TOTALLY HELPLESS

FROM SCIATIC RHEUMATISM—WHOLLY CURED BY HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

The fact that rheumatism is caused by accumulation of acid in the blood, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has wonderful power in purifying the blood, explain the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in curing this disease.

"In May, 1885, I was taken with sciatic rheumatism in my legs and arms. It entirely prevented me from working, and I was confined to my bed entirely helpless. I had medical attendance and in August I was just able to move around. I was reduced to and my appetite was gone. It was thought by all my friends that I could not possibly live. I took almost everything I could hear of, but with no good results, during the winter. One day, reading about taking Hood's Sarsaparilla in

MARCH, APRIL AND MAY,
I concluded to try it. One bottle gave me so much relief that I took four bottles, and since then I have not been troubled with rheumatism, and my general health has never been better. My appetite is increasing and I am gaining in flesh. I attribute my whole improvement to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I earnestly recommend it to all who are troubled with like disease. I consider it the ever put up." Wm. F. Taylor, Emporium, Cameron Co., Penn.

GRANDEST MEDICINE

The Secret of One Man's Success

A young man who lives on the heights, who is famed for the good taste which he invariably displays in his dress, was asked the other day if there was any secret in the absolute correctness with which he always enveloped himself. He hesitated a moment but finally replied, "Certainly there is, my dear fellow, but if I tell you, you won't get it away. It is just this way. When I determine to buy me a new hat I don't go to my hatter's and allow myself to be bullied into ordering something I do not want. Oh, dear, no. I take a stroll up the avenue and examine all the hats that are worth considering. I always look at the men who are just my size, and when I see a man who has a hat on that just suits me I march down to the hatter's with the image of that particular hat indelibly impressed on my mind, and insist upon getting one just like it.

"I follow out the same plan with all of my clothes. So that when I enter a tailor shop I know exactly what I want and never think of ordering until I have found the exact thing, but when once found I order at once. So that while I have the reputation among my trades men of being very particular—which is a good thing by the way—they like me because I know just what I want."

DEATH NOT A VICTOR.

When a man has done his work, when he has all the great experience of life, when he has tasted temperately its great joys, and borne patiently some of its great sorrows, when he has tested the limits of his powers, and learned that beyond a certain range achievement is impossible; when he has grown weary of the monotonous round of thoughts that brought no certain knowledge, even if his body be not full of pains nor his mind full of regrets, why should he look with sorrow or alarm at the gentle messenger stealing quietly upon him to summon him to rest? And you, dear friend, who honor and loved, perhaps sorely needed him, come near, and before you draw the white face-cloth over his eyes, face, study its expression. Could there be anything more utter and complete than his satisfaction? Is there in it one trace of suffering, or regret, or desire? Does he look cowed by the shame of the great defeat in which he has just been overcome? Seems he to envy you your life, or your life? And if you could, would you dare break the calmness of his rest by one flicker of conscience, one thrill of feeling, one impulse of desire, one filament of memory to connect the great ocean of his peace with the far-away sounding murmur of the streamlet which was his earthly life? Would you confront God himself, the solemn spectacle of whose work lays before you, and say that life, any life you had known in experience or history, or could shape in imagination, were better than the sleep he has given his beloved? Is it not enough to be assured that, after all the worst it can do, death is only the reward of beneficent change? It never reaches the heart of life. Life always evades the malign stroke of death, and in some new and higher form laughs at his impatient rage. More leaves green the branches of the oak and elm, under the warm skies of June, than the previous October gales tore of and scattered on the frozen ground. More and happier birds come back in summer, and not a note is lacking in the chorus they sing in the blossoming orchard. Nobler failures in any line of life surpass our highest achievement, wiser and stronger men come after us, to finish the task we faintly under—Geo. F. Tubot.

The Real Secret.

"Tell me not of your doubts and discouragements," said G. F. Tubot, "I have plenty of my own. But talk to me of your hope and faith." The tone of complaint is one which we are all too ready to accept, and which is not only injurious to ourselves but harmful to all who come in contact with us. In speaking of a young woman who had filled several good positions, but with no degree of success, an older woman said: "She could have kept either position and earned a good income if she had not been so dissatisfied. She was continually finding fault, and never felt that she was appreciated."

