Providence there has just died a widely known Rhode Island oldtimer, John Turner Ingraham. He had kept a country grocery for sixty-six years continuously at one stand, and sold New England rum and "West Ingy goods" before most of the men now living were born. He had reached the age of 90, and, but for an accidental cold, might have lived many years longer, as only a few days before he died he shouldered a two bushel bag of grain and put it into a customer's wagon, with a significant wink at several young men who were loinking at the door of his grocery.

Some of the rules of health followed through life by Mr. Ingraham are worth reflecting upon. He did not believe in the loose custom of the young man of to-day of changing his boarding place often, for he boarded in one family continuously for sixty years, and slept in one room throughout the whole time. He was a stranger to arsenic poison, for he discarded wall paper as a foolish luxury. He always slept in a cold room, and opened the window liberally before retiring, without regard to the temperature.

He was true to the modest candle of his forefathers, believing that gas, electric light, and other artificial schemes of illumination were destructive to the eyes. Up to the time of his death he could read fine print without glasses. In fact a pair of glasses never sat on his nose. He never wore a piece of underclothing of any kind in all his life, nor anything around his neck; nor did he ever wear an overcoat.

Last, but not least, he never had on a pair of socks in his life.

Mr. Ingraham was no miser, but a generous, genial and kindly man. He gathered up a fortune of over $100,000, enjoyed life, and died serenely happy, never having called for the services of a physician in all his life.

Belling the Rat.

Dr. Cresswell is troubled with rats—that is to say, rats infest his drug store. Every now and then he will find a large rat in the trap. The other day an unusually large one was caught. It was not killed, for the doctor is too tender-hearted to kill anything. Mr. Rat was chloroformed, and while asleep a tiny silver bell attached to a piece of silk was placed round the rat's neck. After painting the day and date of capture on the rat's back restoratives were used, and the rodent was soon in a condition to walk about the cage-trap. The merry tinkle of the bell produced a queer sensation on the rat. It's a fact, the countenance of the rat assumed a livid hue and it became so nervous that its teeth chattered. Then the rat was freed, and darting it its hole, disappeared. What effect the thinking of the bell had on the other rats can better be imagined than described, but all the rats have left the drug store.—Washington Capital.

The Hottest Weather Known.

"What is the hottest weather known in the United States?" The question is answered in the May bulletin of the Kentucky Statistical Weather Service. The highest temperature recorded in the United States Signal Service was at Phoenix and McDowell, Ariz., in June, 1885. The thermometer marked 119 degrees. However, unofficial observers report temperatures as high as 128 and 132 degrees at Mammoth Tank and Humboldt, Cal. The coldest weather recorded by the service was 69 degrees below zero, at Poplar River, Mon. But this is a warm place compared with Wrenchobinsk, Siberia, the coldest inhabited spot on the globe. The thermometer there has been as low as ninety degrees below zero. In view of these figures, let us not complain of a paltry 90 degrees above zero.

CANCERS.—Thousands of cancers are permanently removed by entirely new and original methods without pain, loss of blood, or the use of plaster or knife. For book on Cancer (sent free) address Surgical Hotel, Columbus, Ohio. DR. S. B. HARTMAN, Pres't.

A PERFECT CUP CAKE.—A perfect cup cake is made with a cup of butter, three cups of sugar, one cup of cream or sweet milk, six eggs, three and a half cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of cream tartar and one of soda. Flavor the cake with vanilla and bake for an hour. Imperial cake is one of the most delicious cakes ever made—perhaps the most delicious of all. To make this, beat to a cream a pound of butter and a pound of powdered white sugar; add ten eggs, a pound of flour, a pound of raisins, a pound of sweet Jordan almonds blanched and cut thin, one half pound of citron cut thin and one glass of sherry. This cake required to be slowly and thoroughly baked. Half the recipe makes a good sized loaf. Bake for an hour. It made in large loaves the cake will be better for two hours slow baking.

PSORIASIS 20 YEARS.

BODY A MASS OF DISEASE. SUFFERING PAINFUL. ALL THOUGHT HE MUST DIE. CURED IN SIX WEEKS BY CUTICURA REMEDIES.

I have been afflicted for twenty years with a constant skin disease, called by some M. Psoriasis, and others Lepra, commencing on my scalp; and in spite of all I could do, with the help of the most skillful doctors, slowly but sure extended, until a year ago this winter it covered my entire person in the form of dry scales. For the last three years I have been unable to do any work, and suffering intensely all the time. Every morning there could be nearly a handful of scales taken from the sheet on my bed, some of them half as large as the envelope containing this letter. In the latter part of winter my skin commenced cracking open. I tried everything, almost, that could be thought of, but without any relief. The last of June I started West, in hopes I could reach the Hot Springs. I reached Detroit, and was so low I thought I should have to go to the hospital, but finally got as far as Lansing, Mich., where I had a sister living. One Dr. — treated me about two weeks, but did me no good. All thought I had but a short time to live. I earnestly prayed to die. I took through the skin all over my back, across my ribs, arms, hands, limbs; feet badly swollen; toe-nails came off; finger-nails dead, and hard as a board. I was in a house I should not have been in. My wife, Mrs. E. H. Davis, had a small part of a box of Cuticura Remedies, and she would give me; said, "We will try Cuticura." Some was applied on one hand and arm. Ere long I felt relief, and the itching and burning sensation from the worst. I immediately got the Cuticura, Cuticura Resolvent, and used Cuticura Soap freely; applied Cuticura Resolvent three times a day, after meal; had bath once a day, water about blood heat; used Cuticura Soap morning and evening. Result: returned to my home in just six weeks from the time I left my skin as smooth as this sheet of paper. HIRAM E. CARPENTER, Henderson, Jefferson Co., N. Y.