It may be safely said that this attitude of mind is one that almost precludes success in any line of life. Patience under adverse circumstances will often bring about favorable results, while complaint only accentuates and fixes the cause of complaint. Avoid mention of the disagreeable things that may come into your life. If you cannot be patient you can at least be silent. The secret of success lies not so much in knowing what to say as in what to avoid saying.

Scaring the Conscience.

Of all her curious customs London cannot boast of a more singular one than that formerly so strictly adhered to at Holland House, one of the most historical mansions in the British capital. The last of the Lords Holland shot himself during a fit of despondency; every thing pointed to a case of self murder, yet the Holland family could never be dissuaded from the notion that the old man had been murdered by some unknown assassin. Accordingly, every night for years it was the custom for one of the family to go to the rear of the house punctually at 11 o'clock and fire a gun, for the purpose, it is said, of "scaring the conscience" of the murderer. This curious practice is a relic of medieval days in continental Europe, and the case in point is probably the only instance where it has been noticed since the days of the Crusades.

The following is an excellent lesson in physiology, in which some of your readers and the Jackson Township scholars might be interested. The question asked by the teacher was: "In what part of the body is the liver?" The secret was a good deal surprised when she was a good deal surprised when the tall boy replied: "South of the lungs.—Megeerstown Penn. Enterprise.

Catarrah as Cause of Diseases.

If I were asked to name the disease which most rarely destroys life I would name catarrah. But were I asked to name the disease which sets up in the system oftenest diseases which do destroy life I would again name catarrah. Catarrah, while it remains simply catarrah, very rarely destroys a life, although it makes life miserable; but catarrah surely leads to a host of diseases many of which are fatal to life. The following list of diseases, too well known in this country, are each and all simply catarrah affecting different organs of the human body: Consumption, bronchitis, laryngitis, pharyngitis, stomatitis, shinitis, otitis, conjunctivitis, gastritis, (dyspepsia), intestinitis, chronic diarrhoea and dysentery, vaginitis, urethritis, nephritis and cystitis, are each thought by most people to be essentially different diseases; but the truth is they are catarrah of the mucus lining of the various organs. A medicine that is applicable to the above list of diseases is applicable to them all, as each one has for its cause the same condition. Catarrah is catarrah wherever located, and the remedy that will cure it in one organ of the body will also cure it in any other organ.

As I have had occasion to frequently say in former lectures, all the organs of the body are lined by a delicate pink lining composed chiefly of minute blood vessels, and that this lining is called mucus membrane. When this membrane is healthy there is constantly exuding from its surface a clear, soothing fluid, called mucus; but as soon as the mucus membrane becomes poisonous and irritating, causing the mucus membrane to become inflamed or ulcerated, and sometimes entirely destroying them.

Thus it is that the mucus, which is so useful in lubricating and protecting these delicate membranes in health, becomes, when changed by catarrah, a corroding and dangerous fluid, which frequently eats its way completely through the tender membrane, sometimes even destroying adjacent organs. I have seen many cases where the poisonous catarrah secretion of the middle ear had entirely destroyed the organ of hearing and ulcerated deeply into the bones of the head and face. These cases sometimes terminate in death, and never fail to be a source of great discomfort and harm.

Catarrah secretions in the frontal sinus (a little cavity in the bone of the forehead between the eyes) never fail to give rise to the most persistent headache or neuralgia. Catarrah in the throat or bronchial tubes gives rise to an abundance of this acrid, harmful mucus, which so irritates the bronchial tubes as to produce chronic hoarseness or cough, and in thousand of cases the fluid finds its way down into the lungs, producing the most fatal form of consumption.

I am persuaded, after many years of experience in the treatment of consumption, that nearly every case is due to chronic catarrah. The catarrah may have been so slight previous to the development as to cause no alarm; but suddenly the dread symptoms of consumption make their appearance, many times too late to be cured. A similar explanation will apply to catarrah of the stomach and bowels, which so deranges the fluids of the system as to produce dyspepsia, diarrhoea and disentry. When catarrah attacks the kidneys it at once produces chronic inflammation of those organs, in every respect resembling Bright's disease of the kidneys. The acrid mucus formed in the kidneys by catarrah not only sets up the derangements of these organs but frequently also the other urinary organs.

In short, catarrah is capable of changing all of the life giving secretions of the body into scalding fluids, which destroy and inflame every part they come in contact with. Applications to the places affected by catarrah can do little good save to soothe or quiet disagreeable symptoms. Hence it is that gargles, sprays, atomizers and inhalants only serve as temperate relief. Any medicine, to effect a cure, must be taken into the system. Peruna has shown itself in cases innumerable to be capable of curing catarrah by removing the cause.

So long as the irritating secretions of catarrah continue to be formed, so long will the membrane continue to be inflamed, no matter what treatment is used. As soon as Peruna has been taken long enough to thoroughly act on the system it changes the burning, harmful secretions to healthy mucus, and the inflamed membranes soon are as well as ever. Peruna will have this effect whether the catarrah affects the head, throat, lungs, stomach, bowels or kidneys.

When the Peruna has overcome the harmful effects of the catarrah discharges the medicine should be continued long enough to allow the injured membranes time enough to entirely recover, which will insure a permanent cure. Each bottle is accompanied with all necessary directions for use.

Any one desiring to become well informed as to the nature and cure of catarrah diseases should send for The Family Physician No. 2, sent free by The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio.

A Father's Kiss.

A father was seeing his son off on the cars for some distant point. There was a moment of quiet conversation between the two, perhaps a few words of such advice as a father should give a son, and then the train came thundering into the station.

As the latter, a tall fellow, well along in his teens, stepped on the platform, he extended his hand and his lips to his father. There was a gentle kiss of farewell, and the two separated. There was no gush, no nonsense, no affection; just the expression of fatherly tenderness that had followed that son since he lay in the cradle.

Is there any danger of that boy straying from the path affectionately pointed out by his father?

Or is there any danger of that father ever having to excuse that son because he is "sowing wild oats?" We think not. The gentle power of a mother's kiss has been sung by poets, but is there not also a wealth of tenderness and a lasting memory for good in the kiss of a father?

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL REMEDY ever discovered, and it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Read proof below.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

BELVERSON, Pa., Nov. 27, 1890.
DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.:
Gents—I would like to make known to those who are almost persuaded to use Kendall's Spavin Cure the fact that I think it is a most excellent Liniment. I have used it on a Blood Spavin of the horse and through the use of three years when I commenced to use your Kendall's Spavin Cure. I used ten bottles on the horse and have worked him for three years since and has not been lame.

Yours truly,
WM. A. CURL.

GREENMOUNT, N. Y., Nov. 2, 1889.
DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.:
Gents—In praise of Kendall's Spavin Cure I will say, that a year ago I had a valuable young horse named "Hercules," which was afflicted with a swollen hock. The horsemen about here (we have no Veterinary Surgeon here) pronounced his lameness Blood Spavin or Thrombophlebitis, they all told me there was no cure for it, he became almost useless, and I considered him almost worthless. A friend told me of the merits of your Kendall's Spavin Cure, so I bought a bottle, and I could see very plainly great improvements immediately from its use, and before the bottle was used up I was satisfied that it was doing him a great deal of good. I bought a second bottle and before it was used up my horse was cured and has been in the team doing heavy work all the season since last April showing no more signs of it. I consider your Kendall's Spavin Cure a valuable medicine, and it should be in every stable in the land.

Respectfully,
EUGENE DEWITT.

This new and commodious hotel, located opposite the depot, Milesburg, Centre county, has been entirely refitted, furnished and replenished throughout, and is now second to none in the county in the character of accommodations offered the public. Its table is supplied with the best the market affords, its bar contains the purest and choicest liquors, its stable has attentive hostlers, and every convenience and comfort is extended its guests.

Through travelers on the railroad will find this an excellent place to lunch or procure a meal, as all trains stop there about 25 minutes. 24 24

o CUMMINGS HOUSE o
BELLEFONTE, PA.

Having assumed the proprietorship of this finely located and well known hotel, I desire to inform the public that while it will have no bar, and be run strictly as a temperance hotel, it will furnish to its patrons all the comforts, conveniences and hospitalities offered by others. Its table will not be surpassed by any. Its rooms are large and comfortable. Its standing is the best in town, and its prices to transient guests and regular boarders will be very reasonable.

I earnestly solicit a share of the public patronage. 33 13 GOTLEIB HAAG.
